Fifty-third Class Enters Muhlenberg

Muhlenberg College opened its fifty-third year on Thursday morning, October 18th, when it admitted a Freshman Class of almost a hundred men.

The address was made by Rev. Dr. Charles Bauslin, of Harrisburg, Secretary of the Educational Board of the United Lutheran Church of America. Dr. Bauslin took for his theme, "Life", in which he clearly showed the students that life was much more than the getting and spending of wealth and that a life, made up of service to mankind was the only one sure of a future eternal reward.

After Dr. Bauslin's fine speech, Dr. Haas made a short address to the new men, in which he explained some of the rules and traditions of the college which the Freshmen must obey.

There are two changes in Muhlenberg's faculty this year. Owing to Prof. Ralph P. Bieber's departure to George Washington University, St. Louis, the History Department will be conducted by Prof. H. C. Cressman, of the class of 1913, and ex-chaplain of the American Expeditionary Forces. Rev. Cressman specialized in History while at Muhlenberg and is thoroughly acquainted with his subject.

The other change is the addition of Frederick H. Worsinger, Jr., of the class of 1919, as instructor in Biology, to succeed Prof. Clyde T. Reed, who goes to Robert College, Constantinople.

This year's enrollment will be as large as, if not larger than, it has ever been, due to the Freshman Class of close to 100, and the return of a great number of Muhlenberg men from the service, who are back to complete their courses. So far, about 230 have enrolled altogether.

The Squad and Schedule

On September 12 Coach Ritter began to assemble Muhlenberg's 1919 football squad. Among the first to report were Harold Anderson, last years Captain; Freytag, the 205 pound tackle of two years experience; Bill Weaver, one of Coach Brubaker's finds of last season, another tackle; "Dink" Feldman, the old reliable quarter; "Bill' Van Zandt of scrub fame for the past three years; and "Wally" Wills, the 200 pound successor to Schwenk.

With the opening of College on Sept. 18 the rest of the squad commenced to trickle in; Stroup of last year's S. A. T. C. team, Bleim, a halfback from Newberry College, "Red" Bastian, a former P. M. C. player, Schleicher and Berger of last year's squad, the former a halfback and the latter a 200 pound guard. Two other S. A. T. C. players to report were Kline and "Jack" Simmons, the scrappy Scranton Irishman.

New men who reported to Coach Ritter include Sotter from Hill School, Armbruster from Scranton Tech., Dillman from Lititz High, Gallagher a Sophomore, "Red" Lewis and Smythe of Norristown High, —"Red" having played in the latter half of the S. A. T. C. season.

The schedule as it now stands after the cancellation of the opening game by Albright and the last minute contract with Lafayette includes eight games in the following order.

Oct. 4.—Lafayette at Easton.
Oct. 11.—Lebanon Valley at home.
Oct. 18.—Bucknell at Lewisburg.
Oct. 25.—Catholic University at home.
Nov. 1.—Villa Nova at Villa Nova.
Nov. 8.—Susquehanna Univ. at home.
Nov. 15.—Lehigh at South Bethlehem.
Nov. 27.—Ursinus at home.

We Meet Lafayette Next Saturday

On Saturday, October 4, the football team will travel to Easton to meet our old rivals Lafayette. The team has had two strenuous weeks of preparation under Coach Ritter and will give the College Hill boys all that they are looking for.

Lafayette, too, has a new Coach this year in Dr. John Sutherland, the former University of Pittsburgh star who is being assisted by his teammate Seidel who played at Muhlenberg before entering Pitt.

However Muhlenberg will put forth its best efforts to bring the number of consecutive victories over Lafayette to three.

A smoker of the old fashioned type will be held on Thursday evening Oct. 2, to arouse enthusiasm among the students. Come on, fellows, show some real football "pep." In the 1917 season when we beat Lafayette with a 6-0 score, about thirty-five men outcheered the Lafayette student body. What are we going to do this year? Let's at 'em with a zip and a dash both on the field and in the stands.

At the time of printing the Coach has not yet intimated anything as to the probable lineup but we can rest assured that Feldman, Lewis, Freitag, Weaber and Wills will be there at the start.

Student Body Celebrated Dr. Wackernagel's Birthday

The student body of Muhlenberg celebrated a birthday last Thursday morning. This does not happen often, as one must be very popular to have a whole student body celebrate one's birthday.

However, this was the birthday of a professor who may rightly be called the most beloved man at Muhlenberg College. Dr. William Wackernagel, "The Grand Old Man of Muhlenberg," was the celebrant who passed his eighty-first milestone Thursday, and was as hale and hearty as ever.

During the chapel exercises, Dr. Haas gave expression to the feeling of all the students and professors, when he prayed that our beloved Doctor might have many more birthdays with "his boys," as he calls the students. Dr. Wackernagle then said a few words to the students who were filled with the fine advice that the Doctor always gives.

Dr. Wackernagel has been at Muhlenberg College for almost forty years and in that time, has been not only the teacher, but also the valued friend, of all the men who have graduated from Muhlenberg.

Dr. Wackernagel was born at Basel-on-the-Rhine, Switzerland, on September 25, 1838. He was educated at Basel and from 1859 to 1870 was a lay missionary in the Holy Land. In 1876, Dr. Wackernagel was ordained as a Luthern Minister. In 1880, he became a professor at Muhlenberg, where he has remained. Besides his duties at college, Dr. Wackernagel has found time to supply the pulpits of St. John's Lutheran Church at Mauch Chunk from 1876 to 1881, St. John's at East Mauch Chunk in 1880 and St. Stephen's at Allentown, from 1897 to 1900. He was also German Secretary of the Ministerium of Pennsylvania from 1882 to 1887.

Muhlenberg College conferred the degree of Master of Arts on him in 1882 and the degree of Doctor of Divinity was given him by the University of Pennsylvania in 1883. At the fiftieth anniversary of its founding, Muhlenberg recognized Doctor Wackernagel's great part in the forming of the Greater Muhlenberg, by conferring on him the degree of Doctor of Laws.

Dr. Wackernagel was Acting President of Muhlenberg College from December, 1903, to June, 1904. He is the author of a number of books, including "Liedergeschichten," Dr. Martin Luther," and "Hans Egede." He is also editor of the "Jugend Freund."

Dr. Wackernagel has been one of the great factors in the growth of Muhlenberg College and his loyalty and steadfast devotion to our Alma Mater can vie with those of any alumnus. It is the sincere wish of every Muhlenberg student, past and present, that our beloved Dr. Wackernagel may continue at Muhlenberg for many years and that he may have many more birthdays.

Coach Ritter a Gridiron Veteran

Coach "Bill' Ritter in whose hands is the direction of the preparation for battle of the Muhlenberg College pigskin chasers is not only a veteran Muhlenberg man but has an enviable record.

Before his entrance into Muhlenberg College, Ritter played for Allentown High School and then Allentown Prep. He was a varsity man through four successive seasons and graduated with the class of 1916. He was captain of the team of the 1915 season.

Coach Ritter was in the United States Army with the Physical Education Service and spent his time at Lakewood, N. J. and Camp Dix. Since September 10 when the work at football at Muhlenberg began he has had the candidates working hard and almost any afternoon the husky bunch of candidates can be seen precipitating themselves at gymnasium mats which are rolled up and tied tight, going through setting up drills which are guaranteed to kill the victim or cure him of his ailments and carrying out an extensive program of physical preparation in addition to the scrimmages which are a more exciting feature of the practice.

Weekly Subscription Price Raised

At a short business meeting of the student body held last Wednesday it was decided to raise the subscription price of the Muhlenberg Weekly from $1.50 to $1.75 because of a marked increase in the cost of printing.

At the same time Hobert W. Tyson and Jennings B. Derr were elected as non-fraternity members of student council by the non-fraternity men.

The Story of Your Study Lamp

IF you were studying by an old smoky oil lamp and suddenly a modern, sun-like MAZDA lamp were thrust into the room, the contrast would be dazzling. That instant would unfold the result of thirty years' development, research and manufacturing in electric lighting.

EDISON'S FIRST LAMP

And this development commenced with Edison's first lamp—hand-made, when electricity was rare.

The General Electric Company was a pioneer in foreseeing the possibilities of Edison's invention. Electric generators were developed. Extensive experiments led to the design and construction of apparatus which would obtain electric current from far-away waterfalls and deliver it to every city home.

With power lines well distributed over the country, the use of electric lighting extended. Street lighting developed from the flickering arc to the great white way. Electric signs and floodlights made our cities brilliant at night, searchlights turned night into day at sea, and miniature lamps were produced for the miner's headlight and automobile.

While the making of the electrical industry, with its many, many interests, was developing, the General Electric Company's laboratories continued to improve the incandescent lamp, and manufacturing and distributing facilities were provided, so that anyone today can buy a lamp which is three times as efficient as the lamp of a few years ago.

A Change in the Application

Hats off to the Seniors and Juniors! The Sophomore has been deposed. The Student Council in conjunction with the faculty has voted so and their decree is law.

The ideas of reconstruction and democracy have taken a reality in our student community. Aside from the vague and idealistic meanings in connection with world peace, they have become material for experimentation in student body government. The freshmen will have to be kept under. Quite naturally. The means and procedure of keeping the freshmen on the right side of the fence was at first a matter of doubt and conjecture. The idea of employing moral persuation instead of physical force is still an innovation in college life. College men from the good old days when hazing was the fad still smile skeptically and shake their heads at the departure of hazing from the college curriculum. Last year's experiences with the freshmen class proved anything but satisfactory because there was no concerted action on the Sophomore's part. And so it was that, realizing the mistakes and failures of the previous year and abiding by the faculty's decision to prohibit hazing, the student council took steps to amend conditions for the coming year.

The position of the upper-classmen has been changed. No longer the amused onlookers of sophomore indulgences with refractory freshmen, they have become the responsible ones. Even "sophomores are only plus freshmen under the guidance of seniors and juniors." The qualifications of seniority for membership on the student council have been extended to the student body. The upper-classmen, and not the sophomores are now watching the freshmen. In their roles as policemen and detectives it devolves upon them to be on the lookout for every slight infraction of the rules and traditions of the college. Their position is one of responsibility, Without the observance of college traditions, college spirit is an inanimate nondescript. Without the strict enforcement of freshmen regulations, college life will be a mere joke, a thing of trivialities and bickerings.

The new arrivals on the campus have been placarded with green tags signifying their rank. They have been gratuitously presented with a set of fourteen simple rules which they are to observe. Any smack of humiliation and ridiculousness has been carefully removed from thtm. They have been given the assurance from the authorities "higher up" that there will be no application of common sense by physical means.

So much for the rules. Now for their enforcement. Is it at all possible to compel a recalcitrant freshman to wear black socks through gentle persuasion? The only infraction of any of the rules that has occured hitherto would imply an affirmative answer. A public apology before the student body has proved satisfactory in this one instance. The affair was closed without any broken heads or any ill feelings. But there is one danger confronting us. Will every violator be brought to justice? Too easily personal feelings towards the offender may cause the upper-classman to refrain from reporting the offender. Such negligence of duty is a gross injustice to the student body. It is not fair to the freshman who keeps within bounds of the regulations.

The change in the method has been made. All the responsibility rests with the senior and junior. The sophomore has been deposed. Will the change be a success or must we revert to the traditional discipline of a few yars ago? The ultimate benefit of the change remains to be seen.

Muhlenberg Well Represented at Camp Lee

Muhlenberg was represented by thirteen men at the R. O. T. C. Summer Camp held at Camp Lee, Va., during the six weeks from June 21 to August 2, 1919. The Camp was the first one under the regime of the reorganized R. O. T. C., and was held simultaneously with five similar camps in other sections of the nation. The schools of the fourth and fifth districts, embracing the Atlantic coast from Pennsylvania to Florida, furnished the personnel of the Lee camp, numbering about 750 cadets and 250 officers and instructors.

All of these were comfortably housed in the buildings used up to last March as a Central Officers Training school, which were admirably suited for the R. O. T. C. work.

The Muhlenberg men who attended the camp were:

Arthur Talmage
Herbert Gebert
Arlan Kline
Harold Knauss
Frank Butz
Samuel Butz
Edgar Bleiler
James Morgan
Paul Knedler
Mark Bittner
Frank Lazarus
Rowland Wehr
William Bower

The camp was a decided success. Altho some of the work was a repetition of what had been learned in the S. A. T. C., much new matter was introduced. Practical instruction was given in Physical Training, Military Courtesy, Hygiene, First Aid, Sanitation, Interior Guard Duty, Musketry, Manual of Arms, Close and Extended Order Infantry Drill, Signalling, and Care of Field Equipment, Pack, and Rifle. Gallery practice with .22 calibre ammunition preceded the three days on the rifle range, where every man fired over one hundred rounds of service ammunition in the Enfield rifle from various positions at two and five hundred yards, as well as twenty shots with the Browning Automatic rifle. All the Muhlenberg men acquitted themselves well, attesting to the excellence of the instruction given by Lieutenant Frogner during the short six months of R. O. T. C. work. The Lieutenant himself was the chief instructor in bayonet work for the camp.

But that was not all there was to the camp. The Morale officers had planned months ahead various amusements and outings to entertain the cadets. Hikes were taken to scenes of historic interest which abound near Camp Lee, the "No Man's Land" of the Civil War. A boat trip forty miles down the James River to Jamestown Island was delightful.

On Independence Day, nearly every student in the camp was taken to Petersburg, where a pretentious athletic program filled the afternoon, with a free lunch and a dance in the evening provided by the Petersburg Army Club. A dance was held at camp each week, with belles from Petersburg, Richmond, and Hopewell as the attraction. A camp weekly called "The Outpost" was published at the instigation of the Morale officer. Athletics also filled a big place in the schedule each week. At the big "Championship Day" Arlan Kline won firsts in Running Broad, and High Jump, thus walking away with two of the five gold medals that were awarded, and winning fame for his Alma Mater. His jump of five eight is better than the college record.

The Y. M. C. A. hut was a favorite resort for all who wanted recreation, writing paper, or assistance of any kind. The Y. W. C. A. Hostess House did a flourishing business in "pop water," ice cream, pies, and other more substantial food. The recreation rooms maintained in Petersburg by the National Lutheran Commission were a delightful resort for the "Muhls" who were out of camp on pass.

Eight of our Camp Lee Veterans made the homecoming a pleasant trip by going via Richmond, Norfolk, and New York on the Old Dominion Steamship Line. The trip up the coast was a fitting climax for the six weeks of work and play.

The Reserve Officers' Training Corps

"The primary object of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps is to provide systematic military training at civil educational institutions for the purpose or qualifying selected students of such institutions as reserve officers in the military forces of the United States. It is intended to attain this object during the time that students are pursuing their general or professional studies with the least practicable interference with their civil careers, by employing methods designed to fit men, physically, mentally and morally, for the pursuits of war. It is believed that such military training will aid greatly in the development of better citizens." By maintaining units of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps educational institutions all over the country are turning out every year educated men, physically efficient and trained in the fundamentals of military science and tactics, and fitted to lead intelligently the units of the armies upon which the safety of the country will depend. In time of National Emergency these men will be instantly available and able to officer the emergency forces which will probably be raised by draft.

"The Reserve Officers' Training Corps will enrich the educational resources of schools and colleges by contributing new problems, applications and equipment. This will not only vitalize the course of study but give the student a training which will be as val uable to him in his industrial or professional career as it would be, should the Nation call upon him to act as a leader in its defensive forces."

The training aims to inculcate in the student obedience and respect for lawful authority, but at the same time teach him to exercise authority with wisdom, kindness and firmness. The development of leadership, executive ability and initiative is inevitable as is recognition of the necessity for honor, courtesy and the acceptance of personal responsibility.

The military course covers four years at school and two summer camps which come at the end of the first and third school years and last about six weeks. The military course is divided into the Basic and Advance Courses each of which covers two scholastic years. During the Advance Course the student receives commutation of rations which amount to about $108.00 per annum. This is an advantage to a student working his way thru school.

Qualified students who have completed the military training are commissioned as Reserve Officers of the United tates Army. Reserve Officers may upon application receive commissions as Temporary 2d Lieutenants in the Army and serve therein as such for six months. This service is voluntary and may come at any time the Reserve Officer may apply for service providing there is a vacancy and he is physically and morally fit. The salary for this grade is $100.00 per month, and this service might prove welcome to a graduate who has no position awaiting him in his chosen field upon finishing his college course.

But the greatest advantage to the student is: He is prepared to give efficiently the highest form of service to his Country in time of a National peril. He is qualified to lead troops in battle; to be given important missions; and to be entrusted with the lives of his fellow countrymen.

Each year all colleges at which R. O. T. C. units are established they are inspected by a committee from the War Department. Colleges and schools are graded from the reports of this committee, twenty per cent of the institutions being designated as DISTINGUISHED COLLEGES. The grading is not based upon the inspection alone but on the military record of the college for the entire year. One member of the graduating class, designated HONOR GRADUATE, is awarded an appointment as a 2nd Lieutenant in the Regular Army.

Whether or not Muhlenberg College is honored by being designated a DISTINGUISHED COLLEGE depends solely upon the student body. The facilities for military training at the college are excellent, and a splendid course is prescribed by the War Department. It should be the aim of each student to bring honor and distinction to his Alma Mater. To the students enrolled in the R. O. T. C. is given the opportunity and privilege of bringing a distinction to Muhlenberg for which colleges throughout the country are striving. Regular attendance at classes and formations; careful observance of all regulations; strict attention to instruction; and a determination to make good will bring the desired results.—Major Lathrop Clapham.

Frosh Win Pole Fight

True to the traditions of the College Monday witnessed the annual pole fight of the Sophomores and Freshmen. About 4:30 in the afternoon the belligerent sophs and the humble freshies accompanied by scores of interested upper-classmen congregated on the baseball diamond acording to custom immemorial.

At the given signal both sides with blood in their eyes dashed for the coveted pole. Then with grim determination both struggled to cross the goal line. Steadily the pole moved toward the Freshies goal line and though the plucky Sophs made desperates efforts to retard its progress the freshies successfully scored. The second attempt was a repetition of the first and the Freshies were victorious in their first clash of the year.

That it is not becoming to Freshmen to become too hilarious over their first victory was demonstrated by the determined Sophs when they cut short the freshies attempt to line up for a snake dance. And altho defeated in the pole fight the sophs demonstrated their strength in the numerous wrestling bouts that followed.

Y. M. C. A. Entertains Freshmen

On Monday evening, September 22, the incoming class of freshmen received their initiation into real college life when they were royally entertained by the Y. M. C. A. of the college. After a few songs under the leadership of Mr. Kleckner, Mr. Hill, on behalf of the Y. M. C. A. welcomed the new men to Muhlenberg and then introduced as the first speaker of the evening Dr. Haas. In a short, concise talk the Doctor stressed emphatically the Christian motive in life, the motive of love, as being the most important. Dr. Ettinger, in behalf of the faculty, also extended a most cordial welcome to the new men. Rev. Steinhauser, Rev. Fisher, and Rev. Shafer, pastors of three of the leading Lutheran churches of Allentown then welcomed the freshmen to Allentown and extended them a cordial invitation to visit the Lutheran churches. Profs. Horn, Fritsch, Brown and Cressman also delivered short talks. Between the speeches the Rusty Five (decreasd to Four by the war, as chairman Hill explained) rendered a few selections and Bachman as cheer leader led the old men in a few college cheers.

Light refreshments were then served by the Y. M. C. A. after which all the participants, well refreshed both in mind and body, retired to the dormitories.

Prize Offered for Best Skit

A prize of ten dollars in cash will be awarded to the party who writes a one act skit to be used on the Glee Club program for the coming season. The skit must be snappy in both action and dialogue, and must conform with the limited stage facilities with which the club meets.

The executive committee of the Glee Club decided upon this method of securing manuscripts as the best possible means of obtaining the best results. The contest is open to anyone—get busy with your ideas NOW. All manuscripts must be in the hands of Manager Bollman on the night of October thirtieth.

Phi Kappa Tau Entertains

On Friday evening, September 26, the Eta Chapter of the Phi Kappa Tau Fraternity entertained several Freshmen at a stag at the fraternity house, 133 N. 15th St. The event also served as a farewell to Lt. Frogner, last year's commanding officer of the Muhlenberg R. O. T. C: who will receive his discharge from the army in a few days. Cards and pool formed the major diversions of the evening. In due time light refreshments were served and after a few speeches the guests and members retired to their respective homes, all voting the affair a splendid success.

Theta Chapter of Phi Kappa Tau Installed

On September 18, 1919, the local fraternity Phi Beta Nu of Transylvania College, Lexington, Kentucky, was installed as the Theta Chapter of the Phi Kappa Tau Fraternity.

This reception is usually the first step taken with a view of getting the new students acquainted. As a means to accomplish the end in view such diversions as cards and pool were introduced. Later in the evening music and refreshments, interspersed with a liberal indulgence in the Virginian Weed, aided in making the evening a most enjoyable one for those in attendance.

In addition to the guests and the active chapter, the following Alumni were present—Arthur B. Seidel, Dr. Frederick Henry, Mark Wetherhold, Wayne Stump, Prof. Frederick H. Worsinger, Earl V. Schantz, Esq., Rev. Clark W. Heller, Fred P. Butz, Richard J. Schmoyer, and Edward Zimmerman.

Muhlenberg Men Enjoy Chautauqua

During the past summer six Muhlenberg men were employed by the Chautauqua Association of Pa. in various capacities, as advance agents, talent, tent crew and set-up and wrecking crews.

First, the advance agents were none other than our fat jolly Boyertown friend "Billy" Muthard, '19 and his old side kicker, "Shylock" Bellis, '19. "Bill" did his bit in towns from Massachusetts to the Mason and Dixon Line while Shylock harangued with the guarantors in Canada. Both report having had a very fine time in connection with their work.

Of course talent is also necessary part of a successful Chautauqua and James Beasom represented Muhlenberg in that end, being the capable assistant to Professor Raymond Pamahasika on "C" circuit.

Even then Chautauqua could not be held if the tents were not set up, and "Dave" Schleicher is back with wierd tales of the set-up work, of how he took a freight ride from Boston to the end of Cape Cod, and then set up a tent in two hours.

"Red" Snyder and "Shorty" Hemmig composed the rest of the sextette doing tent crew work and wrecking respectively. The 1920 men all expect to return to the Chautauqua fold next summer and renew old acquaintances.

"So our engagement is at an end?" said the blond youth. "It is certainly at an end," replied the fickle brunette. "I suppose you will return the engagement ring?" "I certainly will if you call around some night and pick it out."—Yonkers Statesman.

Muhlenberg Holds Lafayette to Low Score

Muhlenberg's first post-war football team made its debut on Saturday at Easton, when it held the far-famed Lafayette team to a 13-0 score. This year, Lafayette is a protege of Pittsburgh, in that it has two coaches from that institution, Dr. Sutherland and Seidel, who played at Muhlenberg with Coach Ritter, six years ago.

Lafayette expected a 35-0 victory, according to statements, and consequently, they were much surprised at the outcome of the game.

The first quarter found the two teams constantly in mid-field, always kicking on the fourth down, with neither side able to do much.

The second quarter was much the same, although Muhlenberg played the better game of the two. In the first half, Lafayette made two first downs while Muhlenberg made four.

The second half opened with Lafayette running the ball to the goal line, but failing to get it over. Directly at the end of the third quarter, Lafayette, through the star work of Weldon, who had been rushed into the game, made her first touchdown. Weldon also kicked the goal.

In the last quarter, Lafayette scored her second touchdown because "Red" Lewis accidently dropped the ball as he was tackled on Muhlenberg's twenty-five yard line. After a few straight smashes, Lehecka carried it over. The goal was missed. The game was over soon after the score.

In summarizing, Lafayette was penalized three times for a total of 15 yards, while Muhlenberg was not penalized at all. One of Muhlenberg's forward passes worked, while none of Lafayette's succeeded.

About sixty men went over in a special car to see the game, while as many went over by auto. The team went to Easton by train.

Weldon and Lehecka shone for Lafayette, while Wills, Feldman and Anderson for Muhlenberg. The whole Muhlenberg team showed up in a way for the students to be proud of, and Coach Ritter was satisfied and pleased with the way the boys played. "Swede" Carleton, Anderson and Freitag were damaged pretty severely, owing to th new style of play that Lafayette is running this year. This is more on the order of the Lehigh tactics.

The line-up:

Muhlenberg		Lafayette
Wills	center	D. Brown
Snyder	right guard	Wolbert
Taggert	right tackle	Bedner
Crowley	right end	Poland
Smythe	quarterback	Sigel
Anderson	fullback	Hummel

Touchdowns: Weldon; Lehecka. Goals from touchdown: Weldon. Referee: Gillender, Penn. Umpire: Whiting, Cornell. Head Linesman: Douthett, Ursinus. Time of periods: 12 and 10 minutes. Substitutions: Lafayette: Gazella for Hauser, Farrington for Scott, G. Brown for Poland, Gebhard for Hummel, Thomas for Bedner, Weldon for Gebhard, Wilson for Thomas, Meehan for Farrington, Seaman for Sigel, Hutchinson for Zigeler, Richie for Lehecka, Fitch for Wolbert, Willever for Seaman, Reves for Gazella, Reese for Hutchinson. Muhlenberg: Armbruster for Carleton, Hartman for Orr, Van Zandt for Anderson, Weaber for Armbruster, Bliem for Van Zandt, Hoffman for Taggart.

Matriculation of New Students

Last Friday afternoon Dean Ettinger matriculated the new students in the college chapel. About seventy of the new men appeared and after a short address by the Dean, in which he explained the significance of matriculation and the true ideals of college life, the men signed the promise that makes them full students of Muhlenberg College.

The group of new students just admitted is one of the best ever matriculated and gives great promise for the future. This year the college certainly has received its fair share of able, active and energetic men who will add great strength to all the departmens of college life and work. On behalf of the authorities of the college and the editorial staff of the "Muhlenberg Weekly", it affords us great pleasure to welcome into the brotherhood of Muhlenbergians this new generation of the sons of the college. That they will add their weight to the influence of Muhlenberg College and contribute their share to the progress of the institution, is already an assured fact.

Lafayette Smoker Filled With Pep

Last Thursday evening the student body held its first smoker of the season. The freshmen class attended in a body and cheer leader Bachman and his able assistant Miller taught them the Muhlenberg songs and yells. Of course the old students were also present and showed the Frosh how an honest to goodness smoker was to be conducted. Erb, president of the student body, started the speechmaking and then introduced Professor Cressman who gave a spicy talk. After him came Professor Simpson with his usual witty line.

Of course the Dean was also present and after a few songs he was presented to the delighted audience and his ancient and modernized wit kept the gang in good spirits.

After the Dean's speech another time out was called in order to replenish the fast diminishing supply of pipes. Then Erb produced the original of "What not" and Prof. Fasig gave the history of the past Lafayete contests and implored the fellows to lend more aid to the team by their presence on the sidelines during practice.

Even then no modern Muhlenberg smoker can be a success unless we hear a little from Prof. Affler-bach and he came thru with a plea for a hundred per cent attendance at the game.

Last but not least Coach Ritter made his debut as an orator commenting on the spirit of the squad of which he was in charge.

Sophs Victorious in Banner Scrap

The second class scrap proved a victory for the sophs. Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock, the annual banner scrap, an event in which great enthusiasm is always displayed by the enire college, was successfully staged in the grove on the campus.

The sophs, greatly humiliated by the decisive victory of the "freshies" in the pole fight, entered the contest wih grim determination to retaliate. The ammunition with which they plentifully supplied themselves was a big factor in their victory and the added strength of "ammonia(?)" proved even a better weapon of offense than the decayed fish and tomatoes of the "frosh."

When the whistle blew the "freshies" braced themselves around the tree, from which hung their coveted banner, for the onrush of the belligerent sophs were moving forward with the strength of horses. It was only the matter of seconds before frosh, sophs, juniors, seniors, and even astute faculty spectators were trying to see who could develop the hoarsest throat in the quickest time. After a few minutes of loyal defence on the part of the "freshies" and vigorous assault of the sophs the latter were successful in raising Reinartz on their backs and beat off all attempts of the freshies to dislodge him and he was able to snatch part of the banner from the tree. A few minutes later this husky soph triumphantly recovered the rest of the trophy and the banner scrap with victory for the sophs passed into history at Muhlenberg.

A commendable feature of the scrap was the sportsmanlike spirit of both sides. But "freshies" where is your class spirit? Had a few more of the huskies of the baby class who showed poor class spirit, entered the contest, the result might have been different.

Extension Courses Start

The extension courses as offered by the College were formally started Saturday, September 27. The opening address which was unavoidably postponed will be delivered October 4th, by President Haas in the College chapel. His topic will embrace "The Relation of Education to the Present Social and Economic Conditions."

Many new courses of especial value to the school teacher of this vicinity are offered.

Picture Study and Child Psychology are of especial interest to primary teachers. Physical as well as Commercial geography offer newly developed fields. A practical course is also offered in connection with Psychology and Principles of Education including Supervised Study and Educational Measurements.

English Composition, History of Literature, and a Saturday course on the English novel are offered by the English Department.

Modern languages embrace elementary and advanced French, Spanish, and German.

The Scientific Department also offers complete courses in Physics, Chemistry and Biology. A special course in Physiology and Hygiene is an additional feature.

Teachers who are preparing for special examinations will find courses arranged to meet their needs.

A New Era

The colleges and universities of the country are today standing in the dawn of a new era. Reports from every hand indicate that never before has there been such a flocking to college as this year. Practically every institution is filled to its capacity. At some colleges the influx has even been so great that prospective students have been turned away because of limited accomodations.

This new and sudden interest is a dirct outgrowth of the spirit of freedom and democracy into the educational world. It is a desire for preparation to meet the vital issues and problems of life successfully. It is a desire for service. The some spirit which impelled our soldiers to risk and sacrifice their lives for humanity and democracy in the great war now impels the students to prepare for the work of reconstruction and re-adjustment which the war has left in its wake. All the fighting energy of the younger generation is being diverted into the channels of peace.

This new impetus to education is ushering in a new intellectual era. The position of the educational institutions has been changed. Many ancient traditions and customs have received their death-knell from the war and must bow to the mandates of new conditions and new problems. "Off with the old" signifies the trend of the present age. Changes have been made in the colleg curriculum inasmuch as mere cultural subjects have lost their importance. Greater interest is attached to scientific studies because of their practical value. The introduction of military training thru the R. O. T. C. is another direct result of the great upheaval of the past few years.

Not only is a transition visible in the status of the college but it is also evidenced by the calibre and character of the student body. Many college men have returned from the service with new visions and a broader outlook upon life. For the past two years they were taking advantage of the golden opportunities of leadership and service which the army presented and now they return to complete their studies with a full appreciation of what constructive leadership really implies. They bring into the college cosmopolitan ideas and make out of the student body a cosmopolitan crowd.

To the Alumni

The main difficulty the Weekly staff always has had to contend with has been a low alumni subscription list. The number of alumni subscribers is tremendously small. A careful survey of the mailing list has even disclosed the fact that subscriptions from friends and supporters of Muhlenberg exceed those from alumni. Why this should be so is a difficult matter to understand. Surely we cannot induce ourselves to believe that the alumni have lost all regards for their Alma Mater.

In an effort to solve the problem, the staff has arrived at a conclusion. We ascribe the failure of the alumni to keep in touch with the college to negligence. We, moreover, conclude that probably they have never been directly solicited for their subscriptions. In order to let them know what the Muhlenberg of today is doing and what her plans for the future are, we have placed a large percentage of the alumni on our mailing list. The only medium between them and their Alma Mater is the Weekly. Furthermore, alumni should remember that the progress of the college depends largely upon. Their unswerving support is an essential to the Greater Muhlenberg in reaching the goal it aspires to reach this year. Remember, alumni, this year will be a banner year for your Alma Mater. Are you interested ? If so, subscribe for the Weekly and keep in touch with the college.

College Day to be Observed

A new event on the College calendar is the College Day to be held on October 17th. Beginning at eleven o' clock in the morning there will be a program of addresses, band concerts, student "sings," athletic contests, and other forms of entertainment, together with a continual "open house" in the college buildings. The College Day is being widely advertised throughout the Lutheran Church, and it is hoped that a large crowd will be on hand to see the college and the exhibits of college work, and to listen to Dr. Knubel, President of the United Lutheran Church.

The Women's Auxiliary of the college will assist in entertaining the visitors, especially by providing a hot dinner at the Commons at fifty cents. All the plans have been completed to make this first College Day a big success, in giving to her supporters a practical demonstration of some of the things that Muhlenberg College is doing.

Muhlenberg Band Organized

Muhlenberg is to have a band this year. Nine men have responded to the call so far. Professor Marks has kindly consented to meet with the band and help along the cause. The primary object of the band is to arouse 'pep' at the football games. It is with this in view that Prof. Marks is drilling us. The band made its debut at the Lafayette smoker and was enthusiastically received. Now, fellows, if there are any of you who play band instruments and have not yet joined the band, hand in your name to any member this week. We want to have a good band for the Lebanon Valley game.

Muhlenberg's First Victory Decisive

Unable to stem the terrific rushes of Coach Ritter's powerful combination, Lebanon Valley went down to defeat Saturday afternoon by the score of 31—0.

The initial game on our home field proved a decisive victory and marked improvement was shown in all stages of the game. The visitors came full of confidence and put up a game struggle. The contest was too one-sided to be thrilling but never for a minute did the game lack ginger due to the help of our brass band and the cheers of our absent "Freshies." From kick off to the end Muhlenberg showed her superiority over Lebanon Valley and during no stage of the game was her goal in danger.

Muhlenberg took the lead during the first few minutes of play, which was fast and furious, and Feldman scored the first touchdown by a brilliant end run of 20 yards. By taking advantage of the wonderful defensive work of Wills and Freitag, Captain Anderson plunged through Lebanon's line in the second quarter for the second score. In the third quarter Smythe, the quarterback, formerly of Norristown High, added two touchdowns to our score both by long end runs. Muhlenberg's last tally was scored in the final quarter when Red Lewis shook off his lethargy and plunged through guard.

All this time the Lebanon Valley players fought until they were winded and weary. Harvey and Wine were conspicuous for their beautiful runs of 25 yards and Captain Fishburn at one time gained 30 yards for the visitors by a splendid punt. Muhlenberg's one weakness was failure to kick the goals from touchdowns. On the other hand Coach Ritter demonstrated that he is developing a football machine bound to be noticed for its aggression and energy. Muhlenberg's close formations were irresistible in their driving power.

The game was called at 3 P. M. Fishburn kicked to Lewis who ran back 15 yards. Feldman gained four. Lewis made 12 yards through center. Anderson repeated Lewis' feat. Lewis gained 8 yards through left tackle. Feldman made 15 yards around left end. Harvey threw Smythe for a 5 yard loss. Anderson failed to gain. A forward pass failed and it was Lebanon Valley's ball. Fishburn immediately kicked to Feldman who was stopped on our 40 yard line. Anderson failed to gain. Lewis made 8 yards. "Andy" made first down. Smythe took the ball to the 20 yard line. Feldman skirted right end for a score. Anderson missed the try for goal.

Snyder kicked to Berger who was downed by Wills on the 30 yard line. Fishburn punted to Feldman on our 30 yard line. Anderson and Smythe made first downs in their turns. Harvey intercepted a forward and was thrown by Wills. Berger and Uhler failed to gain and Fishburn punted to Feldman who carried it back 20 yards. Green went in for Weaber.

The second period showed bursts of speed in the backfield and many substitutions were made. Anderson placed the ball on Lebanon's 6 yard line. Anderson ploughed through guard for the second touchdown. Anderson failed at goal. Van Zandt was substituted for Lewis, Hartman for Orr, Bastian for Hartman during this quarter. Muhlenberg failed to score although several opportunities presented themselves. Muhlenberg was penalized 15 yards for holding.

In the third period long runs by Lewis and Smythe aided by terrific plunges through the visitor's line by Feldman brought the ball to the twenty-two yard line from where Smythe circled left end and carried it across through the entire opposing team. Snyder failed to kick the goal. The fourth score came a few minutes later. After Muhlenberg kicked off to Lebanon Valley they recovered the ball in short order and after Wills threw Uhler for 8 yard loss and broke up Moore's forward, Fishburn punted over our line. Ball on 20 yard line. The ball was marched to the 16 yard line from where Smythe zizzagged through the visiting team for a touchdown. Snyder kicked the goal.

The last score came in the beginning of the fourth quarter after Muhlenberg had permitted Lebanon Valley to make a first down, the only one scored during the game. Reese for Taggert. Muhlenberg opened a fierce attack on the visitors and after Anderson made 18 yards through center and Lewis 12 yards off tackle, Bliem placed the ball on the 5 yard line.

Lewis carried the ball across. Snyder failed at goal. From that time until the whistle, the visitors could make no headway against our line and many substitutions were made. Reese broke through and smothered Lebanon's backfield repeatedly.

Anderson Elected Captain

Last Thursday evening the "M" men of last season held a meeting and elected Harold C. Anderson captain for the 1919 season. "Andy" captained the S. A. T. C. eleven of last year very successfully so that the position with which he has been honored is nothing new. The fact that he has been elected captain in his Junior year attests to his popularity among the fellows on the team as well as on the campus and downtown.

Cross Country Squad Rounding Into Shape

Muhlenberg's cross country squad is rapidly rounding into shape due largely to the efforts of last year's veterans. The general call for candidates was issued September 20 and eight men of former experience at college responded together with several new men. The new men are showing promising form for cross country work, but more material can be used.

Mgr. Cressman has been busy arranging interesting and important meets for the squad and, although so far no definite results are announced, meets are pending with Ursinus, Delaware, Lafayette, and several other colleges.

Of the old men, the nucleus of our squad, several men may be relied upon to better their former efforts and be of great value to Muhlenberg. Lynch, a member of the 1918 Varsity track team is back again and ready for more opportunities for his good work.

Bittner, a member of last year's team, who ran an excellent race at Camp Lee during the summer months, is expected to show up promisingly. Edelman, Varsity miler of last year's team, is consistently improving while Bjerkoe is a reliable exponent of endurance. The other old men, Spencer, Oberly, Bollman, Shupp & Hill are all upper classmen and are all experienced distance men.

With such an array of stars working in conjunction with the other material nothing but success can be predicted for our squad. Alone, however, they cannot win. Where are all these blustering distance men? Does 1922 have no one to represent them, and has 1923 only two or three? The squad needs more men to run as well as the recognition and support of every member of the student body. Has anyone ever heard of a cheer being given for the cross country squad? They are spending their time and energy for Muhlenberg as much as the football squad. Think it over—then push!

Muhlenberg Has New Military Instructor

Major Lathrop Clapham, Muhlenberg's new instructor in Military Science and Tactics, brings with him eleven years of experience in the United States Army. Major Clapham is a native of Albany, New York. On the first of September, 1908, he enlisted with the purpose in view of winning a commission from the ranks. He entered the Coast Artillery Corps, and in 1912 was commissioned as an Infantry officer in the Regular Army. At that time he was stationed at Fort Snelling, Minnesota.

His first taste of actual fighting came when General Funston was sent to Vera Cruz, in which expedition he took part. Then came service along the Mexican border for a period of two years. Major Clapham earned his three gold chevrons with the Second Division of the A. E. F., five months of his time abroad being spent as Instructor in Ammunition Trains at the Artillery School located at Coetquidan, France. With the American Army of Occupation he spent six months on the east side of the Rhine, near Nuuweid, Germany.

The R. O. T. C. work of the college is well under way, every man having received his uniform, and his assignment to a squad. With the cooperation of every man, Major Clapham hopes to see the Muhlenberg unit rank with the very best in the Reserve Officers Training corps.

Que and Quill Dance

One of the features of College Day, October 17th, that will interest many of the undergraduates will be the dance in the Commons on that evening. The Cue and Quill Club is planning to hold the dance in order to overcome a deficit in the treasury after presenting the annual plays during commencement week last June, and the support of the students is requested.

The best orchestra for dancing has been secured for the occasion, and the admission will be well within the limit of every fellow on the campus. Patronize your own activities on the campus and sign up early for the night of College Day.

Glee Club Try-outs Soon

Prof. Marks will hold the first try-outs for the Glee Club beginning next Monday, October 20th. There is a great amount of material on the campus and each fellow owes it to the Club to try out for this organization. Singers are needed to fill up the Club roster, and show enough pep to come out. An accompanist is needed this year—ergo, if you play or sing, present yourself in the chapel on the afternoon of next Monday.

The Club has been holding rehearsals for the College Day exercises and thus far was engaged to sing at the Men's meeting in St. John's on Friday night.

Faculty Notes

Prof. John D. M. Brown delivered an address on Friday evening before the Men's Bible Class of St. John's Lutheran Church on "The Russian Revolution."

Prof. Brown also preached at the morning services in St. James' Lutheran Church, Lebanon, on Sunday.

Prof. Robert R. Fritsch led at several Bible discussions at the conference of the Lutheran synod held at Harrisburg last week.

Four Freshmen Take Competitive Examination

Four Muhlenberg Freshmen competed in the State Scholarship examination conducted on Saturday, October 11th, under the supervision of Dr. Isaac M. Wright in connection with the state-wide competition for Senatorial Scholarships. The following took the examination: George B. Balmer, Wallace H. McLauglin, Allen L. Rote, and Adolph H. Wetzler.

Each candidate took five examinations in the following subjects:

English

Mathematics—Elementary Algebra and Geometry.

History—Either Ancient or American.

Science—Either Biology, Chemistry, or Physics.

Language—Either French, German, Latin or Spanish.

Eligibility was limited to first year students in college or university, and graduates of four year high schools contemplating entering college during the Fall.

Alumni Notes

'87 Dr. George A. Miller is at the head of the Mathematical Department at the University of Illinois, Urbana, Ill. Kline, '21, formerly Instructor of Mathematics at Yale.

'07 Charles W. Ettinger of 128 North Sixth Street, Allentown has resigned his position as sporting editor of the Morning Call after ten years' service and will devote all his time to his group of boxers and his boxing arena in Lyric Hall, Allentown.

'09 Henry R. Mueller who saw service in France in the Argonne sector is now holding the Professorship of History at Carlton College, Thomson, Minesota.

'13 Rev. Henry A. Wacker is at present located at 4406 Dexter Street, Roxborough, Philadelphia.

'15 William L. Werner, a former Editor of the Weekly is teaching English, History and allied subjects in the Lebanon High School.

College Day

By Pres. John A. Haas.

For some years Muhlenberg College has considered the problem of introducing in the early fall a day in which its friends could gather and have the work of the college presented to them in a popular way. Commencement Day and Commencement Week are academic in their nature and are purely college functions. But it is still necessary to present the college more directly to many people than can be done through the formal exercises of Commencement. In some colleges there exists a Founders' Day. This type of celebration is used to present some great modern problems to a select audience. Its whole character is largely academic. College Day, as we are planning it, is to combine the message of the college with some popular features in order to explain to a large public more exactly what the college is doing.

At our first celebration we shall have a morning address by Rev. Dr. Frederick Knubel, president of the United Lutheran Church. This will be the one great message of the day. Its character will be marked by the combination of the scholarly and religious element. In future our purpose is to make this address one of the great features worth while in the whole college year. It is to help the student and the public to understand the distinctive mission and place of the Christian college. Questions that grow out of this central problem will also be treated from time to time. We hope to make these deliverances on College Day marked and notable for their value and influence. They are to contain the final appeal to the understanding of the plain people, for the plain people must finally understand what the institutions which they support are doing. Muhlenberg College is largely the creation of the gifts of many people. Its support comes from the rank and file of the common people in the church. These democratic elements in its history place upon it a peculiar obligation to justify itself before the people, and to be the representative of a real Christian democracy .

During the afternoon hours, music and student singing will be the features. A few short addresses will make an appeal to the people who have gathered more informally. All the buildings will be open for inspection. In the main building it will be possible through blackboard exhibits to gain some idea of what is being taught. In the scientific departments and in the library the display of apparatus and books will give some idea of the equipment of the college. We want the people to see what we have and to observe what we need. The spirit of the whole day is to be one in which the college has as its guests all of its friends and shows them and tells them of its work and needs.

This scholastic year has opened with the largest general attendance in the history of the college. In the student body there are at present enrolled 230 students. In the preparatory school 150, and in the teacher's school 120, a total of 490. We are almost at the 500 mark. Let us make of College Day a joyous celebration and an occasion of showing the people who are the friends of the college and showing our interest in their friendship.

Sophs Humiliate Frosh.

On Thursday, Oct. 2, 1919, the Sophs and the Frosh met in the annual football game, which decided the question as to whether the Frosh would be allowed to use the front entrance to the Ad. Building. After a titanic struggle which drew blood on both sides, Fate in the disguise of a 6-0 score, said that the Frosh were doomed to use the rear entrance. Rees was easily the star for the Frosh, while Simmons, Lazarus and Reinartz were the stars for the Sophs.

The line-up:

Sophs		Frosh
Gallagher	LE	Koch
Kehrli	LT	Sanders
Ramer	LG	Zortman
Sellers	C	Sussman
Kline	RG	Woodling
Lantz	RT	Lutz
Fetherolf	RE	Engler

Lazarus	LH	Knauss
Simmons	RH	Dillman
Reinartz	F	Rees

Touchdown, Simmons. Substitutes: Clouser for Koch. Umpire, Dr. Wright. Referee, Freitag.

Besides the thirteen charter members, including the Muhlenberg Weekly, at least three other college papers who are petitioning for membership in the organization will be represented. Muhlenberg will be represented by Earl S. Erb, Richard R. Gates, and Herbert S. Schell.

Why Not?

Why not show our colors? Has Muhlenberg fallen so low that the flag and the Muhlenberg banner cannot appear at least on the occasion of a home game?

Why not detail Freshmen to go thru the halls at 7.15 A. M. to awaken the fellows?

Why not have a separate room in the dorms for the use of the college barber? The climb to the third floor is very tiresome and accommodations in a private room are somewhat limited.

Why not detail Freshmen to answer phone calls in the arcade and get the desired fellows?

Why not clean up the baseball field this fall? It would save the manager much trouble and the Frosh many cold hands if done now; besides it would add to the appearance of the campus.

Important News Item from Sellersville.

"Jess' is the genial manager of the track team and his association with the speedsters is believed to have caused his sudden leap into the land of the unknown. The Team Loses to Bucknell

The team struck a snag last Saturday when they attacked Bucknell in their own lair and the final score does not indicate the hard fight the team put up against great odds. The field resembled a great sea of mud in which the players slipped and slid, making end runs next to impossible. Then, too, Bucknell's team is composed of seasoned men in college football.

The game commenced an hour later than the contracted time and Snyder kicked off to Mangan who ran the kick back twenty yards where the Muhlenberg defense held and Bucknell punted. Then Muhlenberg made first down but were immediately penalized fifteen yards for holding. Lewis punted and Bucknell marched to our three yard line where the defense stiffened and held for downs. Lewis again punted but this time Bucknell was not to be denied scoring their first touchdown on a forward Mangan to McDermott and Capt. Hendren kicked the goal.

Feldman received Bucknell's kickoff and returned ten yards. Muhlenberg made first down and then punted to the ten yard line. Mangan made a forty yard run being downed by Feldman in mid-field. On the next play Bucknell was penalized for holding. The quarter ended with the ball in Bucknell's possession on our 35 yard line.

Immediately at the start of the second quarter Bucknell tried a field goal but failed. Failing to make first down Lewis punted to Mangan and Crowley downed him in his tracks. Bucknell made first down and was penalized another fifteen yards for holding. Failing to make up the loss, Bowser punted over the goal line. Lewis returned the punt to Bucknell's thirty yard line. A third penalty was suffered by the upstate men and Muhlenberg held for downs. Here Wills made a bad pass causing a fumble which Bucknell recovered, paving the way for their second touchdown which came soon after.

Muhlenberg again received after Bucknell's second touchdown and ran back ten yards and immediately they made first down on line bucks past Anderson and Lewis. Feldman fumbled and Bucknell recovered and immediately punted over the line, ending the half with the ball in our possession on our twenty yard line.

During the third quarter, Bucknell scored two more times, the first touchdown being due to end runs and tackle plays. Mangan scored on a run around left end. Kostos kicked the goal.

Anderson returned Bowser's kickoff ten yards and Lewis punted to Mangan. Green dropped Mangan without gain. Bucknell made first down and then Bowser slipped around end for thirty yards and touchdown. Kostos failed at goal. Feldman returned the kick twenty yards and Bucknell was penalized fifteen yards for holding. A pass Feldman to Crowley netted six yards, but Bucknell held and got the ball on downs. Here Green broke thru and blocked a punt recovering the ball.

At the beginning of the last quarter Feldman ripped off thirty-three yards around end, only to lose the ball when Bowser intercepted a forward. An exchange of punts and a recovered fumble by Green gave Muhlenberg the ball on Bucknell's forty-yard line. Muhlenberg made first down on a pass of 8 yards and Feldman's line plunge for three. After a few exchanges of punts and varying gains by both teams the game ended with the ball in Bucknell's possession in our twenty yard line.

For Bucknell Morgan, Mangan and Bowser excelled while for Muhlenberg the playing of Parks, Crowley and Smythe were outstanding features.

In one of the last scrimmages of the game Van Zandt received a fractured leg.

First College Day Very Attractive

Muhlenberg's first College Day was held last Friday, when hundreds of friends and alumni came back to the college to spend a day in looking over the college.

The morning program was opened at eleven o'clock with the Matin Service in the chapel, which was filled. The address was delivered by Dr. Frederick R. Knubel, of New York City, President of the United Lutheran Church in America.

Dr. Knubel said in part: Muhlenberg College has always stood for the best kind of a Christian education. The college is a big factor in the community today, and the work of Muhlenberg College is being appreciated throughout the country. Today, we have before us, Bolshevism and the question of man and his labors. Bolshevism is right in one of its principles and that is, that no man dare have a say in the government, unless he is a worker. The idler is a parasite to humanity. The present labor problem has no solution, because there is no proper conception of the meaning of labor.

Mankind has become too anxious for self-aggrandizement and has become too selfish.

The greater piece of work produced in the past few decades has been the Peace Treaty and that is liable to be of no value, due to the jealousness of the nations.

The big question today is whether the laboring man will see that Jesus Christ and His views are the only safe ones today, or whether the people will let the moral lapse continue.

After the service, the Ladies' Auxilliary served dinner in the commons. This was followed by a band concert by the Allentown Band in front of the Administration Building.

Between numbers, the Glee Club sang several selections. Dr. Haas then introduced Rev. Luther D. Lazarus of Bethlehem, president of the Allentown Conference, who spoke on the future observance of "College Day."

The closing event of the day was a dance given in the evening by the Cue and Quill Club.

Chinese Student Makes Strong Appeal

Mr. Y. L. Tseng, a young Chinese student from Shanghai, China, who has been accorded the unusual honor of being allowed to graduate from Lehigh University in three years, last Wednesday addressed the student body on "The Necessity for Leaders in China." The following is the gist of his address:

"The country of China has a written history of more than 4000 years. There is a fixed law that everything is growing old. But instead of growing old, China is very young. She is only eight years in connection with the rest of the world. Therefore because she is young, good leaders are needed to guide her so that she may share the responsibilities of the democratic nations. It is hard enough to raise a young child but it is ten times harder to raise a child-nation. China today is pessimistic, internally and externally.

'The big question today is—what kind of leaders does China need? To answer this we must know the conditions of China in relation to other nations. China of today is vastly different from the China of 20 years ago. The monarchy has been overthrown. The new republic form of government and the democratic ideas are new to the people. China cannot stand alone, apart from the other nations—she must unite with them. Yet it is impossible to lead her as under the old leadership. Her first president was undesirable, despotic. Her initial leaders were men who just looked out for themselves. The kind of men who are needed now in China are men ready and willing to sacrifice themselves for the betterment of the nation, men who would rather be killed than surrender. China needs Christian leaders who will serve her with faithfulness, unselfishness, and love.

'There are 1900 Chinese students in the United States to learn and to prepare for this leadership. They left China with empty brains and hungry souls. It is easy enough to get something to fill up our brain but it is not so easy to nourish the soul, especially for the Chinese students. It is true that China's present condition is abhorrent, but I am optimistic. Nature has been kind to her before and sooner or later the kind of leaders necessary will be supplied and China will be led safely in democratic ways.

'America is China's best friend. Many of her men are working as leaders in China. In spite of racial and national prejudice, many Chinese youths are admitted to America's best educational institutions. America can train the brain but the soul is not safe. And so, in conclusion, let me appeal to you to help to nurse the soul, for after all the soul is by far the most important.''

Pagans 12—Ministers 0

On Thursday morning the Pagans and Ministers of the 1921 variety gathered their forces on the gridiron for their annual frolic with the pigskin. The weather was anything but ideal for it rained and as the field was wet and muddy, the contest could not be the pink tea that it usually is in fair weather.

The ministers had held a round of prayer meetings for their opponents during the week and had the same line of pep in them as the pagans had presented in their smokers. The creeds in each camp were in the same words, but from a ''different point of view.'' Indeed, it was a thirsty revenge that each was out for, and there were the same number of stars on each side making a total of some twenty.

The outstanding features of the game were Shaertel's punting, Lynch's passing, Beddow's tackles, Shantz's deliberate forward to Shankweiler who ran twenty yards for the first touchdown, Morgan's line plunging, Shane's black eye, and the 100 yard dash between Morgan and Bittner. The ministers' formations worked out by their backfield would do justice to even Pitt's machine. Some of them can be mentioned here, such as the Jerusalem, the Jericho, the Holy Roller and the Go To formations ,while the others are not fit to print.

Spencer kicked to Lynch; Lynch forwards, Shantz receives; Morgan plunges the line twice and on the next play Shantz is carried back five yards. Butz carries the ball around left end for a gain, Talmadge takes it through center, and Shane fumbles. Lynch passes to Beddow who makes a gain. Shane receives the ball and is tackled ten yards behind the line by Miller. Lynch kicks, Edelman receives with slight advantage. Morgan plunges through for eight yards, Shantz takes the left end for twenty yards, and Beddow works through the Pagan's lines to stop the onslaught. Shaertel runs in and stops Morgan on a line rush. The second quarter opens with Lynch making a good forward to Beddow with a gain of thirty yards. Miller breaks through and gets Lynch with no gain for the ministers. Shaertel punts for forty yards, Shantz receives and is stopped by a spectacular tackle by Beddow. Shantz passes to Shankweiler from the forty yard line which brings the first touchdown for the Pagans. No goal. Spencer kicks off to Wehr, Shelly fumbles, Lynch's forward is intercepted by Shantz. Morgan gains ground on the next play and Shantz then takes the ball down the field for fifteen yards, where Beddow repeats his neck tackle and stops him. Morgan is stopped at right end by Talmage. Spencer takes the ball for eight yards; Morgan's fumble is recovered by Derr. On three yards line Derr is offside and the Pagans go back five yards. Shantz fumbles ball recovered by Beddow, Shaertel punts.

The second half opens with Lynch recovering a fumble from Shantz. Pass from Lynch intercepted, Shaertel punts. Shantz passes to Miller who holds on. Koch gains five yards from a pass. Shankweiler to Morgan gains twenty yards. Morgan and Spencer go through center right after each other. Lynch through center again and Butz around right end. Shantz fumbles, Beddow recovers. Shantz forwards to Morgan who is stopped after a long dash by Bittner. Morgan plunges again and makes the second touchdown. No goal. Two passes by the Ministers opens the last quarter and Butz runs around left end. Shaertel kicks, Shantz receives the ball and is stopped by ''one-eyed'' Shane. A series of line plunges. Lynch makes a pretty pass to Bittner who, covered by four men, fumbles. Time out for air, and then Shaertel punts. On the last two plays the Pagan's center passed the ball fifteen yards back of the line, making it look as though he were bribed by the Ministers to lose the game.

Student Activities and Studious Activities

By Pres. J. G. Schuman of Cornell
(I. N. A. Service)

A man is more than his work. Wherever, therefore, human being come together to engage in work, other interests spring up, find expression and receive attention.

We saw that the good citizen is the man who not only does faithfully his daily work, but who gives some care also to the interests of the community in which he lives and of the state and nation to which he belongs. Some men and women devote more time to these public subjects than others. The man who pursues them to the neglect of his own proper work will find it difficult to secure or to hold permanently a position in the economic system of production and distribution.

Somewhere a line must be drawn between the two groups of competing claims. There is a happy medium if men can only find it.

What takes place in that state on a large scale finds its counterpart in the college and university. The college or university is primarily a place to study. As an institution, study is what justifies its existence. But when young men and young women congregate in an institution of learning, they quickly discover that they have interests outside the classroom and apart from hours which they reserve for intellectual work. The great majority of their interests are entirely proper and worthy of cultivation, while some of them are pre-eminently important.

To the latter class belong solicitude for the name and fame of the college, and all efforts which tend to promote a healthful democratic and noble spirit in the academic community. Such a spirit is not only commendable in itself, but is invaluable to the university.

It is not public service of that sort which the undergraduate has in mind when he speaks of student activities. That phrase suggests almost exclusively the idea of athletic and social activities. And while these are normal and proper interests for young men, and some of them for young women too, they have tended to usurp a large portion of the student's time and energy.

To give the student a sense of proportion and to recall him to his proper work, I coined a phrase a few years ago which seems to have lodged in the mind of our community. I said that, essentially considered, the "Student's activities are student activities." I meant of course to bring out in this somewhat epigrammatic way the vital and all important fact that a student was here to study, and that no other activity whatever could take the place of that fundamental duty.

It is thru and by study that the university is to aid and benefit the student. A student who neglects that vital business for outside activities, arguing that these are as beneficial to him as study, is laboring under a great and fatal delusion.

A college or university is a place to study. The student may indeed pursue other subjects, but they must always remain subordinates to his main duty and purpose, if he it really to be a student. Study is his vocation; sports, society, the theatre, etc., can never be more than an avocation.

The chief end of the student is to study. So long as he is privileged to remain in the college, his supreme duty is to study hard. Let students never forget that everything else in their student lives are subordinate to that transcendent object. There are indeed ancillary activities, but essentially considered, student activities are studious activities.

I. N. A. Convenes at Lafayette

The second convention of the Intercollegiate Newspaper Association convened at Lafayette Friday and Saturday of last week. Fifteen colleges and universities had representatives present, Herbert Schell and James Morgan representing Muhlenberg.

The first session was called to order by Pres. Pearson of Swarthmore and many topics were discussed in order to expedite the work of the regular business session. It was decided that the major discussion should be upon definite editorial policies and business management of the represented college papers which would be conducive to the best interests of all the colleges.

Promptly at 8.30 A. M. Saturday the Convention settled down to work. Upon advice of President Pearson the business managers held a separate session. Business policies with regard to headlines, illustrations, salaried staff, and compulsory subscription were discussed pro and con. It was clearly pointed out that a working knowledge of headlines was obtainable from books by reliable authors. With regard to illustrations these may be obtained from the publishers of year book and catalog or cuts made and sold to the above after use in the paper. The use of illustrations enhances the appearance of the paper. The question of a salaried staff brought forth considerable comment. A few colleges have salaried editors and business managers share the profits at the end of the year or make up the deficit if there is such. All were agreed that some recognition should be given the editor and business manager not in monetary remuneration but by awarding an emblem, the design of which should be distinctive of the I. N. A. A committee for this purpose was appointed. It was also the opinion that an earnest staff worker should obtain recognition for his work by the English Department and the attitude of the student body should be similar to that obtained in other college activities. Compulsory subscription was deemed entirely necessary if the paper is to have a financial basis but this is not applicable to state land grant institutions.

The above discussions were dropped while Dr. Albert K. Heckle, Dean of Lafayette welcomed the members to the College and extended its privileges. He emphasized the fact that college spirit is due in large part to the college publication. The college paper should be an accurate recorder of college events and activities, the true mirror of student opinion on the campus. "The Sunday paper is one of the wonders of the age. It is encyclopedia, library, and magazine combined and its articles range from wisdom to nothing." Perfection should be the aim and an exchange of ideas is essential. The college publication owes an obligation to the present and the future. It owes a like obligation to the Alumnae who thus are enabled to keep in constant touch with the progress and spirit of their Alma Mater. His closing appeal was fo rconstructive criticism on the part of the writers on the staff.

Dr. James Bossard, formerly of Muhlenberg, now Professor of Economics and Political Science at Lafayette, discussed some principles of journalism in a concise and entertaining manner. He emphasized exactness, promptness ,and the sense of importance of the individual. It is essential that a writer be exact and to be exact one must have all the facts. It is not only a noticable fact among newspaper writers but college in general. One cannot know, "this and everything." Promptness must be insisted upon. When covering a particular article it must be covered and handed in on time. It is especially difficult for college students to realize the importance of promptness and the ingenuity resorted to in order to explain a report overdue cannot be tolerated in newspaper work. Finally, there must be the sense of importance of the individual. Tho assigned an insignificant event, the writer must take his work seriously and to him it should be the biggest thing in the paper. People are interested in entirely different matters in the newspaper and to each it makes a diffrent appeal . For the older people, the obituary column is the feature that stands out and the worth of the paper is judged by whether or not that feature is good or bad. This also applies to the class of people interested in fires, women's affairs, sports, want ads, etc. Thus the paper must attempt to make trivial matters the best possible.

The afternoon session convened at 1.00 p. m. and editorial policies which could be applied to all the represented institutions were discussed. Some of the problems were; Higher salaries for professors; Evils of rushing freshmen by fraternities; Student government; R. O .T. C. and compulsory military training; Compulsory attendance at chapel; Athletics; and Methods of electing the staff. These subjects will be subjects of editorial comment during the year especially that relative to higher salaries for professors.

A representative from the War Risk Insurance Bureau explained many details of the insurance which were vague and the source of inquiry on the part of the college man interested . Cooperating with the Bureau the I. N. A. thru the papers of the individual colleges will be enabled to give valuable information and bring about a clearer understanding relative to this insurance.

The convention was fortunate indeed in being able to obtain Dr. D. Thomas Curtin and those present had the pleasure of hearing an excellent address on journalistic conditions of timely interest as well as inside information of journalism and the valuable part it played during the late war. Dr. Curtin, known internationally as "the man who dragged the truth out of Germany" and sometimes as "doubting Thomas Curtin" is an American journalist better known in English journalistic circles for his valuable work during the war.

In discussing journalism from the standpoint of owner and editor he presented many facts which was first hand knowledge. His close association with Lord Northcliffe, the most powerful owner of newspapers in the world, enabled him to speak with authority. He showed how free correspondents are in the world of journalism today by referring to those journalists who were in Germany during the war, himself included. What a broad scope and task the correspondents had in handling reports to the newspapers of America in regard to many issues resulting from the governmental policies of Germany; how these issues could be presented in their light and how they affected American thot and action when they were not.

In a convincing manner he emphasized the great part journalism had in shaping history during the progress of the war, in such cases as the Syrian expedition, separate peace with Austria, blockade of ports and a strong western front, centralized allied command, and the revolutionizing of British ministry.

Because of some owners only representing themselves and the freedom of correspondents in presenting the facts, his greatest plea was for a square deal to the public. During the war all the facts could not be given because of censorship. It was absolutely necessary for the morale of the people that certain facts be withheld, for instance, that of only an eight week supply of grain in island empire during one month in 1917. The purpose to mislead must be avoided. The poison the mind is greater than poisoning the body. All the facts must be sifted and only those retained which ring with sincereity. The greatest impression of the Shantung controversy is that nothing built on a moral wrong con last. In discussing the League of Nations one must realize that ti is at least a step toward something better and not an off the earth idealism.

Dr. Curtin concluded his excellent address by stating that journalism gives a man such a broad observation and satisfaction unknown in other fields of work.

The business manager reported considerable progress made toward standardizing the various papers, advertising rates and the exchange of ideas in business management.

C. S. Fleck, editor of the "Lafayette" was host to the meeting and the representatives were accorded most excellent entertainment and hospitality. The choice of the Spring meeting lies between Rutgers, New York University and Stevens Institute.

Glee Club Tryouts Held

Tryouts for the Glee Club were held in the chapel on Monday afternoon before Prof. Marks, the Club's director, and the executive committee. More than twenty fellows were there to show their ability and more talent appeared at the tryouts this year than has been the case for the last few years.

The five men who made berths on the Club were for first tenor, Bean, '21; A. Kline, '21; Mosser, '23; for second bass, Longkamer, '23 and Rees, '23.

College Day Dance

More than fifty couples attended the dance held in the College Commons on the night of College Day by the Cue and Quill Club. The dancing started at eight-thirty, and from the first sounds that came from the Jazzland Novelty Orchestra which was engaged for the occasion, until the last couple left the Commons, there was good spirit shown among the students and friends who were in attendance.

Much credit for the success of the dance is due to Bollman, the president of the Cue and Quill club and his committee who worked up the affair. The dance program offered by the Jazzland group was as popular as they always present and the desire to have a return engagement for this collection of players, two of whom are Muhlenberg students, has been expressed by the majority of the students who were in attendance.

The dancing party was chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. Oscar F. Bernheim, Dr. and Mrs. I. M. Wright and Mr. and Mrs. Philip Sotter of Pottstown.

Campus Jottings

Much gloom and sorrow spread over the dorms on Sunday evening when a telegram was received from Sunbury, stating that Van Zandt was suffering from a fractured leg as a result of the Bucknell game. Every student at the college immediately rushed to the station to meet unfortunate "Bill" and the rest of the team. The "Long Muhlenberg for Van Zandt" that was given by the crowd on hand was a husky one and filled with feelings of sympathy. The student body through the columns of the Weekly wishes him a speedy recovery from his unfortunate plight.

The team when it journeyed to Lewisburg on Friday was not without its rooters to supply pep. Besides Graduate Manager Afflerbach '16, and student manager Deck, Assistant Cheer Leader T. K. Miller, Harold J. Barthold, Paul S. Edelman, Raymond A. Spencer, Douglas Steimle, and Theodore Zweier accompanied the team.

Among the alumni seen at the game were Dr. Conrad Raker, '13, Rev. Elmer Leisey, '14, Herman W. Nenow, '14, and James F. McGovern, '19.

Pres. Black of W. and J. has issued an announcement presenting plans for the enlargement of the college. The new plan involves the raising of a fund of $2,500,000 and provides for the creation of two new departments, the remodeling and refurnishing of college buildings, and an increase in professors' salaries.

At the Stevens Institute of Technology an agitation is on foot to inaugurate a plan of daylight saving. The main argument for it seems to be that the extra hour of daylight would be of advantage to practicing teams.

Muhlenberg Defeats Catholic U.

In a slow but well fought game, full of thrills, Muhlenberg, by defeating Catholic University Saturday afternoon 13 to 0, added the second victory to her credit on the local gridiron.

The visitors were game enough but showed lack of condition, and Coach Tracy was compelled to use every one of the squad he brought along.

Neither side was able to make holes in the lines and Muhlenberg made its two touchdowns in a spectacular and unusual manner. Green had the rare distinction of scoring from tackle. Wills in the second quarter, made a flying tackle, diving over the interference and throwing Glascott so hard that he dropped the ball. Green retrieved the fumble, saw an opening and, after a short run, crossed the line.

Muhlenberg's second tally was one of the most sensational plays ever seen on the local gridiron. Smythe, the crack quarterback, intercepted a forward pass to Poplin on the opponents' 10 yard line and ran 90 yards thru Catholic U.'s line for a touchdown.

Wills, Feldman and Anderson aided Muhlenberg in gaining ground. Captain Glascott, former Philadelphia Catholic High star, starred for the visitors, and on a forward pass Fitzgerald made a run of 35 yards.

The game was called at 3 p. m. Parks kicked to Murphy on the 10-yard line. Murphy returned 10 yards, tackled by Parks. Unable to gain, Murphy punted to Feldman who returned 10 yards, tackled by Poplan. Feldman made 3 yards around left end. Anderson went thru center for 4 yards. Anderson made first down. Lewis made 5 yards thru left tackle and Muhlenberg was penalized 5 yards for off side. Feldman made 4 yards on a wide end run. Lewis failing to gain punted to Glascott who was tackled by Crowley. Murphy made 8 yards around right end, tackled by Wills. No gain was made on the next two plays. Murphy made first down off left tackle. Dunn made 2 yards thru tackle. Glasscott fumbled but recovered. Green threw Dunn for no gain. Murphy punted to Feldman who returned 20 yards. Glascott intercepted a forward tackled by Taggert. Failing to gain Murphy punted to Feldman who returned 10 yards. Murphy failed to gain. Catholic U. penalized 5 yards for off side. After holding the visitors for downs, Anderson made 8 yards thru center. Feldman made first down.

At the beginning of second quarter, Muhlenberg had the ball on the 40-yard line. Feldman made 5 yards around right end. Lewis made first down. Anderson made 4 yards thru center. Feldman made first down. Muhlenberg penalizezd 15 yards for holding. Smythe made 15 yards around left end. Cherry for Lewis. Glascott intercepted a forward. Murphy fumbling recovered making 10 yards. Wills threw Glascott for 8 yards loss. Cath. U. penalized 5 yards for off side. Murphy punted to Feldman who ran out of bounds. Muhlenberg failed to gain. Cherry punted to Glascott. Glascott started an end run, Parks slipped off and Wills dove at Glascott causing him to fumble. Green scooped up the ball and crossed the line for a touchdown. Snyder failed to kick the goal. Nolde for Parks. The last few plays of the quarter were lively ones. Fitzgerald making 40 yards thru left tackle, Smythe 8 yards around end and Anderson 14 yards thru center. Feldman made first down on two attempts.

The second half opened with many substituting for the visitors. Parks for Nolde . Lewis for Cherry. Murphy kicked to Anderson, who returned 10 yards. Smythe fumbled and Fitzgerald recovered. Green grounded a forward. Wills threw Fitzgerald for 5 yard loss. Muhlenberg penalized 5 yards for off side. Crowley threw Dunn for 6-yard loss. Dunn passed to Poplin who made first down. Freitag recovered a fumble. Smythe made 4 yards around end. Feldman failed to gain. Lewis made first down. Anderson and Lewis made first down. Feldman failed to gain. Muhlenberg penalized 15 yards for holding. Feldman lost 5 yards on an end run. Anderson made 4 yards around end. Lewis punted to Fitzgerald who returned 10 yards. Not gaining Murphy punted to Anderson who returned 5 yards. Muhlenberg failed to gain. Visitors ball on downs. Glascott passed to Poplan for 20 yards. Crowley threw Murphy for 5 yards loss. Wills grounded a forward.

Orr intercepted forward. Muhlenberg failed to gain. Lewis punted to Fitzgerald tackled by Taggert. Murphy punted to Feldman who returned 10 yards. Muhlenberg penalized 15 yards for holding. Hartman for Parks. Lewis punted to Fitzgerald tackled by Crowley. Glascott passed to Poplan for 35 yards to Cath. U.'s 40-yard line. Glascott started long forward to Poplan. Smythe snatched the ball from Poplan's hands and ran 90 yards for a touchdown. Snyder kicked the goal.

To Conduct Roosevelt Memorial Campaign.

To honor the memory of Theodore Roosevelt, and to bring to the attention of the American people the strong patriotism for which he stood, the National Roosevelt Memorial Association is conducting a campaign to erect a suitable tomb for this great ex-President at Washington, and to preserve his home at Sagamore Hill like Mount Vernon has been preserved.

In presenting this movement to the chapel assembly last Wednesday, Prof. Ettinger said in part: "Whether or not we agree with everything that Mr. Roosevelt has done, we must unite in admiring his intense devotion to his duties, not only as the head of the nation, but also as the head of his family. In this campaign the purpose is not so much to gather a large sum of money as to bring the movement to the attention of everyone. The penny of the school child and the check of the business man are alike acceptable."

To receive the contributions of the students, D. Ettinger appointed these committees: Seniors, Bollman, Bachman; Juniors: Trexler, D. Kistler; Sophomores: Stine, Lantz, Sowers; Freshmen: Weiler, Sanders, Fritz.

Cross-Country Team Runs Against Lafayette Today.

On Wednesday, October 29, the cross country team will participate in a dual meet with Lafayette on the five-mile course of the Northampton Country Club at Easton. The Lafayette team is composed of five veterans, including Bob Crawford, former interscholastic cross-country champion, and a hard meet is looked forward to.

The Muhlenberg squad has been out daily getting into shape and is also composed of experienced distance men. The men who will run at the Easton meet are Shupp, Spencer, Lynch, Bittner, Bjerkoe and Zartman.

Besides today's meet Manager Cressman has arranged a dual meet with Delaware College for November 1. On November 15 the team will run at the Middle States meet at Lafayette.

Magi Club Reorganizes.

Just to show the old fellows of a few years ago that the present day fellows on the campus are still up and doing the seniors in the scientific course decided to revive the old Magi club. The B. S. men in the senior class are few in number but they expect to make up for lack of numbers by an additional dose of pep. At the initial meeting last week it was decided to make the club an organization that would be a benefit to its members and the College; a thing which quite a number of the clubs are not. Most of the clubs existing on the campus with few exceptions have no definite policy, usually meeting once a year to elect officers and to have the club picture taken for the Ciarla. It is hoped that the few active clubs like the T. S. and Magi may blaze the way for greater activity in all the clubs. Let the clubs get together, plan to get new students to Muhlenberg, spread Muhlenberg propaganda and engage in discussions that will benefit the members.

The officers of the new club are as follows:

Grand Possessor of Knowledge, J. Homer Roblyer; Chief Mental Interpreter, William A. VanZant; Retainer of Mental Transactions, Warren P. Snyder; Keeper of Mental and Physical Currency, David J. Schleicher; Recorder of Physical Transactions, Charles F. Gloss; Faculty Member, Guerney F. Afflerbach.

Junior science students are elibible to election in the club after the mid year exams.

Alumni Notes.

Show Your Spirit.

What's wrong with the pep at the football games? We have been wondering about that ever since the game with Lebanon Valley. Of course the poor showing in cheering was excusable then because we had no exclusive cheering section to ourselves. On Saturday, however, the student body was together —yes, together to watch the game and to criticise together! Is that all we can do with a cheering section?

All the spirit exhibited at Saturday's game came in spurts. We had lots of "pep" during spectacular plays and during the third quarter of the game when the final result was in doubt. During the rest of the game, that much talked of college spirit was a miserable unknown quantity. It had simmered down to a few . The fire from the guns behind the team had become desultory. The attempt at a snake dance was a commendable one and furnished evidence that there was some life resting beneath the surface but even then some freshmen as well as some upper classmen were too dignified to abase themselves by participating in such humiliating tommy-rot as a snake dance.

Do similar conditions exist in the student bodies of other colleges? NO. Nor did such conditions exist at Muhlenberg before the war. Those were the days when Muhlenberg was famous for her cheering section. Lafayette paid her respects to the cheering for the Cardinal and the Gray and even Lehigh took notice of it. Muhlenberg's teams profited by it. It was a wonderful asset in every game. A roll call of the freshmen at the game on Saturday showed the presence of fifty-two out of a class of seventy-five despite strict warnings that had been passed out. On the same day every freshman at Lafayette journeyed to Philadelphia to root for their team. Twenty-three of our freshmen had found it impossible to root for our team at a home game.

Wake up, fellows! Don't be knockers and slackers. Show the men on the team that you are behind them. Yell for the team and continue to yell even if they meet with reverses or play a mediocre game. Sitting on the stands and merely criticising every play will never accomplish anything. A lack of spirit will lower the morale of the players. Give them your support, losing or winning, and you'll be able to inject some fighting spirit into them. Show your college spirit.

Attention, Alumni!

The Weekly is making an effort to put itself on a more substantial basis. The staff is trying to publish a better and more up-to-date paper. It realizes that there is lots of room for improvement both in appearance and in its columns. But it is greatly handicapped financially. The staff cannot afford to put out a bigger paper until the Weekly has a more substantial backing from the alumni. Plans are being laid for general improvements for next year but they must have the unswerving support of the alumni to be successful.

In order to obtain a firmer alumni backing, the business manager has put the greater part of the alumni on the mailing list. Think it over, alumni. You are about to receive a letter from the business manager. Let him know if you feel that you can do without the Weekly. Please give the letter your most careful attention.

T. S. Club Entertains.

The T. S. Club held its first meeting for the new year in the lair of its members in 122F. After some coaching on the part of the old members and the "alumni" who turned out for the occasion, the probationary members made a fair showing.

The chief topics up for argument were concerning laundries and pants foundries. MacIntosh '19, was in favor of passing an edict that all men should wear starched collars and cuffs while in college, and afterwards to clinch his line, he expiated upon the troubles of hiring girls and keeping them. Schwartz '19, was next called on who favored the adoption of knee breechers for all freshmen, and then presented some samples of his best products. For further notes of the line handed out, consult the minute book.

Through the haze brought about by much puffing, various speeches of the new kind were in evidence, and with due credit to them, they will no doubt be good additions to this organization which is founded on facts only.

Dr. Wright, the only faculty member who was able to attend, held up their side of the questions which brought forth a great deal of statistics, arguments and what nots. MacIntosh and Schwartz were the only alumni members who were able to leave their new business worries for the good of the new men.

A. T. O. Holds Smoker.

The Alpha Iota Chapter of the Alpha Tau Omega Fraternity held a smoker Wednesday evening, October 22, at the fraternity house on South Fourteenth street.

A number of Freshmen and new men were entertained as well as all the men whose fraternities are not represented at Muhlenberg.

Muhlenberg in Allentown Politics.

Muhlenberg alumni have always figured much in the political campaigns of Lehigh County but this year's contests are unusually interesting.

One of the most sharply waged contests for a long time in the history of the county is that for the newly-created judgeship. This contest is being waged by Milton C. Henninger, Esq., '74, and State Senator Horace W. Schantz whose son is a member of the class of 1921.

Another fight between two men vitally interested in Muhlenberg is that between Richard W. Iobst and John E. Hartzell, '11, for District Attorney. Iobst who is a former Muhlenberg student defeated Herbert B. Frederick, '12, for the Democratic nomination at the primary.

Others candidates for office are Malcolm W. Gross, Esq., '94, for Mayor, Coroner Fred. R. Bausch, '00, candidate for reelection, and Councilman E. C. Kohler, ex-86, also a candidate for reelection.

Intercollegiate Items.

Ursinus College has begun a drive among its alumni and former students for a memorial fund of $50,000. The fund is to be used in the erection of a memorial library building on the college campus at Collegeville in honor of the seven gold star men from Ursinus.

A petition is being circulated among the student body of Swarthmore, urging the immediate ratification of the peace treaty by the Senate. Five copies of the petition will be sent out, going to Senators Penrose, Knox and Lodge and to

At Bucknell the Senior Council has decided that freshmen who saw overseas service need not wear freshman caps.

A campaign is being carried on at Delaware College to raise $100,000. Thirty per cent of this amount will be used for the erection and equipment of a building for the engineering department and the remaining seventy per cent will be used to increase salaries of the faculty twenty per cent for the next two years.

Penn State has inaugurated a novelty to be known as "Poverty Day." This day will be on Saturdays from six o' clock in the morning until six in the evening. All Freshmen on this day are required to wear nothing but the most poverty-stricken clothing available. The entire costume must be in a delapidated condition except the freshman cap. The entire Freshman class is required to attend the football games in these clothes and during the halves of the varsity game must march around the field.

DARK ROSALEEN

DAVID BELASCO'S production of "Dark Rosaleen" marks a new epoch in the history of Irish drama. For the first time an Irish play of the present day is presented on an elaborate scale with a cast of Irish players. Giving a faithful picture of life in the old land, with a fascinating rural love story in which are entwined bits of the delightful mysticism of the ancient Gael, weired traditions and much deep sentiment, the play has a charm that is delightful.

There is a wealth of sparkling wit and rich humor. Quaint characters, such as one meets in Irish country life, people the scenes and give them a colorful glow.

"Dark Rosaleen" is a comedy that every playgoer will love. It will bring a laugh to the lip, a tear to the eye and set the heart beating at racing speed.

Muhlenberg Protests Game

Muhlenberg came home from Villa Nova on Saturday evening with 6-0 defeat registered against them and one which will never be forgotten by the local warriors.

The defeat is very questionable and neutral fans, who witnessed the game hooted the referee and umpire for their poor officiating. A protest will likely be lodged with the board.

Plowing thru a mud-covered field in the drizzling rain, the score came when McGeehan tried a field goal from the twenty-five yard line which went wide of the mark. Yadnsky cut in fast and fell on the ball before any player of either team had touched the ball. The referee gave Villa Nova the touchdown. McGeehan missed the try for goal.

That the Villa Nova team was outclassed can be shown by the summary which shows that Muhlenberg scored eight first downs to none for Villa Nova. The eight first downs included a forty yard run thru tackle by Feldman and long gains by Lewis, Smythe and Anderson. On two occasions our team was within fifteen yards of the goal posts but shady penalties prevented them from scoring.

Our heavy line held well, but Villa Nova surmounted this obstacle by using end runs. In the sloppy mud, end runs were exceedingly dangerous, but they worked to advantage at times.

Dougherty received the kick-off on the fifteen-yard line and our husky line held so well Villa Nova was forced to punt and Feldman was nailed in his tracks. Then McGeehan recovered a fumble and Villa Nova tried line bucking. With the ball on the thirty-five-yard line, McGeehan tried for a field goal, but the the ball fell short. Then Muhlenberg did some excellent plunging with Lewis, Anderson and Feldman alternating and a first down was made. Then Villa Nova held and Muhlenberg was forced to punt.

During the second period Anderson was unsuccessful in his try for a field goal from the 30-yard line. In this period Feldman broke loose for a thirty-five line but Cullom downed him.

Toward the end of the first half the game developed into the punting duel with both teams evenly matched. Lewis made many remarkable punts.

Villa Nova kicked off in the second half and our team began to make better progress after gaining possession of the ball on downs. Muhlenberg was penalized fifteen yards and McGeehan carried the ball within striking distance of the goal. It was at this time that Yadnsky cut in on McGeehan's kick for a field goal, which went wide, and smothered the ball behind the goal line before any player of either team had touched the ball. This decision gave rise to objections and for a time it appeared that the game would end with this disputed decision, but the officials were firm and the touchdown was registered against Muhlenberg. McGeehan missed the try for goal.

Muhlenberg was fighting mad and a bitter struggle ensued to the end of the period with our team bucking the opponents' team, the elements and the officials. Dougherty attempted end runs but the mud made it impossible at this time. Our line held like a stone wall and Villa Nova was thrown for losses time after time. Despite the desperate attempts of our eleven we were unable to score and Villa Nova despite their persistency were unable to carry the ball into our danger zone. Both teams attempted many forward passes in this half, but not one was successful.

The fourth period was a repetition of the third, hard fighting and much penalizing on both sides.

The game was a decidedly interesting one to watch and despite the adverse weather conditions Muhlenberg rooters were strongly in evidence; in fact we had almost as many loyal supporters as Villa Nova. It is gratifying to note the number of Alumni from Philadelphia and vicinity who added their lusty cheers to those from the student body at Muhlenberg.

Students Take Intelligence Tests

The Intelligence Test of the State Board of Education held at Muhlenberg last Thursday simultaneously with all other educational institutions of High School or higher grade aroused intense interest. In 18 of the larger colleges and in 8 normal schools Freshmen only were tested, and in others as many of the students as could be accomodated with seats at one time were examined.

At the time of going to press, the individual results of the Muhlenberg men have not been tabulated for publication. However, the department of Psychology has already prepared graphs for comparing the four classes. For presentation in tabular form, the figures used are the number of questions answered correctly, and the number missed by the middle man or median of each class.

	Correct	Incorrect
Freshmen	85	25

From the data secured in this test, further interesting deductions will be drawn. It will be possible to compare the records made by men from any preparatory school with those of others. Football men can be compared with those not on the squad. The various courses can be compared. The quiz books will be a mine of information for the students of the Psychology department, and the statistics secured will be a great interest to the rest of the school.

Lafayette Proves Too Strong in Dual Meet

On Wednesday, October 29, at Easton, our cross-country squad made an excellent initial showing against the strong Lafayette delegation. This meet was practically a trial meet and the results can not be used to base any conjectures concerning later meets.

The course is exceedingly difficult especially for inexperienced runners, and the cement road was a decided hardship. The resulting score did not do justice to the type of running which our men offered. Of the ten counting positions at the finish, Lafayette took the first six and Bittner, the first of our men to finish, came in seventh. None of our men were pulling hard but finished without great signs of fatigue. Bittner ran a fine race.

Delaware Meet Springs Surprise

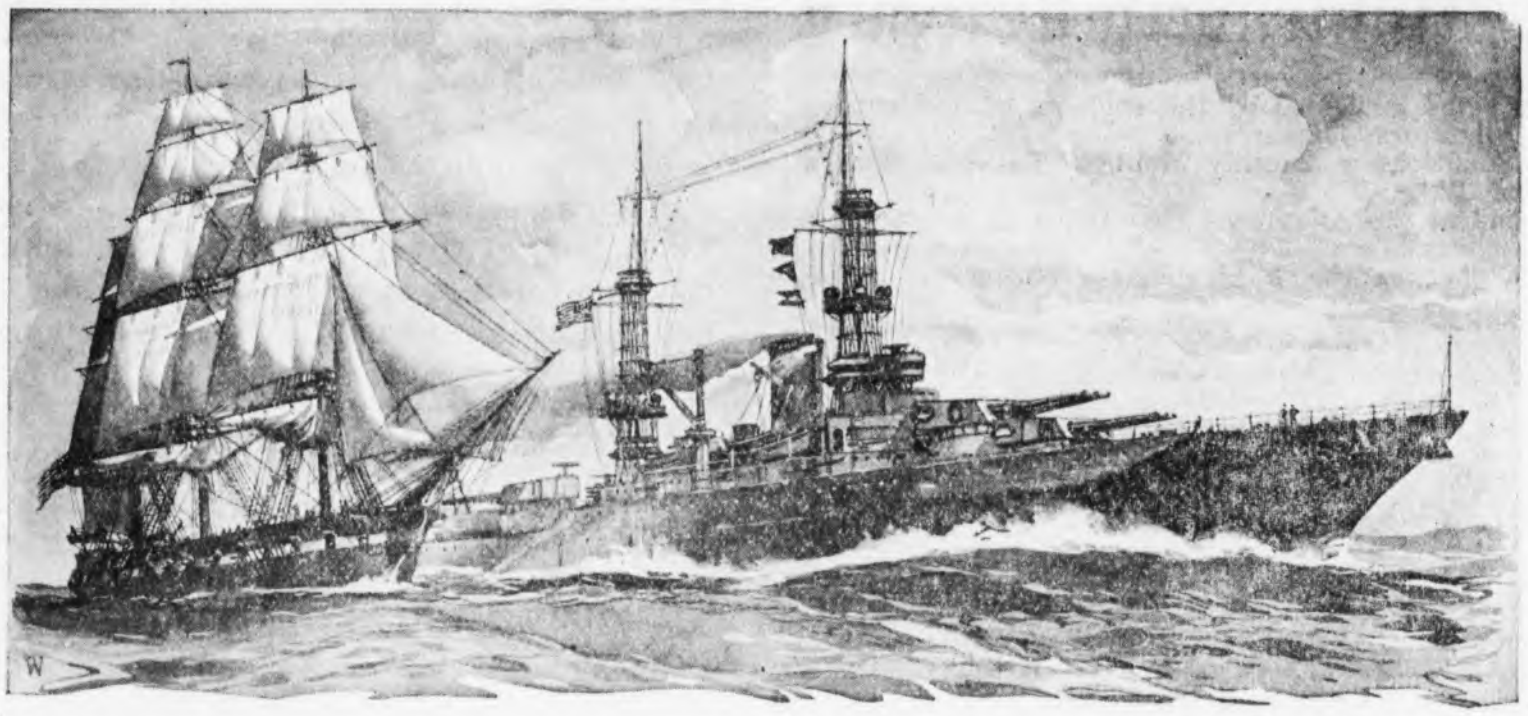
In our first real meet of the season, at Delaware College, Saturday, November first, our cross-country team performed so creditably that altho the victory lies with Delaware, our results surprised even our most optimistic rooters. With six runners against eight for Delaware, of which one never finished, Bittner succeeded in gaining a good second place and Zartman satisfactorily filled the fifth position. Contrary to usual scoring, only the first five men made points of which we gained second and fifth places. Without a coach, merely theoretically supported by student body, such a performance is liable to be soon forgotten unless special mention of it is made to arouse more interest. The reception and treatment of our men at Delaware College was favorably commented upon and greatly appreciated. The list of entries follows,—

Delaware:

Wilson, (Capt.) finished first (1).
Christfield finished fourth (4).
Smith finished twelfth (12).
Hoey finished third (3).
Brown finished thirteenth (13).
Cooch finished sixth (6).
Naples finished seventh (7).

Muhlenberg:

Shupp finished tenth (10).
Bittner finished second (2).
Spencer finished ninth (9).
Zartman finished fifth (5).
Lynch finished eleventh (11).
Bjerkoe finished eighth (8).



The "Constitution" of To-day—Electrically Propelled

THE U. S. S. "New Mexico," the first battleship of any nation to be electrically propelled, is one of the most important achievements of the scientific age. She not only develops the maximum power and, with electrical control, has greater flexibility of maneuver, which is a distinct naval advantage, but also gives greater economy. At 10 knots, her normal cruising speed, she will steam on less fuel than the best turbine-driven ship that preceded her.

The electric generating plant, totaling 28,000 horsepower, and the propulsion equipment of the great super-dreadnaught were built by the General Electric Company. Their operation has demonstrated the superiority of electric propulsion over old-time methods and a wider application of this principle in the merchant marine is fast making progress.

Figures that tell the Story of Achievement

Length—624 feet
Width—97 feet
Displacement—32,000 tons
Fuel capacity—a million gallons (fuel oil)
Power—28,000 electrical horsepower
Speed—21 knots.

Six auxiliary General Electric Turbine-Generators of 400 horsepower each, supply power for nearly 500 motors, driving pumps, fans, shop machinery, and kitchen and laundry appliances, etc.

Utilizing electricity to propel ships at sea marks the advancement of another phase of the electrical industry in which the General Electric Company is the pioneer. Of equal importance has been its part in perfecting electric transportation on land, transforming the potential energy of waterfalls for use in electric motors, developing the possibilities of electric lighting and many other similar achievements.

As a result, so general are the applications of electricity to the needs of mankind that scarcely a home or individual today need be without the benefits of General Electric products and service

An illustrated booklet describing the "New Mexico," entitled, "The Electric Ship," will be sent upon request. Address General Electric Company, Desk 44, Schenectady, New York.

Stunt Day

Last Monday we observed "Stunt Day." It was a unique ceremony for celebrating a football victory, it must be admitted, but it served its purpose. It was an opportune time to show the Freshmen their real status on the campus. They were made to realize that regulations were something more than mere enigmas and that overstepping the rules would meet with speedy judgment. That the yearling class should be made the subject of amusement for a football celebration was an accident of circumstance. The faculty committee would not have sanctioned a half-holiday under any other conditions and rightly so. Without any definite program for the afternoon the students could not have been kept together in a body and would have gained nothing by it. The urgent need for an application of justice and discipline for the sinners had been felt for quite some time. An afternoon for the benefit of the Freshman class, therefore, was the course decided upon between classes and a holiday. The real celebration for the victory over Catholic University was staged in the evening when the 1923 class had a chance to enjoy and celebrate as much as the upper classes.

Short as the time was to prepare it, "Stunt Day" was a success. Greater, however, than its material importance as a success were its results directly affecting the student community. It gave the upper classes their first opportunity to prove their authority in student life this year. The able and consistent manner in which the committee in charge handled the situation and conducted the program speaks well for the new regime. It clearly demonstrated their ability to enforce the regulations. Supplementary to staging the stunts, the committee has also shown its activity by supplying the Freshmen with dinks after the college store had been unable to obtain them.

Keep it up, Seniors and Juniors! It is up to you as upper classmen to restore that missing element in our college life. Let us have some more "Stunt Days."

Now for Albright

Albright will play us on Muhlenberg Field on Saturday. What are we going to do? This will be the last easy game for the season. Are we going to sit idly by or will we get up some pep and put some fight into the team? The Myerstown lads may look easy but do not be too confident. The Villa Nova defeat ought to have been bitter enough to make us feel our way cautiously. Remember the Lehigh game is only two weeks ahead of us. Every bit of pep and enthusiasm we raise now wlll ultimately count in our battle with the South Bethlehem team. Come on, fellows! Start something. Come on out on the sidelines and cheer the fellows in practice. Show the team that their efforts are appreciated. The team fights for Muhlenberg. Will YOU get some pep for Muhlenberg?

At the I. N. A. Conference held at Lafayette a few weeks ago, the members of the I. N. A. after a conference with a representative from the War Risk Insurance Department undertook to answer all questions from students relative to government insurance. The insurance question is a very vital one at the present time and every former service man in college ought to give it a most careful consideration. The government intends to make no money on the proposition and the men who risked their all in the War will be the ones to benefit. Of course many details are yet to be worked out because the government insurance is still very new. Consult the Weekly staff if you have any queries about insurance. It will try to answer them thru the Bureau at Washington.

Stunt Day Revived

On last Monday, the faculty granted the students a half-holiday to celebrate the victory over Catholic University. This was granted, not so much because of the decisiveness of the victory but in an effort to instil more 'pep' in the students, especially the underclassmen. In the afternoon a regular old fashioned 'stunt day' was held with the Frosh as performers and the rest of the student body as the audience. The Senior-Junior committee on Freshman Regulations was in charge of the affair which was immensely enjoyed by all, not excepting the star performers who took it in the right manner, realizing that sometime they too would have the chance to witness instead of performing. Then at 6:00 p. m. the student body gathered in the arcade and paraded to the Orpheum where Muhlenberg monopolized the first show. Altogether it was a great day, enjoyed by every one and more so, because it seems to have served its purpose in instilling spirit into the students.

Alpha Tau Omega Holds Masquerade

On Thursday evening, the twenty-ninth, the members of the two upperclasses of Alpha Tau Omega held a masquerade at the chapter house on South Fourteenth Street. The decorations were in keeping with the season and the first floor was cleared for dancing which took up the greater portion of the evening's entertainment.

A log fire had been prepared by the underclassmen and around this stories were told, and retold, while the eats including candy and fruit, to say nothing of the cider, were passed around in abundance. The desire for dancing having returned after the stories became too antiquated, the jolly couples again kept time, on the clear floors, with the victrola, stringed instruments and piano.

The party was chaperoned by Professor and Mrs. A. C. H. Fasig and Professor and Mrs. I. M. Shalter of the Allentown Preparatory School.

Delts Hold Hallowe'en Social

After gathering in their fraternity house on 731 Turner street, Thursday Night. October 30th, the Delta Theta Fraternity of Muhlenberg College proceeded to the spacious quarters at the Schantz City View Orchard Farm about three miles out of town on a large truck accomodating about forty people. There was no doubt as to the purpose of the affair. The barn was artistically decorated with pennants and bunting strung up along the walls and ceiling. The arrangement of the corn shocks along the sides so as to form cozy corners, together with an occasional jack o'lantern and distorted pumpkin, lent a wierd aspect to the scene.

The entertainment committee had arranged an appropriate course of events including dancing and games. The activities were carried out with traditional success. Nothing relative to the recreation of the guests was spared. There was an abundance of apples, peanuts, chestnuts, and last but not least, the old-fashioned pumpkin pies and cider.

The whole active chapter besides a large number of the Alumni together with their friends were present.

The Virginia reel marked the climax of the evening.

K. S. N. S. Club Organizes

Another live organization has been started at Muhlenberg. During the past week the K. S. N. S. club met and organized. This club, formerly for the most part a "picture club," is now an active working body. The first business to be disposed of was the organization. The following officers were elected: President, Paul A. Knedler, '20; vice-president, Luther Klick, '20; secretary, James Morgan, '21; treasurer, Mark K. Trexler, '21; press agent, Paul J. Lynch, '21.

The object of the club was then talked about. This club stands not only for a good time socially but also to promote the mutual welfare of K. S. N. S. and Muhlenberg. The secretary was instructed to send to the Normal School the names of all the K. S. N. S. men who are now attending Muhlenberg College. The club then decided to send the Muhlenberg Weekly to the Normal School so that the students there may know what is going on at Muhlenberg and what is being accomplished here. A committee was then appointed to look up all the K. S. N. S. men who have graduated from Muhlenberg. A committee was also appointed to draw up a constitution and by-laws for the club.

The "get together" spirit was not forgotten as that is what makes club life. A committee on social functions was appointed and plans are already being formulated for the passing of many hours in social enjoyment.

Up to this time there are fourteen members in this club. "May their tribe increase."

Lehigh—The R. O. T. C. at Lehigh is making wonderful progress. The Unit has an enrollment of over 289 men. This is about 30 per cent of the number of men in the institution and is practically the largest enrollment in proportion to enrollments of R. O. T. C. units in any college or university in the country where the R. O. T. C. is purely voluntary. The Lehigh enrollment includes seven seniors and twenty-five juniors.

Lafayette—This college announces the addition of sixteen new men on the college faculty this year. Part of this addition is to fill the positions left vacant by professors who have gone elsewhere and part have been added to the faculty force to accomodate a larger student body.

Campus Jottings

Rabbi Theodor F. Joseph, prominent lecturer and recent field Speaker for the Jewish Relief Committee of New York, at present in charge of a congregation at Danville, Pa., gave a short chapel talk on Wednesday, October 29th, on conditions existing in the war-striken parts of Europe.

A number of the fellows who did not have the wherewithal to accompany the team to Villa Nova on Saturday saw Pitt smear Lehigh.

H. Paul Detweiler, ex-'20, now working at the Bethlehem Steel Works, was a visitor on the campus on Saturday.

Waldemar Gallenkamp, '17, who was recently discharged as a 1st Lieutenant in the Infantry at Columbus Barracks, spent a few days here while enroute for his home in New York City where he expects to engage in business.

Albright Proves Easy Victim

Muhlenberg hung up its third victory on the home gridiron Saturday afternoon, completely swamping Albright by an overwhelming score of 67—0.

Coach Ritter's reorganization of the back-field brought to the front a new full-back, Marshall, who proved a sensation by his line plunging. Marshall made the spectacular play of the game when he plunged through Albright for a 40 yard run, warding off half the opponent's team, and scoring a touchdown.

Although the game was one-sided the many perfect forward passes and the excellent punting for Muhlenberg made it interesting to th large crowd of spectators who witnessed the walkover.

Haps Benfer's line was miserably weak and the tackling on par with High School tactics. Muhlenberg broke through the line, skirted the ends, and used the aerial route at will. Albright scored but two first downs against Muhlenberg's nineteen and those were made on our penalties.

Muhlenberg was penalized 50 yards for holding and off side while Albright through Benfer's coaching from the sidelines despite the warning of Referee Etterall, of Swarthmore, was penalized 20 yards to our goal line.

Kline kicked off to Greene who returned the ball to the 25 yard line. Marshall clipped off 15 yards around left end. Anderson carried the ball through left tackle for five yards and Feldman uncovered a forward pass to Wills gaining nine yards. Anderson again plunged for five yards, Feldman for three, Nolde missed a forward from Feldman. Smythe hit off left end for three yards. Feldman went through the line for six yards, Marshall for three more. Feldman again carried it four yards. Marshall and Ferdman failed to make gains. Marshall offsetting three men, gained five yards. Anderson advanced three yards.

Albright received the ball on downs on the one yard line and Wagner immediately punted to Feldman on the visitor's thirty-five yard line. The ball rolled out of bounds. Feldman went through the line for three yards, commencing a steady push toward the goal line once more. Marshall gained eight yards but Muhlenberg was penalized five yards for offside. Muhlenberg was again penalized fifteen yards for holding on the next play. Crowley, while in the act of snatching a pretty forward had a head-on collision with Olewine who received a badly split upper lip. His injury was dressed at the Allentown Hospital where he was immediately taken. He was unable to reenter the game. Chadwick was thrown on his own fifteen yard line after receiving the punt from Parks.

On the play following Chadwick was thrown for a five yard loss. Kline punted to Smythe on the visitor's twenty-five ward line, who ran the ball to the fifteen yard line before being tackled. Marshall carried the ball five yards on the next two plays. Smythe making a clean cut around right end for nine yards, scored our first touchdown. Parks made a superb goal kick.

Our first touchdown proved but an opener for after that Albright seemed in the last ditch and unable to stem the onrush of the Cardinal and Gray warriors.

Marshall repeatedly broke through the weakened Albright line for great gains as did Feldman and Anderson. Marshall was unable to hold the ball, fumbling several times, but his ability to plunge through the line at will offset this defect.

The second touchdown followed close on the heels of the first. Feldman heaved a ten yard pass to Smythe, who carried it twenty-five yards more for a touchdown. Parks kicked the second goal.

Anderson carried the third shortly after, starting the second quarter, when Muhlenberg by straight football carried it from the twenty-nine yard line to the one yard line. Parks again kicked the goal. Many substitutions were then made and at the end of the first half the score was 39—0.

Muhlenberg walked away with the ball in the second half, members of the third team even making gains of eight and ten yards through Albright's weakening line.

The only interesting happening of the last quarter was the penalizinz of Albright's fifteen yards, because of the tactics of Coach Benfer, who was continually butting in from the side lines. Because of his persistence, Referee Eberle placed the ball on Muhlenberg's goal line.

Basketball Practice to Commence Next Week

The call for candidates for the basketball team will be issued at the beginning of next week when all the men who are not in the football squad will commence practice under the direction of Prof. Afflerbach who will assist Coach Ritter with the squad this year. Manager Schleicher has arranged a fine schedule of sixteen games. The season will open with three games almost in a row before Christmas vacation; the team meeting Lafayette, Temple and University of Pennsylvania on the 10th, 12th, and 13th of December respectively.

The men in school give excellent promise of a winning team. Although the Glee Club will have three of last year's stars, there still remain four letter men from last season's team in Feldman, Erb, Butz, and Manager Schleicher, the latter having won his letter twice in the cage sport.

Among the new men with reputations as High and Prep. School players are Lewis, Smythe and Taggart of Norristown High who are also varsity football men: Rhode who was Captain and forward on the Keystone State Normal School five, last season the winners of the State Normal school championship; Clauser, Captain of last year's Catasauqua High team and Crowley of Steelton High. With this wealth of material Coach Ritter should be able to produce one of the best cage teams that ever represented Muhlenberg.

At Last

Freshman caps have at last made their appearance on the campus after a time during which it was almost impossible to obtain them from any hat concern in the city. No sooner had they been on the campus than those first year men who were without caps began to invest in the black headgear with the green button, and straightway they became famous on Hamilton Street as some youngsters out for a good time.

An opportunity was given the new men who have entered Muhlenberg for the first time to state their claims for exemption from the freshman rules in case they have any, and a committee from the student council has been interviewing the men during the past week. A list will be posted of those men who have undergone freshmen rules and who are entitled to appear at anytime without the black cap. Frosh! You had your chance, so OBEY YOUR RULES!

Glee Club Busied With Rehearsals

The Glee Club has been holding rehearsals several times each week, and before Thanksgiving vacation begins there will be work done each day on some phase of tthe Club's program. Prof. Harold K. Marks, the director, and Zwoyer, '21, the leader, have selected the music which is up to the standard that the Muhlenberg College Glee Club always presents.

The result of the contest held to choose a suitable skit will be announced in the next issue of the WEEKLY. All manuscripts are now in the hands of the judges. Manager Bollman is preparing a schedule of concerts that will come up to all of these of previous years of the club, and this new itinerary will be announced at an early date.

Alumni Notes

Many Muhlenberg alumni were interested in the recent local elections. Hon. Milton C. Henninger, 74, was elected additional judge of the court of common pleas of Lehigh County. Malcomn W. Gross, '94, was elected mayor of Allentown. Dr. Fred R. Bausch, '00, was reelected as coroner of Lehigh County.

Richard W. Iobst, once a student at Muhlenberg, won out for district attorney over John E. Hartzell, '11.

'15 Walter L. Reisner, Professor in the Industrial Department of the State Normal School at Oswego, N. Y., has contributed an article to the September issue of the Industrial-Arts Magazine. The article which bears the heading "Trade Analysis in the Pattern Shop" illustrates the nature of methods as applied in shop practice at the Normal School in the Industrial Teacher-Training Department, whose function it is to prepare teachers for general industrial schools.

Reinstate Your Insurance

A series of decisions issued by the Director of the Bureau of War Risk Insurance with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury provides more liberal conditions for reinstatement of lapsed or cancelled insurance.

The provisions of Treasury Decision No. 47, allowing eighteen months from the date of discharge for reinstatement upon payment of only two months' premiums on the amount of insurance to be reinstated, are retained. That decision is liberalized, however, by a new provision that men out of the service are permitted to reinstate by merely paying the two months' premiums without making a statement as to health at any time within three calandar months following the month of discharge.

After the three months following the date of discharge have lapsed, a statement from the applicant to the effect that he is in as good health as at the date of discharge or at the expiration of the grace period, whichever is the later date, will be required together with a written application for reinstatement and the tender of two months premiums on the amount of insurance he wishes to reinstate.

In order to give all former service men whose insurance has lapsed or been cancelled, a fair chance to reinstate their insurance, including men who have been out of the service eighteen months or more, and who are therefore barred from reinstatement under the formr ruling, a special blanket ruling is made which allows all ex-service men to reinstate their insurance before December 31, 1919, provided that each applicant is in as good health as at date of discharge or at expiration of the grace period, whichever is the later date, and so states in his application.

Of course it is necessary that he tender the two months' premiums on the amount of insurance he wishes to reinstate.

Service men who reinstated their insurance by payment of all back premiums prior to July 25, 1919, when the decision requiring payment of only two months' premiums went into effect, upon written application to the Bureau may have any premiums paid in excess of two applied toward the payment of future premiums. For example, if after a policy had lapsed for six months, a man reinstated and paid six months' premiums instead of two, he may secure credit for four months' premiums.

The provisions for reinstatement do not protect a man until he actually reinstates. If he waits he may not be in as good health as he was at the time of discharge and consequently may not be able to secure reinstatement.

Don't put off reinstatement. Do it now!

Red Cross Roll Call Sounded

Detectives last week scoured the college in search of hearts and dollars. The hearts were plentiful, the dollars only slightly less so. The hearts were allowed to remain undisturbed, but the dollars were taken in exchange for certificates of membership in the National Red Cross Society. Professor Horn sounded the Third Roll Call at Muhlenberg, assisted by the detectives referred to:
Senior, H. S. Oberly;
Junior, M. K. Trexler;
Sophomores, Stine and Sowers;
Freshmen, Fritz, Mann, and Cassone.

Get Lehigh

Three years ago, on a bleak day in November, a great Cardinal and Gray team trotted onto the Lehigh Stadium, followed by a great Lehigh. For three quarters of the game, on a field made more and more slippery by a steady downpour, that team turned back the best the Brown and White could offer. In the last quarter, by two breaks of the game, that team was forced to bow to a meager 9-0 defeat. But how was that result taken? Every Muhlenberg man, who was at that game, and by the way, every Muhlenberg man was there, had yelled and yelled all through the game until he became hoarse. Even the first score of Lehigh did not decrease the volume of sound which virtually filled that stadium. And when the game was over, those tried and trusty sons of old Muhlenberg stood erect, bared their heads, and, in the driving rain, lifted their voices to the strains of their Alma Mater. What more grander sight could man desire, than that loyal band of men, glorious even in defeat, singing their Alma Mater in that stadium, and showing Lehigh that they were proud of their team? What was it, you ask, that caused those loyal followers of old Muhlenberg to do that deed? It was the never—say—die spirit, the spirit of the man who is never licked until the last whistle blows. And that, men of Muhlenberg, is the spirit Muhlenberg must carry to Lehigh on this coming Saturday.

Fellows, the men who will trot on that field Saturday are your representatives. Everyone of you would want to be there if you could. The spirit you show during this week of gruelling practice and the spirit you put into the game Saturday is going to be the spirit of the team on the field. The question of whether the Brown and White will leave Taylor Field next Saturday a victorious or a vanquished eleven is entirely up to you. You must show the team that you're behind them—not only at the kick off but all through that game.

During the coming week you will be offered the opportunity of cheering that team at the smoker. Enthusiasm is the big thing—it adds intensity to the fight. The noise you make that night is going to do a lot of good but you must increase it a thousandfold if you intend to make any impression at all at Lehigh. Be at the smoker and be at the game Saturday if it takes your last cent. There will be no valid excuse for absence and the man who is not there is no true Muhlenberg man. Don't be one of those who get without giving. Let this spirit, this pep, pervade the coming week. Make the men on the team feel that they have some one behind them. Every man who considers himself a true, loyal Muhlenberg man should think of nothing, talk of nothing, dream of nothing this week except "Get Lehigh."

So, fellows, let's go over to Lehigh on Saturday full of confidence. Lehigh has been beaten before, there is no earthly reason why it can't be done again. Let's get out and cheer for that team. If we win, fellows, cheer that Cardinal and Gray team long and cheer them heartily. If we lose, cheer them longer and more heartily, but don't for a moment think about defeat before that last whistle blows—think of GETTING LEHIGH!

—R. R. G.

Annual Phi Tau Hallowe'en Social Held

On monday evening, November 3rd, the Eta Chapter of the Phi Kappa Tau Fraternity held its annual Hallowe'en social in Sefing's barn at the corner of St. George and Turner Streets. The entertainment committee had left nothing to be desired. The barn was artistically decorated with pennants and the Fraternity colors were very much in evidence. The early part of the evening was devoted to the playing of a number of appropriate games, during the course of which refreshments suitable to the occasion were served. After the games, the remainder of the evening was devoted to dancing, the music being furnished by the Phi Tau Orchestra.

In addition to the entire active chapter there were several alumni present with their friends. The party was chaperoned by Dr. and Mrs. I. M. Wright and Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Nenow.

Shupp is reputed to be the brightest chap on the campus. Entering in September as a freshman, by November 6th a junior and expecting to graduate with the seniors are some of his intellectual feats.

With all these collections being lifted around the campus, it has been suggested that a box be placed in the arcade to collect funds to purchase a pair of trousers for Armbuster, and a haircut for Ettinger.

Muhlenberg Talent in "Cinderella"

Muhlenberg was represented in the play "Cinderella," which was produced at the Lyric on Friday and Saturday of last week for the benefit of the Associated Charities of Allentown. Those who were in some chorus "work" were Hill, Oberly, Barthold, Koch, Shankweiler, Talmage, Orr, and Mosser.

Muhlenberg Scores on Lehigh

Muhlenberg bowed to the Brown and White Saturday afternoon in Taylor stadium after contesting every one of Lehigh's 33 points and securing the first touchdown in the history of football relations with Lehigh. Lehigh defeated Muhlenberg 33-7 but in no sense of the word did the Brown and White team play "circles around" our gridiron warriors.

Our team journeyed to Bethlehem filled with fight and determination to hold Lehigh at any cost. From the first sound of the whistle every man fought hard but when the first penalty came there was a slight drop in the fighting morale of our eleven. In rapid succession Keady's men ran up three touchdowns. As the game continued our team seemed to gain strength and in each of the last two quarters, Lehigh was only able to score one touchdown despite the fact that she had four almost sure chances of scoring.

Coach Ritter's defense was, in many respects, the finest solution of Lehigh's line of any team on Taylor Field this season, not excepting the Pitt game. Great credit must be attributed to our coach for Muhlenberg's line of defense and for the wonderful physical condition of our eleven.

Punting was resorted to often by both teams. Herrington gained, in these exchanges, on Parks and Lewis, one of his punts rolling to the goal line and affording Lehigh an opportunity to make a touchdown. The longest run of the game was pulled off by Rote of Lehigh, who dashed ninety yards for a score.

Wills, Muhlenberg's big center, played a wonderful defensive game being in every play and doing a great part of the tackling. Pons was easily pushed aside by him and whenever it was necessary to stop a break through the line the husky Brooklynite was there on the spot. And although three and four Brown and White players were thrown against him, Wills was able to effectually take care of them.

Smythe, who scored the touchdown that brought joy to every Muhlenberg rooter and injected wonderful strength in the fighting morale of the Cardinal and Gray eleven, proved a sensation by his exhibition of tackling, conceded to be the greatest of the season. His tackles were swift, clean, and made with deadly accuracy. Referee Ed. Thorpe, of La Salle, said after the game, that he never saw such clean, hard tackling anywhere in football before. Time after time the little quarterback would catch his man four and five yards behind the line of scrimmage and halt the advance.

Parks at left tackle also made many fine tackles. Lewis playing in the backfield made an excellent showing and Crowley, besides playing a good defensive game made possible our touchdown by a splendid sixty yard run being downed by Carlson on the ten yard line.

It was Lehigh's fast start in the first period that gave her a big advantage over Muhlenberg. Wysocki made four attempts before he was able to cross the goal line although within a yard of it. It was a thrilling moment for the spectators when on the fourth attempt Wysocki, with both teams piled high, wavered above the mass of players and by tremendous effort wormed himself through for the hotly contested three feet, and then accomplished the feat only by a margin of inches. The first score came after eight minutes of the hardest kind of play. Herrington kicked the goal.

The second touchdown followed close on the heels of the first. Following the kick-off, Muhlenberg was compelled to punt and Herrington received on Muhlenberg's 48 yard line. Wysocki made successive gains of 30 and 40 yards respectively. Herrington carried the ball through for 14 yards and a touchdown. Herrington kicked the goal.

The third touchdown followed Rote's eighty yard run through our team. Rote, having been substituted for Herrington, got past Muhlenberg's line and cleared the backfield. Feldman was between him and the goal. As Feldman dove for Rote he slipped on the muddy field and Rote was able to sidestep him and run down the field. Anderson, hot on his trail, made a flying tackle from behind and downed Rote as he stepped across the line. Anderson was knocked out by this play. Booth missed the goal and this ended the scoring for the quarter.

Shortly after the opening of the second quarter came the incident that turned Muhlenberg's defeat into a glorious one and it came as a great surprise to Lehigh after a sixty yard run and a ten yard end run for a touchdown. So unexpected did it occur that it was like a bolt from a clear sky.

Booth had kicked off to Parks on Muhlenberg's 25-yard line. Cherry gained a yard twice in succession. Feldman gained two more but on the play Lehigh was penalized 5 yards for off-side. Cherry ripped thru for one yard. Marshall for one yard. Lewis dropped a pretty pass from Feldman. Parks punted to Rote on Lehigh's 40-yard line. Douglas gained 1 yard. Saxman dropped a forward. Rote was thrown heavily by Taggert after a four-yard gain. Rote punted to Muhlenberg's 18-yard line. Feldman lost 4 yards. Cherry lost three. Parks kicked to Rote on Muhlenberg's 40-yard line. Simendinger was thrown by Parks without a gain. Simendinger gained 9, Rote 2. He fumbled the ball which resulted from a bad pass Pons made over Carlson's head which was recovered by Crowley who raced to the ten yard line where he was downed by Carlson. Then instead of bucking the line, Smythe went around the end made vacant by Mike Wilson, who was injured, and scored Muhlenberg's coveted touchdown. Every loyal Muhlenberg man was on his feet and such a deafening roar of frenzied cheering seldom heard at a football game followed long after the goal was kicked by Parks.

That score stiffened our line and never did our eleven fight with so much grit as they exhibited the remainder of the game. They seemed to be imbued with almost super-human effort. Lehigh scored one other touchdown that period when Simendinger sent a successful forward to Saxman. Spagna failed to kick the goal. Score, first half, Lehigh 26, Muhlenberg, 7.

The second half showed "Bill" Ritter's fine defense at its best. Parks kicked off to Herrington on Lehigh's 43-yard line. Carlson gained 3 yards. Wysocki failed to gain. Herrington punted to Feldman to the one yard line. Lehigh was penalized 15 yards for off-side on the play following. Cherry lost 1. Parks kicked to Herrington on Muhlenberg's 42-yard line. Herrington ran the ball back to the 37-yard line. Herrington gained 3. Henzleman 2. Herrington 15. Wysocki 6. Herrington 4. Wysocki 1. Then Herrington carried the ball across for Lehigh's last touchdown of the game. He kicked the goal. Score 33-7.

Parks kicked off to Johnson on Lehigh's 44-yard line. Four time Lehigh was within an ace of the goal line and four time Lehigh was held for downs. The Cardinal and Grey defense was formidable altho Lehigh bent all their efforts to increase the score. Never before did Muhlenberg's eleven battle so heroically, and with so much success. The crowd was at fever heat until the whistle ended the contest. Never was there such a fitting climax to a glorious defeat, as when, with bared heads, the loyal men of Muhlenberg, inspired by the wonderful exhibition of grit on the part of their team, made Taylor stadium echo with the strains of their Alma Mater.

All thru the game the cheering of our men was the admiration and bewilderment of our opponents who thot it inconceivable that in the face of defeat we could cheer for our team with so much spirit. It was a defeat to be proud of.

Thanksgiving Dinner

After the Ursinus game on Thanksgiving Day, the customary Thanksgiving Dinner will be served in the college commons.

Smoker Held on Eve of Battle

What was considered by many to be the best football smoker Muhlenberg has ever had, was held last Friday evening in the Commons. With an attendance record of very close to 100 per cent., the fellows steeped themselves in the football lore of years gone by and prophecies of years to come.

The cause of all the excitement was the Lehigh game to be played on the morrow. As the fellows sat, wrapt in the encircling smoke of over 150 pipes, they saw, conjured up in the haze, a victory over Lehigh, coming without fail in the near future. To some, the vision seemed near at hand, in fact, as near as the next day, while to others, the day was somewhat distant, but fast approaching.

The smoker, which was presided over by President Erb, of the Student Body, got under way about eight o'clock. After a few introductory remarks, Erb called for a few cheers for the team. T. K. Miller, who has rightly been called the best cheer leader Muhlenberg ever had got busy immediately and soon had the fellows' throats in condition.

President Erb then introduced the first speaker of the evening, Prof. Bailey. In the course of his remarks, Prof. Bailey said that he would rather see Muhlenberg beat Lehigh than any other team. He said that Lehigh was stronger on paper, but that paper dope was no longer a guarantee of a team's real strength. Prof. Bailey emphasized the fact that there were two great factors in winning a game: 1, Proper coaching, and, 2, The spirit of the team. By the former, he meant not only the work of the coach in practice, but also the enthusiasm and backing displayed by the rooters.

Between cheers and speakers, the string sextette furnished some snappy music, in line with the "pep" shown during the evening.

Dr. Wright, in his talk on the prospects of the game, made plain the fact that brawn alone could not win, but that a team with brains, although outweighed by the opponents, stood as good a chance to win. He made a plea for more spirit among the students, especially along the side-lines at practice.

The next speaker was a man who has done more things for the football team and the Athletic Association than many another friend of the college. "Shorty" Edwards, in his comic way, injected a lot of enthusiasm into the fellows, and predicted a victory.

Prof. Fritsch was also present, and, in a humorous vein, extended his best wishes to the team for the game.

The main speaker of the evening was Lawrence H. Rupp, '02, who spoke on the team. He said that it was the best team Muhlenberg has ever had and that Coach Ritter was a second "Tom" Kelly. He emphasized the need of spirit and the close work of the team. Mr. Rupp paid high tribute to the team and said that Muhlenberg's football reputation was growing each year. He laid stress on the fact that Coach Ritter is the first coach of a Muhlenberg team to be an alumnus of the college and a native Allentonian. It is no longer necessary to go out of town to another institution to get a coach.

When Coach Ritter was called on, he got the biggest ovation of the evening. He made a plea for spirit in the fellows to back up the team at all times, and under all circumstances.

Captain Anderson was the last speaker of the evening. He said that the team was going out with a determination to do their best and asked for the support of the student body.

After a few more cheers, the meeting broke up in order that the team might get a good night's sleep and rest for the game.

Wohlsen '21, Winner of Prize

Paul T. Wohlsen of the junior class has been announced the winner of the prize of ten dollars offered by the executive committee of the Glee Club for the best skit to be presented which shall be used by the Club in its program for the coming season.

The announcement was made on Thursday by the judges of the contest, Profs. Simpson and Brown of the English Department, and Mark B. Bollman '20, the student manager of the Club for the 1919-1920 season. "O! Gosh!", the title of the one act comedy-skit may be used best in describing the humor and action which is brought out by the author, as he has developed his characters from students about the college, and the action of the play is based on what is known to have actually happened in the "good old days"—an incident of two old roomies having several articles in common, even going so far as to rushing the same 'widow' who even today appears in the well known lavender.

From the viewpoint of the club members who will try out for the various parts in the cast, it is perhaps the best line of entertainment that has yet appeared, as Mr. Wohlsen had heard of the disadvantages of "prop" carrying on the concert tours and from that information he brings out his brilliant ideas in a manner that will make the traveling nearly 'par excellence' on the club this season.

Daily rehearsals are being held for the musical numbers of the club, and everything promises to make this year's presentation the best ever.

Reflections from Saturday

After the smoke and din of the battle has cleared away the time is opportune for calm reflections on Saturday's game. Laying aside the rejoicing and ecstasy arising out of the splendid showing made by our team, we can truly consider the outcome a point of vantage over our Brown and White opponents. The argument with the Allentown team as the editorial in last week's issue of the Brown and White so causually termed the oncoming fray proved to be a lively tussle and an argument not so easily refuted. At least it required every one of Lehigh's regulars to settle it to her satisfaction. Judging from the referee's remarks after the contest it must have been an unusually tough practice game for Lehigh.

The fact that the Cardinal and Gray was the only team able to score on Taylor Field thus far with the exception of Pitt's warriors is a record we can well be proud of. It proved that the spirit which pervaded the entire team was the genuine Muhlenberg spirit———the spirit that fights and fights and knows no defeat. The stubbornness and fierceness which our eleven displayed in the struggle is a worthy example for future Cardinal and Gray teams to follow. Through a grim determination to score we were able to cross Lehigh's goal line for the first time in the history of Muhlenberg football. We went to South Bethlehem with a resolve to hold Lehigh and hold her we did despite the thirty-three points counted up against us on paper. The ice is broken. Experience has shown us that we can score on her and hold her. Let us resolve now to show the same fight next year and actually trounce her.

Now that the Lehigh game is over, let us not allow our spirit to lag. Let us remember that we have another game to contend with and one for which the team needs just as much support and even more than that given on Saturday. We must get Ursinus on Thanksgiving Day. Our men fight excellently but let us not become over-confident. We all know that football is a great game of surprises. Ursinus has a strong team this year and will put up a stiff fight. Now more than ever is the time to show that you are backing the team. And, above all, remember WE MUST BEAT URSINUS!

S. O. S.

The Weekly always welcomes any criticisms of its columns. In order to please the majority of its readers, a newspaper must have the interest of that majority. It must meet with their approval. Criticisms are the only means of enabling the editor to obtain the reader's viewpoint. Especially does the staff appreciate any criticisms from alumni. There is a great gap between the alumnus and the undergraduate and only through suggestions from alumni can common interests be reached. The staff is in receipt of several interesting letters from active alumni by way of criticisms. We wish we received more of the kind. We shall be only too glad to publish any communications or open letters from alumni.

In order to be representative the Weekly must also have the support of the student body. It is a colossal task for a few men to inject every quality that makes for perfection into the paper without any outside contributions. How an occasional poem from some amateur on the campus would brighten our columns! Humor and wit abounds quite abundantly on the campus but why not direct some to the columns of the Weekly instead of expecting the editor to write all the humor himself?

Bible Study Groups Organized

The study groups, conducted by the Y. M. C. A., have been started for the coming year. These groups meet every Thursday evening after supper for thirty minutes. Thus far nine groups have been organized in the various halls under able leaders.

Questions and problems of general interest are also considered.

There is something to be gained from these meetings which should make each man feel that it is imperative for him to attend. "Show your spirit" has been the slogan in football. Now, let us show our spirit to this and make a hundred per cent organization. A college should develop every phase of a man's nature. Make use of this opportunity to develop in you the ability to express yourself and to take part in profitable discussions.

On Tuesday morning, two Muhlenberg men, J. Prince Beasom and Mark K. Trexler left for Detroit, Mich. to attend the Triennial International Y. M. C. A. Convention. The Convention will be in session for five days and will bring together delegates from all parts of the world representing student, city, and other types of associations. Plans will be made here by our delegates for our coming "Y" Conference in May.

Daniel Kistler, Robert Oberly and Luther Gerhart have been appointed as delegates to the Des Moines Student Volunteer Conference.

Students desiring to attend the Sectional S. V. Conference at Juniata College, in February, are requested to hand their names to any member of the cabinet.

R. O. T. C. Unit Inspected

Last Friday, Arthur Thayer, Col. of Cavalry, the head of the R. O. T. C. work for this district, with headquarters at Philadelphia came to inspect the Muhlenberg Unit. The inspection was not the usual Army inspection, but consisted merely in the attendence of Col. Thayer at the two recitations for second and first year men, respectively.

The Colonel addressed a few words to the cadets, explaining the advantages of the R. O. T. C. work to their country and to themselves.

He said: "When I was in the Acadamy there was no prospect of

Intercollegiate Items

Pennsylvania College, Gettysburg, Pa.—On last Thursday afternoon the corner-stone of the Robert Weidensall Y. M. C. A. building was dedicated with very impressive ceremonies. The Woman's League realized the goal of $50,000 for the building.

Rutgers College, New Brunswick, N. J.—Governor Runyon of New Jersey was the chief speaker at the annual dinner of the Rutgers Club last Monday evening. This club is open to all college and university men who live in New Brunswick and and who desire to become affiliated again with collegiate life.

Swarthmore College, Swarthmore, Pa.—On Armistice Day a new club, the Varsity Club, was founded at Swarthmore. All men who have won letters in major sports, i.e., football, basketball, track, baseball, and lacrosse will be eligible for membership. This also includes the managers of these sports.

Lehigh University, South Bethlehem, Pa.—Perhaps one of the strangest graduations in the history of Lehigh occurred last Thursday when first honor man, valedictorian, salutatorian, and entire class were all concentrated in Y. L. Tseng, upon whom was conferred the degree of Mining Engineer. He expects to work in France among the Chinese who were imported there as laborers during the war and later expects to return to China. He will be remembered by Muhlenberg students as one of our recent chapel speakers.

Our Coming Clash with Ursinus.

The Thanksgiving game with Ursinus will close this year's schedule, altho a post-season game may be played with Villa Nova. Our team has not dropped a game to any opponent on our home gridiron.

For the past three years Ursinus has tied Muhlenberg twice, losing last year. Since football relations have been established between the two colleges Muhlenberg has had the advantage of more games won than Ursinus. The collegiate team has had a very heavy schedule this season and has stood the shock of heavier teams very well. All efforts will be made by her to gain the advantage of Muhlenberg.

There is one condition necessary for a victory Thursday afternoon and that is, we must put a team on the field imbued with the grit and spirit that faced Lehigh's team on Taylor field and battled so nobly.

Ursinus is an opponent who will fight hard and whose strength cannot be discounted. We want a clean sheet for our victories on our home field, and we want to make it a day of real Thanksgiving for Muhlenberg, as well as a fitting close to a successful football season. So Muhlenberg men, get the spirit that was so much in evidence against Brown and White team and our clash with Ursinus must result in a victory for the Cardinal and Gray.

Muhlenberg's A. E. F. Men Organize.

A fact of no small significance, and one that is bound to bear great fruits in the years to come, is the determination on the part of all ex-service men that the associations formed while in the service of their country during the recent world war shall never be broken, but shall grow and strengthen as the years roll on. The greatest illustration of this fact is the American Legion, an organization composed of veterans of the world war who have banded together in common fellowship for the purpose of perpetuating the memories of the great conflict and, above all, to make the stand for one hundred per cent. Americanism and citizenship that will save the country from her enemies both within and without.

The men of the army are organizing not only in this broad sense, but in every possible place and manner, wherever they have common interests and tasks to accomplish. The daily papers are full of accounts of these movements all over the country. Witness the latest organization of ex-service men which has sprung up within the walls of old Muhlenberg, "The A. E. F. Club," an organization of the members of the student body who served overseas, and one which is destined to play an important part in the life of the school.

Organization was effected last Tuesday at a meeting called by Kline, '20, when officers wese elected and an active committee on constitution and by-laws was appointed. The purpose of the club will be to perpetuate the memories of the A. E. F., the service of the members of that club in that great fighting force, and to foster a spirit of co-operation in all things—a spirit which will not be confined to the club alone, but will extend to every phase of student activity.

The organization is young and has yet to prove itself. The committee has a definite plan of action in view, announcement of which will be made at the proper time. In the meantime, "The A. E. F. Club" desires to extend the assurance of its whole-souled cooperation with the student body in all things. It does not desire to be regarded as a thing apart from the rest of the men by reason of its name and the nature of the service of its members in the past crisis, a service which it was not given all men to render. The club belongs to Muhlenberg, swears by her, and will ever work for her interests. On that basis it asks the tolerance and good will of the rest of the student body.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Snyder, '20; Vice-President, Hartman, '21; Secretary, Sanders, '23; Treasurer, Klick, '20.

The following committee was also appointed: Chairman, Prof. Harry C. Cressman; Aides, Kline, '20, Corbier, '20, and Acker, '20.

—I. E. S., '23.

Student Body Dance.

The crowd who were in for a good evening's pleasure turned out at the Commons on last Friday night to help along the spirit in the Student Body, and to support the new activity which the Student Body is taking up around the campus. Most of the fellows who were present at the last dance which the Cue and Quill Club held were around again on Friday, and many new fellows came around with their support, so that the dance was a "success" in both ways.

The committee will be able to report a good amount for the Student Body treasury which comes from the dance proceeds. The members of the committee, Bollman, '20, Shankweiler, '21, and Mosser, '23, put their best efforts into the affair, and great credit is due them for the evening's entertainment. The freshmen who were at all available were summoned to clear out the tables in the commons, but when it came to closing up, it is regretted that only one freshman, and a football man at that, was present to help the seniors put the Commons in order; "frosh," get some pep, so that if you don't have the pep to go to the dance now and support the Student Body, at least get around to show your spirit in another way!

Dr. and Mrs. Wright were the chaperones again and saw to it that everything wes performed "decently and in order." The Jazzland Novelty group again satisfied the dancers with their delightful numbers and their pep meant a great deal for the added pleasure.

Basketball Practice Commences

On Monday evening Coach Ritter met the basketball candidates for the first time. The men that are practicing now are those who are not members of the football squad. This move was made so that the fellows who have not played football may be enabled to get into physical condition until the close of the football season. The practice at present is under the direction of Prof. Afflerbach who is teaching some of the newcomers the fundamentals of the game as it is played in the college cage.

The following men have expressed their intention of coming out for the team in answer to Coach Ritter's call last week: Erb, Schleicher and S. Butz of last season' team, Simmons, Gloss and Miller of last year's scrub team, Rhode, Shankweiler, Hallman, Cherry, Weaver, Strunk, Musselman, Phillips, Dillman, Clauser, Smythe, Lewis, Taggert, Parks and Sparks, all new men in Muhlenberg basketball. Several of the latter have excellent reputations as High and Prep. school players so that the outlook is very bright for a very successful season.

Judge-Elect Henninger Addresses Student Body.

The students of Muhlenberg College were given the privilege last Wednesday to hear a chapel talk by an alumnus of Muhlenberg, of the class of 1874, Hon. Milton C. Henninger, who has just been elected Associate Judge of Lehigh County.

Judge Henninger spoke on the relation of religious convictions to the various professions, dealing especially with that of the law. He said that the chief requirement for a young lawyer was a profound belief in God and the Scriptures, for, he said, the law is God and the two are inseparable. Although religion was needed in all lines of work, Judge Henninger made it plain that especially was this so in the legal profession, by means of which so many men were tried and their destinies changed.

In closing, the judge made a plea for faith and trust in God during all times of discontent and trouble, using the quotation from the Psalms: "Be still and know that I am God."

No "Frosh" Caps for Overseas Men

Even though the college authorities were unable to grant the students a half holiday to celebrate the signing of the armistice there was a general good feeling in the student body which was particularly noticed among the freshmen. The Student Council voted that it would be a good thing for the college and a means of expressing the admiration for the men who served overseas, to permit all overseas freshmen to discontinue wearing the small black cap with the green button. This new ruling affects the following men who have permission to wear a civilian hat for the rest of the year: Dillman, Fritz, Marshall, McKee, and Sanders.

So many of the "Wise" yearlings have been parading about the campus with the talk that they have been under freshman rules at other colleges and that they are getting away with everything here to the extent that the Student Council fixed a time when these "wise" men could hand in the 'credentials' which should excuse them from all rules, and from all duties of a freshman, and which could put them on a higher level in student body affairs. The proper notice was posted, and at the report to the Council, but two men were found who could be exempted, after having attended other colleges. Hereafter, Parkes and R. G. Stauffer will be under no rules as their claims have been filed and granted.

Every other first year man is under strict observation of the upper classmen, and unless the attitude of some of the men is changed entirely, the next 'stunt day' will be busier than the first was, and decidedly more interesting.

Sketch of Honored Alumnus

Hon. Milton C. Henninger, successful candidate for Associate Judge, is an alumnus of Muhlenberg College of the class of 1874. His earlier education was received in the public schools of Lehigh County and at Freeland Seminary (now Ursinus College.) In 1870 and 1874, respectively, he was graduated from the Keystone State Normal School and Muhlenberg College. After a law apprenticeship in the office of John D. Stiles, he was admitted to the Bar of Lehigh County in 1876. After a brief term of practicing law he was elected District Attorney of Lehigh County and later state senator for three successive terms. In 1912, as the Democratic candidate for Congress for the Berks—Lehigh District, he was defeated by the Hon. John H. Rothermel by a small plurality. During the last election he was successful in defeating his able opponent, the Hon. Horace W. Schantz, for Associate Judge. He is a member of the Phi Gamma Delta fraternity.

Alumni Notes

'89 Rev. Preston A. Laury, D. D., has accepted the call to St. Matthew's Memorial Church, Bethlehem, and is already actively engaged in his parish duties.

'91 "Stewardship and Tithing" is the title of a little pamphlet written by Rev. Milton J. Bieber,, D. D., who is superintendent of Missions of the English Lutheran Synod of the Northwest.

'13 The Rev. John W. Richards, formerly of this city, pastor of St. Lukes's Lutheran Church, Seventh street and Montgomery Avenue, Philadelphia, officiated at the marriage of his son, Matthias Henry Richards, to Miss Margaret Reineke, daughter of the late Henry G. The bride's uncle, Albert Reineke, gave her in marriage. Mr. Richards is descendent of Henry Melchior Muhlenberg, the patriarch of the Lutheran church in America, and Gen. Peter Muhlenberg, of Revolutionary fame. He is a graduate of Muhlenberg College and a member of the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity and of the faculty of South Philadelphia High School. He served in the meteorological division of the signal corps during the war. His grandfather, the late Rev. Dr. M. H. Richards, was long a professor at Muhlenberg, and his grandmother and several aunts are still living in this city.

'09 Rev. Dallas F. Green, Ph. D., pastor of the Trinity Lutheran Church, Bangor, formerly of this city, and Miss Annie Kunkle, of Canton, Ohio, were married.

The Senior's Moustache

No longer does the Senior of now-a-days
  Write sonnets to his lady's arched brow:
Ah, no! the times have quite reversed their ways,
  The lady writes the sonnet to him now—
    To his moustache!

Softer than thistledown, his lip it decks,
  Caressingly his fingers linger there,
Both day and night he pays it his respects,
  He would not even lose a single hair
    For any cash!

Terms of endearment issue from his lips—
  The ladies smile their pleasure, but alas!
"Pride goes before a fall" and often trips,
  The Senior's eyes have sought a looking glass
    As in a flash!

"Man's love is of man's life a thing apart,"
  A trifle light as thistledown itself,
But one can see the Senior's whole heart
  Is wrapped up in that fringe of golden wealth—
    His young moustache!

The Ursinus Game.

Before the Lehigh game a week and a half ago, many were the misgivings among the upper-classmen that the student body would not grasp the true Muhlenberg in time for that game. But their fears all went up in smoke when they heard the wonderful exhibition of cheering and never-say-die spirit that the followers of the Cardinal and Gray displayed at that game. Truly it was the best exhibition of spirit that a Muhlenberg student body has shown in the last four years.

But in the last week and a half we have suffered a relapse, so to speak. There is no eager speculation on the Thanksgiving game, no frequent discussions as to what this or that man will be able to do against Ursinus. It seems that there is a general atmosphere of over-confidence;the fellows walk around as if they were in a haze, they seem sure that Muhlenberg will repeat its feat of last year. Let's wake up, fellows! Ursinus has a strong team, she has almost all men who have played two years on her varsity teams. She has a scrappy team, one that is quick to take advantage of opportunities. It is true that one cannot go on comparison of scores in football but the fact nevertheless remains that Ursinus held Lehigh to a 13-0 score. We have a stiff game before us, fellows. Now more than ever is the time to show that you are in back of the team. And when we go on the field to-morrow, let everybody yell all he can for the team. You have three days vacation and so you needn't worry about your throats. Let's back up the team, let's revive the spirit as it was before the Lehigh game, and then and only then will we be able to repeat our victory of last year.

The College Campus.

There is a certain matter which comes up every year at Muhlenberg and which is going to come up from year to year unless the students here begin to take a little pride in their institution—and that is the matter of 'cutting' the front campus. It is an offence of which we are all more or less guilty. A verbal warning or rather appeal from the Student Council in the earlier part of the collegiate year seemed to have no effect and so the Council has been forced to place a fine upon everyone caught cutting the front campus. This is a fine state of affairs, fellows, when you don't have enough pride in the appearance of your campus to walk around by the path instead of cutting. We all want to have a beautiful campus —in fact, it has been said and truly that Muhlenberg has one of the most beautiful campuses in the state. But if the present state of affairs continues, one can easily imagine what our campus will look like next spring. Fellows, you all want to become useful and worthy citizens in your future communities. You want to be proud of your community. So you should all want to be good citizens of your college community. Therefore, the next time you are about to cut the campus, think a moment and then decide to walk around. It won't hurt you at all but it will certainly improve the appearance of the campus.

Alpha Tau Omega Fraternity Dance

On Monday evening of last week, the Alpha Iota chapter of A. T. O. held an informal dance at the Hotel Traylor. The party was for the purpose of entertaining the alumni and the men around college, and more than fifty couples were present. Mr. and Mrs. Claude G. Shankweiler, and Mr. and Mrs. Philip Sotter were the chaperones of the dance. Music by the Jazzland Novelty Orchestra.

Thanksgiving Recess.

Lancaster County to the Front.

On Tuesday evening, November 18, a Lancaster County Club was organized by the members of the student body who hail from that locality. Such a club existed at Muhlenberg College a number of years ago but had been inactive for the past several years. The following officers were elected: President, Paul T. Wohlsen; Secretary-Treasurer, Harold C. Fry; Publicity Agent, Ira S. Fritz.

The new organization will aim to "carry on" in the spirit of the new times that now exist. The root idea back of the Lancaster County Club is that of helpfulness. As one of the members stated the club will aim to "give Muhlenberg a larger place on the map in Lancaster County and to earn for Lancaster a larger place on the map at Muhlenberg." Another aspect of the purpose of the organization is to provide mutual encouragement and practical helpfulness within its own membership to the end that all the members may become more truly representative of the real spirit of our Alma Mater.

Gettysburg—The student body has abolished hazing in every form and a petition for closer relationship in every sphere of college activity has been presented to and accepted unanimously by the faculty. Sourkraut Battle in Car.

Allentown, Pa., Nov. 21.—German gas attacks had nothing on the sourkraut barrage that was exchanged on a trolley car on the local line today, when two men, each carrying a pail of well-ripened "liberty" cabbage, got into an argument which culminated in the kraut battle. The melee continued five minutes before the combatants were ejected. Passengers got the full benefit of the high explosives scattered about and the car was fumigated before being put back into service.

A petition bearing the signatures of 128 dorm students has been filed in the office of the L. V. Transit Co., requesting the reinstatement of the 12:45 car leaving Seventh for Muhlenberg. Under the new schedule the last Muhlenberg car leaves Seventh at 12:30.

Ursinus Wins Holiday Game

For the first time this season Muhlenberg bowed to an opponent on the home gridiron. That the final game of the season was a hard fought battle is proven by the score 7-6. The failure to catch a punt-out defeated Muhlenberg's chance of duplicating the two successive ties of Ursinus on previous Thanksgiving games.

Muhlenberg outplayed Ursinus in every phase of the game with the exception of forward passes. Ursinus found Muhlenberg's weakness early in the game and ran long end runs along right end. Only two plays were attempted around left end which held like a wall.

Wills at center played a wonderful game. The husky Brooklynite was in every play and despite the handicap of an injured shoulder made seven successive tackles. His playing was a feature of the game and one of the finest exhibitions of defensive work this season. Smythe put up an excellent game at quarter and Feldman was the most consistent ground gainer for Muhlenberg. Nolde and Freitag made possible the strong defense of left end. For Ursinus Isenberg and Richards were easily the stars.

Parks kicked to Helfrich who was downed by Wills. Brooks made 20 yards thru the line. Light failed to gain. Snyder stopped a line plunge. Wills threw Isenberg for no gain. Isenberg punted to Feldman, who returned 10 yards. Feldman fumbled but recovered. Lewis made 2 yards around left end. Muhlenberg penalized 5 yards, off side. Walton for Vedder. Lewis punted to Isenberg, tackled by Freitag. Richards made 12 yards around right end. Feldman intercepted a forward and ran 15 yards. Anderson made 5 yards thru center. Feldman made 2 yards off tackle. Brooks intercepted a forward, tackled by Nolde. Light made 3 yards thru tackle. Wills threw Isenberg for 1 yard loss. Wills stopped Light's center plunge. Isenberg punted out of bounds. Lewis made 3 yards thru left tackle. Feldman 4 yards around end. Anderson 2 yards thru left tackle. Lewis punted to Isenberg, who was tackled by Nolde. Wills threw Brooks for 2 yards loss. Wills stopped Isenberg's center plunge. Taggert threw Isenberg for no gain. Isenberg passed to Richards for 25 yards. Richards lost 10 yards on end run, tackled by Nolde. Isenberg hit right tackle for 6 yards. Green for Taggert. Richards grounded forward to Mosser. Isenberg attempted a field goal. Lewis made 6 yards around left end. Muhlenberg penalized 5 yards, off side. Smythe lost 10 yards on end run. Lewis made poor punt and Ursinus made 4 yards thru right tackle.

Isenberg opened second quarter by making first down. Light made 6 yards off right tackle. Brooks carried ball across line for a touchdown. Light kicked the goal. Isenberg kicked to Lewis, who returned 18 yards to 25 yard line. Feldman made 5 yards thru center followed by Lewis for 4 yards. Anderson made first down. Lewis fumbled, recovered by Wills. Feldman 3 yards thru left tackle. Anderson failed to gain.

Feldman passed to Anderson for 20 yards. Lewis made 6 yards thru tackle. Feldman failed to gain. Parks skirted right end for 15 yards. Lewis 4 yards followed by Feldman for 5 yards thru center. Anderson failed to gain on two attempts. Ursinus ball on 5-yard line. Isenberg punted out of bounds on his 30-yard line. Anderson 2 yards thru center. Feldman lost 2 yards around end. Nolde grounded a forward. Ursinus recovered ball on downs. Richards made 5 yards around end. Light failed to gain. Wills stopped a center plunge. Isenberg punted to Feldman who was downed in his tracks by Mosser. Swartz for Brooks. Anderson 3 yards thru center. Feldman passed to Smythe for 25 yards. Feldman grounded a forward. Ursinus penalized for 5 yards, off side. Feldman bucked thru center for 12 yards. Feldman grounded forward to Smythe. Feldman passed to Crowley for 9 yards. Feldman failed to gain.

Muhlenberg's touchdown came in third quarter. Lewis made 20 yards around left end after Smythe returned the kick-off 30 yards. Feldman 4 yards thru center. Lewis and Anderson thru center for 12 yards. Lewis failed to gain. Ursinus penalized 15 yards. Anderson failed to advance the ball on two attempts. Ursinus penalized 15 yards for slugging. Muhlenberg made first down. After six unsuccessful attempts Smythe took the ball over the line from the 3-yard line. The kick-out was not caught and Muhlenberg lost the try for goal from touchdown.

Parks kicked to Richards who was downed in his tracks by Wills. Light was thrown for 4-yard loss. Richards made 2 yards tackled by Wills. Isenberg made first down thru right tackle. Richards grounded two forwards. Ursinus got ball thru interference by one of our men at forward. Swartz 2 yards thru center. Ursinus fumbled and got a first down. Wills threw Light for 2-yard loss. Orr for Green. Wills threw Isenberg for no gain. Swartz thrown for no gain. Isenberg punted to Feldman, who returned 5 yards. Muhlenberg was unable to gain and Lewis punted to Richards. Snyder threw Swartz for 2 yards loss. Smythe grounded forward.

The fourth quarter was a series of forwards and punts most of which were unsuccessful, the former intercepted or grounded, the latter out of bounds. Frequently Muhlenberg had the ball on the 20-yard line but were unable to score. Final score, 7-6.

Echoes from Detroit

J. Prince Beasom and Mark K. Trexler returned from Detroit, Mich., where they were delegates to the Fortieth International Convention of the Young Men's Christian Associations of North America. The delegates went by way of Pittsburg and Toledo. Upon arrival in Detroit delegates were met by reception automobiles. Student delegates were entertained by private families while for others the convention was self entertaining. Sessions were held in the beautiful Arena Gardens, a one-story building, used for convention and amusement purposes with a seating capacity of almost five thousand.

In Grand Circus Park there was erected a "Y" hut, identical with the ones used in the army, to show the work of the Y. M. C. A. in France. The building contained paintings' posters, attractoscopes, lantern slides, plans for a model "Y" building for a city, a hostess room, telegraph office, a post office, a demonstration room, and an information bureau. Adjoining the hut was a very realistic shell-torn house. It was put up to show how the Y. M. C. A. made use of such shell torn houses as canteens for the distribution of hot chocolate.

Sessions began on Wednesday morning, Nov. 19, with a quiet session led by Rev. John T. Stone, D. D., of Chicago. The afternoon session was devoted to business and consisted of codifying convention rules and regulations. Noted speakers and leaders of men addressed the evening sessions. Thursday and Friday afternoons were devoted to sectional conferences.

The Student section met in the Central Christian Church. The most important event of the student sectional conference was an address by Pres. Henry Churchill King, D. D., of Oberlin College, who spoke on "The Necessity of College Students having an International Mind." He said in part: "We have not gotten anything worth while from this war. It is not enough to have won a military victory over the Teutonic autocracy." He then spoke of the need of college trained men with an international conception to take their part in lifting America from the pit of social unrest into which it has fallen since the war.

A feature of the Friday morning session was an address by Dr. Robert E. Spear, of New York, on "The Larger Christ." He rejoiced that in the present period of change and unrest "there is no changing Christ." He emphasized the thought that our conception of Christ must be changing. What we think of Christ must grow and increase. "Christ is

A Gateway—Electrical

ONLY a forty-foot gateway bounded by two brick pilasters and ornamental lamps, but unlike any other gateway in the entire world.

For back of it is the General Electric Company's main office building, accommodating 2300 employees. And just next door is its laboratory with the best equipment for testing, standardizing and research at the command of capable engineers. Then down the street—a mile long—are other buildings where everything electrical, from the smallest lamp socket to the huge turbines for electrically propelled battleships, is made by the 20,000 electrical workers who daily stream through.

What a story this gate would tell, if it could, of the leaders of the electrical industry and business, of ambassadors from other institutions and from foreign lands.

The story would be the history of electric lighting, electric transportation, electric industrials and electricity in the home.

This gateway, as well as the research, engineering, manufacturing and commercial resources back of it, is open to all who are working for the betterment of the electrical industry.

Illustrated bulletin, Y-863, describing the company's several plants, will be mailed upon request. Address General Electric Company, Desk 43, Schenectady, New York

Efficiency Below Par

Blunders breed mischief. Volumes of data could be collected to show how the incongruities and inconsistencies of life have changed the destinies of the world in the past. Nations have toppled and kings have thrown away their crowns thru trifling infractions. The mere twisting of a sentence by Bismarck was sufficient to change the destiny of France for three generations. The world is governed by trifles. Little do we realize in this era of weighing responsibilities the importance of individual action. The momentum of the group in whisking the individual along does not allow for calm reflections. If swept into the meshes of a modern Charybdis, the reverse is ascribed to inefficiency. If affairs assume a favorable turn, then the hand of efficiency is shaping their course. Beyond that, incoherence marks everything. The why or the wherefore of the thing receive little or no attention.

Vague and general in its meaning, the term inefficient covers a multitudinous array of sins. All quibblings in the industrial disorders of the present time dwindle down to charges of inconsistency and inefficiency on the part of labor and capital. All criticisms of executive abilities are centred in that much harped upon word—efficiency. Inefficiency is a chronic social disease—by no means incurable but yet so very difficult to cope with. Here again trifles are the dominant factors. A careless and indifferent attitude in trivial personal matters if not suppressed may persist and eventually prove most detrimental in matters of great importance. For, psychologists tell us, habits shape our actions although we may attach little importance to them.

How does this apply to college men? Of all the qualities with which a college training is expected to imbue the undergraduate, efficiency is the foremost. It pervades every other quality. The primary purpose of a college education is to train and prepare the undergraduate for efficient citizenship. It tries to make him a leader among men, active and wide awake, ever willing and ready to make the most of his opportunities. It seeks to inculcate habits of clear, thinking and precision—the mental requisites for constructive leadership.

One of the most desirable trainings for service and leadership is that furnished thru college athletics. The average football player acquires something indescribable, but nevertheless something that clings to him throughout life. Whether they be traits of accuracy or quick decisions of judgment, they enable him to face the stern problems of life advantageously. On the gridiron he is taught to meet his opponents fearlessly and unflinchingly and with full confidence in himself. What is demanded of him is efficiency in every respect. The habits he forms here in training will persist and aid materially in solving his own problems of life.

The college student is often described as a care-free, easy-come, easy-go type of a person and with a great deal of truth. In college he seems to cultivate an attitude of indifference and carelessness. He slides into a state of lethargy from which it is extremely hard to raise him. He becomes slouchy in his habits and careless oftentimes, tho probably unconsciously, he even begins to neglect his personal appearance. He becomes passive in his classroom work. Lessons are half-prepared or overlooked altogether. It is only a trivial matter but he forgets that these habits will cling to him after he fights the real battles of life.

Furthermore, trivial and harmless as such habits may appear in college, they are not the marks of a progressive and active member of society. It is such an air of indifference that destroys the spirit of responsibility in the individual. It is such an attitude which brings efficiency below par.

a universal Being. Christ will not be made the head of any party, the leader of any faction.''

On Friday evening, Mr. Homer L. Ferguson, president of the Newport News Shipbuildings Co., representing Capital, Mr. Warren S. Stone, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, representing Labor, and Rt. Rev. Charles D. Williams, D. D., of Detroit, representing the Church, spoke on the general theme of the Social and Industrial Unrest of our time. Capital, Labor and the Church apparently agreed that the only solution to the problems confronting America to-day is a wider application of the teachings of Jesus as professed by Christians.

Hon. Josephus Daniels, Sec. of the Nevy, addressed the convention on Saturday evening on ''The Association and the American Navy.'' He paid tribute to the work of the ''Y'' and answered the criticisms against it during the war.

The climax of the convention was the fifty mass meetings held in fifty of the churches of Detroit on Sunday evening by leaders from all parts of North America.

The convention was so full of inspiration and uplifting thoughts that it is hard to choose the outstanding ones from the mass. The convention did make clear the respect and reverence for religion thruout the world and the part that religion plays in the affairs of men. There is in many schools and colleges of our land a growing mockery of religion and religious organizations. We cannot cut loose from the anchor which holds us to our mooring. Every individual connected with any college or university must help to maintain the place of Christianity. We must supplant mockery and ridicule with respect and veneration. The Y. M. C. A. is a religious organization in which service to young men is the ideal held high. Every man at college is training for service. Does not an organization whose ideal is service deserve and command a place among men who are training for service? Edgar A. Guest says of him who serves:

> ''Teach me to do the best I can
> To help and cheer our fellow man;
> Teach me to lose my selfish need
> And glory in the larger deed
> Which smoothes the road and lights the day
> For all who chance to come my way.''

A. T. O. Entertains Worthy Grand Chief

Dean Thomas Arkle Clark, the Worthy Grand Chief of the Alhpa Tau Omega fraternity visited the Pennsylvania Alpha Iota chapter of the fraternity on Wednesday, November the twenty sixth. Mr. Clark arrived in Allentown on Tuesday evening from Urbana, Ill., where he now holds the position of Dean of Men at the University of Illinois.

On Wednesday morning, Dean Clark visited the Allentown Preparatory School where he addressed the students, and later in the morning, he was a visitor in the college chapel where he gave another address. After being shown the college and some of the dormitories, several members of the local chapter of A. T. O. attended a luncheon at the Hotel Traylor with Dean Clark as their guest. In the afternoon an auto party visited the local chapter house on South Fourteenth Street and then made a trip over to Lehigh University where they were the guests of the Penna Alpha Rho chapter.

At eight o'clock in the Hotel Allen, one hundred Alpha Taus from various chapters, gathered to welcome Dean Clark at a banquet given in his honor. Claude T. Reno, an Allentown attorney, was toastmaster and introduced the speakers of the evening. Dean Clark gave some valuable information to the active men as students in college, as he has been constantly associated with college men in his work at the University of Illinois. A. K. Heckel, the Dean of Lafayette College was the next speaker, who was followed by Prof. James H. S. Bossard of the Economics Department of Lafayette College, a former member of the Muhlenberg faculty. Philip C. Hammond was the speaker who represented the members of the Lehigh chapter, and of whom were present at the banquet.

Among the alumni present were Mayor-elect Malcom W. Gross of Allentown, Lieut. Roy F. Shupp, D. S. C., Registrar Oscar F. Bernheim, Coach William S. Ritter, Prof. Gurney F. Afflerbach, Rev. Preston A. Laury, and Hubert Mason of Macon, Ga., a member of the Mercer University chapter of Alpha Tau Omega.

Dean Clark left for New York City on Thursday morning. While there on official business he was one of the representatives of the fraternity at the Interfraternity Conference.

Dr. Wackernagel Presented with Turkey a la Babel

Last Wednesday morning, at the end of the Chapel period, the Freshmen class presented to Dr. Wackernagle a handsome twenty-five pound turkey. To do this fittingly required thirteen addresses in thirteen languages, while the turkey added a few remarks here and there in his own inimitable dialect. President Paul Ritter, of the Class of 1923 led the procession of tongue-gifted Freshmen, and made a neat talk that was comprehended by nearly all of the audience, since he spoke in English, saying among other things, "It is not merely for the sake of following a custom that we are making this gift, but because we have in the short time that we have been here learned to appreciate the work you have done for us and for Muhlenberg. We hope that you will enjoy your Thanksgiving dinner, and live to enjoy many more of them."

Sylvester Cherniak, who holds the linguistic record for the class, having been acquainted with six languages before he came to Muhlenberg to study French and Spanish, expressed his best wishes in three languages; Ukranian, Polish and Russian. Raymond C. Miller had a few words of greeting and compliment to give, which he did in the best "Hochdeutsch." Eugene Mohr told all about the fun the committee of Freshmen had in buying the turkey, and how much they enjoyed making the gift, in fluent Pennsylvania German. Harold Sotter then was given the floor for a neat French expression of the sentiment of the class. Ira Fritz made a few remarks by means of the Norwegian consonants. The Castilian Spanish was used by Henry Alderfer to present his particular kind of good wishes to the venerable Doctor. The tongue of Horace was employed by a modern namesake, Horace Mann, to add a Latin taste to the big bird. Of course the Greek flavor was not neglected, Wallace McLaughlin adding the Attic touch. Carl Cassone helped to give away the turkey in Italian.

Dr. Wackernagel, Muhlenberg's "Grand Old Man," was deeply moved. In expressing his thanks for the gift he said; "I cannot thank you enough for this gift. I was delighted by your great variety of linguistic capability. You know there are some languages that are Christian languages, and some that are not. In some of those, there is no word for 'love' or 'gratitude', those are not the Christian languages. When you eat of this royal bird, you take with it some salad. You will find in the Old Testament that the Jews were commanded to eat at the feast of the Passover with the roast lamb a salad of bitter herbs, to remind them of the bitterness of their bondage. I will not think of that when I eat my salad, but I will think of the great suffering in Europe at the present time, the death and the starvation, the terrible conditions in contrast to our opulence. They have not the things that we have to give thanks for. I wish you all a blessed Thanksgiving. I hope you will have success in your battle tomorrow, and that you will enjoy giving thanks. But don't forget to eat your salad."

An Evening Lesson

At Even' when the setting sun,
  Sinks far beneath the western hills,
I think of days not yet begun,
  And wonder will they bring me ills.

Then comes a thought so soft and low,
  Meandering thru the hazy blue:
"What care you now for weal or woe,
  Is not to-day enough for you?"

3.

See, yonder stalwart, kingly oak,
  His time-worn limbs embrace the sky,
Oft, with such eloquence he's spoke,
  Mute Comfort to the passer-by.

Mute Comfort, yea, a tale of faith,
  Deep-rooted, ancient as the sun,
Immobile, no vain vaporous wraith
  Of well-feigned piety put on.

I turned about rebuked of God,
  Strode thru the gloom of dying day,
Across the hills, close to the sod,
  Which still rebuked in Nature's way.

I turned about meek, low in heart,
  Taught by this veteran of the plain,
Who did to me his faith impart,
  Faith, e'en as one small mustard grain.

Ye, Weary Mortals, who so long
  Have trodden life's dark, solemn road,
Who feel so weak, yet would be strong,
  Seek not your rest in this frail ode.

Go forth beneath God's open sky,
  The Ethereal Blue and Emerald Hills,
Go seek that oak and ask as I
  Did ask, and asking healed my ills.

Ursinus Smoker a Pep Instiller

Well, boys, did you get the pep at that Ursinus Smoker last Tuesday night? It wasn't such a big crowd, but those fellows that braved the elements to come surely had the spirit.

This was the most original football smoker that Muhlenberg has ever had, according to Prof. Fasig. The reason was that, for the first time, Muhlenberg undergraduates were called on to speak and tell their fellow-students what they, as undergraduates, thought of the team.

When President Erb called the meeting together at 8 o' clock, there were exactly two members of the faculty present. Erb then started the flow of oratory by making Amos Ettinger take his father's place and make the opening speech. The speaker told the fellows that this was like "visiting the sins of the fathers upon the children of the third and fourth generations." He asked that the fellows stay over Thanksgiving and cheer the team along.

The next undergraduate to speak was "Abe" Wills, who promised for the rest of the team that they would fight hard on Thursday.

Although President Erb called on Mark Bollman next, his speech was really a dialogue with Dr. Haas. However, between them, he managed to paint a promising picture for the game. "Micky" pleaded with the fellows to get out on Thursday and yell their heads off.

"Hap" Nenow, who spoke for the Alumni, warned the team against overconfidence, and asked the students for better support at practice.

After a few yells, led by Russell Bachman and T. K. Miller, Erb called on "Pop" Fasig, who gave the fellows a criticism of the season. He said that football represented the American idea of a fair contest. He stated that the season had been successful and that the alumni were back of the team.

Prof. Marks injected much humor into the smoker by telling stories of the football games they had twenty years ago. He said that the spirit is now much better and greater than it had been before.

The last speaker of the evening was President Haas, who spoke on football and teamwork, as related to the battle of life. He said that teamwork was the most important part of a good football team and that a good head was needed just as much as a good body.

After a few more yells, the meeting adjourned so that the students could recuperate for the next day's work.

Dr. Clark Addresses Students

Dean Thomas Arkle Clark, dean of men of the University of Illinois, talked to the student body in chapel, Wednesday morning, November 26th, 1919. Dean Clark has had much experience in reading the character of college men and asserts that they are all the same no matter what institution they are from. He spoke of the advantages that the college man has in choosing friends and ideals and learning to think accurately.

Glee Club At Work

Daily rehearsals are being held for the Glee Club under the direction of Prof. Marks and Harry Zwoyer '21, their leader. The heavy numbers are being given much attention at present so that the Club will still have something to live up to in the line of music when it starts on its season. "The Regimental Song" by Martens and Silver, and the "Viking Song" by S. Coleridge-Taylor are perhaps the best numbers that have been touched by any club, with "Swing Along" by Cook coming in as a close third.

Prof. Brown has been having rehearsals with the members in the skit, and by next week, all of the work must be in first class condition. Manager Bollman announced last week that a tentative schedule had been arranged which will include three concerts before the Christmas vacation officially starts. The schedule which he has in view at present is:

Resume of the 1919 Season

It was with a feeling of confidence that Muhlenberg's football material began their work under the direction of our new coach, "Bill" Ritter. Himself a veteran Muhlenberg man with an enviable record, Coach Ritter with good varsity material but a lack of scrubs to whip his eleven into shape lost no time in assembling Muhlenberg's 1919 football squad.

The nucleus of former varsity men enabled Coach Ritter to select the backbone of his squad and, altho the new material was scarce, its quality soon asserted itself. After two weeks of strenuous preparation the football team travelled to Easton where they met our old rival, Lafayette.

Muhlenberg played an excellent defensive game against the College Hill boys and the first half held the Lafayette team scoreless. The lack of fresh men resulted in a 13-0 score in the second half. Lafayette had hoped to run the score very much higher. Wills, Feldman and Anderson starred.

On the following Saturday Lebanon Valley fell an easy prey to Muhlenberg in the initial game on the home gridiron. The defeat 31-0 was a decisive one and Coach Ritter's proteges showed marked improvement in all stages of the game. Wills and Freitag played a great defensive game and Smythe, the new quarterback, formerly of Norristown High, starred. Anderson and Lewis helped to run up the score.

Muhlenberg journeyed to Bucknell and battled strenuously in a sea of mud. The final score 27-0 does not indicate the hard struggle our team put up against great odds. Parks, Crowley, Smythe, and Green made an excellent showing. In one of the last scrimmages of the game, Van Zandt of three years' scrub fame received a fractured leg.

Muhlenberg's second victory came in the form of a 13-0 score against Catholic University on the local field. Smythe made one of the most sensational plays ever seen on the home gridiron when he intercepted a forward pass on our opponent's ten yard line and ran ninety yards thru Catholic U's line for a touchdown. Green likewise had the rare distinction of scoring from tackle. Wills, Feldman and Anderson gained ground for Muhlenberg.

The only questionable game of the season was the 6-0 defeat registered against Muhlenberg by Villa Nova on the latter's field. And, altho Muhlenberg was ready to play Villa Nova on a neutral field, Villa Nova was content to rest on her shady victory. That Villa Nova was outclassed can be gleaned from the eight first downs for Muhlenberg against her opponent's none. Feldman, Lewis, Smythe and Anderson starred.

The third consecutive victory on the home field was the complete swamping of Albright 67-0. The Albright line was miserably weak. Marshall made his debut at fullback and played a sensational game.

November 15th the student body and a large crowd of boosters journeyed to South Bethlehem with higher hopes than ever of lowering Lehigh's colors. Muhlenberg bowed to Lehigh but contested every one of Lehigh's thirty-three points and securing the first touchdown in the history of football relations with the Brown and White team.

Coach Ritter's defense was in many respects, the finest solution of Lehigh's line of any team on Taylor Field this season.

Wills, the big center, played a wonderful defensive game, being in every play and doing a large part of the tackling, Smythe, who scored the touchdown for Muhlenberg proved a sensation by his exhibition of tackling. Parks at left tackle, Lewis in the backfield, and Crowley at right end likewise starred.

After holding Lehigh, the game with Ursinus on Thanksgiving day was looked upon as a victory that would be a fitting wind-up of the season. For three successive seasons Muhlenberg and Ursinus played a tie and a hard fought battle was to be expected. For the first time of the season Muhlenberg bowed to an opponent on the home field. That it was a hard fought battle was shown by the final score 7-6. Wills played an exceptionally brilliant game. Smythe, Feldman, Nolde and Freitag starred.

Three games won and five lost does not mean that Muhlenberg's team was at fault. Her defensive work was splendid and the team under the splendid supervision of Coach Ritter has inspired a spirit among the student body scarcely equal to any other similar year. A total of 124 points scored against our opponents' 86 speaks for itself.

Great credit must be given to the hard working scrubs who by their push and perseverance enabled Coach Ritter to work his squad into shape. We are apt to forget that without their material aid no team could have been a possibility.

The following is the season's record:

"	31	Lebanon Valley	0
"	0	Bucknell	27
"	13	Catholic University	0
"	0	Villa Nova	6
"	67	Albright	0
"	7	Lehigh	33
"	6	Ursinus	7
Muhlenberg	124	Opponents	86

Basketball Season Opens

On Wednesday evening the basketball team will open the 1919 season with a game with Lafayette at Easton. The College Hill team will mark the opening and also the closing of Muhlenberg's schedule, meeting our team at home on March 3rd.

Coach Ritter has had a large squad at work the past week and will have a team par excellence to face Lafayette.

On Friday evening the team meets Temple University and on Saturday evening University of Pennsylvania at Philadelphia. The team will have its headquarters at the New Hotel Hanover while in Philadelphia.

French Commission Visits Muhlenberg

Last Wednesday morning the College was honored by a visit of the representatives of the French Lutheran Church, who are at present in this country to build up closer sympathy between the French and the American branches of the church. Bishop and Madam Bach, of Paris, represented the commission, and they were accompanied by the Hon. Frank L. Ritter, LL. D., who was one of the two representatives of the National Lutheran War Commission in a similar mission to France in 1918.

The party entered the college chapel at the close of the regular chapel period. The assembly was singing the Marseillaise in the original French version, a welcome much appreciated by the French visitors. Then immediately a verse of America was sung, to typify the close relation between the two nations. Professor Brown tendered a welcome to the Bishop and his wife in the French tongue . Mr. Corbiere, representing the student body, gave a further assurance of welcome in his mother tongue. The glee club made their first public appearance in a fine rendition of "America Triumphant," with "Swing Along" as an encore. A few yells and songs gave a practical demonstration of the American way of expressing school spirit.

Dr. Haas spoke a few words of greeting, and introduced Dr. Riter. He spoke first of his pride in the degree that Muhlenberg had conferred on him, then he said: "The French Church did all that it was possible to do for the American boys who went over there, as well as for the soldiers of the other Allied armies. Bishop and Madam Bach represent the type of Christian statesmen who ministered to their needs. When I think of the noble work of the small French Lutheran Church for our boys, I think of the parallel case of the small American army counting so much in the struggle. It was the heroism, the courage, and the spiritual power of the American Army that gave it so much weight in the war. Now how much more is it necessary, when the petty and selfish ambitions of men no longer have so much of the militant patriotism to counteract them, that there be strong spiritual force applied to the tremendous task of reconstruction?"

Dr. Henri Bach is a distinguished French churchman and patriot. He is of Alsacian birth, and won honors in the French army in the war of 1870. He showed remarkable command of English, and made a passionate appeal to devote heart and life to the service of God. In speaking of the relations of France and America, he said, "Even before you sent your boys over to us, we have been here. With Lafayette there was a regiment of French Lutherans, and they fought for you, and not far from Allentown. I saw the first Americans arrive. As I saw them march along in all their strength, I was overcome. I wished to cry, 'Vive l' Amerique', but I could not. My emotions overpowered me. Then, all at once, the cry burst forth from every heart, 'Vive l' Amerique.'

Madam Bach is an Englishwoman, but has lived in France since her marriage. She spoke of the Frenchwoman's part in the war. "The war for the women of France was not a mere episode,—it was a crushing blow. The women did the work of men in the factories, besides carrying on all the relief work that your woman later joined in. We are thankful to America for her interest in us, and we hope it will continue in these trying times of reconstruction. We at least gave you the fruits of our first experiment in liberty in the days of '76, now we pray for your aid and interest in rebuilding our schools and homes.''

Muhlenberg at Great Convention

The Eighth International Convention of the Student Volunteer Movement will be held in the Coliseum, Des Moines, Iowa, beginning at 2:30 Wednesday afternoon, December 31, 1919, and closing on the evening of January 4, 1920.

The representatives from Muhlenberg to attend the convention are T. Kenneth Miller, Luther F. Gerhart and Daniel Kistler. These men will be the representatives from nearly all the colleges and universities of the United States and Canada. It is estimated that there will be six thousand students from North America and faculty members attending the convention. Besides these there will be five hundred students representing forty different foreign nations as delegates, and many of the foremost Christian leaders and statesmen from all parts of the world as speakers to discuss and study the present world problems in the foreign fields and at home.

The purposes of the convention are: (1) To bring together at Des Moines representative delegations of students and professors from all the institutions of higher learning of North America and leaders of the Christian enterprise throughout the world; (2) to consider unitedly the serious situations in all the countries of to-day, and the problem of evangelizing the non-Christian peoples; (3) to gain inspiration and a vision of the world-wide missionary responsibilities of the Church; (4) to unite in prayer and work for a great advance in the direction of extending the kingdom of Christ among all nations.

The purpose well displays the fact that all colleges ought to be represented and be ready to learn of the larger responsibilities which are bound to come. Men of power and note from every department of moral, social and religious work will be present to address the convention. Special study will be given to the problems now confronting us in foreign fields as well as at home. The Convention will give those who attend an absolutely new idea of the extent, power and statesmanship of the missionary enterprise in the world, which they are to carry back to their institutions.

Faculty Notes

Dr. Haas preached a sermon on Sunday evening at the monthly ''College Night'' held in St. John's Lutheran Church.

Dr. Ettinger addressed the Kiwanis Club last Thursday evening on ''The Meaning of Education.'' He also spoke on ''The Protestant Reformation and America'' at the celebration of the fiftieth Anniversary of St. Peter's Lutheran Church, last Friday night. On Sunday evening, he addressed the Lehigh University Y. M. C. A. on ''Life's Perspective.''

Dr. Wright held a Psychological clinic last Saturday at Norristown.

Prof. Cressman preached Sunday a week ago at Rosemont. On Thursday evening, he addressed the Young People's Day gathering at the anniversary of St. Peter's Church.

INITIATIVE

''The world bestows its big prizes, both in money and honors, for but one thing. And that is Initiative. What is Initiative? I'll tell you. It is doing the Right Thing without being told. But next to doing the thing without being told is to do it when you are told once. That is to say, carry the message to Garcia: those who can carry a message get high honors, but their pay is not always in proportion.

Next there are those who never do a thing until they are told twice: such get no honors and small pay. Next there are those who do the right thing only when necessity kicks them from behind, and these get indifference instead of honors, and a pittance for pay. This kind spends most of its time polishing a bench with a hard luck story. Then still lower down in the scale than this we have the fellow who will not do the right thing even when some one goes along to show him how and stays to see that he does it; he is always out of a job, and receives the contempt he deserves, unless he has a rich Pa, in which case Destiny patiently waits around the corner with a stuffed club. To which class do you belong?

Elbert Hubbard.

The Colleges and the Outside World

In opening an address at Cambridge a few years ago, Colonel Roosevelt made the statement that thirty years ago he had left the university and had begun his education. He did not say this in disparagement of the university; he undoubtedly meant that his thirty years' contact with the world had been of so tremendous value that his college education had been merely the beginning and not the end of his education. If this was his experience in those thirty years, how much more true it is of the present day in the world's development!

In the present-day college, if a man fails in a subject, it merely means a re-examination. There are a large number of students who just 'get by'. But in the bigger affairs of life, in the army, for instance, failure to pass was a disgrace. But a worse disgrace was to pass and then forget all about a subject, for the result of this forgetting meant death. The majority of men who are turned out of our colleges today know little or nothing of our immense national problems. They may have an abundant store of book-knowledge but what they should have is practical knowledge. These college men, who, by their advantage of training, should be the leaders of business and social thought, do not commonly have an exceptionally broad outlook on the world . The tendency in the colleges which has resulted in their narrow outlook is the idea that the great living subjects, business, and the very economics of existence, can be put into books and taught. A man cannot know how to do a thing by the simple amassing of facts but only through his ability to handle and apply these facts.

One of the greatest advantages of college training is that the earnest student can learn, not only to think, but to think straight. Today more than ever we need broad, straight thinkers. During the past quarter of a century it was the thinkers who were preeminent—they have produced many inventions which have reduced the drudgery of work formerly done by hands. A mind that is taught to think necessarily seeks information and asks questions. The day of influence and "pull" is rapidly passing—everything is giving way and must give way to the one supreme test of fitness. Efficiency is the watchword of today.

We are living in the expectation of tomorrow. In our struggle to adjust ourselves to the ever-changing conditions, our colleges and educational institutions can be of the greatest help to the practical outside world, and this can be done by the extension and enlargement of a practice now in vogue in many institutions, by which practical men, out in the world, struggling with conditions as they really are, are invited to the colleges to give lectures, and also through an increased contact between the faculty of the college and the actual economic and social machinery of the world. Our scientific schools are responsible for the men who invented the modern machines by which business and social affairs are conducted. Our colleges are responsible for many minds which have been taught to think accurately and independently.

Conditions, not theories, confront us, and only through thought of the most earnest, straightforward kind, as well as fearless courage in action, can we successfully get away from the obsolete economic and social practices of a bygone day to the more modern practices that new inventions and educational results have forced upon us. In all this we have a right to expect the college men to lead.

Dr. Fry Appeals for Increased Man Power

After the regular chapel exercises on Monday, December 8, the student body was addressed by the Rev. Dr. Charles L. Fry, '78, of Philadelphia.

His speech was an appeal for increased man power in the cause of the United Lutheran Church. Dr. Fry strikingly emphasized the inseparable relationship between the gospel and the national emblem. In closing, he stressed a partial quotation—"present your bodies, a living sacrifice"—and directed the attention of all and subsequent efforts toward Mexico and South America as well as toward Europe.

Princeton—Since Princeton was established, it has been the custom of the Freshman class to steal the clapper from the campus clock. The Class of 1923 has lived up to this tradition and the campus "cops" are searching in vain for the stolen clapper.

Swarthmore—On Armistice Day a new club was founded at Swarthmore which is known as the Varsity Club. All men who have won letters in major Sports, as football, basketball, baseball, track and lacrosse are eligible for membership. This also includes the managers of these Sports.

Ohio State—At Ohio State University a new stadium with seating capacity of 50,000 persons is being planned. It is to be erected during the next year and, together with the adjacent territory, will be a mile long and a half mile wide. Adjacent to the athletic stadium will also be constructed a new gymnasium and armory.

Rutgers—This college has dropped the requirement of Greek for the A. B. degree. Rutgers is one of the strongest advocates of the classics in the country and a strong fight was made by the scientific faction to have both Greek and Latin required of candidates. This failed although one year of Latin will be necessary.

Penn State—As the preliminary step toward the organization of a college "Union," a movement is under way at State College to form an organization among the 1400 non-fraternity men. This idea is an expansion of the stu-

Some mathematically inclined Sophomore noted that Dr. Ettinger used the word "yes" 85 times in one hour and then, on continuing his observations, noted that he used it 91 times the following day. The Sophs wonder what his record is.

Promoter Shupp has finally succeeded in arranging a boxing bout between our well-known friend Kline, self-acknowledged featherweight champion of Muhlenberg since 1915, and "Shrimp" Acker, lightweight champion of the Keystone Division, in the college commons on December 18th at 5 P. M. The Lebanon giant is almost confident of victory over his class rival. According to his promoter, he is in good physical condition and has daily combats with his trainer.

At a recent mass meeting of the charity workers of West Berks, it was unanimously decided to present Tyson with a season's supply of lucifers.

Muhlenberg Loses Initial Game

Muhlenberg opened her basketball season last Wednesday evening by losing a close game to Lafayette at Easton, by a score of 29-19. The difference of ten points does not indicate how close the game really was.

During the first half, both teams passed well, and both had some very good chances at the basket, which were missed. The half ended 16-12, in favor of Lafayette.

In the second half, our boys took a brace and crawled up to 17-14, but the Lafayette forwards began to put them in, and the chance was lost.

Captain King and Bobbe starred for Lafayette, while Rhode and Butz shone for Muhlenberg. Rhode made six out of eight foul goals in the first half, but could not locate the basket in the second half. "Red" Lewis put up a great game at guard, as did Taggart.

The lineup:—

Muhlenberg	Position	Lafayette
Rhode	Forward	Bobbe
Butz	Forward	Behney
Erb (Acting Captain)	Center	Bieber
Lewis	Guard	(Captain) King
Dillman	Guard	Reeves

Field goals:—Rhode, Butz, Smythe 2, Lewis 2, Behner, Bieber 3, King 2, Reese 2.

Foul goals:—Rhode, 7 out of 12; Reeves, 13 out of 19.

Substitutions, Lafayette:—Bieber for Behney, Reese for Bieber.

Muhlenberg:—Smythe for Butz, Taggart for Dillman, Clauser for Erb, Gloss for Rhode, Schleicher for Lewis.

Referee:—Lewis, Philadelphia.

Hard Contest Lost To Temple

After leading for most of the first half, Muhlenberg weakened, and lost to Temple on Friday by the score of 33-20.

The first half ended 9-8, favor of Temple, but in the second half, Temple started to play fast ball, with the result that they scored 24 points to our 12.

The star for Temple was Shipps, with five field goals to his credit, while Rhode and Erb excelled for the visitors.

Muhlenberg	Position	Temple
Smythe	Forward	Gross
Rhode	Forward	Shipps
Erb	Center	Holstead
Lewis	Guard	Herzog
Taggart	Guard	Gillon

Field Goals:—Smythe; Rhode, 4; Erb, 2; Gross, 3; Shipps, 5; Holstead, 2; Herzog; Gillon, 2.

Foul Goals:—Rhode, 6; Holstead, 7.

Substitutions, Muhlenberg:—Dillman for Lewis, Butz for Smythe.

Referee:—Raby, Gettysburg.

Swamped By Penn

Following up Friday's defeat, the team lost to Penn, on Saturday evening, by a score of 34-6.

Both teams played rather poor basketball, with the intercollegiate champions putting them in oftener. Rosenast and Graves starred for the Quakers, while Rhode did all the scoring for Muhlenberg, getting the lone field goal and putting in four out of nine foul goals.

The line-up:—

Muhlenberg	Position	Pennsylvania
Smythe	Forward	Sweeney
Rhode	Farward	Rosenast
Erb	Center	Graves
Taggart	Guard	McNichol
Lewis	Guard	Peck

Field Goals:—Rhode; Sweeney; Rosenast, 4; Graves, 3; McNichol, 2; Boyle; Yates; Spieker.

Foul Goals:—Rhode, 4 out of 9; Sweeney, 6 out of 8; Yates, 2 out of 2.

Substitutions, Muhlenberg:—Butz for Smythe, Dillman for Lewis.

Penn:—Boyle for Sweeney, Springer for Rosenast, Yates for Graves, Peters for McNichol, Spieker for Peck.

Glee Club Opens Season

The Glee Club opened the season on Monday of last week with a concert at Rittersville. In order to keep the fellows warmed up in every line, the manager had the entire week filled up. On Tuesday evening the Mandolin Club played before the Brotherhood of St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Allentown. And, according to schedule, the entire personnel of the musical clubs packed up and left Allentown on Wednesday afternoon.

In Quakertown, at the Broad Theatre, the club was very well received by the people who had done everything possible to make it comfortable for the club.

In Spring City and Royersford on the following two evenings, all numbers on the programs were up to the usual standard. Gresh, '22, plays exceptionally well this year, and his number was enjoyed by everyone. Bryon's cornet solos always demanded "more." Longkamer surprised all of his new friends with his pleasing solo work and the club is fortunate in having these men for several more seasons.

Under the direction of Zwoyer, the club numbers were put over with the "pep" for which the organization is noted. The Mandolin Club played together and presented new popular song hits.

On Friday afternoon, the quartette, the Mandolin Club and the soloists gave a few numbers in the Phoenixville High School where Carl F. Troutman, '19, is engaged in teaching.

The thanks of the club goes to the Midnight Sons' Club of Royersford, who so kindly opened up their rooms for the Muhlenberg fellows during the time they were in the town.

Freshman Banquet A Grand Success

Despite weeks of strenuous campaigning on the part of the Sophomores to upset the carefully laid plans of the lower classmen, the Freshmen dined and wined in great style last Thursday evening at the Hotel Traylor. The enthusiasm and delight of the men over the unparalled success of the affair was not dimmed one bit by the havoc which greeted their eyes upon their return to the "Dorms," for the majority of the members of the class have come to realize the true worth of a glorious college spirit: even though it find its expression in stringing bed springs upon the very top of the campus flag-pole. Not one of them kicked, for the eats had been enjoyed, the toasts had been given, and the speeches had been made; and the expected growls and kicks, which the "Sophs" had prepared to feast themselves upon, became happy winks and smiles as each man busily set about restoring his room to its former tidy order.

A most competent committee had made all the arrangements for the affair. The banquet room presented a beautiful appearance; the class colors, the Cardinal and Gray and the National Colors being everywhere in evidence. The menu was an excellent one and was well served. Turkey was the main dish and was accompanied by all the customary trimmings.

The feature of the evening undoubtedly was the speeches, all of which were pervaded with a spirit and a standard of thought that speaks well for the class, and is destined to play an important part in the future of the school and the activities connected with it. Another feature worthy of mention was the singing of "The Only Girl for Me," the words of which were written by Paul S. V. Serfas, and which will be published shortly through a New York house. The song was unanimously declared a hit and a great deal of praise was bestowed upon the blushing Serfas.

The honored guests of the evening were Profs. John D. M. Brown, Stephen G. Simpson and Guerney F. Afflerbach. To say that they enjoyed themselves would be putting it very mildly indeed. Each one of them addressed the students on impromptu themes replete with the wit and humor characteristic of each, and so well known to the student body of the school.

The committee in charge of the affair, and to whose efforts its success was mainly due consisted of Chairman Calvin Knauss, J. Odell Woodling and Richard C. Lutz.

The following men responded to calls for speeches from Toastmaster Knauss: President Ritter; Vice President Dillman; Trout, Smythe, McKee, Fritz, Zartman and Sanders.

Student Body Declares for Americanism

Deeming it advisable in these days of national unrest that institutions whose personnel is made up largely of ex-service men and whose prime function is to develop leaders of thought, should make a declaration of support to constituted authority, Muhlenberg has declared for one hundred per cent. Americanism. At its meeting Wednesday, the entire student body pledged its support to the government of the United States in its fight against all radical forces of social unrest. Resolutions to that effect were drawn up by the student council in conjunction with the faculty and were unanimously adopted. Drafts of these resolutions were forwarded to Attorney General Palmer, Senators Knox and Penrose and Congressman Dewalt.

The clear cut stand of the Muhlenberg student body in declaring their loyalty to the principles of true Americanism was embodied in the following resolutions:

Whereas, in the present day there is a great and dangerous social unrest which is finding expression in strikes, lockouts, and their usual consequences;

And whereas, there are under our form of government and under our laws peaceful and legal methods of righting the social wrongs that is claimed exist, and some of which undoubtedly do exist;

And whereas, because of wrongs, real or supposed, individuals, and organized bodies of individuals are engaged in movements which are in violation of law, and which, if successful, would imperil if not destroy the very foundations of the government of the United States, heretofore conceded to be the best and the freest that has ever existed in any nation;

And whereas, many instigators of these movements in violation of law and in direct defiance of the government of the United States are not American citizens, though some are;

Be it hereby resolved, that we, the students of Muhlenberg College, loyal to our government and to the ideals of freedom which it represents, having served our country to the best of our ability in war in the armed forces and in the unarmed forces, without which the great war could not have been brought to a successful conclusion, hereby pledge our support to the legally constituted authorities of the nation for any use to which that support may be put in preserving law and order and in insuring each citizen the full rights to which he is entitled under the provision of the constitution.

Football Letters Awarded

The regular meeting of the Athletic Association was held last Tuesday instead of Wednesday because of the absence of the members of both the Glee Club and the basketball team. Several alterations to the basketball schedule were made and then the matter of the awarding of letters to the football squad was brought up. On Coach Ritter's recommendation, the following men were awarded the varsity "M" for the past season's work:—Anderson, Crowley, Feldman, Freitag, Green, Lewis, Nolde, Orr, Parks, Snyder, Smythe and Taggart.

By reason of early season injuries "Bill" VanZandt and "Swede" Carleton were also awarded their letters.

C. F. Troutman, '19, and H. C. Snyder, '20, were awarded their varsity "M," the former under the ruling "That men who had scrubbed faithfully for three years, and by reason of being in the service of their country were prevented from so doing a fourth season, be awarded their letter." Snyder received his for being track manager in 1917, his work not having been properly recognized at that time.

Alumni Notes

'68 Earnest A. Muhlenberg died on Friday, December 12th, at his home at Wyomissing, at the age of sixty-eight. Deceased was a son of the late Rev. Dr. Frederick A. Muhlenberg, who a number of years ago was President of Muhlenberg. Following his graduation with Muhlenberg's first graduating class, he became a member of the college faculty, teaching Greek and Latin. He was a lawyer by profession but had not practiced for more than a quarter of a century. For some time he conducted an office in Philadelphia.

'94 The Rev. Harry C. Kline for nearly ten years pastor of Salem Lutheran Church, Bethlehem, has resigned to accept a call to the Lutheran church of the Reformation in Brooklyn and will take up his duties there about January 1st. The new charge is in the Arlington section of Brooklyn.

The College Man Speaks

When the student body last Wednesday adopted the resolutions pledging support to the Government in its fight against the radical forces, it acted upon an issue of vital importance. It struck a chord of true Americanism and thus aligned itself with all the forces that make for law and order. More than that, it furnished some more evidence to the public that in the American colleges, at least, elements of radicalism, Bolshevism, and all the other —isms of terror and anarchy have not yet flaunted their violent regalia. In the present times with all the strikes and social disorders, such a proof is comforting to the public. If the college which has been rightly termed the nation's bulwark is still turning out sane and progressive thinkers, the public has a right to pluck up courage and hope.

The attitude of the colleges in affairs of national importance is being declared at an opportune time. The greatest criticism of the average college man has always been that his mind is impervious to any great problems. He is not believed to think beyond the domains of his social and every-day academic life. Quite recently an educator of note expressed his belief that the discussions carried on at fraternity houses were solely on special topics. This conviction on the part of the public has, in fact, become so strong that it will not be easy to create a different impression.

The nation-wide movement to determine the sentiment of the faculties and students in colleges and universities toward the peace treaty is another great step in showing the status of the college in national affairs. On the thirteenth of January the college students throughout the country will vote on the peace treaty. Until that date it behooves every one at Muhlenberg to consider carefully the treaty and to declare his stand according to its merits. The college man must become educated in matters beyond the limited domains of the academic life. He must think "beyond his hat." College provincialism cannot be sanctioned in these trying days of readjustments.

Ringing in The New

With this final issue of the Weekly for the present year, it will be well to gaze in introspection upon the year ahead of us. The dawning of a new year always presents an occasion for dreams and aerial fancies. This habitial custom of making resolutions even seems to fall to an editor's lot.

A year ago we were compelled to plan ahead with great uncertainty. The S. A. T. C. had completely upset the college in both spirit and curriculum. The pre-war standing has now been partially restored so that it is possible to follow out more tangible plans. It is now that we can resume our work of progress.

Big plans will be undertaken during the coming year. A big financial drive and the erection of some new buildings will demand our earnest consideration. Whether these plans will be successfully worked out or not depends entirely upon students, alumni and friends of Muhlenberg. Our dreams can be visualized and the goal reached only by a firm resolve on the part of all to cooperate, heart and soul, in working toward that goal. Let us enter the threshold of the New Year with a spirit of service and sacrifice for our Alma Mater. Nineteen is dying. Let us ring out the old and ring in the new—and with it a new and GREATER MUHLENBERG.

Feldman to Lead Muhlenberg Eleven

Congratulations were the order of the day last Wednesday afternoon for "Dink" Feldman, the popular little halfback of the past three seasons. The reason for the congratulations lay in the fact that the letter men of this football season had elected "Dink" as their leader for next season. The steady and at times spectacular playing of Feldman has made the choice of the players a most popular one on the campus. The "Weekly" hereby expresses its congratulations to the newly-elected Captain.

1920 Calendars on Sale

After a lapse of a year due to the S. A. T. C., the publication of the annual Muhlenberg Calendar is being resumed. The Sophomore Class according to custom is publishing the 1920 Art Calendar, and promises a handsome publication. It consists of a handsome and durable embossed Buckram cover, with six pages of heavy glossy stock, with a fine collection of cuts of the campus, athletic teams, and college activities.

The staff will deliver the Calendars anywhere in the U. S. for the price of eighty cents.

The C. J. C. Club Organizes

Because of a lack of interest along a certain line of activities in Muhlenberg College, several members of the upper classes have formed the C. J. C. Club to stimulate attention for the promotion of these activities and to establish a bond of friendship and coopera-

To Vote on Peace Treaty

In conjunction with a nation-wide movement to determine the sentiment of the faculty and students in colleges and universities throughout the country toward the peace treaty, Muhlenberg College announces that a referendum vote of the entire student body and the faculty will be taken on January 13th.

That is the date set by C. E. Stough, secretary of the Inter-Collegiate Treaty Referendum, New York, for the simultaneous vote of all the colleges. The action at Muhlenberg will be taken in compliance with the request by Dr. J. A. W. Haas, president. An advisory committee of which President Hadley, of Yale, is chairman, and of which Presidents Butler, of Columbia; Lowell, of Harvard; and Hibben, of Princeton, are members, has indorsed the plan, according to the communication.

The telegram asking for the referendum, received by Dr. Haas, is signed by Frederick P. Benedict, editor-in-chief Columbia Spectator; John M. Harland, chairman Daily Princetonian; Britton Hadden, chairman Yale Daily News; and Fifield Workum, president Harvard Crimson. It reads, in part, as follows:

"We, the undersigned, have undertaken to promote a referendum of college sentiment of the country concerning the peace treaty. It is realized that many colleges have held straw ballots on this subject, but the statement of the question have in most instances differed and afforded no opportunity to obtain an accurate and comparative expression of intercollegiate point of view. The plan is that on January 13th every college and university in the country will be asked to take a vote of its faculty on the one hand and its student body on the other, in which each member of the college community will be asked to declare himself, yes or no, on:

"Proposition 1. I favor the ratification of the league and treaty without amendments, or reservations."

"Proposition 2. I am opposed to the ratification of the league and treaty in any form."

"Proposition 3. I am in favor of the ratification of the league and treaty, but only with the specific reservations, as voted by the majority of the Senate."

"Proposition 4. I favor any compromise on the reservations which will make possible immediate ratification of the treaty and league."

We Lose To Lehigh

Muhlenberg's basketball team lost its fourth straight game last Wednesday evening, when Lehigh won at South Bethlehem by a score of 33-20.

Through Rhode's wonderful foul shooting Muhlenberg was able to keep the lead for the first part of the first half, but this dwindled until the score at the end of the first half stood 13-10, favor of Lehigh. In the second half, Lehigh cut loose and scored enough field goals to win by a comfortable margin.

Donovan starred for Lehigh, getting seven field goals, while it was Rhode's individual work that kept Muhlenberg in the running, getting 16 out of Muhlenberg's 20 points. Rhode shot 14 out of 17 foul goals.

The line-up:

Muhlenberg	Position	Lehigh
Rhode	Forward	Donovan
Butz	Forward	Morrow
Erb	Center	Hess
Taggart	Guard	Straub
Smythe	Guard	Kennedy

Field Goals:—Rhode, Butz, Smythe, Donovan, 7; Hess, 4; Straub, Rote, 2. Foul goals:—Rhode 14 out of 17; Straub, 5 out of 13.

Substitutions:—Rote for Straub, Kopf for Rote.

Referee:—Briody.

Haverford Loses Snappy Game

After using the Prep School floor for the home games during the last two years the basketball team is again playing at the Y. M. C. A. In the first game at their new playing home the team defeated Haverford last Saturday night, 24—16. This was the first time Haverford has met Muhlenberg in Allentown in any sport. The game was hard fought during the entire forty minutes of play with Muhlenberg continually in the lead but for a few minutes in the first half when Haverford led, 9—8. The half ended with Muhlenberg leading, 14—11. Haverford's guards were continually driving long shots from mid floor, only one try, however, resulting in a goal.

Rhode played a star game on the floor but was off color in tries for foul goals.

The entire team played a snappy passing game for which great credit is due. On Wednesday the old rivals of the court, Moravian, will be met on the Prep School floor.

Of these men Bliem and Schleicher will be lost to the squad by graduation, while three varsity men will be graduated, Nolde, Green and Van Zandt.

Student Body Debates Issues of Peace Treaty

The difference of opinion on the peace treaty which has spread all over the country was taken up by the opposing factions among the student body on Wednesday, December 17th, 1919. In order to come to a conclusion the Republican element challenged their opponents to a public debate, which, together with the movement of the Intercollegiate Treaty Referendum, initiated to find the expression of all college students upon the issue presented by the treaty, led to the laying aside of a day, Wedensday, December 17th, for discussion.

The Republicans were well provided with arguments to defend their conclusions. There was very little response from the Democratic side and nearly all agreed that reservations to the treaty are essential, differing only in a plea that these reservations are too strong and radical. The Republican speakers in order of appearance were Raymond Kline, Lynn Schantz, Amos Ettinger, Paul Edelman, Russel Bachman, Edwin Kohler, and Dr. Ettinger; Dr. Haas, Prof. Simpson, and Paul Knedler rebutted for the Democrats.

The reservations emphasized were 1st, the Shantung Controversy; that the United States withholds its assent to the provisions of the treaty as regards Shantung; 2nd, that a subordination of the powers of Congress to any international control is forbidden by the nature of the Constitution; 3rd, that the United States reserves the right to increase or decrease her armament despite the Council; 4th, the United States does not cast the power over her army and navy into the hands of the Council; and 5th, the most important reservation and the one causing the greatest dispute was that one regarding equal vote in the Council, aimed distinctly at Great Britain, who with her colonies, by right of the original treaty, could cast more than one vote.

But one was openly opposed to the Covenant of the League of Nations, James Morgan, who declared that the league of nations with the five great powers is no league of nations; that Germany by playing on the sympathies of Russia and China could form another league with countless resources and man power and thus again establish the opposing Alliances.

The consensus of opinion was that a treaty and a Covenant of a League of Nations is desirable with a difference of sentiment as to the character and number of reservations. Even now, it is but a question of compromise on the phraseology to reach an understanding of ratification between the Republicans under Lodge and the Democrats under Hitchcock.

Facts About Government Insurance

The Bureau of War Risk Insurance, to date, has protected by guarantee of premium, 7739 insurance policies held by service men in commercial companies. The face value of these policies totals $12,511,456.29, and the annual premiums $361,956.82.

The 7739 policies now protected are held in 152 commercial companies and fraternal organizations.

This protection of insurance policies not only brings forward one of the many and little known avenues through which the Bureau directly aided service men, but it proves conclusively that there is no element of competition between Government insurance and commercial insurance. On the other hand, the commercial companies have been most hearty in their support of Government insurance and are aiding in every way the campaign to keep active the forty billion dollars worth of War Risk Insurance now held by service men. All of the old line insurance companies not only have endorsed Government insurance but their agents have been instructed to urge its retention by former service men.

The insurance companies and associations coming under the benefits of the Soldiers and Sailors Civil Relief Act are those which are required by law to maintain a reserve, or which if not so required, have made provision for the collection from all of its insured of a premium to cover the special war risk of those of its insured persons who are in the military service.

The policies protected are those issued on the lives of persons in the military service of the United States and on which at least one premium had been paid prior to September 1, 1917.

This protection consists of a guarantee in the form of bonds issued by the United States Treasury to the respective insurers for such of their policies as have been approved for the benefits of the Act, when the premiums on such policies have not been paid by the insured or someone in his behalf within the grace period allowed in the contract, and the policy would otherwise lapse.

In the final settlement of these protected policies the insured will be required to pay a sum equivalent to the premiums guaranteed by the Government, this payment to be made within the year following discharge or following the declaration of peace. In case of the failure to make these premium payments the policy will lapse and the Government will make payment to the insurance companies of the total premiums guaranteed under the provision of the Act.

Trump, who for the past twelve years has been pastor of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd, Wilson township, near Easton, has notified the members of that congregation that he will resign from that charge, the resignation to take effect on January 1, 1920. Prior to coming, Rev. Trump was pastor of the Lutheran church at North Delaware Water Gap for a number of years.

In addition to his pastorate at the Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd, Rev. Trump has for the past five years been pastor of the Lutheran church in Williams township, which pastorate he will continue to hold until he receives a call from another church. Due to the scarcity of public school teachers in Northampton county, Rev. Trump is now serving as a public school teacher in Williams township.

Rev. Trump is a graduate of the Kutztown Normal School, Muhlenberg College, and took a two-year postgraduate course at Lafayette College.

A Living Wage for College Professors

College salaries have been notoriously low for years. The better High Schools offered more to the college-trained youth as teacher and coach of athletics than the college paid to the men who trained him. The problems of meeting the increased living cost has been felt by every class of labor and in many instances substantial wage-increases have alleviated many of its consequent burdens. But until recently nothing has been done to relieve the pressure of the high cost of living upon the salaried class.

What are the average salaries paid college professors? The medium, or middle, salary of 6,593 professors in the 74 colleges and universities on the Carnegie Foundation list is $2,000; 303 of this group receive less than $1,000, while 72 exceed $7,000.

If, however, a distribution be made of the average salary paid to associate and assistant professors, and the average to instructors, we find that the medium or middle average of this group is but $1,300.

In other words, the average college teacher, who has spent some eight years in grade school, some four years in graduating from high school, four more years in college for the bachelor's degree and then at least one or two years in specialized graduate study; who is a man of character and force of personality, with certain qualities of leadership and mentality; who has spent a dozen years in preparation more than was spent by the average individual; this man, who is expected to be a married man with family, has, on the average, a salary of $1,300.

Salaries today must be judged in terms of their purchasing power. During the past six years the rising scale of prices has reduced the purchasing value of the dollar from $1 in 1913 to $0.495 in 1919. This means that any individual whose salary has not been dobuled since 1913 is working under an actual decrease in compensation.

The man who in 1913 was receiving $1,000 and who in 1919 received the same sum has actually had his salary reduced to $495.

The college instructor who received $500 in 1913 to have the same actual return from his labor should today receive $1,010. If $1,500 was an average salary for the full professor in small colleges in 1913, today to have as much for his work he must receive $3,032. A 102 per cent increase is needed. But in the majority of cases at the present time, Boards of Trustees have authorized twenty percent as the maximum.

College executives have not fared as well as professors in the State institutions. The college president in 1919 has actually suffered a decrease in wages of 41 per cent, while his faculty have received reductions of but 35 per cent, though both have apparently received increases.

Unless the salaries of college professors are increased sufficiently to meet the increased cost of living, the inevitable rsult will be the loss of the more able men in this field with a consequent detrimental effect of the service rendered the next generation.

An adequate salary for a college professor should provide "a living" for the worker and his family; if the occupation is to be a solvent one, it must make some provision for old age; it must bear a justifiable relation to the preparation involved as well as to the social value of the service rendered; and there must be provision for promoting and advancement to heighten and maintain the occupational morale.

The Student Volunteer Convention at Des Moines, Iowa.

The Appeal of the Convention

MAN POWER—vigorous, red-blooded, resourceful, consecrated men—that was the clarion call of the convention at Des Moines, sounded many times a day before the assembled students.

The size of the task was in itself a stirring appeal, the world, humanity, a white harvest field stretching out like the plains on which the convention was held. Neglected South America, with unlimited resources, calls for MEN to supply the things which Catholicism failed to give; fettered Africa asks for MEN to release them from slavery; the crisis in India demands MEN to reach the hundred millions who are without Christ; the Chinese Empire, awakening from its sleep of centuries, looks to MEN from the western nations to bring the Good News; Japan in its strategic position, with its keen mind, dare not be neglected by MEN who are anxious concerning the Orient. The unoccupied territories also unite in the appeal for MAN POWER— vigorous, red-blooded, resourceful, and consecrated men.

Then there was the appeal of the record of the Movement. During the thirty-three years of its existence it has been the principal or determining factor in the decisions of many of the 8,140 volunteers who have sailed. Of the others it has strengthened the purpose, furthered the preparation and hastened the departure to the foreign field. There, indeed was the appeal of the example of the men, who only a short while ago filled the halls and classrooms which we now occupy, for MAN POWER.

Again, there was the appeal of the convention itself, with an enrollment of over 8,000 men and women from over 1,000 institutions representing forty nationalities. The catching enthusiasm of the students, the speakers—some of the keenest minds in the country, interested intensely in missions—the devotions and the hymns—old favorites, helped in putting across the appeal for MAN POWER.

For us, as Lutherans, there was the special appeal of fifty-nine Volunteers who have sailed since 1914. As Muhlenberg men the presence of alumni on the field has an appeal for us. T. L. Coleman, who sailed in 1914 for India and Rev. E. Horn, who has just returned from Japan likewise sound the appeal for MAN POWER.

To those who do not enter the foreign field there is the stirring appeal to develop on this continent the strongest possible base for the maintenance of the world wide Christian Campaign.

There is the appeal from every angle and to those in all walks of life, whether at home or abroad and it can easily be summed up in the slogan of the Movement, ''The Evangelization of the World in this Generation.'' To accomplish this there is the call everywhere for men—vigorous, red-blooded, resourceful and consecrated MAN POWER.

Points on the Convention and the Speakers

Dr. John R. Mott, chairman of the executive committee of the volunteer movement struck the gavel promptly at 2.30 on December the 31st. In the first and keynote speech he showed the field of the world as receptive and expectant and he said:

''The old foundations were heaved and broken up during the war and were found to be but shifting sand. The world is torn and embittered. There is hatred not only between different countries but between classes in each country. The bolshevist movement would cast a horizontal cleavage across the entire human race, arraying class against class.

''The world is humbled and it may now be cast in a new mould. We may thank God that the world is plastic to a degree hitherto unknown. We stand on the threshhold of the greatest opportunity which North American Students have confronted.

With this vision of the possibilities he then sounded the challenge, "There comes to the students of our day a demand for a great and unparalled offering of lives dedicated to the service of God and man. To meet the world's needs there must be a great uprising of young men and women who will become ministers of religion, missionaries, prophets and apostles with great social, ethical and spiritual concern and passion.

He added, "We face here a stupendous task, far too great for any of us to work singly, or to be worked out along national or racial lines. We must pull together. Our spirit should be one of responsive, open-mindedness. A spirit of courageous faith should dominate us all—faith in God."

A lantern lecture by Dr. Taylor on many phases of missionary activity covered a large part of the evening session.

Sherwood Eddy in a splendid speech used the convincing logic "If twelve fishermen could accept the challenge of a world task twenty centuries ago, we the students of 1920 must also accept the challenge and endeavor to carry the task to completion.

The call of the Church for leaders was fully discussed by Dr. Wm. Foulkes of New York on Thursday morning. The Canadian viewpoint of the same subject was presented by Dr. James Endicott of Toronto.

Need for missionary work at home was emphasized by Mrs. F. S. Bennett, president Woman's Council, Home Missionary Board:

"Let us work at home, that every volunteer to foreign lands may point to a Christian America from whence he came," she urged. "We must work to keep this land safe, that it may make the world safe."

Sectional conferences were held in various churches on Thursday afternoon to consider the problems and possibilities of the various fields as Africa, China, Japan, Latin America and the Near East.

At the Japan meeting the remarkably small number of converts—240,000 out of 52,000,000— was told about. An agent of the Bible Society gave some vivid descriptions of the persecutions in Korea.

Dean Brown of Yale, on Thursday evening in a masterful way told of the effects of the war. He recounted the liabilities and the assets, among which he counted the facts that we had seen the workings of democracy and the justice of God.

On Friday afternoon the sectional meetings were held concerning the varied phases of missions. Agricultural, Evangelistic, Medical and Educational. At the educational meeting Dr. Oldham showed that in the various fields, Christian Missions had been pioneers of education. Mr. Saunders showed that the Evangelistic and the Educational phases should go hand in hand.

At the exening session Dr. Zweumem thoroughly discussed the Mohammedan, his faith and the possibilities of Christianity in Moslem countries.

On Saturday Morning Sherward Eddy said that he had thrown his address on Heathenism of India and Africa in his waste basket, but that he would speak on the heathenism "Right Here." His talk dealt chiefly with personal and then national problems.

On Saturday afternoon the denomonational rallies were held. The Lutheran rally was held in the First Swedish Lutheran Church. The leader was Dr. Wolf of our Mission Board. The discussion here could well form another article as indeed could any session of the conference. Suffice it is to say, however, that here we became acquainted with delegates from many of our institutions as Gettysburg, Theil, St. Olaf, Maywood, Concordia, Susquehanna, Wittenberg, Carthage

The speakers for Saturday night were Dr. Mott, Dr. Franklin of Boston and Dr. Zweumer who spoke on the "Attraction of Hard Tasks." Dr. Oldham told of the Student olunteer Movement in Great Britain.

On Sunday the speeches were mostly in the nature of appeals to the delegates to make the convention worth while and carry the spirit back to the thousand colleges

The Muhlenberg delegation takes this opportunity of publically expressing its appreciation for the splendid hospitality shown us during the convention.

The Storm

The*Agamemnon* had now begun to pitch and roll portentously. All morning the sky had been overcast with forboding, black cloud banks and now with the arrival of the storm the heavens seemed in a fury; a relentless torment which was only surpassed by the rolling of the wind lashed sea. It began to get bitter cold and the rain which had been coming down in torrents now turned to icy sleet and snow, which cut the face with a stinging fury that was almost unendurable. The decks became icy and the bridge, which was receiving the full head on blast of the gale, resembled a giant iceberg adorned in fantastic splendor by the waves which washed up to its very passage ways.

I fought my way along the promenade deck, the plate glass windows of which rattled and banged ominously in their heavy frames, feeling that I should go below decks where it was nice and warm and where I could rest comfortably until the storm had abated. ButI was held fixed to my place, in a slightly sheltered corner of the wheel-house deck, fascinated and awed by the majesty of that colorful, storm tossed sea. Now it was a seething, emerald green as it towered high above us, the spray from its gleaming whitecaps rattling like hail on my slicker which I had drawn close about my face; now it became a beautiful and glistening dark blue as it sank impotently back into its trough from the futile onslaught on the staggering vessel.

The waves seemed to come from all directions at once, making the great liner their meeting place; but she repulsed them as disdainfully as the valiant hero for whom she had been named repulsed the vigorous onslaughts of the valiant Trojans. As each mountainous wave broke over her bow her great nose would be buried completely so that even her forward guns were out of sight, and then with a tremendous effort she would proudly rear her ice crowned head from the hissing turmoil and in derision seemed to scorn the rushing streams of water that rolled from her great steel sides back into the sea from which they had come. At each forward plunge her stern would rise completely out of the water, her triple screws fiercely churning the resistless air and causing her to shake us with the palsy from stem to stern. As she recovered and settled back into the sea she was greeted with a buffeting that caused her to quiver as the aspen leaf upon the bough.

We barely crawled along. I later learned that in those forty-eight hours of the storm we had made but seventy-five miles. Had her propellors been whirling away at the twenty-three knot an hour gait which she had maintained since leaving Brest four days before, she would have been torn asunder, and accordingly she was slowed down until there was just enough propelling force to enable the captain to keep her head facing directly into the teeth of the storm.

The storm did not abate and with the coming of evening the captain ordered a final inspection of all the hatches and port holes. A thorough inspection was also given the giant steam tiller upon which depended the lives of the 5,600 men and officers we carried. If our tiller should fail us, the ship would be at the mercy of the sea and all would be lost. All night long and all the next day there was a continuous watch in the tiller house; a watch that did not for one moment relax its vigilance, for all realized that a game with the elements was being played. The guard had been posted to see that the hand would be dealt well, so that there should be no hidden card which might swing the destiny of that game in favor of the grim reaper in the eleventh hour.

I seriously contemplated going below for a gloomy and oppressing darkness had now begun to cast its mantle upon the bosom of the pitching sea. I gazed overhead, not a star, not a sign; I gazed about me and could barely see my hand before my face. The great steam siren of the liner now began to shriek intermittently and the piercing scream, like that of a jungle beast in its death throes, seemed to rend the cloak of fascination which the sea had cast about me. and I became conscious of a great fear in my heart. I felt suddenly alone. I, who had heard the scream of the whizz-bang and the shriek of the high explosive at St. Mihiel in the Argonne and before Verdun suddenly felt a great fear sweep over me. I thought with horror of what the night might hold for us and in the darkness of my crouching place I felt the terror of death lay its ghostly hand upon me. The feeling was and still is inexplicable and I can attribute it only to the darkness of that suddenly descended night. We fear not that which we can see, but is is the unseen which strikes terror to our hearts and which transforms us from cool, calculating human beings, to beasts endowed with all the ferocity and cunning of our jungle ancestors.

With a blind disregard of the icy decks which made my footing treacherous, I turned and ran toward the hatchway leading to my quarters down in the hold of the ship. How I reached the great door I cannot tell. I turned the wheel, which resembles the type that is found on the doors of a modern bank vault, (in fact a ship's hatchway when thus closed is sealed as tightly as a vault), but to my dismay I found that it would not open; it was locked from the inside. A new horror struck me—Had they failed to see me and warn me ere they had closed the doors for the night Were they all locked? Was I doomed to spend the night alone on that icy deck These and many other questions shot through my mind with a bewildering speed that all but unnerved me completely. With a mighty effort I partially shook that fear from me, for with realization of my true plight I endeavored to become my old, calm and resourceful self; that side of me which on many a hideous night had marched my relief from battery to battery, posting it for its lonely two hour vigil. I could see again the gleam of the star shells over No-man's Land; I could hear the rat-tat-tat-tat-t-t-t-t-t-t of the machine guns as the midnight patrol was returning from its errand of death to the enemy trenches; all this passed before my eyes and my old calm returned. I groped my way along the deck, crouching close to the ship's side. Each corner was negotiated on my stomach so that the wind might not sweep me away and in this manner I completely circled the ship. I stood once more before the door which I had first tried, a prisoner, not behind the steel bars of some penitentiary cell, but as effectually sealed away from the only human beings that were within a thousand miles of anywhere; a prisoner of the elements, true realization of which was accentuated by each pounding blow of the furious waves.

I sank to the deck exhausted. I was ready to give up for I felt that I was doomed to spend the night on that icy, pitching deck. Tormenting visions of my warm bunk rose before my eyes and I felt myself sink into a deep sleep. I again roused myself and tried to think of some possible place where I might spend the night. I suddenly remembered having seen a number of life rafts on the upper deck, on our first day out, and had particularly thought of what a neat and comfy little bed one could make for himself by slipping under those giant pontoons which were lashed to the deck with two hawsers. No sooner said than done and with new hope in my breast I quickly arose, groped my way through the inky darkness to the stair way leading to the upper deck and in a few moments found myself on its heaving planks. I picked my way forward and all of a sudden my fingers touched something which sent a new thrill of hope shooting all through my wearied body and with another effort I dragged myself toward it. A hurried examination and my suspicions were confirmed. A prayer of thankfulness rose to my lips for I had come upon one of the heavy plate glass hatches over the engine room which were battened down from the outside. During the night an inside curtain was drawn over it to keep the light from casting an upward light into the sky, a remnant of the war when ships had to travel as ghosts so that the deadly submarines of the Huns might be avoided. During the day they were opened so that the cool sea breezes might sweep down into the ship and aid the ventilators in cooling the laboring stokers and engineers. Leading down from this hatch was a large steel ladder and I knew that if I once had that hatch open and my strength had not deserted me I would soon be safely within the ship.

I breathed another prayer of thankfulness and feverishly tried to turn the screws which battened the hatch to the deck. To my horror they refused to turn at the efforts of my cold benumbed hands and I realized with dismay that here too the ice had worked its deadly mission. But again fortune favored me for I thought of certain chests I had seen amidships in which reposed fire axes, buckets and other fire fighting apparatus. I crawled aft, stopping a moment to warm my freezing fingers on the warm sides of one of the giant smoke stacks that towered above me, and soon returned with one of the coveted axes. In a short time I had loosened the screws, cracked the ice all around the hatch, and soon had the keen blade inserted beneath the forward edge. Here another difficulty confronted me and had it not been for the fact that the wind favored me, my work would have been in vain. I had barely lifted the hatch by means of using the axe as a lever, when the wind getting it, tore it from my grasp and shattered it back upon the deck, breaking the heavy plate glass into a thousand pieces. A delightful wave of warmth ascended out of the brilliantly lighted depths of the hold and swept over me with a reviving breeziness which I shall never forget. The snow whirled and surried down through the suddenly formed air hole into the depths below where it raised a hissing as it fell on the warm engines that resembled the suddenly roused anger of a den of pythons disturbed by some unknown enemy. The chief engineer sprang to his feet with an oath which quickly ended in a "What the Hell!" as he gazed aloft and saw my pinched and death like face outlined against the blackness above. In a twinkling he had summoned three of the men and was himself up the ladder ere I could move. In another moment I was lying on the floor of the engine room with the men rubbing my numbed arms and legs in a feverish effort to restore my sluggish circulation. I gazed aloft and saw two sailors placing a tarpaulin over the hole through which I had descended and my eyes closed——I felt myself slipping, slipping, slipping, down into the cold blue waters of that angry sea.

The next morning I awoke in the sick bay with pains shooting all through my body. The ship was still pitching noticeably but she seemed to ride a bit easier than before. I began to gaze around me and wonder how I had gotten into this place when all of a sudden memory smote me with a vision of what I had gone through the previous night. I tried to raise myself only to sink back upon the cot, for the throbbing in my head rivalled that of the ship's engines as they pounded away at a steady gait, another sign which told me that the storm had abated. I closed my eyes and—

"Why Hello! Dad and Mother; how are you "

"Yes indeed, I'm feeling fine although we did have a rather rough voyage."

"What! Am I glad to be at home? You may just bet I am and I'm here to stay."

"Did you say chicken for dinner. That's great; just what I have been dreaming of for a long time—"

"Yes his pulse is normal; all he needs now is a little rest." I vaguely heard voices somewhere and this time awoke to find the ship's doctor looking me over to see if he could find anything he might have missed in his hasty examination of the night before. He saw me open my eyes and a smile, which did more to revive me than all his medicine, swept over his kindly face and with a few reassuring words he left me.

The next day I staggered down to the engine room desiring to thank my friend the engineer for his part in my rescue. I found him seated in a chair with his feet upon his desk and a vile smelling corn cob pipe between his teeth. As I approached he looked up and the mile which customarily lighted his face turned to one of disdain and disgust.

He spat venomously on the floor and in a voice that sounded like the bellow of an angry bull he shot at me, "What the hell air ye doin' in here; can't ye read the soign on the door?"

I mumbled that I had seen the sign on the door alright but that I was desirous of thanking him for dragging me to safety as he did on that never to be forgotten night.

"Sure and what do ye mean, thank ye, ye blithering fool of a yankee. Ye break me pet hatch cover that oi've sworn by for nigh unto twelve yars as I would have sworn by my dear old blarney stone or the good St. Patrick, God bless 'im; ye chill and spot me ingines with the snow thet ye let down through that hole, and now ye have the gumption to come and thank me. Git out oi say, ye hain't got more business in here than ye had on the deck t'other night; git out afore oi chuck ye into the sea whar fools like yerself belong."

I retreated in consternation, followed by the loud guffaws of the group of sailors that had gathered to witness my discomfiture, and outside the door the second mate whose kindly eye noted the hurt expression on my face. Upon his query I told him of the reception I had been tendered.

After his mirth had subsided, he said, "Don't mind that, sonny; you broke McCafferty's heart when you broke that hatch cover but you can easily mend it if you ever meet him in Ney York some day and ask him to drink to it and the health of the Agamemnon with you.

Why that hatch cover should form such an intricate part of that old sailor's life I never learned. It has been a source of continuous wonder to me and I cannot help but question the fallacy of an idiosyncrasy which might cause so sturdy a son of the sea to mourn the loss of a hatch cover and to so hate and revile the man who had ben the author of its destruction.

Sonnet On Milton

Thee, Milton, we revere unto this day,
As singer, seer, and prophet thee we love;
We linger happy-hearted o'er each lay,
Our hearts accept each message from above.
A living conscience thou, with voice so strong
In thundering lines appealing for the right:
Thy pen defending right, defeating wrong
With eloquence that soars no middle flight.
Thy sight subtracted, voice was multiplied;
Of Samson's sadness thou canst truly tell
Through sympathy of suffering; light denied,
Thy dark didst bear with fitting meekness, well.
Devoted to the England of thy birth,
Thou yet art singer for all men on earth.

Creighton, ex-'18, Honored at Drexel

Georg F. Creighton, ex-'18, has been unanimously elected Captain of the Drexel football team. During his three years' stay at Muhlenberg he played end on the Muhlenberg squad. He was discharged from the service last September and entered Drexel Institute where he is pursuing an engineering course. According to the Muhlenberg schedule for next year, he will lead his team in a clash with his former Alma Mater November 20 on Muhlenberg field.

Electricity—
the Master Force in Manufacturing

THE marvels of electricity have revolutionized our manufacturing industries. With belts and pulleys replaced by electric motors operating automatic—almost human—machines, many a slow and tedious process has been eliminated. The factory worker's task of yesterday is made pleasant by his command of this magic power.

The Crane Company's plant at Chicago—electrical throughout—is a model of industrial efficiency. Its 10,000 horse-power of driving energy is brought by three small wires from a distant power plant. Then electricity drives the machinery which handles the coal for heating, cuts the steel, sifts the sand and sorts the material—in fact does everything from scrubbing the floor to winding the clock.

Such an institution is marvelous—superhuman—made thus by the man-multiplying force of electricity. The General Electric Company has been instrumental in effecting this evolution. First, by developing successful electrical generating and transmission apparatus to furnish economically this modern form of power. Secondly, through many years of active co-operation with hundreds of manufacturers, it has mastered the art of applying the use of electrical energy to a multitude of needs. And finally, through branch offices and other distributing channels, its products are made accessible to all.

To Take Biology Trip To New York City

On February the sixth and seventh, Prof. Bailey will conduct a Biology trip to New York City. An invitation is extended to any student of Muhlenberg (whether a Biology student or not) to make the trip, if he so desires, and if arrangements can be made with his other professors.

The party will leave on the Lehigh Valley train at 10.53 a. m. on Friday, Feb. 6, and arrive in N. Y. City at 1.34 p. m. A brief visit will be paid the Aquarium at Battery Park and a more extended one during the afternoon to Bronx Botanical Park. The whole party, under the guidance of Prof. Bailey, will attend a theatrical performance in the evening. On Saturday morning, the main objective of the trip, the Museum of Natural History and Art, will be visited, and, if time permits, the near-by Metropolitan Museum. After lunching at the Museum, the excursion will come to a close by an afternoon study at the Zoological Garden in the Bronx.

Prof. Bailey has spent many weeks of study at the various places mentioned, and will point out numerous objects of special interest. He has acquaintances with the Officials of the different Museums and so can secure access to the laboratories and special departments. All taking the trip are assured of two days of profit and pleasure . See Roblyer, 126 G., for information regarding cost of the trip.

The music of the Jazzland Novelty orchestra was the feature of the Holiday dance held by the Delta Theta Fraternity at the Hotel Traylor on Thursday night, December 18th. The party was informal which accounted for the mirth and hilarity of the evening. The hall, decorated by fraternity and college colors in quaint arrangement, lent an suitable atmosphere to the occasion.

Some of the college students were the guests as well as the Alumni of the fraternity of whom more than twenty were present, including brothers from Philadelphia, New York, Easton and Harrisburg.

The chaperons of the evening were Mr. and Mrs. James F. McGovern of Harrisburg, the Hon. and Mrs. Lawrence H. Rupp and Dr. and Mrs. Frederick E. Henry of Allentown.

Moravian Second Victim

The varsity basketball team kept its home slate clean last Wednesday when it defeated Moravian College on the Prep School floor by a score of 31 to 25.

The first half was close, although Moravian gained a seven point lead in the very beginning of the game. Then the home team began to penetrate the visitors' defense with the result that the score at the end of the half was 20-19 in favor of Muhlenberg.

The second half saw some more close work, this continuing until very near the end, when the Moravian center fouled several times in succession, Rhode dropping the ball through the basket with his regular precision.

As is usual, Rhode starred for Muhlenberg with 21 points to his credit. Turner and Allen did the best work for Moravian.

The score:

Muhlenberg	Position	Moravian
Rhode	Forward	Turner
Butz	Forward	Neitzel
Taggart	Center	Allen
Smythe	Guard	Stocker
Lewis	Guard	Steininger

Field Goals: Rhode, 4; Smythe, 3; Butz, 2; Turner, 4; Neitzel, 2; Allen, 2. Foul Goals: Rhode, 13 out of 25; Allen, 9 out of 20.

Substitutions: Muhlenberg, Gloss for Butz, Schleicher for Smythe; Moravian, Rice for Neitzel, Patterson for Steininger. Referee, Bohler.

Norwegian Bishop Visits College

Bishop Stoyle, bishop of the district of Christiansen, Norway, who attended the international reform movement convention, held in Chicago, addressed the students in the college chapel Tuesday morning.

His remarks gave us a vivid picture of the life in his native country, Norway. In speaking of his people, he was proud that there was not an illiterate in the country. The educational system reaches all the people and is exceedingly advanced. Speaking of American colleges, which he had visited, Bishop Stoyle was enthusiastic in his admiration for American educational opportunities. He likewise presented the need of men for the Lutheran church in Norway.

Instructor Enters Matrimony

Mr. Frederick H. Worsinger Jr., A. B., Instructor in the department of Biology at Muhlenberg College was married on December 31st, 1919, to Miss Katherine Knauss, of Allentown, Pa. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Geo. Greiss, in St. Paul's Lutheran Church at seven A. M., and an hour later Mr. and Mrs. Worsinger left for a trip to New York, where they spent two days. Mr. Worsinger's new address is 133 S. Eighth St.

The bride is a graduate of Allentown High School with the class of 1918. She was prominent in social circles, and graduated with honor in the department of Domestic Science. Mr. Worsinger is a graduate of Muhlenberg with the class of 1919. He was connected with many school activities, including baseball, the college orchestra, Cue and Quill Club, class football and basketball, and the 1919 Ciarla. In his senior year he served as president of the student body. He is a member of the Delta Theta fraternity. For four months in the fall of 1918 he served in the U. S. Navy. He was elected assistant in the department of Biology at Muhlenberg, entering upon his duties in September, 1919.

Sophs Banquet at Allen

A success from the soup course to the singing of the Alma Mater, the Sophomore banquet held at the Allen last Wednesday evening showed the fine pep and good-fellowship of the class of Twenty-two. Thirty-six members of the class seated themselves at nine o'clock to a banquet served in the Allen's usual fine style. At the head of the table, with class-president Jesse Kline sat Professors Simpson and Cressman, the guests of honor.

After the Lehigh County Turkey had been ingested, together with all the accompanying dishes, Toastmaster Kline called upon Prof. Simpson, who promised to think of "Miscellaneous Misdeeds" of the Sophomores. He found so few of those that he spoke of other things as well, emphasizing the need of sympathetic observation. "We have enough of the other kind,'' he said; and he offered in proof a poem that he had received under the title, ''Her Curls,'' which ended thus: ''*I saw

A tiny switch among those curls.''

Professor Cressman's talk need not have been ''Censored,'' for he had some fine words of advice on putting your best foot forward, and in any emergency being ready with some action to meet it. Herbert Gebert was called on to discuss ''High Life,'' and demonstrated that he had practical knowledge of his subject. Russel Stine with the subject ''Our Sister School at Seventeenth Street'' showed an unexpect ed tendency to ignore the Nurses College, and to fill in with praises of Muhlenberg. W. Theodore Benze under the heading of ''Montana Methods'' gave a graphic account of a ''400'' affair at Mellville, Mont. that he had the pleasure of attending. Several impromptu talks were called for, then with a few college yells and the singing of the Alma Mater, the jolly crowd disbanded, secure in the knowledge that Freshman interference with the banquet had been completely foiled.

The committee in charge of the arrangements consisted of Kline, Kehrli, Orr, Ritter and Knauss.

Mr. Watson Speaks to Student Body

Monday evening, January 12th, at 6 P. M. a group of fifty or sixty students of the college as well as a delegation from Preparatory School were addressed by Mr. Watson, a Y. M. C. A. secretary and social service worker of extensive experience in Europe and South America. Mr. Watson has visited a large number of our American colleges in an effort to gain sympathizers and workers for the cause.

The speaker began with a brief personal sketch and portrayed the part played and the part to be played by the Y. M. C. A. in our industrial work. The social service was organized barely fifteen or twenty years ago.

Mr. Watson then briefly but clearly sketched industrial conditions in the various sections of the United States. Lumber camps offered the first fields of extensive improvement, with the cotton belt next in order. A modern plan of industrial democracy, a system by which the employees shared in the government of the industry was mentioned in connection with the good work done in industrial plants. Mr. Watson stated that the efforts of the social service branch of the Y. M. C. A. were to bring the employee and the employers into closer contact with each other.

During the war enormous sums of money were spent to organize seventy-four Y. M. C. A. centers of which sixty were continued after the war by the companies. The racial problem was stated as offering an obstacle to the cause because in many cases separate buildings were necessary for the negroes.

A. T. O. Holds Smoker

The Alpha Iota Chapter of Alpha Tau Omega entertained a number of friends at their chapter house on South Fourteenth street last Tuesday evening. A number of Freshmen and upperclassmen were the guests of the Taus. Messrs. Park, Corbiere and Taggert, members of national fraternities not represented at Muhlenberg were present.

The chief event of the evening which overshadowed all the jazz and syncopation furnished by the string orchestra and Mickley's traps was the masterful and eloquent presentation by Prof. Albert Fasig of a paper medal resembling the D. S. C. to Mr. Raymond Spenser who that afternoon had saved the life of a fellow human being from a cold and watery grave, accent on the cold, that afternoon.

Another event of the evening which bid fair to put even the speech of the eloquent science professor in the shade was the original oriental dance number put on by Shane and Armbruster.

Muhlenberg Again Co-Educational

On Tuesday last Muhlenberg again opened its doors to a woman, the first to enter since Trout became a man. Prof. Bailey finally yielded to the influences of ''S. H.'' Ungerzagt and admitted to his class in Biology, A. Stiff, a woman with whom the boys can cut up as much as they please. Dr. Ettinger and Prof. Horn have been rather anxious to have this lady enrolled, for it appears that she is an adept in the dead languages.

Because of the awful silence which the lady maintains in the presence of the boys, many of them have taken to chewing tobacco. It is rumored that this silence is maintained because she fears that she may get ''in dutch'' with Prof. Fritsch since his recitation room is so close to her boudoir. Dr. Haas has but one fear, that being that the lady may organize the rest of the class into a Spiritualistic society, with Jack Simmons at the head. To the classes in mathematics who do not get into very close contact with the lady we would say ''Be careful when you do chance to meet her that you don't ''survey'' her too carefully, for she don't like it and you won't either.''

ALUMNI NOTES

'92 Rev. Joshua H. Miller, Ph.D. of the class of '92 is the author of a book published recently which is attracting some attention in both scientific and religious circles. The title of the book is 'The Bible of Nature and the Bible of Grace.''

Leander S. Keyser, D. D., of the Hamma Divinity School, Springfield, Ohio, says of the book:

''While it is scholarly and scientific, it is written in clear and simple English. The short and simply constructed sentence is used, and that most effectively. This feature commends the work both to the scholar and the popular reader. I like it, too, because it shows so clearly and convincingly that the two great books, Nature and the Bible, agree. I have read many books which have attempted to show the harmony between Genesis and Science. Never have I seen it more intelligently and cogently done than in this manuscript. In these days of doubt, agnosticism and positive unbelief, such works as this one are especially in demand, and are greatly needed.''

'01 Howard E. Shimer has resigned as Superntendent of the public schools of Northampton County, to be effective February 1st. He will become associated with the Nazareth Waist Company.

'09 Harold W. Shoenberger has been appointed assistant professor of English at Oregon State College, Corvallis, Oregon. Mr. Shoenberger has had nine years of teaching experience. He was superintendent of schools in Patoka, Indiana, two years, taught Greek at Carleton College and from 1913 to 1918 was assistant professor of English in Pennsylvania State College. Besides his ability as a professor he is well known for his successful staging of plays and organizing of debating societies.

Mr. Shoenberger is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Shoenberger, of 112 East Twenty-first street, Northampton. He graduated from the Northampton High School, holds degrees from Muhlenberg College where he also graduated in 1909, and the University of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia. During the war period his abilities were recognized by the government and he was placed in charge of important governmental work in New York City. His discharge was followed by his acceptance of the position mentioned above. He is well known in this city. While a student at Muhlenberg he participated in many college plays. Hs is a member of the Delta Theta fraternity.

'09 Prof. Warren Fritsch of the Allentown High School has moved to No. 40 S. 17th. St.

'14 Martin D. Fetherolf and Miss Hattie M. Wuchter of Lynnport, were recently married.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Wuchter, of Lynnport. She is a graduate of West Chester Normal School, class of 1916. For the past three years she has been a teacher in the schools of Egypt. She is a most excellent musician.

Her husband is well known in this city. He is a son of the late William K. and Mrs. Mary Fetherolf, of Lynnport. He is a graduate of Muhlenberg College, where he was prominent in college athletics and social affairs. He is a member of the Delta Theta fraternity. He was a member of Coach Tom Kelly's football team in 1913. Following his graduation at Muhlenberg he became head of the Biology department at Pottstown High School and coached the school eleven. He then became a professor in the biology department of the Allentown High School and remained in that position until his enlistment in the army.

He served with the Fourth Regiment, Pa. National Guards, in the Mexican border trouble in 1916 and then with the 110th Infantry in the world war. He was promoted second lieutenant on September 4th, 1918, and after the signing of the armistice was sent to the University of Montpelier to pursue the study of French. Since his return home last September he has resumed teaching in the biological department of the High School.

'19 Carl F. Troutman is Instructor in History, English and Athletics at the Phoenixville High School. His engagement to Miss Helen E. Sotter, of Pottstown, has just been announced.

He is a graduate of Northeast High School, Class of 1913, and for two years was a student at Muhlenberg College where he was prominent in college activities, a member of the Glee and Cue and Quill Clubs and a member of the A. T. O. fraternity.

His college career was cut short by the entry of the United States into the war. He enlisted on May 7th, 1917, in the naval forces.

Concerning Publicity

A college is known only thru publicity. The reader of the Sunday paper peruses the columns of the sporting pages and gleans all his knowledge of intercollegiate affairs from them. A college is famous if frequent mention is given it by the press. All the propaganda and literature sent out broadcast by an institution will not create as great an impression as a small news item in a metropolitan newspaper. In the former case the influence it wields is too limited. It fails to interest the public beyond the small circle of alumni and friends. Broadcast publicity through the press is always recognized as a sure indication of a progressive and up-to-date institution.

The most effective organization to boost a college is a Press Club. Such an organization existed at Muhlenberg before the country's entrance into the war and proved a great material aid in helping to put the college on the map. Unfortunately the club has never been revived. While other colleges are forging ahead and making known to the public their accomplishments in athletics and other college activities, Muhlenberg is contentedly taking a back seat. Muhlenberg is by no means a provincial college but draws its students from other sections than this immediate vicinity. In order to continue to be a drawing card in those sections, she must have a live boosters' club. The "Yale of Pennsylvania" of a few years ago has become a mere enigma. Why not reestablish the Press Club and retain for our Alma Mater its reputation as a leading small college? A reputation and traditions once established will soon be forgotten if not upheld by deeds.

As a successful alumnus recently put it," our activities dare not lag. It must be a constant, persistent, steady push—pulsating and vibrant with vitality." We dare not live in a shell but must keep awake and further the interests of our college. While the rest of the world is reconstructing, we must reconstruct. The question whether Muhlenberg is to remain a first class institution or degenerate depends upon whether she acts now. And the solution to that question depends entirely upon the earnest efforts of the student.

The oncoming campaign to raise funds to increase the endowment makes an organization for publicity imperative. The success of this drive will depend upon the public's interest in Muhlenberg. A Press Club would be able to create that interest by bringing to the attention of the public the achievements and needs of the college.

Only recently one of our most important basketball games failed to receive a writeup in the Philadelphia papers. This is only one instance where Muhlenberg failed to receive due recognition by the press. While we can easily induce ourselves to believe that the omission was unintentional, the blame rests mostly with us. Instead of depending upon the good will of the various reporters, a press club could have reported the game and given it publicity.

We dare not let the standard of Muhlenberg deteriorate. We dare not even let it as it is. The reputation of the college must grow. In order to accomplish this, we need another publicity agent besides the Glee Club. We must let the world know there exists such an institution as Muhlenberg. Hiding our light under a bushel gets us nowhere. We must show it and that effectively. We must have a Press Club!

Students Vote on Treaty

Last Tuesday, January 13th, Muhlenberg cast her vote with the remainder of the colleges and universities of the country on the treaty and the league of nations. Of 164 votes cast here, 30 or 18% were cast for Proposition I, 4 or 2% for Proposition II, 74 or 45% for Proposition III, and 56 or 35% for Proposition IV. Comparing the Muhlenberg vote with the vote of all the colleges and universities, one finds that a total of 139,798 votes cast, 35% were cast for Proposition I, 9% for Proposition II, 20% for Proposition III, and 36% for Proposition IV. The 45% vote cast for Proposition III, that is, ratification with reservations as submitted by Lodge, shows the stand-pat republicanism of the majority of our students.

Spencer A Hero

To Raymond A. Spencer of the Junior class belongs the credit for being the first real honest to gosh, bloody butcher knife hero of Muhlenberg for the present year. He saved a small boy from possible death last Tuesday afternoon by pulling him out of a hole in the ice of Cedar Pool. The boy broke through the thin ice at the deep end of the pool and tried to pull himself out on the wall. There were a number of men on the ice at the time and Spencer was the first to do anything. He skimmed over the thin ice around the hole, climbed on the wall and pulled the victim out.

The boy's clothes were freezing in the cold and Spencer rushed him up to the power house where he was made warm and dry.

Spencer deserves a lot of credit for having the presence of mind to think of the right thing to do and the nerve to do it.

Prof. Cressman Receives Citation

Prof. Cressman last week received a letter from his former commander in the Army, which contained a regimental citation for extraordinary bravery and heroism under fire.

The citation was awarded to Prof. Cressman for his work in directing the burial of the dead in action, between September 13th and October 5th, 1918, while his regiment, the 311th Infantry, of which he was Chaplain and First Lientenant, was in the Limey Sector at St. Mihiel.

Prof. Cressman, who is an alumnus of the class of 1913, entered the Army at the beginning of the late war, as a Chaplain, and was assigned to the 311th Infantry. This regiment was part of the 78th Division, which went overseas early in the war and had a big share in the fighting in the St. Mihiel Sector.

Book Draggers in Limelight

At the last meeting of the Book Dragger's Union, these humble sons of toil showed signs of having caught the restlessness of the hour. In a storm of applause, there was proposed a strike on the platform of an eight hour day, credit and half credit for overtime, and no flunks for absence. Secretary John Bauer is now tabulating the votes on the strike proposal.

Ursinus Nosed Out

As the final whistle blew, the crowd heaved a sigh of relief for the score-board showed Muhlenberg ahead of Ursinus by the extremely narrow margin of two points. The game, which was played on Friday evening, January 23rd, on the Y. M. C. A. floor, easily eclipsed all others seen here in many a day for thrills, comebacks and the like.

Ursinus staged two of the finest comebacks, one in each half, that have taken place in a long time. In the first half, with a seven point lead against them, Ursinus drew up so rapidly that the score at the end of the half was 19-18, favor of Muhlenberg.

The second half saw even a more remarkable return. In the first part, Muhlenberg ran up a ten-point lead with with a resultant score of 30-20, only to see this dwindle to two points, the final score being 36-34.

Lewis and Rhode did the best work for Muhlenberg, the former getting five field goals from his guard position, while the latter made 18 out of 26 foul goals. Grove and Vedder shone for Ursinus. The score:

Muhlenberg	Position	Ursinus
Rhode	Forward	Grove
Butz	Forward	McMullen
Erb	Center	Vedder
Taggart	Guard	Light
Lewis	Guard	Frutchey

Substitutions: Muhlenberg, Smythe for Butz; Ursinus, Isenberg for Light. Field goals: Rhode, 2; Erb, 2; Lewis, 5; Grove, 5; McMullen, 1; Vedder, 5; Light, 2; Frutchey, 1. Foul goals: Rhode, 18 out of 26; Light, 6 out of 8. Referee: Harold Kistler, Y. M. C. A.

Lose Hard Contest to Rutgers

In a loose game at New Brunswick on January 24 the basketball team lost to Rutgers by the score of 26 to 17. The first half of the game was a fine contest from the spectator's standpoint, the score at half time being 12-12. Soon after the opening of the second half Meury scored 4 goals in rapid succession putting Rutgers to the front never to be headed. The team was royally entertained by the Rutgers management during their stay at New Brunswick. Score:

Rutgers:	Field Goals	Foul Goals	Total
Benzoni, forward	3	0	6
Taliferro, forward	1	0	2
Hall, center	2	0	4

Substitutions: Rutgers: Doran for Taliferro; Leech for Benoni; Dettinger for Hall. Muhlenberg: Smythe for Taggart; Taggart for Erb.

Drexel Easy Victim

Resuming athletic relations with Drexel Institute after a lapse of several seasons the basketball team won a very decisive victory over the institute team on their floor last Friday afternoon. The outstanding feature of the game was the foul shooting of Rhode making 14 points out of 19 trials. When Rhode was removed from the game to save for the next games Butz continued the good work. The work of referee Glover was the best that the team struck all season. The entire Muhlenberg squad on the trip took part in the game. Score:

Muhlenberg:	Field Goals	Foul Goals	Total
Rhode, forward	5	14	24

Varsity Defeats P. M. C.

Not content with the win over Drexel the team turned its attention to P. M. C. on Saturday afternoon and in a finely played game easily won over the veteran Cadet team. Lewis with five field goals was the star of this game, which was featured thruout by clean play and good work on the part of Referee Jourdet. Score:

P. M. C.	Field Goals	Foul Goals	Total

Lose to Little Quakers

Another new opponent in Muhlenberg's Athletics was faced on Saturday evening when the team met Swarthmore at Swarthmore. The strain of the two previous games seemed to tell on the accuracy of the team's shots and we lost a hard game, 27-9. The game was harder fought than the score indicates. Muhlenberg's passing was superior to that of the Quakers but when they had chances to score they were not so lucky with their shots. Lewis finished this game, thus playing full time in the three games on the trip and being the mainstay of the offense. Taggart played a splendid guarding game. Score:

Swarthmore:	Field Goals	Foul Goals	Total

Early Morning Blaze Threatens Dorms

The first serious dormitory fire that ever occurred in the history of Muhlenberg College threatened the lives of the inmates of West Berks Hall early Thursday morning January 29 and destroyed personal property valued at $1500 and damaged the building to the extent of between $3000 and $4000. The fire was discovered at 1:45 a. m.

The heaviest losers were Arlan Kline, '21, Myron Kistler, '22, and Daniel Kistler, '21. The latter had a narrow escape as he was awakened by Herbert Reinartz, '22, who discovered the fire just in time to get out in safety. They lost practically all the furniture and clothes in their double suite. Theodore Zweier, '21, and Paul Wohlson, '21, who roomed just above the Kistlers had some property loss, probably amounting to about $50.

No one was dangerously injured. H. Sherman Oberly, '20, suffered a dislocated shoulder as a result of a slip on the ice as he was carrying some things out of the building. He was taken to the Allentown Hospital where the shoulder was set and was discharged two days later. Walter S. Berger, '22, suffered injuries to the back when the sheets on which he was descending from his second floor room broke and he fell to the ground. It is believed that his injuries are not serious. Ira Zartman, '23, cut his hand when he thrust his fist through the glass door of the telephone room and was cared for by one of the pre-med men with first aid treatment.

There was no sign of panic among the student body. The alarm was sent in soon after the fire was discovered. A number of the fellows went through the hall before the fire companies arrived and felt every bed to see that nobody was left. This was a difficult task on account of the thick smoke which filled the building.

When the fire companies came the college men were right on the job every minute. As soon as need of help for the apparatus to get through the drifts in the driveway was apparent there were about thirty men there who were ready to put a shoulder to the wheel. The Muhlenberg boys aided the firemen in connecting up the hose and then aided in plying the streams of water on the fire. The prompt efficient work of the fire laddies and the aid of the college men kept into a comparatively small area, a fire which threatened to destroy the whole dormitory. In an interview Fre Chief Kranzley said, "I have nothing but good to say for the work of the boys. I wish to thank them for the way in which they helped us and I'll always be ready to help them in any way I can." Police Chief Bernhard, who arrived at the scene of the fire with the first of the firemen and was there until the fire was practically under control said, "The boys certainly did fine work and their familiarity with the lay of the land was a great help in fighting the fire."

The fire started in the basement in the immediate vicinity of the paper baler. The theory that the fire was started by a carelessly thrown cigarette is destroyed by the fact that no cellar window was open. Windows had to be broken to get water on the flames. The theory that the fire started from a fireplace is eliminated by the proven fact that the fire originated in the cellar and also there was no fire in the Kistler room that evening. Three of the roommates had gone home and the other was asleep when the fire started. The mouse and match theory is the one advanced by most of the students.

Muhlenberg Men All Set for the Drive

The "zero" hour has been set and all is ready; all through the battle area of campaign activity the word has been given and in a few more weeks the barrage will open up ceasing only when Muhlenberg Men and Alumni have obtained their objective. The men, like eager doughboys, await the word "Over the Top" to victory and the $500,000 which will enable Muhlenberg to carry on with newer vigor the work of building men which has been her own since the foundation of the college.

The work of organization of the various agencies which will contribute to the work will be begun very shortly and will be in charge of Mr. C. H. Weller of Williamsport, one who has had a great deal of experience along this line of work. He will make his headquarters in the reception of the "ad" building upon arrival, and will start immediately to put his plans into effect. Complete announcement of these plans will be made later.

In the winning of this goal it is essential that all men flock to the colors, as it were, during the weeks of the drive. United and concerted effort will be necessary. As individuals we must all share our part, giving freely to the Alma Mater which has given so much to us. It is not a question of "Can we do it?" but "Will we do it?"

Muhlenberg College is a builder of men. She does not only turn out students who have finished a prescribed course, rewarding them upon completion of a certain routine, with a certain degree. She does more than that. The degree B. S., A. B,. and Ph. D., which men have tacked on to their names when they leave her is nothing compared to the one of Manhood and Character which her influence has stamped indelibly upon them.

The Social Side

It has been often said and truly that a man comes to college to develop his mental, moral, and physical abilities. The colleges and universities of this great country of ours are expected to turn out men trained to the greatest efficiency in their chosen professions. Muhlenberg has been successful in developing men mentally and morally because of the requirements of her curriculum. The R. O. T. C. Unit and compulsory physical training are developing the men of Muhlenberg physically.

But besides these three activities, it seems to the writer that a college man should be developed socially, so that he will be able to take his place on an equal footing with men when he meets them in the outside world. What has Muhlenberg done to further this side of man's education? Or we may better ask, what can she do?

Outside of the festivities connected with Commencement Week there have been very few social affairs held by the college during the last few years. Why could not the Student Body hold a dance at least once a month, not only for the pleasure derived but for the improvement of the social side of the college men? Would not a college dance, to which only college men are admitted, and at which members of the college faculty would act as chaperones be of advantage to the college student? At least, it would be better for the college man to attend dances given by his own college than, if he desires to dance at all, to attend the public dances in town. Last year, dances were held after all basketball games, but that is impossible this year as the games are being played in town.

Nevertheless, the need for social improvement is growing rapidly—a man is in need of the ability to conduct himself as becomes a gentleman in society—so why not institute a series of monthly dances and make the social side of Muhlenberg a reality?

A Press Club

Some years ago there was a certain club at Muhlenberg, which was possibly the best club on the campus, looking at things from the standpoint of the advancement of the name of Muhlenberg. But for some unknown reason, possibly the war, since we have nothing else to blame it on, that club died out. It was recommended a few weeks ago in the Weekly that the Press Club be reorganized, but the matter received little or no attention.

The fire which so seriously threatened the dormitories last week brot the matter to a head. The day after the fire a leading Allentown paper and one of the leading Philadelphia papers appeared with the story of the fire, but with the facts horribly distorted. To the people outside, it decreased the reputation of Muhlenberg greatly. The articles seemed to indicate that the men of Muhlenberg were nothing but a bunch of rowdies and hoodlums. The distorted facts caused many worries in the hearts of parents who do not live in or near Allentown. Right here is where a Press Club could have been of immense value. This Club could have supplied the papers with correct, instead of, distorted facts, and could have saved many worries. The college would have been represented to the people outside as consisting of men, not of rowdies, as the erroneous reports would seem to indicate. In addition to this, the Press Club could aid greatly by keeping the Philadelphia papers supplied with all athletic scores. It is a pretty bad state of affairs when one cannot find basketball scores in Philadelphia papers but must wait until the team returns to know the result.

There are many other activities which a Press Club could undertake. It won't be only another inactive club whose picture gets in the Ciarla—the Press Club is a necessity—we must have it to spread the fair name of Muhlenberg.

And she can do still greater things with increased facilities and power. What she has done and will do for us, it is our duty as students and as alumni to help her do to others. Will we prove true to the test, will we show that world the true greatness of the big "M" that she stamps upon the heart of every man at school? If we shall, let's go, altogether. A Long Muhlenberg with three $500,000's on the end of it. Come on fellows, let's go.

R. O. T. C. To Hold First Dance

The R. O. T. C., the largest organiation at Muhlenberg, will give a formal, military dance Tuesday, February 10, in the Commons. All ex-service men are cordially invited to be the guests of the R. O. T. C. unit. Preparations being made give promise of a social event which will surpass anything of the kind yet attempted by the students. Many prominent people will be the patrons and patronesses of the affair and the guests will include the faculty and noted military men.

This will likewise afford the members of the unit an opportunity to select several young ladies to be sponsors of their particular companies and the battalion. Keen competition in the voting to follow may be assured.

The R. O. T. C., in its short existence, has attained a remarkable popularity wherever it has been established and its possibilities of development and expansion are limited only by the ability of the War Department to provide officers and secure adequate appropriations for the work. As a means of preparing young men for commissions in the Reserve Corps it stands as the most economical and satisfactory scheme yet devised. School and college authorities are practically unanimous in recognizing the value of the training offered. Improvement in undergraduate discipline, increased respect for constituted authority, better physical bearing, and a noticeable development of self-control, leadership, and patriotism are commonly mentioned as the direct results of R. O. T. C. activity. The above are sure to follow from the influence excited by the unit at Muhlenberg.

Delta Theta Fraternity Marks its 22nd Anniversary

The Delta Theta Fraternity celebrated the 22nd anniversary of its founding with a banquet last Friday night at the home of the Elks on So. 8th St. In addition to the Active Chapter more than fifty Alumni of the fraternity were present and partook of an appetizing Lehigh County turkey dinner.

After the banquet the meeting was placed in charge of toastmaster John Sensbach of Brooklyn, New York. As the principal speaker he called upon the Hon. Lawrence H. Rupp, Democratic State chairman who set forth the activities and accomplishments of Delta Theta, and visualized the ideals of fraternity men and their influence upon success in life.

Among the other Alumni who were called upon for short remarks were Ray E. Dorney, Treasurer of Penn Counties Trust Co., Russel C. Mauch, Esq. of Hellertown, Leroy P. Umbenhauer of the real estate firm of Umbenhauer & Wanner, Reading, and "Ben" Hubbard of Yonkers, New York, the well-known football star of Tom Kelly's Regime. Linn Schantz, Miles Stroup, and William G. Weaber spoke for the Active Chapter.

The out-of-town Alumni included John Sensbach of Brooklyn, R. Willard Baer, Leroy P. Umbenhauer and Dr. Frank Gable of Reading; Norman R. Frankenfield, Andrew J. Kolesar and Earl D. Laros of Easton, Russel G. Gaston of Phillipsburg, New Jersey; Maurice K. Deturck, George E. Creighton and Rev. Henry Wacker, of Philadelphia; Charles Esser of Kutztown; Rev. Charles E. Keim of Lebanon; Benjamin Hubbard of Yonkers, New York; Carl F. Troutman of Phoenixville; Eugene Delong of Birdsboro; and Eugene F. Tice of Bethlehem.

Phi Kappa Tau Dance

On Tuesday evening, January 00, the Eta Chapter of the Phi Kappa Tau Fraternity with the invited freshmen and guests held a dance at the Hotel Traylor. The music was furnished by the Hotel Traylor orchestra, which fully upheld its reputation. The hall was beautifully decorated with Muhlenberg and Fraternity banners and pennants. Time seemed to fly on wigs as the merry couples danced away the happy hours. At a late hour the youthful devotees of Terpsichore departed to their respective homes.

Professor Cressman and his friend and Major and Mrs. Clapham acted as charepones for the evening. Many of the alumni with their friends were also present.

Some Advantages of Railroad Electrification

Saving the Nation's coal.

Lower maintenance costs.

Greater reliability and fewer delays.

Ability to haul smoothly heavier trains at higher speed.

Operation of electric locomotives unaffected by extreme cold.

Ability to brake trains on descending grades by returning power to the trolley.

The Power of Electricity in Transportation

ELECTRICITY has leveled out the Continental Divide. The steam locomotive, marvelous as it is after a century of development, cannot meet all of the present demands for transportation facilities. Its electric rival has proved to be far superior.

On the mountain divisions of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway—the world's greatest electrification—giant electric locomotives today lift an ever increasing freight tonnage over the mile-high Rockies and also make traveling clean and comfortable. They utilize the abundant energy of distant waterfalls and then, by returning some of this power to the trolley, safely brake the trains on descending grades. And their capabilities are not impaired by excessively cold weather when the steam engine is frozen and helpless.

Electricity is the power which drives the trains of New York City's subway and elevated systems. It operates the locks and tows the ships through the Panama Canal. It propels the Navy's latest super-dreadnaught, the New Mexico. Electric mine locomotives have replaced the slow-moving mule and the electric automobile has also come to do an important service.

Electricity has become the universal motive power. It has contributed efficiency and comfort to every form of transportation service and in this evolution General Electric apparatus has played a large part—from mighty electric locomotives to the tiny lamp for the automobile.

Delaware's Fast Start Proves Disastrous

Muhlenberg suffered her first defeat on the home floor this season last Saturday evening, when the undefeated Delaware College five won by a score of 36 to 25.

All the damage was done in the first five minues, the visitors getting a total of thirteen points before Rhode slipped a foul goal into the basket. Immediately after this, Taggart replaced Erb at center, Smythe going in at guard. New pep was noticeable and with the aid of good foul shooting on the part of Rhode, and a number of field goals by Rhode and Butz, the home team began to crawl up with the result that the score at the end of the first half was 24 to 14, in favor of Delaware.

The second half was close, Rhode and Butz holding their own in the tap-off against the Delaware six-footers. However, the Delaware team was too good on the long distance shots with the result that they constantly remained ahead. With Muhlenberg only six points behind, Taggart was ruled out of the game on personal fouls, with the result that the last chance for a win was gone. Lewis took his place at center and played a fine game, but was unable to compete successfully with the height and range of the Delaware team. Although the locals tried desperately to stem the tide, the exit of Taggart was a little too much with the result that Delaware slipped in a few more double-deckers which made the final score 36-25.

Rhode's foul shooting, Lewis's field goal work and Taggart's exceptional guarding directly under the basket were the features of the work of the home team, while outstanding feature of the Delaware play was the three-man attack neither of the guards entering the scrimmage unless the ball was directly under the opponent's basket.

The score:

Muhlenberg	Position	Delaware
Rhode	Forward	G. Carter
Butz	Forward	Alexander
Erb	Center	McCann
Taggart	Guard	C. Carter
Lewis	Guard	Wills

Substitutions:—Muhlenberg Taggart for Erb, Smythe for Taggart, Lewis for Taggart, Schleicher for Lewis.

Field Goals: Rhode, 4; Butz, 3; Lewis, 1; G. Carter, 1; Alexander, 2; McCann, 12.

Foul Goals: Rhode, 9; G. Carter, 6.

Referee: Harold Kistler, Y. M. C. A.

Basketball Season Three-Fourths Over

The Delaware game last Saturday marked the three quarter point of the present basketball schedule. To date the team has won five and lost seven games. The team though most of the men are new has developed into one of the best passing teams at Muhlenberg in many seasons. The offense usually moves about Lewis as the pivot. Rhode and Butz on the sides. Friday afternoon the team will leave for the last two-game trip of the season when they will meet Haverford and St. Josephs. The following Wednesday Ursinus will be met at Collegeville and on February 21 Temple will play its return game in Allentown. Moravian will be met at Bethlehem on February 28 and the season will close with the old rivals LAFAYETTE on the Y. M. C. A. floor on March 3. At the present time the season is considered successful and it is the belief of the student body that the team will turn in 100% wins in the remaining games.

Students Hear About Insurance

A comprehensive talk on "Fire Insurance" was given to the chapel assembly on February fifth by Mr. Ray Brown, of the firm of Brown and Koch. He has been selling Fire insurance for thirty years, and from the findings of his years of study of the subject, he presented an interesting and valuable assemblage of facts. He said in part: "Fire Insurance has been the butt of more criticism than any other business, but it is founded upon facts and statistics to greater extent than any other business. It is a commercialized system of loss distribution. Upon it depends to a great extent one of the three essentials of business, that is, capital; for without fire insurance our modern credit system would be impossible. Insurance rates in Europe are only one-fifth as high as here, because fire losses are only one fifth as great. In the United States and Canada, the equivalent of a four thousand dollar home is destroyed every ten minutes by fire. Two-thirds of these fires are preventable, and as soon as we use more care, our insurance cost will be reduced.''

Missionary Tells of India

Rev. Dr. John Aberly, missionary to India, gave an interesting first-hand account of religious and social conditions as they are found in India, during Tuesday's chapel period. He came from his station at Guntur, India, to make a tour of the Lutheran church schools in order to furnish information to such students as might think of taking up missionary work in India.

''India is a country of threes,'' he said. ''The Hindus have 330,000,000 gods. There are about 30,000 castes that refuse to intermarry. There are about two or three thousand castes that refuse to interdine. The population can, however, be divided into three great classes or castes. The lowest class, outcasts from the Brahman religion, have been receiving Christianity ,but now the upper class sees the progress that the despised outcasts have made, and they are taking an active interest in this outcast class, so Christianity can no longer say as formerly that there is plenty of time to get to these people. The middle class is thoroly controlled by the upper class, but some of these are becoming Christians.

''The Brahmans themselves, the highest class, are Aryans like ourselves in origin, as the roots of the language show; and they are a commercial and intellectual class who think as we are apt to think that the rest of the world is made for their pleasure. They use religion to exploit their people. We exploit people in the name of commerce. This is one of the things that makes the spread of Christianity difficult; many who admire our Christ as we do refuse to become Christians, because they say 'You are not not living your Christ.' ''

Alumni Notes

'74 Rev. Jacob Quickel Upp, pastor emeritus of St. Paul's Lutheran church, Easton, South Side, died suddenly at 6 o'clock Wednesday evening at the Easton Hospital from pneumonia. Had he lived until next May he would have been 73 years old.

Rev. Upp was born near York on May 21, 1847, a son of George J. and Mary Upp. At the age of nine years the family moved to near Mechanicsburg, Cumberland county, where the young man attended the Cumberland Valley Institute and the private school of Mechanicsburg. Later he entered the Millersburg State Normal school with a view of preparing himself for a life of teaching, but after serving four years as a teacher, during which time he met with much success, he heard a greater call, and decided to take a collegiate course to prepare himself for the ministry.

After studying Latin and Greek for a year with Rev. J. R. Groff, he entered Muhlenberg College in Allentown, in the fall of 1870, graduating on June 25, 1874. In the same year he entered the Lutheran Theological Seminary at Philadelphia and graduated on May 22, 1877.

Rev. Upp was ordained in the ministerium of Pennsylvania at St. John's Lutheran church, Allentown on May 20, 1877.

On June 7, 1877, he was married to Miss Catherine F. Rowe, of Mechanicsburg.

Beginning his pastorate at St. Paul's church June 1, 1877, he served continuously until March 1, 1916, when he was taken ill, and the following June 1, his thirty-ninth anniversary, he tendered his resignation.

When he began his pastorate he planned the erection of St. Paul's church, at which time the estimated cost was placed at $10,000. The building was constructed and when Rev. Upp celebrated his twenty-fifth anniversary as pastor, the church debt was liquidated.

'15 Walter L. Reisner has resigned his position the Industrial Training Department of Oswego State Normal School to accept a business opportunity in the engineering department of the Diamond Match Corporation, Oswego branch. His present address is 65 W. 4th St., Oswego, N. Y.

'19 Kehl Markley has been elected to fill the vacancy in the grammar grade at Pennsburg.

Le Eglise De Mailly.

In the center of the shell torn village stood the little church, battle-scarred, yet proudly defiant of all about it. I paused before it with the air of one who pauses before the tomb of a great martyr, for that is the impression immediately forced upon one as he gazes upon these little "Houses of God," scattered all over the battle area, and in some cases desecrated almost beyond recognition. Shining high above me, its gilded steeple top reflected all the glory of the dying sunset, while deep resonant and low came the tolling of the bell in the belfry as it sounded the hour of six.

I stepped inside those ravaged walls, passing through a great oaken door pierced by the cruel holes of countless bullets which had forever marred the polish and the gloss of those medieval panels. Within the church I paused again, suddenly mute before all the destruction which the Huns had here wrought. Suddenly my eye was drawn toward a figure over the dust laden altar. It was a life size cast of the Christ nailed to His cruel cross. One foot, the left if I remember correctly, had been shot completely away and just beneath the gaping and curiously life like wound in the side of the Christ was a tiny bullet hole, small in size but in portent and meaning as large as the world itself.

The sudden realization of the hell of war swept over me like an ague. All in an instant it seemed to me that the sounds of the never silent machine guns were suddenly transformed into the sound of blows upon wood, of cruel pails being driven into a cross—The Christ was being crucified again by the world, and the din and fury of the battle became the shouts of the insane rabble as they shouted for the death of Christ and the release of the Barabbas of greed, lust, hate and sin. The crowned head seemed to bend just a bit lower, the partly closed eyes seemed to send out a last mute appeal, and I knew from that hour on that Germany would pay.

It's U

If U want to live at the kind of a College,
Like the kind of a College U like,
U needn't slip your clothes in a grip
You'll find what you left behind.

The world in a cycle moves as nature's rule,
For there is nothing really new.
It's knock at yourself when U knock your school,
It isn't your College, it's U!

Real Colleges are not made by men afraid,
Lest some other school gets ahead,
When every student works and nobody shirks
U can raise a College from the dead.

And if while you are making a personal stake.
Your schoolmate can make one too,
Your College will be what U want it to be,
It isn't your College, it's U.

Pep

Vigor, vitality, vim and punch—
That's pep!
The courage to act on a sudden hunch
That's pep!
The nerve to tackle the hardest thing,
With feet that climb, and hands that cling,
And a heart that never forgets to sing—
That's pep!

Sand and grit in a concrete base—
That's pep!
Friendly smile on an honest face—
That's pep!
The spirit that helps when another's down,
That knows how to scatter the blackest frown,
That loves its neighbor and loves its town—
That's pep!

To say "I will"—for you know you can—
That's pep!
To look for the best in every man—
That's pep!
To meet each thundering knock-out blow,
And come back with a laugh, because you know
You'll get the best of the whole darn show—
That's pep!

In the Limelight Again

Truth will always come to light, they say. So will the various Clubs of Muhlenberg. The annual phenomenon of snapping pictures for the Ciarla is putting in its appearance again and, as in previous years, it is disclosing the existence of numerous organizations on the campus. It is a wonderful discovery, indeed! It would be mere folly to describe the personal feelings of pride and importance which attach themselves with one's picture in the college annual. The significance of the discovery lies not in the mere presence of the organization but in the organization itself. Students organize in order to produce or perform something.

Most of our clubs are regular riddles. Some puzzle us with their names, others with the very nature of their purpose. The large amount of space in the Ciarla devoted to these various clubs would have us believe that they accomplish wonders among the student body . A dozen organizations under the caption of Clubs would seem to bespeak lots of spirit and aggressiveness on the part of the members. This impression, however, is but short-lived. Outside of a few active ones, they show signs of activity only when the camera man makes his annual return for the Junior Class. Between these visitations they do not exist.

It is not the intent of the writer in this editorial to discourage students from forming such organizations. They are an essential element in the student body. Nor is his intention to accuse any particular club of inactivity. A glance at the list billed for the Ciarla is sufficient to sort out the active from the dormant.

There has always been a tendency to organize the men who hail from some particular county or section of the country or from some particular preparatory school. These clubs are the most desirable and can be put to most advantage. They furnish the best means of advertising a college. This specific kind of organization forms the best drawing card for new students at a large institution in this state. All that is needed is activity. The field of work in this case is limited to the district from which the club derives its name.

We have several regional clubs at Muhlenberg. Their original purpose was to work for the welfare of the college by carrying on extensive publicity and thus induce prospective students to come to Muhlenberg. With most, the noble ideals have been forgotten and the club has become a mere picture club.

New organizations always prove to be the more active. Among the few active ones are three which have been formed during the present year. They at least are adhering to the principles that prompted their creation and are working for the welfare of old Muhlenberg. Why have they managed to succeed while the rest are inactive? Altogether different in their interests, yet striving for the same ends, they are instilling new enthusiasm among their members. The one especially is doing excellent work by waging a publicity campaign in a neighboring county by means of social affairs. Let us hope the others will profit by their example.

Clubs, after all, are without significance if they exist as picture organizations only. The college has no place for anybody who is not loyal to his Alma Mater. Loyalty to your college demands that you make your club a living one,—one the college can well be proud of.

Deck, '20, in Hospital

Luther J. Deck, '20, was removed to the Allentown Hospital on Sunday evening. He had been suffering from a slight attack of grippe for the past week. He had apparently recovered when a relapse occurred and bronchial pneumonia set in.

Students Wield Shovels

About forty Muhlenberg students responded to the call issued by the Highway Department of Allentown for laborers to remove the snow drifts from Hamilton Street. At the same time about a dozen were employed in relieving the plight of the college which had been well-nigh isolated by the blizzard.

Putting a Ban on Profanity

Surprise was marked on the countenances of several hundred thousand persons who read recently of the edict of the Pennsylvania Railroad which declared that employees of the Pennsylvania lines would be prohibited from the use of profanity while on duty. This, the Kansas City Post says, is "synonymous with taking the rail out of railroading."

The move is very much in keeping with the established policy of the Pennsylvania road to create a force of clean, intelligent workers, on the theory that such a force is able to give the best service to the public. Though there will doubtless be some disention and talk of "workers' rights" and "capitalists making slaves of the men," all

Lose to Haverford, 23—14

Last Friday evening the basketball team lost a remarkably slow game to Haverford at Haverford. The score at the end of the first half was 7-4 with Haverford in the lead. The second half was more interesting. The long spectacular shots by Burritt were the features. Rhode with three field goals was Muhlenberg's best bet.

Healey and Devine were the stars for St. Joseph's, while Butz, Rhode and Lewis were up to their usual good form.

Big Audiences Hear Glee Club

After completing a tour of coal region towns where it was greeted by large and enthusiastic crowds, the college Glee Club appeared in several down-state towns

The first concert of last week's itinerary was given in Martin Auditorium at Lancaster under the auspices of St. Mark's Lutheran Church. Entertainments at Boyertown, Pottstown, and Philadelphia completed the tour. At Philadelphia the program was rendered in Scottish Rites Hall. At every place the program was thoroughly enjoyed by large audiences as was attested by the repeated demands for encores.

The following write-up appeared in the "Pottstown News" in appreciation of the program:

"The Muhlenberg College Glee Club scored another triumph in Pottstown on Thursday evening when it paid its annual visit here and gave a concert and entertainment program in the Grand Opera House before an audience which was limited only by the seating capacity of the playhouse. The audience frequently evidenced its satisfaction with the program and encores were given in response to the applause that greeted the various members of the club.

There are twenty-two members in the club this year, sixteen of whom have been on former tours. Among the new-comers is Gresh, 23, piano soloist and accompanist. He is a specialist of technique, and the impression is, judging from the reception that he has received at the various concerts this year, that his future as a soloist and accompanist is very favorable.

The cornet soloist, Bryan, '23, has the advantage of wide experience as soloist in many bands of Eastern Pennsylvania which has most splendidly fitted him for his work with the club.

Kline, '21, is a first tenor who has had three years' experience with the famous Bach choir of Bethlehem. In his work with the Glee Club he has demonstrated ability which has been appreciated by both the public and his fellow members.

Longkamer, '23, is a baritone soloist with a voice of exceptional quality, having a wonderful range.

Mosser, '23, is a comedian whose "fun stuff" never fails to get the recognition it deserves.

Rees, '23, second bass, was equipped for this work with experience gained as a member of choirs in Lehighton, Greensburg, and more recently in Philadelphia.

After the concert the members of the organization were guests at various social functions in Pottstown homes where they were entertained."

A. E. F. Club Holds Smoker

The first smoker of the A. E. F. Club was held at the Delta Theta Fraternity House at 731 Turner Street on Thursday night, February 12th. Unfortunately not all the members could be present but those who were there report having had a good time.

Raymond A. Kline, chairman of the entertainment committee, presided at the meeting and called upon the following for speeches: Harvey Snyder, the president of the club who spoke on "The Club, and Its Relation to the Student Body Activities," Luther Klick on "The Work of the Y. M. C. A. in Paris," Floyd Shupp on "The A. E. F. University at Beaune," Elmer McKee on "Blood, and the Pursuit Thereof," and Amon Lichty on "Tanks and How to Fill Them."

The musical end of the program was in the hands of John Shankweiler, the official pianist of the club, and Floyd Shupp and Ira Fritz who rendered several vocal selections. McKee and Shupp won the card-playing contest and were awarded handsome prizes.

The entertainment committee which is composed of Raymond Kline as chairman, Raymond Shankweiler and Raymond Dillman, is arranging for a banquet to be held in the near future, and other things may be looked for by this leading club at Muhlenberg.

There was an ample amount of Bacchus consumed and other refreshments such as ice cream and cake were served. The members adjourned at a late hour expressing their thanks to their hosts and with a feeling of fellowship such as men who went through the trials of the Great War can only realize.

No More K. P.

The abolishing of the K. P. system by which each man took his turn working in the kitchen and dining room for a regular staff of waiters and kitchen men and the raise in the board from $4.50 to $5.50 per week took effect last Sunday. For single meals dinners will be fifty cents and suppers forty cents.

The cause of the change was the inability of the treasurer to find a man to take the job of managing the commons under the K. P. system after Luther Deck, '20, who had charge of it, was striken with bronchial pneumonia as a partial result of a rundown condition of the nervous system.

Freshman Debating Society to Hold First Program

On Thursday evening, February 19th, at 7 P. M., in the Sophronia Hall, the first program of the lately organized Freshman Debating Society will be rendered. Some of the members of the Freshman class have lamented the fact that both the Sophronia and Euterpean Literary Socities have been discontinued. Realizing that some means was necessary to train the students in public speaking and debating on timely topics, the Freshman Debating Society was organized. A constitution was adopted and the following officers elected: President, Carl Cassone; Pice President, Leroy Strunk; Secretary, Horace Mann; Treasurer, Ira Fritz.

The first program is as follows: Essay, Richard Lutz; Address, Prof. Simpson; Extemporaneous speeches, John Trout, Paul Ritter, and Ivan Sanders. Debate, Resolved that the railroads be returned to private ownership on March 1, 1920; Affirmative, Bolick, Kramer; Negative, Weiler, Fritz. Report of Judges and Critic, followed by a short business meeting.

The purpose of the society is to interest the freshmen in the important topics of the day and to give them an opportunity to improve their ability at public speaking. All freshmen and specials are eligible for membership, and are invited to attend the first program. Faculty members are also invited to attend. Freshmen, let's get together and make this organization a success!

A Modern Fable

When the Creator had made all the good things, it seemed that there was still some unpleasant work to do, and so He made the beasts, the reptiles and the poisonous insects; and when He had finished He still had some old scraps left over that were even too bad to put into the Rattlesnake, the Scorpion, and the Skunk; so He put all these together, covered it with suspicion, wrapped it with jealousy, marked it with a yellow streak, and called it a KNOCKER.

However, this product was so fearful to contemplate that He had to make something to counteract it; so He took a good and noble deed, put into it the heart of a child and the brain of a man, wrapped it in college pride, covered it with fellowship, made it a believer in equality and justice, a worker for and ardent supporter of every good thing in the college and called it a BOOSTER; and thenceforth mortal man has had the privilege of choosing his associates.

College Journalism Described in Record

In the Sunday edition of the Philadelphia Record for February 8th appeared an interesting article under the heading of "College Journalism a Social Barometer." It deals with the tendencies and characteristics of collegiate journalism as evidenced by the papers of the I. N. A. The article is from the pen of Dr. E. N. Vallandigham, a prominent journalist.

A special feature of the article is an account of each college paper, written by the different college editors, telling of their development and aims. The article is accompanied, too, by the photographs of nine of the editors and four of the business managers, including those of the Muhlenberg Weekly, together with a display of several headlines from various papers of the I. N. A.

At Chateau-Thierry

The stillness of the night was awful and the thick blackness through which the rain cut its way, gave us a feeling that something terrible was about to break loose. My companion and I were hurrying along through a soaked field trying to complete, before the zero hour, a telephone line which would give the infantry and the artillery in support a means of communication. We groped our way along through the darkness, down a steep hill, over a barbed wire entanglement which seemed to reach out arms at every move to tear off bits of our clothes, through thick brush that emptied its accumulation of rain at a touch, and up a small hill on the other side until breathless, we finally reached the cave which held the infantry headquarters. Suddenly, as if all hell had broken loose, came a roar which deafened us for a moment and we knew that the long looked for zero hour for an advance had arrived. By this time it was light and from the valley we stared up into the mouths of what appeared to be thousands of growling beasts which lined the front for miles and miles almost hub to hub, spitting out the death warrants so fast that there was but one thunderous roar. The enemy's artillery was not long answering and soon one could hardly distinguish from the sound between the outgoing and the incoming shells.

But suddenly came that unmistakable quick, sharp whistle of our landing close and we both dived for covering. When I came to a stop I found myself in a small dark hole in the side of a bank and of course my first move was to find a comfortable position in this filthy place for I had no idea how long this volley would last.

I had noticed at first a strange odor but it seemed to grow more irritating and on looking over my shoulder I found that I had company in the form of a dead German who had evidently crawled into the hole after being wounded. Immediately after I discovered what I was up against, everything became more horrible. The hollow place seemed to close in on all sides, the opening became smaller, the exploding shells seemed to be closer and more abundant, and the dead rotting body of an enemy seemed to move toward me at every explosion. It would be foolish to go out and the thing terrified and sickened me. I tried to shake off this horrible feeling and think that these sights were to be seen everywhere, but it affected me even more and I scrambled out, to my feet and ran, not waiting to listen for the sound of shells or for my companion, but he had seen me start and had followed and we soon got back to headquarters.

I remained silent and kept the experience to myself, but I couldn't get the sight from my mind. That form of a dead man, the face just visible looking up at me through the darkness, made a hideous sight. I can laugh now when I think of it but nevertheless I am not fond of dead men close to me, especially Germans.

R. W. P.

Flirtation

I met her on the street one day,
She smiled and shyly glanced away;
Discretion bade me to beware,
Yet something in her charming air
Caused me to turn and follow.

She tripped along quite gracefully,
Her manner, coy, encouraged me;
For every hundred feet or so,
She innocently turned as though
She knew I did not follow.

Trim ankle and soft moulded knee,
With lengthy steps she showed to me;
The bait I took with line and hook,
Sometimes I stole a careless look
As gaily I did follow.

Something there was in her attitude,
'Twas strange how I misunderstood;
For soon she spied a husky man,
And, "Hubby dear, how glad I am"
Caused me to cease to follow.

Education to the Front

During the last decade there have arisen side by side two great changes in public sentiment in the United States: first, a sense of responsibility among individuals for the support of the educator and the upholding of the standard of education; second, the realization of the enormous importance of universal and proper education in the future development of America. In all our colleges and universities, drives are being or will shortly be made which aim to secure additional endowments, with a total amount asked for running over $250,000,000.

Until two years ago, the fact that individuals had any definite responsibility to the maintenance of our educational machinery was hardly recognized. The citizens of a community voted once a year for members of the school board and college alumni voted at Commencement for Alumni Directors and members of the Governing Board. Then the maintenance of the educational machinery of the country was left entirely in the hands of the men elected—the great mass of people considered their work done and felt not the slightest amount of responsibility. The voting and that alone was the measure of their interest and thought.

But now the country has been aroused to the need of supporting higher education. With constantly increasing emphasis, the fact has been borne in upon educated men and women that the schools and colleges needed their individual attention. The men and women of this country began to realize that their whole educational system was in danger of deterioration or even disaster.

Hundreds of institutions have been brought to a realization of the seriousness of their financial conditions by the rising costs of 1919 with the result that these campaigns for additional endowments have been inaugurated. Cities and towns all over the country have faced the same problem. Demands for additional pay by struggling teachers have been insistent. Special elections have been held; taxes have been levied to meet this universal cry from a hard-pressed profession.

Together with the growing sense of the danger threatening our institutions there has come a constantly growing cry for more education. The steel strike, the coal strike, the evident need for better Americanization, all have developed writers and orators galore, who raise their voices in the same cause. More and better education for the masses; a higher and broader intellectual development of the college students; these two points have been advocated in no uncertain terms. No political speech is complete without its mention of our needs for better Americanization—which means, as a fundamental, better education. No discussion of the industrial problems which confront the country fails to bring forth the need of a better understanding between employer and employee. Many methods for bringing this about are suggested, nearly every one of which involves more education.

And so, side by side, these two great changes have arisen and to meet them these many endowment campaigns have been inaugurated. As Eliot Wadsworth, Chairman of the Harvard Endowment Fund, points out, "Mr. Rockefeller has expressed in no uncertain terms his feeling as to the importance of higher education to this country by his gift of $50,000,000 for distribution among colleges of the country." Men everywhere are beginning to realize that universal and proper education is an absolute necessity in the future development of America.

The Monroe County Boys Organize

The Monroe County Club has been organized by the members of the student body who come from that locality. This is the first time in the history of the College that a club from this section was organized. The following officers were elected: President, Floyd E. Shupp; Vice President, Thomas Trach; Secretary, Victor A. Saxe; Treasurer, Albert Shafer.

The new organization aims to make Muhlenberg known more extensively in Monroe County and to bring more students from Monroe County to Muhlenberg. The main purpose of the organization is that of helpfulness and the promotion of good fellowship among its members and to make the members better representatives of our Alma Mater.

At a recent meeting the club decided to present each High School in Monroe County, which has representatives at Muhlenberg, with a 1921 Ciarla, and to mail to every High School in the County a catalogue of Muhlenberg.

"Christ in the Poetry of Today" was the subject of an inspiring discussion by Dr. Steinhauser at chapel time last Wednesday. "Through all the centuries the character of Christ has come down to us and He is the only character who has come through the war unscathed. His sincerity and his motives have never been seriously questioned. The riches of modern poetry twine a wreath about Him whom we worship as our blessed Redeemer." Dr. Steinhauser read many short poems illustrating the views of the poets about Christ.

Two Straight from Ursinus

The varsity made it two straight from Ursinus this season when they won the second game at Collegeville last Wednesday evening. By comparative scores Muhlenberg played a better game than at the previous meeting. However, in justice to Ursinus it must be said that they met us minus three of their former stars.

The game was the hardest fought of the season. Ursinus got away to a 5 to 1 lead early in the game, but Rhode's foul goals and two baskets by Erb put Muhlenberg on the long end of a 13 to 11 score at the end of the half.

Ursinus carried on the fight right through during the second half but the shooting of Erb and Rhode kept Muhlenberg continually in the lead. The final count was Muhlenberg 37, Ursinus 26.

In this manner the basketball team has in part revenged the Thanksgiving Day defeat in football.

Lewis played a wonderful guarding game, while Truchtey and Capt. Light were the bright stars for Ursinus.

The score:

Muhlenberg	Position	Ursinus
Rhode	Forward	Light
Butz	Forward	Paine
Erb	Center	Fruchtey
Taggart (Smythe)	Guard	Isenberg
Lewis	Guard	Walton

Field goals:—Rhode, 6; Erb, 6; Lewis, 1; Smythe, 1; Butz, 1; Paine, 1; Fruchtey, 4; Isenberg, 2.

Foul Goals:—Rhode, 7 out of 11; Light, 12 out of 21.

Referee, Zimmerman.

Temple Humbled

In the fastest collegiate basketball game seen in Allentown in a long while, Muhlenberg gained sweet revenge on Temple University last Saturday evening, for an early season defeat at Philadelphia, when the Cardinal and Gray scored a 39-32 triumph.

Although Muhlenberg was never headed, the score was at all times close, especially so in the earlier part of the second half, when Temple crawled up to within two points of the home team. The conquerors of Dartmouth came up full of confidence in their ability to win on a foreign floor and a battle royal ensued.

The game opened with a field goal by Rhode, followed by a foul goal by the same player. McPeak then got in a neat one and so the battle continued. Due to the fine guarding of Taggart and Lewis and another pair of field goals by Rhode, the locals pulled away from Temple until the score was 18 to 10. Just before the whistle blew for the end of the first half, McPeak got his third basket for the half and Gillman shot two foul goals, making the score at the end of the half, 18-14, favor of Muhlenberg. During this half, Taggart replaced Erb at center, while Smythe took Taggart's place at guard.

The second half opened with some fine work by "Red" Lewis, who not only got two field goals himself, but, through his fine passing, helped Rhode to get two more. With an eight-point lead against them, Temple started a rally which fell short only two points. McPeak caged three more baskets, which, coupled with three foul goals by Gillham, made the score 31-29, with Muhlenberg still on the long end. At this point Taggart was called out of the game on four personal fouls and "Davy" Schleicher sent in to jump center. Although not tall enough to get the jump, Schleicher, through his floor-work and neat tossing contributed materially to the victory. At this point, Temple called time out. The rest proved disastrous to them, as the Muhlenberg boys came back with renewed energy and literally swept the visitors off their feet in the closing minutes of play. The final score was 39-32.

"Kid" Rhode was the star of the game with ten field goals to his credit. The star forward made 31 out of Muhlenberg's 39 points, one less than the whole Temple team together. Lewis played a brilliant defensive game, besides getting two field goals. Sam Butz also hooked two baskets. Although taken out of the game, Taggart played one of the finest games of his career. One of the finest exhibitions of unselfish teamwork was given by George Smythe, who fed Rhode rather than get the credit for the goals himself. George has the right idea of teamwork as do all the fellows.

Temple's star was McPeak, who had six field goals to his credit. Each man on the visiting team obtained at least one field goal, a rather unusual thing. The whole Temple team played a hard, clean game and kept the home team on the jump continually.

The score:

Muhlenberg	Position	Temple
Rhode	Forward	McPeak
Butz	Forward	Gross
Erb	Center	Kemp
Taggart	Guard	Gillman
Lewis	Guard	Hertzog

Substitutions:—Muhlenberg: Taggart for Erb, Smythe for Taggart, Schleicher for Taggart. Temple: Alsbury for Gross.

Scoring:—Field goals Rhode, 10; Butz, 2; McPeak, 6; Gross, 1; Kemp, 2; Gillham, 1; Hertzog, 1; Alsbury, 1. Foul goals: Rhode, 11 out of 19; Gillham, 8 out of 15.

Referee:—Kistler, Y. M. C. A.

Complete Pre-Lenten Itinerary

The Glee Club completed its pre-lenten schedule of concerts on the seventeenth of this month in Norristown. During the past three weeks twelve concerts have been held and the members were glad to return to college for a rest and to resume the work for the second semester.

Leaving on Monday morning, the Club arrived in East Greenville in time for a concert. The usual line of work was presented by all members on the Club, and entertainment which was provided through Erb, '20, was all that could be desired.

The dialog for this season's program is a resume of what the average club member goes through at any given place, after any Glee Club concert, burlesqued a la Follies. Shelly comes through with a clever impersonation of the modern baby vamp and in his costime (by Lucille) he presents a fascinating object of admiration. His opposition in the line of combat behing the footlights is a double character—Archie the common name of Shankweiler and Koch, due to illness of Shankweiler which made it necessary for the substitution of Koch. Both played the part very well, giving the common line of talk which was called for. The dialog was written by H. Sherman Oberly, '20.

Owing to an accident to Oberly, Hill took the part of Donaldson in the skit. Bollman pulls through with his old time pep and the work of Kleckner shows that he has attended more than one hazing party. The post-lenten trips will start in April.

Debating Society Notes

The Freshman Debating Society was favorably started when its first program was rendered on Thursday night. The program was as follows: Essay, "Asphalt," by Richard Lutz; Address, "Signs of the Times," by Professor S. G. Simpson; Impromptu speeches, by John Trout and Charles Brodell; Debate, "Resolved that the railroads be returned to private ownership on March, 1920." The affirmative speakers were Charles Bolick and Elmer Kramer; the negative speakers were Fred Weiler and Ira Fritz. The judges, Dean Ettinger, Elmer Fink, and George Roh, decided in favor of the affirmative side by a vote of 2 to 1. Dr. Ettinger made some very beneficial remarks before he announced the decision of the judges.

The society adopted the name of Athenian Debating Society under which name it will chose a team to debate against the Adelphian Debating Society of the High School sometime in the near future.

The next program will be rendered in Chapel on Thursday, March 4. It is hoped that the membership will increase considerably before that time. In the future visitors from the Student Body and from town will be invited to attend the meetings.

Ministerial Students Dine

Last Friday evening forty-nine students of Muhlenberg College, prospective candidates for the ministry, convened at the Hotel Allen at a luncheon given to them by a number of the Lutheran pastors of the city. A similar affair was observed last year in honor of the students and was undoubtedly met with the same degree of success. The large and spacious dining hall was beautifully decorated with streamers which were very fitting for the occasion.

The invitation was a general one and consequently was answered with the goodly number of forty-nine students. Not only was the invitation extended to students who have definitely decided on taking up the ministry but even to those who were undecided.

No definite appeal was made for recruits for the ministry, but a strong challenge was presented to the student group. Service to God and one's fellowmen were strongly emphasized as the exponents which enter into the ministerial field. The "Too Serious Attitude" of ministerial students also was sounded by one of the speakers. At the close of the banquet the students gathered in groups for personal interviews with the pastors present. Mark Trexler, '21, in behalf of the student group, thanked the pastors for their appreciation shown toward the students.

The gathering was presided over by Rev. Wm. C. Schaeffer, Jr., pastor of St. John's Lutheran Church who made a dynamic challenge for men for the service of Christ. The pastors present were Dr. John A. W. Haas, President of Muhlenberg College; Dr. A. T. W. Steinhaeuser, Rev. E. E. Fisher and Rev. F. C. Wunder.

Mr. Cutshall Addresses Student Body

The student body was addressed during the chapel period by Attorney John Cutshall, the present county solicitor and one of Allentown's rising young lawyers.

Because of the proximity of Washington's birthday the speaker presented the life of the Father of our country as an ideal of citizenship. In a forceful manner he sketched his life, showing how he came from an aristocratic family and had the privilege of leading the life of an English gentleman in dignity and ease; but when the call came he took sides with the common people and chose a life of service and sacrifice for his fellow men.

Mr. Cutshall spoke under the auspices of the C. J. C. Club, a newly organized and one of the most active clubs on the campus.

C. J. C. Holds Meeting

The C. J. C. club held a meeting on Friday night at the Alpha Tau Omega house on South Fourteenth street.

Plans for the perpetuation of this organization were drawn up. It is the purpose of the organizers to have the club continue in its "Forward Movement," and eventually become the First Club at Muhlenberg. A tentative list of speakers was agreed upon for the rest of the year. Among these are the most forceful talkers of the community.

After several prospective new members had been discussed and the matter of dues agreed upon, the initiation of Mr. Barthold, '21, followed. Mr. Morgan, '21, who was to be taken in could not be present because of the death of his mother.

The next meeting to be in two weeks will be in the form of a social session at the Delta Theta house at which the faculty members, Dr. Haas, Profs. Simpson and Cressman will be present.

A. T. O. Initiation Banquet

On Friday evening, the Alpha Iota chapter of Alpha Tau Omega gave a banquet at the Hotel Allen in honor of the new initiates. All of the active chapter and seventeen alumni were present.

Prof. James H. S. Bossard, '09, of Easton acted as toastmaster and called upon several men for remarks and reminiscences of past banquets and events in A. T. O. Oscar F. Bernheim, Ralph R. Rudolph, Claude G. Shankeweiler, Albert C. H. Fasig, James F. Henninger, William Ritter, Paul Gebert and Corson Snyder were the alumni who spoke to the gathering. Oberly, '20, spoke for the active chapter.

The new men initiated and in whose honor the banquet was held are Balmer, Cherry, Knauss, Mosser, Ritter, Sanders and Smythe, all members of the freshman class.

Two Former Trustees Pass Away

Two former trustees of Muhlenberg passed away during the past week, Rev. Dr. Jacob Fry, of Philadelphia, and the Hon. William T. Creasy, of Catawissa. The latter's term on the Board of Trustees expired several years ago.

Dr. Fry who was a trustee from 1868 to 1876 was one of the oldest active ministers in the Lutheran Ministerium of Pennsylvania. Since 1896 he was professor of homiletics at Mt. Airy Theological Seminary. He was a graduate of Gettysburg.

Caracciola, ex-'21, Wedded

Announcement is made of the marriage of Angelo J. Caracciola, ex-'21, now a student at Jefferson Medical College to Miss Romaine Callahan of Jermyn, at Philadelphia. Miss Callahan previous to her marriage was a nurse, employed by the Delaware and Hudson Co., at Jermyn.

The Paradox of Democracy

Much ado has always been made over democracy. We as a nation profess ourselves to be the most democratic people on the globe. In our international problems, we continually appeal in the name of democracy. We disclaim the existence of classes in society. Despite the ever recurring industrial squabbles, capital and labor are said to be closely related on democratic principles. Wherever we turn, this mystic word stares us in the face. The soap-box orator, the clergyman in the pulpit, the professor in the lecture room, all alike declaim on the charm it wields. From the four corners of the earth we are beset with visitors who are studying our American institution of democracy.

In its application no democracy is better than its educational system. In fact, the spirit of democracy is the fruit of education. A democracy is a whole people united by strong ties of common ideals. Before a people can become democratic, they must imbibe the spirit of a democratic educational system. The diverging social conditions must be brought together to a common experience and a common training. What democracy is and what it is to be democratic—these are, after all, the first things to be taught in school, whether high school or college. After that must come the other great purpose of becoming a citizen in the different spheres of activities.

A glimpse at conditions in the college and university, however, reveal to us a by no means high order of democratic system. The whole system is still, more or less, in a stage of experimentation. From the college preparatory school to the college itself, it encourages the formation of castes. The college is founded mainly upon money and culture. The young student with financial needs is denied its cultivating benefits and must contend himself with a meaner education. This has always been the main criticism of the college. Its courses are accessible only to an exclusive group. The ones who work their way through college are in a small minority.

There are many things within the college which are far from democratic. The present athletic system in most of the educational institutions ls designed for a few. All the time and energy is directed upon the excessive training of a few in order to turn out a winning team. Although not ignorant of the physical needs of the other students, the college cannot find the time and means to develop the ones who need the exercise most. This problem is a vital one and its effective solution will mean a uniform system of preserving the strength and vitality of a nation's select manhood.

The claim is often made that the college club and fraternity foster a spirit of aristocracy. This criticism is especially made of the larger institutions. Efforts are, however, now being made to bring the fraternity and the non-fraternity elements closer together. Penn State, especially, is paving the way for this problem by organizing her fourteen hundred non-fraternity students.

The college curriculum is also not without its flaws. The very fact that students protest against some required subjects seems to indicate that the courses are not democratic enough in their range of electives. The student pays for his education and does not want subjects which he dislikes or for which he has no practical use crammed down his throat.

The Knuttes Appear

Oh, Knuttes! This question of a Knutte Klub is a hard one to crack. However, the yearlings after ripening in their shell since last September have at last broken through. They have declared themselves ready to liven things up and inject a spirit of jovility on the campus. During the business session, it was voted that the Knuttes would certainly uphold the Street Car Co. in their demand for a seven cent carfare, for they would now save seven cents instead of six when they walked into town. The following officers were elected:—

Biggest Knutte .. Armbuster
Big Knutte ..... Knauss
Little Knutte .... Longkamer
Tough Knutte .... J. Miller
Hell-ov-a Knutte ..... Weiler
Have-a Knutte ..... Dillman

"Dammit, He's Dead"

Six hunder students and the entire faculty of Simmons College attended the funeral of "Dammit," a white bulldog, which for four years had been the college mascot. Funeral arrangements were on a large scale.

"Dammit" was buried in a casket on the college campus. A band played mournful airs, and a student delivered the funeral oration on the subject, "Every Dog Has His Day." Over the grave was placed a marble headstone, bearing the inscription:

World Famed Inventor Predicts Air Coasting

A. H. G. Fokker, a Hollander, is the inventor so widely famed for his product, the Fokker airplane, which was so much and so successfully used by the Germans in the late war.

Fokker's dealings with the German's were purely commercial, and he was as strictly neutral as were we Americans, before our entrance into the war.

An authority on aviation, his statements are received with great interest. He says that he is now working out a scheme for engineless planes to be used in "air coasting." Sporting contests with such planes would be very much like coasting contests on the winter runs in the Alps. An air coaster would be towed by an airplane to a height of 5,000 feet or more and then cut loose. The flier could make a record of staying in the air longer than his rival; he might try to make more spirals downward, or he might try for speed in coming down. "They are just as safe as airplanes, and I think the day will come when air coasting without engines will be a great sport."

Expanding this idea, Fokker says it would not be impossible to tow a series of these coasters and have each cut loose when it reached the town where the passenger in each particular coaster wished to alight. He intimates that the Germans

Moravian Trounced Again

Last Saturday afternoon the varsity basketball team made its annual journey to Bethlehem and returned with the second Moravian scalp of the season by the score 34-28. The first six minutes produced no score for either team. Rhode then scored a foul goal and followed with a beautiful shot from the center of the floor. At half-time the local team led 15-9. The lead was chiefly due to the teamwork of the locals who fed Rhode and Erb. The second half was the most interesting with the score at 28-14. Moravian started a rally which netted them four basket in about a minute. Capt. Erb then took time out after which the locals were never in danger. For Moravian, Rice and Turner played a fine game while the entire Muhlenberg team is to be commended.

A. E. F. Club Feasts at the Lafayette

"Memoirs of the A. E. F.," "Who Won the War," "My Impressions of France," "Polo a la Mule," and many other topics of a similar nature formed the chief subjects of discussion last Tuesday evening when the A. E. F. Club of Muhlenberg dined at the Lafayette Hotel. For the few brief hours of that evening there was no more school, no more Senior, Junior, Sophomore or Freshman classes, but just a happy, jovial bunch of ex-soldiers, representative of every branch of the service determined to have a good time, come weal or woe.

There were no liquid "spirits" of any sort to act as chasers for the chicken and waffle dinner which was placed before the club, and accordingly the affair did not end in a riot, as all of the veterans have known similar affairs to end up in at divers times in the good old days. However there were times when the atmosphere became charged with a heavy cloud of gas that caused each man to hastily don his "mask" of preparedness for the oncoming fray. These instances came when Shupp made the never-to-be-forgotten address in which he claimed that, without a doubt, it was the clever work of the Pioneer Infantry that won the war. R. G. Shankweiler answered that it was the 2nd Batalion of the 57 Heavy Artillery and Corbiere just as insistently declared that it was the S. O. S. back at Tours who had put the finishing touches on the retreating Hun. However all claims were waived when Snyder rose and told of the heroic work performed by the "Pill" corps and in the final vote taken it was unanimously declared that the "Pill Rollers" had won the war. Hartman was a close second with the ammunition train, while Acker of the "Suicide Club" claimed third honors. Klick and the Y. M. C. A. brought up the rear guard dragging the dead and wounded with them.

The real speech of the evening was made by Francis Carraciola. The correspondent of the associated press, who had been sent to the hotel to cover the banquet for that syndicate, declared that it was the finest piece of oratory he had ever heard delivered in impromptu style. "Scratch" was in the aviation service stationed in Texas and his explanation of the reasons for the existence of such centers as Kelly Field and San Antonio, were most enlightening to the rest of the "Vets." There is only one thing that is not clear to his comrades and that is how in the world Uncle Sam missed him when he passed out his D. S. C.'s.

The guests of honor of the club were Prof. Harry D. Bailey and Capt. Lathrop B. Clapham, the latter, instructor of military tactics at the college. Toastmaster Kline called upon them for short talks and both responded with interesting and witty accounts of their separate experiences. Prof. Harry C. P. Cressman, historian and chaplain of the club, preached an interesting sermon, using as his text the name of the club, interpreting it as meaning ALL EXCELLENT FELLOWS.

The men called upon for talks by Toastmaster Kline were: Messr. Snyder, Corbiere, McKee, Klick, Fritz, Hartman and Sanders. Following the program proper, every man was given an opportunity to say a few words, and reminiscences of the good old days flew thick and fast.

The committee in charge of the affair was headed by Raymond A. Kline as chairman, assisted by Raymond C. Shankweiler and Raymond V. Dillman.

The A. E. F. Club is rapidly coming to the fore and taking its rightful place in the affairs of the school. It is by virtue of just such get together events as that of last Tuesday that it is proving itself so strong and is bound to fill a worthy place in the life and activity of the school. The officers of the club are: Snyder, president; Hartman, vice president; Sanders, secretary; Klick, treasurer; and Prof. Cressman, historian.

Frosh Overwhelm Sophs in Basketball Game

Before a large and enthusiastic audience the Frosh tripped up the Sophs to the tune of 32 to 10. Despite the onesidedness of the score the game was very exciting from beginning to end. Both sides had a large crowd of boisterous rooters and they made the rafters of the Prep gym vibrate.

The Frosh started off with a rush and had garnered seven points before the Sophs scored on a foul play by Simmons. During this half the Frosh played rings around the Sophs and if it had not been for the wonderful defensive work of Lazarus the score would have mounted up at a terrific rate. The game was very rough and at this part of the game the successful (?) body block of Simmons against "Fat" Armbruster was a feature. Due to overtraining the Sophs were forced to call two time-outs during the first half. The score at the end of the first half was 17-3. From the beginning of the second half to the end of the game there ensued a battle royal. The Sophs put up a great game in this half and succeeded in scoring two field goals. Simmons scored the first one and "Tabs" Bleiler, who substituted for Kirchner in the second half, came thru with a pretty basket in the last minute of play.

The game abounded in features. Dillman and Clouser were the outstanding stars for the Frosh. Dillman besides playing a great floor game scored 17 points for his side. Clouser also played a star game and was a heavy scorer. "Hank" Lazarus was easily the star for the Sophs. "Hank" put up a wonderful game, always in the play and fighting hard, he staved off many a Frosh goal and put "pep" and fight into his own team.

This was the first game of the series. The next game will be played on Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Prep. Gym.

Let those who deal in fond reminiscences cherish these: Joe Crowley's wonderfully scientific field goal; "Butch" Kehrli's gentle tactics; "Fat" Armbruster's track practice; "Eddy" Kirchner's spurts of affection; Simmons' foul shooting; the rooting of Trout and "Red" Lewis; the coaching of Sam Butz, and the impartial refereeing of Schleicher, "Dave" calling eleven fouls on the Frosh and ten on the Sophs.

Colonel Young Addresses Student Body

Under the auspices of the C. J. C. Club, Col. E. M. Young of Allentown addressed the student body following the regular chapel services at the college last Wednesday morning. Mr. Young spoke briefly of the advantages of smaller colleges, and of financial conditions of the present and future.

"The intimate contact of the body with the faculty is an incalculable advantage of the smaller college. distinctly so, is the association with a God-fearing body of instructors. Most universities are materialistic and socialistic, which is reflected in the tremendous social tendencies of the present time."

Continuing on the financial status of the nation Mr. Young said, "The colossal expense of the war left

European countries in a financial abyss. The United States is the sole survivor of this financial collapse among the more powerful nations of the world. Thru the Federal Reserve Board the government borrowed twenty three billions from its people, enabling it to go ahead without fluctuations of the system. All currency borrowings greatly inflated the credits of the nation and normal conditions must be restored by what may be called "deflation of this expansion."

"The credits of the European nations have reached the lowest point in the history of finance. But when we consider what France has done in the past, following the Franco-Prussian war, in liquidating the debt and annulling the indemnity levied by Germany, we can see that the future will not be as stormy as outward appearances show. Rigorous economy is what we must practise."

Col. Young is a trustee of the college and was a student here from 1881-84.

Sophs Debate Military Training

"Resolved that Military Training be required in the colleges" was the question discussed by the Sophomore debaters last Wednesday afternoon. Sentiment was strongly aroused by the question. Kehrli and Gerhart defended the affirmative, while Gebert and Hettinger spoke for the negative. After the judges had decided in favor of the negative, Captain Clapham presented in a very concise and forceful manner the argument that war cannot be prevented, an army is necessary in case of war, the college man is the logical candidate for leadership in such an army, and the R. O. T. C. will fit him to take his rightful place as leader, and will allow a much wiser choice of leaders than was possible in the C. O. T. S. of the last war. For a few minutes the general debate was warm. At the end of the hour a vote taken to ascertain the personal preference of the men, and only a few voted in favor of retaining the R. O. T. C.

The Sophomore Debating society is a new organization conducted in connection with the course in public speaking.

Dr. Mueller, '09, Accepts Professorship of History

Henry R. Mueller, a graduate of Muhlenberg of the class of 1909 has accepted the chair in History and Political Science at Muhlenberg and will take charge of the department at the beginning of the fall term.

Mr. Mueller taught for a number of years at Allentown Preparatory School after his graduation from college and entered Columbia University in 1914. There he earned his A. M. and Ph. D.

After some time spent in the service of his country during the war, Mr. Mueller became an assistant professor at Carlton College, Northfield, Minn., in the department of History and Political Science.

Prof. Mueller cames to Muhlenberg very highly recommended with extensive and thorough preparation in his department.

The Muhlenberg Library

How many of us have stopped to think about the college library? We probably take it for granted and use it as a refuge in time of trouble, without giving any thought to the machinery that serves our purpose so well, and with never a look into the shelves other than the particular ones into which our special investigations led us. Can we answer the question, "Whence is this library, what is the scope of its service, and what does the future hold for it?"

When the progressive professor seeks new matter to present to his classes; when the leisure-blest freshman wants a thrilling detective story for a week-end's reading; when the student of economics requires the up-to-date data that only a late periodical can give; when the student of literature desires to become more intimate with the great writings of great men; they beat a common path to the library. And what do they find? Twenty-two thousand volumes, systematically arranged, and carefully cross-indexed in the filing cabinet, so that any book can be found without the least loss of time. With all of this the librarian is in intimate touch; to him the library has become a vast dictionary with every volume a column, and every shelf a page; with a few steps he will lead you to the available knowledge of any branch of human activity that has been written about; then a touch of the finger will point out the very volume for which you are seeking.

Yet even the librarian, who is a filter for all human knowledge, can not sense in its entirety the benefit that he puts into the hands of the borrowers. He knows, as we do, that modern progress began with the invention of printing, and he has a clearer conception than do most of us of the immense and countless numbers of books that have been put into print since the first bible came from the press. At times, too, he has learned what one book may mean to a man, when an enthusiastic reader found so much in a book that he was bubbling over with desire to tell others of his

Attention—Cue and Quill Men

There has been much talk lately of the various clubs at Muhlenberg, in regard to what they do for the betterment of the college. Ever since its origin, the Cue and Quill Club, the dramatic club of Muhlenberg, has given plays only once in the collegiate year—during commencement week. Cannot something be done to make this club more important to us, one in which the student body will feel a vital interest? In glancing over various other college journals, we read of the mid-winter production of their dramatic clubs. Most colleges have their productions immediately following the mid-year examinations, thus serving as a delightful aftermath. The productions are usually held in the afternoon and are followed by dances at the various fraternity houses in the evening. It is a day of general relaxation. Instead of this plan, the Lehigh Dramatic Club last week presented a "Variety Show" with six sketches; at the completion of the program, the floor was cleared for dancing. To quote from a Bethlehem paper, "It was a thoroly college production; plenty of local color, and lots of snap." Why is it that Muhlenberg cannot awake from her lethargy and do something along similar lines? Not only would it afford her students an opportunity for displaying and improving their dramatic abilities, but it would greatly add to the social side of college life. It would give to those students who are unable to stay for commencement an opportunity to display their talents along this specific line of work. We have the material; all that is needed is some one to head the movement. Who is going to make the start? Are we going to drift along in the same rut of former years or are we, by some definite action, either in the student body, or in the Cue and Quill Club itself, going to bring about these much desired and greatly needed changes? If we wish to attain a greater Muhlenberg, we must develop not only along educational, moral, and physical lines, but along social lines as well.

The Community and the College

During the past few weeks, many of the teachers of the Allentown schools have been ill with influenza or grippe—the situation was a bad one—all the substitute teachers had been pressed into service and yet many positions remained unfilled. In these dire straits, the city called upon the college which it, in a way, supports, for cooperation and aid. And since it is the purpose of the college at all times to do what it can to supply the needs of the community, Muhlenberg sent to the community as substitute teachers a number of her young students who are pursuing the study of education and are preparing for teaching as a life-work. These men, mostly seniors, were thereby receiving valuable experience for their chosen calling and the shortage of teachers was being supplied to a large extent. This is the true spirit which should exist between the college and the community; a helpful, cooperative spirit, one of mutual interdependence. The special function of the college of today is not to stand aloof from the people of the neighboring city or town but to become an efficient factor in the life of that community. This supplying of teachers is only one of the many ways by which Muhlenberg, as a modern college, is fulfilling its obligations to the people who are helping to support it. Let us hope that this present cooperative spirit may continue in the future, both for the betterment of the community and for the college.

discovery, and to tell the librarian especially. But with all this, no one man can measure the results that spring from the use of books. Take literature alone, forgetting for a moment the scientific or historical works, and try to trace the good wrought by a few immortal works of art. Here is a man who has found in the story of "The Great Stone Face" a spur to help him emulate what is good. There is a man who with Shakespeare follows "Julius Cæsar" thru the stirring events of a day two thousand years dead. Yonder is one whose eyes have been opened to sympathy with the common things of life by seeing first thru the eyes of Burns. Nearby is a student who has found in Arnold a pattern for the improvement of his own speech and writing. Perhaps we find, too, one who finds that great literature gives him an outlet for his emotions, when he finds other tongues that utter the thoughts that arise in him.

We must say with Byron, that "Words are things, and a small drop of ink, falling, like dew, upon a thought, produces that which makes thousands, perhaps millions think."

Whence comes this accumulation of books that seems to clutter every corner of the library room? Three principal sources are responsible for the present library. The college library itself, numbering perhaps ten thousand volumes ten years ago, was increased in 1912 by the incorporation with it of the Sophronian and Euterpean Literary Society collections, numbering about 2,500 and 3,000 volumes, respectively. Since then, the growth has been gradual, by the purchase of new books, and by binding periodicals, so that the number of volumes today is very nearly twenty-eight thousand. As you know, the shelves are inadequate for their task. The minimum of floor space required for shelved books is one square foot for each ten volumes, which allows no room for expansion. To insure proper facilities for accomodating additions, the above figure must be multiplied by four. On this basis, the area required to properly shelve our books would be over ten thousand square feet. The present room has an area of twenty-six hundred square feet, and must accomodate in addition to the shelves the delivery desk, and the book-binding equipment, as well as a quantity of periodicals. Another serious flaw in the present equipment is the inflammable nature of the shelves. The room is already overflowed. Besides maintaining a separate room for the storage of magazines, and another as a reading room, about four thousand volumes are scattered about the administration building in various nooks and corners that can accomodate them temporarily. These books cannot be kept in order, and a book out of its place is as good as lost. Thus it is quite apparent that in order to enable the library to continue to add to its usefulness, a more adequate space must be provided. Lebanon Valley College has a separate library building, and it had in 1914 only one fourth as many volumes as Muhlenberg. Nor is the Muhlenberg library unusually large, for Lafayette's beautiful library building contained in 1914 forty-four thousand volumes, and even Franklin and Marshall College has thirty-eight thousand books. And Muhlenberg will have two or three thousand more as soon as it is possible to receive the Stopp library which was bequeathed but could not up to this time be accepted.

Go and spend an afternoon in the library. You will find many interesting books, many unexpected ones, and a few that are amusing. See that volume with the threatening red binding and the title in bold type, "Letters from Hell." Pick up the Ciarlas of former years and determine what unalloyed asses every class but your own consisted of. Pick up a textbook on natural philosophy which preaches as gospel some theories that were discarded fifty years ago. Open "The History of Muhlenberg College," and find the names of your ancestors and relatives who burned the midnight oil at Muhlenberg at some distant date. Take down from the shelves of denominational histories the one that most interests you. Rejoice when you find a good old book written in Latin, if you are able to pick out the meaning of a few phrases here and there. Roam up and down the shelves, testing here, rapidly skimming there, and you will say with Beaumont and Fletcher:

"That place that does contain my books,
My books, the best companions, is to me
A glorious court, where hourly I converse
With the old sages and philosophers;
And sometimes, for variety I confer
With kings and emperors, and weigh their counsels."

While the library invites you to linger:

"Come, with these God-anointed kings
Be thou companion here:
And in the mightly realm of mind
Thou shalt go forth a peer!"

The Service of an Electrical Research Laboratory

The research facilities of the General Electric Company are an asset of world-wide importance, as recent war work has so clearly demonstrated. Their advantages in pursuits of peace made them of inestimable value in time of war.

A most interesting story tells of the devices evolved which substantially aided in solving one of the most pressing problems of the war—the submarine menace. Fanciful, but no less real, were the results attained in radio communication which enabled an aviator to control a fleet of flying battleships, and made possible the sending, without a wire, history-making messages and orders to ships at sea. Scarcely less important was the X-ray tube, specially designed for field hospital use and a notable contribution to the military surgical service. And many other products, for combatant and industrial use, did their full share in securing the victory.

In the laboratories are employed highly trained physicists, chemists, metallurgists and engineers, some of whom are experts of international reputation. These men are working not only to convert the resources of Nature to be of service to man, but to increase the usefulness of electricity in every line of endeavor. Their achievements benefit every individual wherever electricity is used.

Scientific research works hand in hand with the development of new devices, more efficient apparatus and processes of manufacture. It results in the discovery of better and more useful materials and ultimately in making happier and more livable the life of all mankind.

Lewis Wins Swimming Medal

The first opportunity for Muhlenberg men to prove their ability in aquatic sports was afforded in the "Y" Swimming pool, Friday evening, February twenty-seventh. Owing to the lack of facilities for such sports at the College, many of the men have taken advantage of the opportunities afforded by the Allentown Y. M. C. A.,, and thru the College Y. M. C. A. have obtained these privileges at small cost. The interest shown and the skill in swimming displayed attested to the use these men have made of the excellent equipment of the "Y."

In the toss-up between Reinartz and Lewis for first place, on points scored, Reinartz won the points while Lewis secured the "Y" silver medal.

The following events were contested in: Twenty-five yard swim; plunge; jumping in; swimming the length of the pool and return; diving; swimming the length of the pool and return. The points for each event were 5-3-1.

The men participating in the contest and their respective scores follow: Reinartz, 12; Lewis, 12; Armbuster, 6; Woodling, 5; R. Shankweiler, 1; Kirchner, 0; A. Kline, 0.

With the R. O. T. C.

Rapid progress has been made by the R. O. T. C. in the last few days toward teaching the men to shoot. Sighting and aiming drills were taught, and as rapidly as men completed their sighting drill, they were introduced to the sub-caliber Springfield target rifle, using the gallery in the east basement. Sgt. Duke, the new top-sergeant of the unit, and Captain Clapham both are experts with the rifle, and by means of lectures and gallery practice, they hope to lead every man in the unit to qualify with a high score in shooting.

Muhlenberg in Saturday Evening Post

Muhlenberg's problem of publicity has at last been solved. You can now buy a Sunday edition of a Philadelphia paper and find in the pictorial section a picture of the Administration Building. Or you can skim thru the pages of a current magazine and behold a view of the whole campus.

On page 138 of last week's Saturday Evening Post appears a campus view of the dorms, Ad building and edge of the chemical labaratory under the heading, "Steam—Buried Alive." The view was snapped when the heating system was installed at the Preparatory School several years ago. It appears in the form of a full page ad inserted by the Johns-Manville Company. Unfortunately the name of Muhlenberg does not appear in the ad.

Princeton—January 29th was the 27th anniversary of the adoption of the Honor System at Princeton. The idea was conceived and fostered by the student body and has been made a decided success thru the pride and enthusiasm of each individual. The system is an excellent example to many other colleges.

Swarthmore—A Varsity Club, composed of all letter men and known as the "S" Club is being organized and will soon become a reality.

Penn State—Preparations for the Sherwood Eddy campaign to be held March 5th, 6th and 7th, are being completed by joint efforts of faculty and student body.

Penn State—Ex-president Wm. H. Taft has accepted the nomination to Phi Kappa Phi, which was granted him in absentia by the chapter at Penn State.

Delaware—Plans were recently announced for securing an endowment fund of $3,000,000 to supplement the appropriations of the legislature and aid in the growth of the college.

Lehigh—The fraternities at Lehigh have organized an inter-fraternity basketball league. A schedule similar to that of bowling leagues will be followed.

N. Y. U.—Although considerable interest is aroused to establish the honor system; nothing definite has been accomplished. A vote will be taken in spring.

Considerable publicity is received thru pictures of college life taken for the weekly news features of many film companies.

Frosh Trim the Sophs a Second Time

The Frosh again came through in the lead in the second game of the series by the score 21 to 18. The game was exciting from the start to the finish. The Sophs were in the lead at the end of the first half, but in the second half Dillman broke loose and registered five more field goals for the Frosh. The Frosh were handicapped on account of the loss of Clauser, but "'Red" Parks, who took his place, played a snappy game.

The game was hardplayed, and the features of the first game were not repeated. Dillman, the "Eagle Eye" from Lancaster County, was not lacking in form, and all his teammates worked well with him. "Hank" Lazarus and Gebert played a fine game at guard for the Sophs. "Tabs" Blieler had two pretty shots and played a fine game, although he was at times very near to the stars, under the gentle tactics of "Put" Armbruster, the baby Frosh.

Although quite a crowd attended the game, it did not equal the first of the series. The only noteworthy mishap of the game, came when Trout suddenly discovered that he had worn out his megaphone. The irrepressible Sam Butz could not be heard, we take it that he coached his team before the game this time.

Brilliant Prospects for Track

With the close of the basketball season every Muhlenberg man is looking forward to the beginning of track activities. Why all the confidence evidenced in the talk around the campus? Surely you will agree it is not over-estimated when you read carefully the cause of all the commotion and the effect will surely follow during the coming season.

The Athletic Association has left nothing undone in making preparation to give Muhlenberg a flying start in the way of coaches. The services of John Paul Jones, the famous Cornell miler, Charles Beckwith, Jr. a star middle distance runner on Jones' track team, and Dr. M. S. Kleckner, '10, a former Muhlenberg hurdler, have been secured to coach the candidates.

The coaches, who will develop a winning team for Muhlenberg, are the best available and the college will have one of the strangest coaching staffs in the country. The prospects for candidates is one of the brightest we ever had. Many of them have done remarkably well without much coaching and great things are expected from them under the supervision of competent coaches.

In the hundred yard event Muhlenberg will present four runners who have records of at least ten and two-fifths seconds. They are Freddie Jones, the former Prep. star; Reinartz, of the last season's team; Mosser, the former Mercersburg sprinter, and Shankweiler, the former Prep. star and a letter man at Muhlenberg before the war.

New life and pep was in evidence among the track men when Jones returned to college. In addition to his being a sprinter of the ten second class, he is a high jumper with a record of six feet and a pole vaulter with a record of eleven feet, three inches. With good coaching he should clear the bar at twelve feet.

In the two twenty, Reinartz and Shankweiler will be the most likely representatives.

In the hurdles the team places its confidence in the biggest point scores on the track team last season, Arlan Kline. At the close of the R. O. T. C. summer camp at Lee, Kline won the gold medal for the highest individual score made in competition with athletes from all the larger southern colleges. Another man will have to be developed to brace the team but the proposition is not a difficult one for there is likely material in the Freshman and Sophomore classes.

In the middle distance events the college will be represented by Knauss, formerly of Bethlehem Prep., Bittner and Erb. The latter, a star track man, will run only the half-mile of the distance events. He is the 880 yard champion of last season's Middle States Collegiate Meet. In the distance events there is excellent material in Edelman, Spencer, Bjerko, Hartman and Bittner. The latter made an excellent showing last season. Hartman is also a strong two mile runner.

In the field events, the broad jump and the high jump will be handled by Jones, Kline and Reinartz. The pole vault will also be taken care of by the trio. Wills and Freitag of last season's team will form the nucleus for the discuss and the shot put.

The men in the Freshman class are unknown quantities but their worth will soon be determined as a call will be issued for indoor practice this week. The men will work for two weeks on the Y track before working outside.

The track schedule for the 1920 season will be announced later.

Delts Win First League Game

The first game of the inter-group basketball league was played Monday afternoon on the Prep. floor and resulted in a victory for Delta Theta over Phi Kappa Tau by the score of 23-10. The league is composed of the three fraternities and the non-fraternity men. Men who have gained their "M" in basketball previously are ineligible for these games. Each group has appointed one of its number to act as referees, as follows: Non-fraternity, Lewis; Phi Kappa Tau, Nolde; Alpha Tau Omega, Smythe; Delta Theta, Erb. Clouser and Simmons were easily the stars for Delta Theta while Shankweiler played best for Phi Kappa Tau. The lineup:

Delta Theta	Position	Phi Kappa Tau
Gloss	Forward	Gates
Phillips	Forward	Bleiler
Clouser	Center	Shankweiler
Simmons	Guard	Van Zandt
Crowley	Guard	F. Butz

Goals from field: Clouser, 5; Simmons, 2; Gloss, Crowley, Shankweiler.

Goals from foul: Hoffman, 2; Simmons, 3; Bleiler, 4; F. Butz, 4.

Substitutes: Lutz for F. Butz, F. Butz for Gates, Bollman for Shankweiler, Shankweiler for Lutz, Hoffman for Philips, Robins for Gloss. Referee, Smythe. Time-keeper, Hill. Two-twenty minute halves.

The committee consisting of Schleicher, Hill, M. Trexler, and Armbruster, has arranged the following schedule:

Monday, March 8....Delta Theta vs. Phi Kappa Tau Wednesday, March 10 ..Non-fraternity vs. A. T. O.
Thursday, March 11 .....Delta Theta vs. A. T. O.
Monday, March 15 ....Phi Kappa Tau vs. Non-frat.
Tuesday, March 16 .....Phi Kappa Tau vs. A. T. O.
Wednesday, March 17 ..Alpha Tau Omega vs. D. T.
Thursday, March 18 .Delta Theta vs. Non-fraternity
Monday, March 22 ..Delta Theta vs. Non-fraternity

Preliminaries to be held Friday

Muhlenberg's annual Preliminary Oratorical Contest to choose the representative to the Inter-Collegiate Contest, will be held this Friday evening, March twelfth in the college chapel.

This year, there are six contestants, two Seniors and four Juniors. Only men taking the regular class-work in Oratory are eligible to compete in this contest.

The speakers in the order of appearance and their titles are: James G. Morgan, "Where There Is No Vision, the People Perish;" Edwin L. Kohler, "Lincoln;" Russell S. Bachman, "In Defense of the Law;" Freeland L. Hemmig, "Our Crime;" Linn H. Schantz, "France, the Victim of Peace;" and Mark K. Trexler, "Americanization by Means of Work."

The winner of this contest will represent Muhlenberg in the Inter-Collegiate Contest to be held this year at Franklin and Marshall College on April 17th. The Inter-Collegiate Oratorical Union is composed of the following Colleges: Swarthmore, Franklin and Marshall, Lafayette, Ursinus, Gettysburg and Muhlenberg.

In the past nine years, Muhlenberg, largely through the work of the Professor of Oratory, Prof. Brown, an alumnus of the class of 1906, has established a record, with which only Swarthmore's can compare. Last year Muhlenberg's record was upheld when Russel S. Bachman, '20, won second prize.

This year Muhlenberg stands a fine chance of winning the Inter-Collegiates and it is up to every man to come out to the contest to encourage the speakers and show them that they can look for 100 per cent backing from the student body.

The judges will be Francis Gildner, Esq. of Allentown, Prof. Abbuhl of the Preparatory School, and Prof. John D. M. Brown.

Gleanings from the Student Volunteer Conference

Africa.

The popular idea that the Dark Continent is entirely devoid of all evidences of western civilization is fallacious. In Cape Town, for instance, one can step from the lobby of a modern hotel into a waiting taxicab or, if he desires, take a surface car at the corner; he can shop in a department store and spend an afternoon in the "movies." It is also a common belief among Americans that the climate throughout Africa is torrid almost to the point of being unbearable, while in reality the days in the central and southern part are very pleasant and the nights extremely cold.

The condition of the natives ordinarily is miserable but when they come in contact with white men, who give them wine and cigarettes, it becomes absolutely deplorable. 1,200 married men and 1,110 single women are needed to combat the general wretchedness in Christian fashion. To face the primitive savages and depraved whites of Africa, strong men are necessary and, above all, men who know God.

India.

In India today the British government is putting to the test the greatest experiment ever attempted. It is placing one-fifth of the human race on a self-governing basis. The present population of India is 316,000,000. Of this huge mass only five per cent of the men and one per cent of the women can read or write. 147 different languages are spoken and scores of religious sects are extant. The conditions of women are pathetic. Can this gigantic experiment succeed in the face of such odds? The answer is obvious. It will be a failure and a set back to world democracy unless we educate them. India looks to us for light.

Japan.

The Japan of today will never wage war against the United States because they owe us a debt of gratitude for opening up their country to western civilization which they can never repap. Due largely to American missionary effort, ninety-five per cent of the people can read and write. Despite this Christian assistance there is a wide-spread movement afoot, supported by Japan's greatest men, to make Japan a powerful, wealthy nation of infidels. Should it succeed in its purpose, Japan will become as great a menace as was Germany before the war. There is but one means of counteracting the detrimental effects which such a propaganda must inevitably have, namely that of bringing to these deluded infidels the saving properties of our Christian religion. There is but one country capable of this task. America has the man-power and the mind-power; America is aggressive and progressive. This job is America's.

China.

A vast multitude of these people have never seen a missionary. Such work as has been done has, however, accomplished far-reaching results. Foot-binding and self-tortue are almost unheard of; child betrothals are decreasing in number. Woman is assuming a higher plane in Chinese life. The economic conditions are being gradually bettered. American engineers are building highways and manufacturing plants, digging canals and generally improving commercial facilities. The Chinese mind, which is more acute even than that the the Japanese, has been stirred by the doings of the Christian missionaries. A vague but nevertheless insistent longing has impressed itself upon the Chinese consciousness—a longing for a more satisfying religion. The doors of China are open to Christianity today. We dare not slight the opportunity.

The Appeal

Americans must learn five lessons. They are:

1. The reality and deadliness of moral evil. Each of us must struggle for personal, moral and spiritual cleanliness.
2. The indivisibility of mankind. What benefits our fellowmen benefits us.
3. The lesson of Sacrifice. Kipling says: "Lives are not ends in themselves, but are to be used—sacrificed, if necessary."
4. The lesson of Patience.
5. The necessity for a better world. There are more heathen people in the world today than thirty-five years ago.

The heathen nations are calling. In every non-Christian land the pioneer work has been completed and the doors now stand invitingly open as they never have before. The criterion of the Student Volunteer Movement is "The World for Christ." 700,000 missionaries are needed for this huge task. Will you join hands with this great movement? Will you go?

The "M" Proposition

Muhlenberg has been misrepresented! Is it possible? What a calamity to fall upon our college! The magnitude of the crime is almost unbelievable. Not only one man but even so large a proportion as eight out of ten men who received their track or basketball Ms have cut off the limiting letters and misrepresented themselves either through action or statement as football men!!!

Student Council, with proper executive action, awoke to conditions and attempted to avoid a similar status in the future. What is the result? One half of the number of men who are entitled to wear their tMt or bMb still persist in clipping the Ms and misrepresenting the college. The other half refuse to wear any letter at all rather than wear a letter with limiting characters—the symbolic reward in up-to-date colleges— for second team candidates. What a deplorable state of affairs! Enforcement of the Council ruling will inevitably result in the slow death of the needed college spirit. The death knell has been sounded for minor sports.

But must a curfew ring tonight? Surely there must be a way to avoid both evils. It is clearly evident that the sub-letter system is no longer satisfying. A new system must be devised. A uniform block M for all sports is clearly impossible because football is the major sport and as such deserves all the recognition and honor it can get. Consequently a differentiation must be made. The minor sports candidates do not want football Ms—they ask for a clear cut M which cannot be mistaken for a scrub letter by semi-sophisticated persons. Such an M may differ from a football letter either in size, shape or color, but it will be an M all the same. Then a track letter will never be mistaken for a football M nor for a basketball emblem. Under such a system the "emblem-ished" letter will replace the "M-blem-ished" one of the present time. In addition, under the new system, certificates of awards of letters will be presented and no one need then be questioned on his right to wear his M.

Do not the men who engage in minor sports deserve a more suitable or at least a satisfying recognition? They give all their energy for the benefit of our college as well as themselves. Let us not compel them to continue to undergo the ridicule of being referred to as one who was not good enough to win a real M. They ask for nothing material, nothing of intrinsic value, merely the privileges of representing our college on the same level with other colleges.

Think over the possibilities—then talk. Convince your neighbor. If you are not vitally concerned, think of the next man. A committee on reform is at work but is powerless without the support of the student body. If you want to see more college emblems on the men about you; if you want to see and participate in renewed college spirit in support of minor sports; and if you want to see more candidates out for athletics and in that way doing their bit in helping to materialize our dreams of a Greater Muhlenbery, support the issue. We are going to get our request. Will you be able to claim a share of the credit with "I helped?"

C. J. C. Holds Meeting

On Thursday last the C. J. C. club held a social meeting at the Delta Theta fraternity house on Turner Street.

It was the first social that the club held and proved a thrilling success. Professors Simpson and Cressman, honorary members of the club, were present and led the debate for the evening. The question debated is a secret and all that can be said is that it was a heated debate. James Morgan, '21 and Herbert Koch, '21 were initiated.

The next meeting will be held at the Phi Kappa Tau fraternity house at which session a prominent politician of the state will be present.

Debating Society Notes

Professor Cressman delivered a very interesting address on the subject of "Mandatories" at the meeting of the Athenian Debating Society in Chapel on Thursday evening.

Other features of the program were: a piano solo, Luther Bennyhoff, an impromptu speech on "The Relationship of the Preparatory School to the College," George Rupp; several excellent violin selections by Albert Erb; and the debate: Resolved that the United States is the logical country to develop China. The affirmative speakers were Hassinger and Strunk; the negative speakers were Sotter and Zartman. Both sides rendered excellent debates. The affirmative side won. The judges were Fink, Gresh and Fritz. The critic for the evening was George Balmer.

This was the second meeting of the society and was declared a decided success.

According to Prof. Brown, it is most likely that there will be no Cue and Quill Club this year on account of the poor management and lack of interest of last spring.

Prof. Brown addressed the Luther League of St. John's Church, Quakertown, last Tuesday evening. On Friday evening, March 19th, he will act as one of the judges in the Inter-High School debate at Bethlehem between Easton and Bethlehem.

The Weekly extends its sympathy and that of the Student Body to Dr. Wright, who was in Wellsville, N. Y. the past few days, attending the funeral of his only sister who died last week.

Crof. Cressman spoke last Sunday evening in St. Peter's Church.

New Chef Arrives

Mr. Lester Kawai of New York City arrived at Muhlenberg, Tuesday March 2, and took charge of the kitchen as head chef.

"Andy" Heim—"Why, they tried to capture one another."

Dr. Ettinger (in Theism)—"Well, that's giving it to you bluntly."

Bachman to Represent Muhlenberg at Intercollegiates

Russell S. Bachman, of the Class of 1920, last Friday evening, repeated his success of last year, when he was again chosen as Muhlenberg's representative to the Inter-Collegiate Oratorical Contest over a field of five other contestants.

James G. Morgan, of the Junior Class, who pushed Bachman hard all the way through, received second place, while Mark K. Trexler, also of the Junior Class was adjudged third.

After a selection by "The Rusty Five," the first speaker, Mr. Morgan, was introduced by Dean Ettinger, who presided. In his subject, "Where There is No Vision the People Perish," the speaker discussed the problem of the League of Nations as the vision of the people. He showed how one must look into the future when judging present-day problems.

The next speaker was Edwin L. Kohler, who delivered a fine oration on "Lincoln." The speech was a good description of Lincoln's childhood, work and strength. Mr. Kohler stressed the great humanity of Lincoln and made a strong plea for greater and better imitation thereof, today.

Mr. Bachman, the winner, whose subject was "In Defense of the Law," brought out in a forceful manner the stand of the people against tyranny and lawlessness, both in 1775 and in 1919, in the Boston Police Strike. He showed how the people, finally, are the real power of the nation and portrayed in vivid pictures how they had acted in defence of the law.

"France, the Victim of Peace," was the subject of Linn H. Schantz, the next speaker, whose theme dealt largely with the Peace Treaty. Mr. Schantz discussed the treaty from two angles: a Wilsonian Treaty or the creation of an idealist, and the Napoleonic Treaty or a practical agreement. The speaker showed how the Treaty of Versailles is but a compromise which leaves France unsatisfied as to reparations and without power to exact her just dues from Germany.

A call to the people of America to save coal and gas was the appeal of Freeland L. Hemmig, whose oration was entitled "Our Crime." Mr. Hemmig showed the enormous waste in consumption of these necessities and made a strong plea for economy.

The last speaker, Mark K. Trexler, who placed third, arraigned the class afraid of honest toil, and pointed out that the theory of American being a modern Utopia was a false idea. From the days of John Smith in Jamestown to the present time, he said, men in America have been taught to work and today, "Americanization by Means of Work" is the great solution to the immigration problem.

Mr. Bachman will speak in the Inter-collegiates to be held at Franklin and Marshall College, Lancaster, on April 17th. Last year, he placed second, being beaten by Drew Pierson of Swarthmore. This year, he has a fine chance to maintain Muhlenberg's record of three firsts, four seconds and a third place in nine years of intercollegiate competition.

The judges of the contest were Francis J. Gildner, Esq., Prof. Stephen G. Simpson, and Prof. Frederick Abbuhl, all of Allentown.

Press Club Organizes

In conformity with the recent action of the student body of Muhlenberg College concerning the organization of a Press Club, a meeting of the Club was held on Thursday at which time officers were elected and plans for the carrying on of the work were discussed.

The Club will fill a long felt need in the life of the college. It is a lamentable fact that such an institution and the work that it has been doing, has been so long screened, as it were, from the people whose needs it is endeavoring to supply. Not only has there been a lack of publicity for the community beyond the limits of the county and eastern part of the state, but the City of Allentown itself, which reaps so much good from the presence of the college in its center, has been woefully ignorant of the work of the institution in its midst.

A business cannot long survive unless it advertises its product to the outside world. The same thing applies to a college, despite the fact that we have always thought otherwise. Muhlenberg College is turning out merchandise, as it were, in the same sense that a manufacturing plant puts out merchandise. Yet she has made no great effort to bring before the eyes of the public anything concerning the size and capacity of her plant, the quality of its output, and the various fields of endeavor which that output has been serving. Technically speaking this has been the case.

The reasons for this have been many. A number of them, in fact most of them, have lain with the college itself. A man will not ask you what you have to sell and what your product will do. You must show him, and the busy world has provided a medium by which this may be accomplished. Some of the fault has lain with the community but in view of certain laws which life has laid down for us they are excusable and do not figure in the solution of our problem.

It is the purpose of the Press Club to correct and fill this long felt need. It can be done and it must be done. The men of the club feel the responsibility which has been laid upon them and will endeavor to justify the confidence the student body has placed in them. But they must be backed to the last in everything they do. They must feel at all times that the student body is behind them and if that support is given there can be no question as to the outcome of the new venture.

The following men were elected officers by action of the club: President, James Morgan, '21; Vice President, Amos Ettinger, '21; Secretary, Ivan E. Sanders, '23; and Treasurer, Paul Wohlson, '21.

Muhlenberg's Drive for $500,000

Muhlenberg's drive for a half million dollars was begun with a zest and enthusiasm which will ultimately mean the realization of the dreams of every student, faculty member and alumni for a Greater Muhlenberg. The first big gathering in the interests of the campaign was held at the Hotel Allen last Thursday noon and in St. John's Lutheran Church in the afternoon. One hundred and fifty men, representing every district in the Lutheran Ministerium of Pennsylvania, one pastor and one lay delegate, assembled in Allentown for the purpose of hearing the plans of the executive body and to receive inspiration for the work which is to be undertaken.

The pastors and laymen assembled at St. John's Church, at 11 A. M., where devotional services were held and where the workers registered. Divine guidance was invoked by Rev. Dr. T. H. Waidelich of Sellersville, after which the campaign manager introduced Rev. J. D. M. Brown, of the faculty. Prof. Brown clearly presented the purpose of the drive and the needs which it is intended to fill. He spoke especially of the inadequate library with which the institution is equipped.

Following the meeting at the church the men adjourned and proceeded to the Hotel Allen at noon, where dinner was served followed by addresses.

Reuben J. Butz presided as chairman and his introductory address was a most inspiring and stirring appeal for cooperation. He dwelt upon the needs of the institution, and the wonderful work that has been done by Dr. Haas and the faculty despite the handicaps they have been forced to work under.

Rev. Frank M. Urich, a member of the Class of 1902, and now the pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church, Philadelphia, spoke of the need of Christian education in the world today. "The world needs Christian education along with and as much as it needs Americanization," he said, "and Muhlenberg is the sort of college that will do more than its share to supply the great need."

Former District Attorney Lawrence H. Rupp, also a member of the 1902 Class, delivered a talk along the same lines as did Dr. C. J. Kunsman, president of the Pacific Seminary, at Seattle, Washington, who came here especially to answer the call for workers.

Rev. Dr. F. G. Gotwalt, of York, offered the opening prayer at the luncheon.

The Glee Club of the College furnished the musical entertainment during the course of the meal and scored a big hit for the manner in which they rendered their various numbers.

Following the meeting at the hotel the workers adjourned to St. John's Church where the actual work of laying plans for the campaign was further explained by the campaign manager, C. H. Weller.

President Dr. Haas delivered the principal address of the afternoon, presenting in concrete form the purpose and aims of the drive. Other addresses along the same lines were delivered by Dr. Gotwalt, Rev. Dr. Bauslin of Harrisburg, the college secretary of the Board of Education, Dr. W. D. C. Keiter, secretary of benevolence and treasurer of the Lutheran Synod and Dr. Kunsman of Seattle, Washington.

The campaign is a necessity for Muhlenberg. The $500,000 will be used in building a greater and a better Muhlenberg, a Muhlenberg which will be enabled to keep abreast of the demands of this new era. Allentown's quota of this amount is $200,000, while the rest of the district will supply the remaining $300,000. The whole is to be used equally for the endowment, building and debt funds of the institution.

The drive is on and the grand finale will be the week from April 17th to 24th, when we are sure the objective will be reached. We are positive that the efforts of the student body, alumni, and loyal Lutherans will respond to make a Greater Muhlenberg a reality.

Faculty Notes

Due to his energetic and vigorous campaigning in the interests of the $500,000 Campaign, Dr. Haas is suffering from a nervous breakdown and is at present confined to his home. The Weekly extends its sincere hopes for a speedy and full recovery of our beloved President.

Prof. Simpson acted as Judge at the Allentown-Hazleton High School Debate last Wednesday evening.

Dr. Ettinger acted as Presiding Officer at the Debate held last Wednesday evening at the High School between the Girls' Teams of the Allentown and Hazleton High Schools.

Prof. Fasig was one of the judges at the Coplay High School Oratorical Contest two weeks ago.

Prof. Brown is delivering numerous addresses at present in the interests of the Muhlenberg Campaign.

Speaking of Dr. Wright's address on February 14th, at Pottsville, the superintendent of schools said: "Dr. Wright's address was the best thing I ever heard at an educational meeting."

Prof. Bailey lectured on "Babies" before the Women's Club of Allentown at the Nurse's College, Allentown Hospital, on Tuesday, March 9th.

Alumni Notes

'74 The American Penman for February prints an interesting paper entitled, "Does Muscular Movement Writing Abide?" by Dr. Edgar Dubs Shimer, District Superintendent of the Public Schools of New York. The paper was an address before the Interborough Palmer Penmanship Teachers Association at New York, December 6, 1919. The American Penman has this to say about Dr. Shimer:

Dr. Shimer is a psychologist who charms. We are inclined to believe that the quality of "charm" inheres in the true psychologist more than in the master of any other pedagogic subject. Certainly William James was above all else, charming in his style. Perhaps this is noticeable because there are so many pedants and half baked theorists who dub themselves "psychologist," and who are just tiresome. The subject of "habit," which of course is intimately related to muscular movement handwriting, is among the most fascinating in the list of forms of human or animal energy. Dr. Shimer suggests a wealth of new thought on "habit" as related to muscular movement.

The Intercollegiate Magazine

The undergraduates of the American college and university can well note with satisfactory pleasure the publication of the new college magazine, the Intercollegiate World. While it is not the spicy, pungent magazine attracting the attention of every college student, we should not lose sight of the fact that the current number is its second issue. We can, at least, with satisfaction say that the second issue shows a hundred per cent improvement over the first. If its scope of interests will continue to enlarge itself with the same recundity with the next few numbers, it can well command the unequalified support of the American undergraduate.

This attempt at a nation undergraduate publication is by no means a new undertaking. Within the past several decades a number of efforts to accomplish this idea were made but they all fell short of success. Because of this fact, many are viewing the latest attempt cynically and are predicting a similar career. Let us, however, hope that this venture will prove more successful and will fill the long felt needs for such a journal. The splendid showing it has made thus far deserves a career unlike its predecessors. It deserves a better reward than failure.

Of course the success of the Collegiate World is more or less dependent upon the undergraduate. It is published for his benefit and naturally appeals to him for support. Unless the Collegiate World can finds its way into the college and university, its career as a college paper is doomed. It holds no interest beyond the domains of the college and expects no support from that direction. Secondly,the greater part of its make-up must come from the students. It cannot be a magazine for undergraduates if it fails to receive contributions from the undergraduates.

Social Development for Everybody

The action of the non-fraternity men in forming an association for social purposes is a commendable one. Social efficiency has always been the main problem of the college in its relations with the students. The fact that it was never recognized or given any attention does not belittle the problem. Development along social lines was always considered a matter to be left entirely to the individual. Fraternities and clubs sprung up with this supposition and were organized to fill the needs of the individual members. But this kind of development is only possible for the student belonging to the fraternity. The non-fraternity man has no such opportunity. An American educator of note has this mind when he writes, "If any one thinks the value of the training in a fraternity is negligible, let him pick out at random ten fraternity and ten non-fraternity men from any graduating class and he will see a big difference in social efficiency."

Such is the situation. The only solution is a closer bond of fellowship among the non-fraternity men. They have as much right to develop socially as the fraternity men. Not everybody can belong to Greek-lettered clubs but this fact does not deny the outsiders social privileges. The authorities of State College recognized this when they organized the fourteen hundred non-fraternity men into twenty-five groups for social purposes. These groups are to be clubs merely for fostering good fellowship and to cooperate with the fraternities in working for the welfare of the college. In the spirit of their organization, however, they differ widely from the fraternities.

L. C. C. Donates Books

The Lancaster County Club has presented to the Department of Education of Muhlenberg College a copy of "A History of Education in Pennsylvania," by James Pyle Wickersham, LL.D., and a copy of "One Hundred and Fifty Years of School History in Lancaster, Pennsylvania," William Riddle, author. The first mentioned book was published in 1886 in Lancaster, and is considered an authority on Pennsylvania educational history. The book has been out of print for several years but a copy was obtained by the Lancaster County Club through relatives of the author.

The book on the school history of Lancaster was presented to the Department of Education by Paul T. Wohlsen, President of the Lancaster County Club while the volume by Dr. Wickersham was a gift from the members of the club as a whole.

It is interesting to note that the two books were both written and published in Lancaster, Pennsylvania.

Berks County in the Limelight

Berks County has again been brought into the limelight at Muhlenberg College. The sons of Berks gathered in a room in the dormitories and organized a Berks County Club. These officers were elected: President, Paul D. Edelman, '21; Vice President, Paul J. Lynch, '21; Secretary-Treasurer, Samuel D. Butz, '22; Press Correspondent, Mark K. Trexler, '21.

The club proposes to send a man to each of the high schools in the county to advertise Muhlenberg, and also to arouse interest in the $500,000 drive for the college. Arrangements were made for a social meeting to be held in the near future.

Three Sign Up for Belleville Jobs

Supt. Gerard of the Belleville, N. J., public schools, was the honored guest of Dr. Wright last Tuesday when he repeated his visit of last year to Muhlenberg in his quest for teachers. As a result three Seniors signed contracts to teach in the Belleville High School next year, namely Anthony Corbiere, Raymond A. Green and David J. Schleicher. This will mean four Muhlenberg men on the Belleville teaching staff. "Charlie" Steele, '19, has been reelected with a salary of $1,800, an increase of $400.

Methods of Taking Notes Under College Professors

1. Don't bother with studying before the lecture; that's what the professor's there for.

2. Take pencil and note-book along to class; the professor might have something to say.

3. Take your text-book along to class and underscore those parts the professor does not go over; they are probably important.

4. Imbibe several cups of coffee beforehand that you may not be overcome by the soporific influence of the professor's line.

5. Don't ever borrow a pencil from the professor; he usually keeps a sharp eye on what property he holds and you may find yourself in the limelight.

6. After the lecture is over, go to your room and study up something about it so that you may know something in spite of all.

will be one of the soloists at a Belgian Relief concert in New York City. Ralph Gresh, '22, the accomplished Glee Club pianist, will play the difficult accompaniment to Saint-Seans Concerto for Cornet, Mr. Bryan's solo.

Mr. Gresh is a pianist of wonderful ability, possessing all kinds of technique and the art of interpretation. He has a pleasing personality and will no doubt be well received.

The following is taken from one of the New York Sunday papers: "The public will have the opportunity to hear for the first time, Ralph Gresh, a pianist of remarkable ability, at present a student at Muhlenberg College, Allentown, Pa. He will accompany Mr. Donald Bryan, a cornetist who has been heard here many times before. Mr. Bryan will play the well known concerto by Saint-Seans. The piano score is very difficult, and it requires the skill of an experienced artist to properly execute this number, the accompaniment being quite as difficult as the solo."

It is reported that several of the large talking machine concerns will be on hand to record the entire program. If this is true we shall have the pleasure of hearing Mr. Gresh on the many phonographs scattered throughout the Dorms.

Luck Shot Wins for Frosh

In the fastest game played on the Prep floor in two seasons the Frosh managed to slip one over on the Seniors by winning the game played on Friday afternoon 24-23. Both teams had a number of "M" men in their lineup. The Senior team included five "M" men of three different seasons.

The game started off with a rush, the seniors scoring three points before the bewildered freshmen recovered their senses. Then Lewis broke the ice for the yearlings with a foul shot. At half time the freshmen led 12-10, mainly thru a slip in the guarding program of the seniors as Smythe twice slipt in behind the defense for "sleepers."

The game continued nip and tuck with the frosh gradually forging ahead, when with the score at 20-15 the seniors rallied. With four minutes of play the seniors led with the score 21-20. At this time Parke was substituted for Armbruster. "Red" immediately began to achieve immortal fame in the eyes of the frosh by making a basket after a missed foul by Lewis. The seniors came back with a goal from mid-floor by "Noodles." Then with half a minute of play, "Red" Lewis started on a wild rampage down the floor and, shooting from the center of the floor, broke the senior lead of one point and turned apparent defeat into victory. Bedlam broke loose and the game was over.

The lineup:

Seniors		Frosh
Green	forward	Lewis

Non-Fraternity Team Wins from Phi Taus

The non-fraternity team added another victory to their list last Monday by defeating Phi Kappa Tau. Altho the score was 18-5 at the end of the first half the Phi Taus could not break the lead of the non-frats. Dillman and Lynch were the goal ringers for the victors while Frank Butz was the highest scorer for the defeated. Final score, 41-11.

men were unable to clip. Dillman was not up to form, caging but two goals. The final score 27-13.

The score:

Track Season Opens

Muhlenberg is facing the best track season in its history, to judge by prospects. At the first call for candidates a gratifying number presented themselves and others are daily joining the ranks.

The Athletic Association is straining every nerve in an effort to boost a successful track season. The authorities have provided the best, experienced coaches to handle the men in training.

John Paul Jones, the present inter-collegiate record holder of the one mile run, will personally supervise the distance men. Charles Beckwith, Jr., a middle distance man of the same Cornell team of which Jones was the captain is on hand to work the middle distance candidates into shape. Dr. M. S. Kleckner, '10, a former Muhlenberg hurdler of considerable experience, will sacrifice some of his valuable time to instruct the men in that difficult art. With such a stellar array of coaches the prospects loom up brilliantly for track this spring.

A well balanced squad of candidates are already at work including, in addition to all of last season's team, "Freddie" Jones and Shankweiler, former Prep stars and pre-war Muhlenberg athletes; Mosser, a Mercersburg sprinter and Knauss, a Beth. Prep man as well as a large number of new men as yet unsorted. The candidates have been practising on the Y. M. C. A. indoor track with the kind permission of the local "Y".

Work has been begun upon the track and it will soon be in condition for outdoor work. This season a new feature will be introduced, the javelin, an event which is everywhere supplanting the hammer throw.

The track schedule has been completed and includes the following meets:—

April 17—Lehigh—at home.
May 1—Penn Relays—at Philadelphia.
May 5—Lafayette—at home.
May 15—"Middle Atlantic"—Rutgers.
May 22—Drexel—at home.
May 29—Haverford—at home.
June 5—Delaware State—at Newark, Del.

Intercollegiate Oratorical Contest To Be Held at Franklin and Marshall, April 17

Delegates from Ursinus, Swarthmore, Franklin and Marshall and Muhlenberg met on March 20 at Franklin and Marshall College, for the annual meeting of the Pennsylvania Intercollegiate Oratorical Union. Muhlenberg was represented by Freeland Hemmig and Edwin Kohler.

The purpose of the meeting was to arrange for the oratorical contest of the union which is held annually. Because of the quarantine at Gettysburg College their representatives were not able to be present. Lafayette College also was not represented and in view of the fact that they were not represented last spring they have been automatically dropped from the union according to its constitution. An attempt will be made to get Haverford College to take the place of Lafayette.

After some discussion it was decided to hold the contest for this year in the college chapel at Franklin and Marshall College on April 17. A great amount of interest is always taken in oratory at F. and M. and there is promise of this being one of the best contests held in years despite the fact that there are only five colleges in it.

Disregarding the fact that our representative has already been chosen, let us not lose interest in the contest, for we have always held our own and are going into the fray with firm hopes again this year.

Inter-Church Movement at College

Last Thursday and Friday witnessed the bringing of the Inter-Church World Movement to Muhlenberg. Over 460 of our colleges were visited on these two days by men who voluntarily offered their services in reaching the various student bodies and imparting to them in concrete and truthful addresses a birds-eye view of present world conditions and the tremendous need for workers.

L. M. Sweet, Ph. D., of the White Bible School, New York City, addressed the student body at two sessions of Thursday and again concluded the program on Friday with a stirring appeal for an answer to the call. His morning address on Thursday was based on "Educational Guidance" and his afternoon address on "The World Situation." He presented his facts clearly and forcibly and was given eager and earnest attention by all who heard him.

Dr. William E. Lampe, of Philadelphia, who spent seven years of his life in Japan addressed the student body on Friday morning. He spoke chiefly of Japan but also dealt individually with all the nations of Europe and the present conditions there. He was followed by Dr. Fred Bunker, who has spent twenty-nine years in Africa as a missionary. He gave an interesting word picture of conditions there, based upon his personal experience.

In the afternoon, Dr. Bunker delivered an illustrated lecture showing the destitute conditions of the unchristianized peoples in different parts of the world and by his illustrations brot more vividly the need of workers among these people.

Dr. Sweet closed the Inter-Church campaign at Muhlenberg with a final appeal in which he said in part, "To win the world for Christianity, there must be leaders and these leaders must be trained men, the kind of man you are and will be. It is strange yet true that Christ spent thirty years in preparation for three years of ministry. Today it is a common thing, yes, a prevalent impression, that three years of preparation will prepare for thirty or forty years of ministry."

In the evening the lecturers visited the various fraternity houses and mingled with the men in informal gatherings where questions were freely asked and answered. The men then left the city for Juniata College where the work there was completed on Saturday.

Phi Kappa Tau Observes Founders' Day

The Fourteenth Anniversary of the founding of the Phi Kappa Tau Fraternity was celebrated last Wednesday evening by Eta Chapter at Muhlenberg College at a formal Foumders' Day banquet, held at the Hotel Allen.

A fine turkey dinner was served by Manager Heimbach's efficient corps of waiters in the dining-room which was beautifully decorated with college colors and fraternity pennants.

After the dinner, which was interspersed with music by the Phi Kappa Tau String Quintette, Dr. I. M. Wright, the Toastmaster, called on the following guests of honor who responded: Dr. George T. Ettinger, Prof. Stephen G. Simpson and Prof. Harry C. Cressman. James G. Morgan spoke for the active organization.

Among the alumni brothers present were: Stewart H. Nase, U. of P. Law School; Paul J. Fogel, Camden, N. J.; Luther A. Krouse, G. Charles Goering, Arthur H. Getz and Fred J. Fiedler, Mt. A. E. F. Club Passes Resolutions

At a special meeting of the A. E. F. Club of Muhlenberg College, held on February 26th, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS: The A. E. F. Club recognizes:

1. The possibility that the United States may be involved in wars in the future;
2. That military preparedness is necessary;
3. That a relatively small, but highly efficient standing army is desirable;
4. That Universal Training is the best means for obtaining and training a large number of American citizens to constitute a reserve to be called to the colors in time of National danger;
5. That a much longer period of time is required to train citizens as leaders and officers than is required to train them as enlisted men;
6. That a large corps of reserve officers is necessary for officering the United States Army in times of emergency;

AND WHEREAS: The Reserve Officers' Training Corps as now established at the colleges throughout the United States is the best known method suitable to the conditions obtaining in the United States for obtaining and training the most suitable class of citizens as Reserve Officers;

AND WHEREAS: The establishment of a unit of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps and its continuance at Muhlenberg College is desirable and necessary so that Muhlenberg may furnish its quota of officers to the United States Army Reserve;

BE IT RESOLVED: That the A. E. F. Club stands squarely behind the R. O. T .C., giving the unit its full moral support, and ready to take any steps practicable to make the unit a success.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED: That a copy of these resolutions be furnished The President of Muhlenberg College; the Professor of Military Science and Tactics, Muhlenberg College; and that they be published in the Muhlenberg Weekly, the college newspaper.

In the Wake of the Inter-Church Movement

About a month ago seven thousand of America's young college students attended the Student Volunteer Conference at Des Moines, Iowa. These young men and women brot back to their respective colleges and universities the broad view of Christianity which had been imparted to them at that conference. The Inter-Church World Movement, whose representatives were here at Muhlenberg last Thursday and Friday, is the outgrowth of this Des Moines Conference—it is an attempt to bring a Des Moines Conference to every college man and woman and thus to give every student a broader outlook on life.

This movement has been the chief event thus far in the religious life of the college. Previously there was little or no interest taken in the efforts of the Y. M. C. A. to better the men of Muhlenberg. Attendance at lectures of this kind was, comparatively speaking, very poor. It was thot that those men who were ardent advocates of Christianity and who were deeply interested in such work were the only men to whom these lectures could appeal. .But last Thursday and Friday a miraculous change occurred. The attention of practically the entire student body was drawn—it was a change from the spirit of "laissez—faire," the spirit of indifference which could be felt in many phases of college life to a more pronounced realization of individual responsibility. And the things which produced this great change in the lives of the majority of the students were that for the first time they were brot face to face with the fact that Christianity is essential and not only essential, but compulsory, in every profession. In the past it was thot that only the men specially trained for the ministry and for mission work could do this kind of work but now it is revealed that religion is of equal importance in the life of the doctor, the lawyer, the teacher, and the layman, as in the life of the clergyman and the missionary. What a wonderful opportunity lies before us for doctors and teachers among the people who are yet beyond the pall of civilization! Doctors can here accomplish not only physical but also spiritual healing—teachers can also introduce the elements of Christian love and the essentials of Christian life in their schools. At the present time religion is playing a vital part in the lives of all people—and the professional man who knows not religion must be regarded as ignorant in the eyes of the world. And to the men and women who are not merely viewing their futures from a mercenary standpoint, what could appeal more to an ardent young person than to contribute his or her life in introducing the elements of Christianity to those who are as yet totally ignorant? What a great field for the enthusiastic young medical man or the ardent teacher!

Did you ever realize, that if all the money our government spent in fruitless endeavors against the bandit Villa, could have been used for Christianity, there could have been erected a church, a school, and a community house in every town of 10,000 population in Mexico? Or did it ever occur to you, that, with the money which we spend in building one battleship, the foreign mission workers could be increased 100%.

The opportunity is lying at our doors. Will the realization of individual responsibility in every student be permanent, be based on permanent realization and conviction or merely on temporarily interest? Will this spirit continue and show itself prominently in the coming Y. M. C. A. Convention which will be held here in May?

K. S. N. S. Club Holds Smoker

The initial smoker of the K. S. N. S. club was held at the Delta Theta fraternity house on March 10th. The boys got together about eight o'clock and passed the time shooting pool and in various other diversions. After it had been proven that Knedler was a second Willie Hoppe, and that Shankweiler could produce nine aces from a pinocle deck, a business meeting was called. Succeeding in having Mark Trexler bound and gagged, the president was able to make his voice heard and the meeting came to order. After some routine business had been attended to, it was decided to send a framed picture of the club to the normal school, as well as a copy of the 1921 Ciarla. Mark Trexler was elected to go to the normal school for the purpose of addressing the students on the subject of going to college. Permission has been granted the club to address all the boys in the chapel.

Tranquilly sitting in the haze (for this was a real smoker) the fellows indulged in pipe-dream reminiscences of the days back at old Keystone. The meeting finally broke up and every-one went home thinking of an evening joyously spent. The club stands indebted to the Delta Theat fraternity for their kind hospitality.

Easter Recess

The Easter vacation will start on Wednesday, March 31, at 4 P. M. Classes will be resumed on Tuesday morning, April 6th. Next week's issue of the Weekly will appear on a Tuesday evening instead of Wednesday so that it will reach all the students before they leave for the recess.

Muhlenberg Commencement

Muhlenberg College will graduate a class of thirty-four young men and one young woman at the coming commencement exercises to be held in the Lyric theatre, Thursday, June tenth, at 10 O. M. The class of 1920 will be the fifty-third to receive academic diplomas and has the distinction of being the first to number among its members a young lady. This is made possible through the work of the extension schools of the college which admits both men and women teachers. Miss Mabel Knecht of Allentown, having completed the required number of units for graduating, will be the first young woman to receive a diploma from Muhlenberg.

The commencement festivities will begin Sunday, June 6th at which time Dr. John A. W. Haas, President of the College will preach the baccalaureate sermon, in St. John's Lutheran Church.

The President's reception to the Senior Class will be given Monday afternoon.

Alumni Day will be observed Wednesday, June 9th, at which occasion Supt. Dodd of the Allentown Public Schools, will address the Alumni on the "School Situation."

Classes Suspended in Dr. Schmauk's Memory

Classes at Muhlenberg were suspended Monday afternoon, March 29, in respect to the memory of the Rev. Theodore Emmanuel Schmauk, a trustee of the college, who was for many years the president of the General Council of the Lutheran Church. Dr. Schmauk died last Tuesday and was buried Monday afternoon.

Dr. Schmauk graduated from the University of Pennsylvania in the class of 1880 and three years later from the Lutheran Theological Seminary at Mt. Airy. He has been pastor of the Salem Lutheran Church of Lebanon ever since he graduated from the seminary. The University of Pennsylvania conferred on him the degree of Doctor of Divinity.

The dead man is widely known in Lutheran circles throughout the country. He was lecturer in apologetics and ethics at the Mt. Airy Seminary for a number of years and a member of the Board of Directors of the same institution. He was also one of the founders of the United Lutheran Church.

Dr. Schmauk was editor of the "Lutheran Church Review," and of the "Lutheran" and was editor and compiler of the Lutheran Bible School lesson courses.

He never married and made his home with his sister, Miss Emma Schmauk of Lebanon.

Glee Club Active Again

The Glee Club and the Mandolin Club put in a busy night last Friday, when they started the ball rolling by appearing at the dinner of the Kiwanis Club of Allentown at the Hotel Traylor. Both Clubs presented several numbers and encores between the courses of the dinner which was all that any of the members could hope for. Trexler turned up at the time for coffee and cigars. Ask him whether it was not "some" meal!

The Mandolin Club played at the meeting of the Lehigh Valley Chemical Association at the Hotel Allen at eight o'clock on the same evening. Several numbers were played which were followed by a vocal solo by "Goldstein" Longkamer. Not calling the evening complete, the party left immediately for Christ Lutheran Church. A meeting of the district Luther Leagues was in session. Music followed the address by Prof. Cressman and at the adjournment of the program, the Mandolin Club played while a "brick test" was staged by "Puny" and "Goldstein." The latest reports were that Goldstein was ahead with eight to his credit.

Pool Tournament Schedule Announced

The annual inter-fraternity pool tournament which has been delayed somewhat this year will start the first Friday after Easter, April 9, at the Phi Kappa Tau house. Prospects this years for tennis are exceptionally bright, with all the members of last year's team back and one man of the 1918 team. The courts will be put into shape this coming week so that we will have almost a month to practice before our first match. Manager Beddow has arranged the following schedule:

Lafayette	May 5		Away
Moravian	May 8		Home
Lehigh	May 12		Away
Villanova	May 20	Pending	Home
Moravian	May 22		Away

A Vacation in France

Each soldier in France was entitled to a seven day leave of absence every four months. In practice they didn't come so often; my first was in May 1918, after nine months in France and my second was in December 1918.

My first leave was to Aix-les-Bains in the French Alps. The city is built on the only level part of the shore of the Lac du Bouyet. The lake is surrounded by high mountains and looks like a jewel in a setting.

After hearing of the trips which the "Y" conducted my chum and I decided they were entirely too tame. Our idea was to climb every mountain we found. We figured, seven days, seven mountains. Quite an ambitious schedule, but we did climb five and rode up a sixth on an inclined railway.

Our first endeavor was to climb the Dout du Chat or Cat's Tooth, the mountain directly across the lake from Aix. To get to the foot of it we had to ride six miles on bicycles. Arrived at its foot we concealed our bikes and started to climb. Toward the end of the climb our climbing periods were shortened to 30 seconds. The rarefied atmosphere did not sustain continued effort. After four hours we struck snow, which we melted over a fire and drank. Another hour's climb brought us to the foot of a forty foot precipice. In this we found a crevice and with the aid of roots finally reached the top. We were inclined to be chesty over this feat but when our week was up we realized it had been our easiest and safest climb.

Our week was quite a dangerous affair, when you realize that a sprained ankle is as dangerous almost as a broken neck when you are in an almost inaccessible place. We were so near heaven several times that we smelled sulphur.

Another trip we took was a bicycle trip around the lake. It was a fifty mile ride. This included about five miles of climbing and about twenty-five miles of coasting. Our steepest climb was over Hannibal's Pass. This is a pass over the large ridge of mountains which separates the lake from the Valley of the Rhone. One of our stops was at the old Italian Abbey of Hautecombe. Here we were shown through by a monk.

The monk muttered French at us and explained all the sights to us. In such cases I listened for words I knew, like voila and aui, oui, and made no attempt to pretend I understood. Charley didn't get it either, but he pretended to. He belonged to the Fraternity of Volunteer Interpreters, a specias of the genus Pest, some member of which was forever stepping forward to secure misinformation for all the Americans in France.

Once Charley offered to find out for a party of us how far we were from a certain town. In his best French he asked a French soldier, who replied, "Je ne parle pas Anglais," which Charley translated as, "Forty miles!"

My week at Aix was the most strenuous and enjoyable week I have ever spent and our exploits earned for us the title of "The Mountain Goats." This was bestowed on us by the Y. M. C. A.

College Salaries

(The question of the professor's salary is so well discussed in an article to the March number of the Educational Review by R. J. Aley that the editor was tempted to make an extract).

The institutions of higher learning are facing a crisis. The number of faculty members resigning to accept other positions is unusually large. The number of students preparing themselves for college teaching has never been so small. The interest in college education as evidenced by increased attendance is greater than ever before. The need of a much larger teaching force and the necessity of paying professors more than ever before presents difficulties that will be hard to overcome. Statistics showing comparative annual salaries in all professions and the wages received by workmen in many of the industries are familiar to all. These show by comparison the wholly inadequate pay received by the college teacher.

The absolute essential in an institution of higher learning is an adequate teaching force. Buildings and equipment are necessary. However, if a choice must be made between improved buildings and equipment on the one hand and an adequate teaching force on the other, there should be no hesitation in choosing the latter. The student seeking an education will find fine buildings, great libraries and splendidly equipt laboratories, convenient and even desirable. They are, however, not sufficient for his needs. The necessary and sufficient condition for his growth and development is a teacher. Without the teacher all else is of little value.

The students, alumni and friends of a college expect the members of the faculty to maintain a proper standard of living. A professor and his family must live in a good house located in a desirable part of the town or city and assume an appropriate place in the social activities of the community. The professor is expected to dress well, to have membership in one or more clubs, and to contribute liberally to the church and to all benevolent and philanthropic organizations. If he rises to the level expected of him he must either have a private income or his salary must be made sufficient to pay the bills. It is impossible to understand how thousands of men and women in our college faculties maintain themselves as well as they do under present salary conditions.

The campaigning now under way by colleges and universities for increased endowments speaks eloquently of the wide-spread interest in salaries for college teachers. If higher education is to maintain its influence with the people we must retain in the college faculties the best men now there and attract to them the most promising young men of the country. These things can only be done when the provision for salaries is large enough to give men the opportunity to have homes, families, leisure, proper standards of living and provision for old age.

More and more the college graduate selects his life work by a careful study of possibility and accumulated experience. His selection of a profession depends upon his natural bent and ability in part, and also upon the financial possibilities offered by the profession. When he studies the experience of the college graduates who have preceded him and finds that ten years after graduation, those in business professions are earning from twice to ten times as much as the teacher, he is not likely to select teaching as a profession. In studying these experiences he probably notices that in all other professions there is no upper limit but that the upper limit in teaching is very low.

Athenian Debating Society

"Resolved, That a system of compulsory military training be adopted by the United States," was the feature of the regular program of the Athenian Debating Society, which was rendered on Wednesday evening, March 24, in the chapel. The affirmative team composed of Raymond Dillman and Ivan Sanders, both A. E. F. men, won from the negative team, composed of Carl Cassone and Gomer Reese.

The debate was followed by an interesting address by Captain Clapham on the subject of "Universal Military Training." Then the meeting was opened to general discussion, which was very interesting. Other numbers of the program were: Extemporaneous speech, Elmer Kramer; Piano Solo, Luther Bennyhoff; and an address by Elmer McKee on the subject of "Blood Transfusion." The program was followed by a short business meeting.

Tennis Enthusiasts Organize

On Wednesday morning after the Student Body meeting, the men who are interested in Tennis met in Dr. Wackernagel's room where they organized a Tennis Club. The following officers were elected: President, Richard R. Gates; Vice-President, T. Kenneth Miller; Secretary, Victor A. Saxe; Treasurer, Richard C. Lutz.

Altho the club is new, it has organized with a definite aim, and will undoubtedly be one of the most active clubs on the Campus. The club proposes to get more men of each class interested in Tennis; to develop those men with exceptional ability; and to promote inter-Class Tennis. The club extends an invitation to those men who love the sport, to join and get acquainted with the organization.

May 1st As "American Day"

As a climax to the fight against anarchists, Bolshevists, and all other "Reds" which it has been waging since the war ended, the National Security League announces the organization by it of a nation-wide popular demonstration of Americanism on May 1st, the time-honored occasion for radical celebrations. Thousands of parades of citizens, similar to the "preparedness parades" in 1916, will be held thruout the country on that day, turning it into "American Day."

The Security League will develop the plan thru the cooperation of state and city officials and the participance of local organizations and bodies of citizens of all kinds in cities large and small.

Intercollegiate Items

Announcement that Provost Edgar F. Smith has tendered his resignation as Provost to the University of Pennsylvania came as a surprise to the undergraduates and thousands of alumni of Penn. The student body is trying to make arrangements with the Trustees to keep Dr. Smith as Provost Emeritus or to supply him with capable assistants to lighten his burden in order that he can continue his duties.

Non-Fraternity Team Wins Final Game

The final game of the inter-group league was played in the Prep gym on Monday afternoon, March 29, with the non-fraternity team victors over the Phi Tau quintet. Dillman	Forward	Butz, F.
Hallman	Forward	Bleiler
Lynch	Center	Kehrli
Weaver	Guard	Gates
Armbruster	Guard	VanZandt

Track Meet with Brown and White

Muhlenberg will open her track schedule, by competing with Lehigh, next Saturday, on her own track. The track team, though somewhat discouraged, is working hard and will make a splendid showing in the first meet of the season. Lehigh has a number of new men, who are showing up well. Last year, the Brown and White defeated Muhlenberg by a small margin. With Jones, Reinartz, Mosser and Shankweiler showing excellent form, the dashes should be well taken care of. Kline and Jones are sure of making good in the jumps. Kline also stands a good chance in the hurdles, in which he excelled last season. The middle distance events will be represented by Knauss, Bittner and Erb. The latter is showing better form than last season when he captured the 880 yard run in the Middle State Collegiate Meet. The distance runners are training hard and Lehigh will not find it as easy in this event as she did last season. An excellent trio will take the field events in charge, namely, Jones, Kline and Reinartz. In the shot put, Wills and Lewis are heaving better than ever.

We are confident by the efforts of the men put forth that Lehigh will find every event hotly contested when her athletes meet Muhlenberg next Saturday on our field.

With the Glee Club

What Ho! the Glee Club is active again. No sooner did the Easter recess end than the Club members got out their clothes and traveling articles and after a thorough dusting which was necessary after the relapse caused by the Lenten season, the members pulled out of Allentown on Wednesday noon for "Eph-rip-ra" where a concert was enjoyed by the people of that place on Wednesday night. Ephrata has always been a good Glee Club town and the Club put over a heavy barrage—pardon the war vocabulary—and from the opening number until the last yell, the audience was in good humor.

On Thursday evening, the Club appeared in the Academy of Music in Lebanon and played a good concert before a large audience. All of the numbers were well received and the hospitality of the Lebanon people was of the finest grade. Mr. Lantz, a member of the Board of Trustees of the College, surprised the members of the Club with a supper after the concert, at which several speeches were made. Rev. C. A. Keim and Mr. Lantz welcomed the Club and Manager Bollman, in behalf of his proteges, handed over a heavy line which took well with the ladies who were present. "Mucker" Kline was also present.

After a few days of visiting around college, the Club will leave for the South, where a one night concert will be given. Watch this space next week, and don't forget the home concert on May 6th—it's worth hearing!

Y. M. C. A. Convention to Be Held Here

On May 7, 8, 9 the officers of the Student Y. M. C. A. in Pennsylvania and New Jersey will gather on our campus for a week end of diligent study of Student Association Work. As some of the reports from various schools come in they cause us to anticipate a wonderful convention. A unique program has been arranged involving the following speakers and leaders:

Dr. F. B. Smith: America's greatest speaker to men.

Dr. Harry Ward: Leading Social Service expert in America. World-wide reputation.

Dr. Robert P. Wilder: Founder of the Student Volunteer Movement. He needs no introduction to students.

Mr. Dave Porter: Executive Sec. of the Student Dept. of the Y. M. C. A. Chosen to be a delegate to the world Student Christian Federation to be held in Sweden.

Dr. Harrison S. Elliot: Expert on Bible Study. No man has contributed as much for Bible Study for students as Elliot.

Mr. J. B. Carruthers: State Y. M. C. A. Secretary for Penna.

Dr. Chas. D. Hurry: Expert in work among foreign students. Spent several years in South America. Recently placed in charge of all foreign student work in America. Chosen as a delegate to the conference in Sweden.

Mr. W. H. Tinker: Student Y. M. C. A. Secretary for Middle Atlantic States.

Mr. J. H. Brewer: Religious Secretary of State Y. M. C. A.

Rev. Ed. T. Horn: Lutheran Missionary to Japan for 9 years

The Following Speakers are Expected:

Dr. J. Campbell White: Executive Sec. of Life Work Dept. of Inter-Church World Movement. Missionary in India for ten years. President of Wooster College. Sec. of Men's Religious Movement.

Hon. Wm. C. Sproul: Our honored Governor of Pa.

Dr. Sam Higgenbottom: India's apostle of Agriculture.

Rev. Frank Buchman: Expert in the study of the Power of Prayer.

It is a great honor for Muhlenberg to be the host at this Convention. May we live up to our standard of work and put our part over the top with a grand success.

A. T. O. Holds Formal Dance

The Pennsylvania Alpha Iota chapter of Alpha Tau Omega Fraternity held their annual spring dance at the Lehigh Country Club on last Friday night. The affair was a "lasting" one as many saw the sun rise for the first time this year.

Out of town alumni and local members of the fraternity were present and a large number of visiting girls were on hand to enjoy the evening's events. Mr. and Mrs. Oscar F. Bernheim and Prof. and Mrs. James H. S. Bossard were chaperons for the evening. The Jazzland Novelty Orchestra furnished a program of snappy music which delighted the groups and added greatly to the success of the evening. At midnight a lunch was served in the Club's dining room, when the ladies received attractive favors in the form of bar pins.

Divide Honors in Pool Tournament

Phi Kappa Tau and Delta Theta split even last Friday evening in the opening games of the Inter-Fraternity Pool Tournament, held at the Phi Kappa Tau House, the former winning the singles and the latter taking the doubles.

Paul Rhode, the Freshman basketball star, easily won the singles for Phi Kappa Tau from Robbins. The final score was 100-76.

The doubles developed into a four-cornered struggle between Horace Schuler and Jack Simmons, playing for the "Delts" and Amos Ettinger and Frank Butz, shooting for the "Phi Taus." The latter early took the lead, but could not hold it, Simmons' run of nine in the last frame giving the visitors the game by a score of 100 to 90.

Y. M. C. A. Elections

On Wednesday the following officers were elected for the Y. M. C. A. by the student-body at large:

Pres., Victor A. Saxe
Vice Pres., Daniel Kistler
Sec., Paul H. Heim
Treas., Theodore Benze
Employment Bureau, Luther F. Gerhart
Chairman of Mission Study, Mark Trexler
Chairman of Bible Study, Ira S. Fritz

Biology Trip April 23 and 24

Prof. Bailey's Biology trip to New York City will be made on Friday and Saturday, April 23 and 24. The trip had been arranged for a date in February but had to be postponed on account of the influenza epidemic. All taking the trip are assured of two days of profit and pleasure. Many places of interest will be visited, including the Aquarium of Battery Park, Bronx Botanical Park, the Museum of Natural History and Art, and the Zoological Garden in the Bronx.

Prof. Bailey has spent many weeks of study at these various places and will be able to point out numerous objects of special interest. He has acquaintances with the officials of the different Museums and so can secure access to the laboratories and special departments. A special feature will be the attendance of a theatrical performance on Friday evening. Any student is invited to accompany Prof. Bailey.

I. O. U. Contest on Saturday

The annual contest of the Pennsylvania Intercollegiate Oratorical Union will be staged at Franklin and Marshall College on the evening of April 17. Russel S. Bachman, '20, who placed second at Swarthmore last year, will again represent Muhlenberg. The other members of the union are Franklin and Marshall, Gettysburg, Swarthmore, and Ursinus.

Faculty Notes

Dr. Haas and Dr. Wright spent the past week-end in Philadelphia at the annual U. of P. Schoolmen's Week Convention..

Dr. Ettinger read a paper on "Educational Values of the Classics" last Friday afternoon before the Classical section of the Schoolmen's Convention.

Dr. Ettinger also spoke in the interests of the Campaign during the last few weeks.

Prof. Brown addressed large audiences during the past three weeks in Lancaster, Lebanon, Catasauqua, etc., in the interests of the Campaign.

Prof. Bailey gave Nature lectures at Boyertown and Alburtis within the last two weeks.

Dr. Wright spoke at Palmerton last Wednesday on "Silent Reading." On April 1, he delivered the commencement address at Hegins, Schuylkill County.

Dr. Wright has been elected to represent the School of Pedagogy on the Alumni Executive Committee of New York University in the campaign that they are at present conducting.

Prof. Cressman last Thursday evening addressed the Men of Emmanuel Reformed Church. On Friday evening he spoke on his experiences in the war before the Allentown District Luther League in Christ Lutheran Church.

Prof. Cressman spoke for the Campaign recently at Cementon, Laury's and Indianland.

College Interest in Military Training Increases

The colleges and universities are showing a pronounced interest in the camps which will be conducted by the War Department this summer, for the training of student members of regularly organized units of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps in educational institutions. The success of last year's R. O. T. C. camps was so marked and the mental and physical benefits to the students who attended were so great, that this year's camp period, which begins June 17th, and continues six weeks, will find nearly ten thousand students in attendance.

Most of these camps will be located at the great service Training Centers which were developed during the War. This means that every possible opportunity will be given to those in attendance to take advantage of the training facilities with which these places are equipped. Reserve Officers' Training Corps Infantry camps will be located at Camp Devens, Mass., Camp Custer, Mich., Camp Benning, Ga., and at the Presidio of San Francisco.

The Ordnance R. O. T. C. units will be trained at the Aberdeen Proving Grounds, Maryland; the Engineers at Camp Humphreys, Virginia; the Field Artillery at Camp Knox, Kentucky; the Coast Artillery at Ft. Monroe, Va; the Signal Corps at Camp Alfred Vail, N. J.; and the Motor Transport Corps at Camp Holabird, Md. Cavalry camps will be conducted at Fort Ethan Allen, Vt., and at Ft. Oglethorpe, Ga.

The instruction at these camps will be practical and thorough. Experienced officers will be present to furnish expert training. The development of leadership ability in the student officers will be emphasized. Facilities will be provided for recreation, and athletic competition and sports. This feature will also be directed by especially selected experts. Special provision will be made for the welfare of all who attend the camp.

The War Plans Division of the General Staff will have general supervision of all the R. O. T. C. camps, but they will be conducted by the Department Commanders of the territorial departments in which they are located who will inform all concerned in regard to the essential details.

It will be noted that these camps are for the training of student members of units of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps and that they are not for the further training of individuals who already hold reserve commissions.

Would You?

A youth, a maid, a light turned low,
A drawing room sequestered;
A pearly ear, a naughty curl
A lovesome thought, low-whispered.

A clock, a bell, two strokes bestir
A maiden and a youth;
"I'll have to go," said he, "I trow,"
Said she, "So soon, forsooth?"

An open door, a soft moonbeam,
Two clinging hands, two lips,
What followed? Well, would he, would you
Have kissed her finger tips?

Let's Root on Saturday

This coming Saturday afternoon, April 17th, the Muhlenberg Track Team will oppose Lehigh in a dual meet on our home field. We wonder how many of the students realize that we have a track team this year. As at the start of the football season last fall, the spirit and attitude of the students towards track is extremely indifferent. None or very few of the students ever seem to have the time to watch the daily practises of the runners. It seems as if only the men actively engaged in this branch of activity are interested in any way about its success.

Excellent coaches have been secured this year and, with stars of former years again in togs, prospects are very bright for a successful season. But it should not be left entirely to a few individuals to make the coming season a success or a failure. If you will recall, the football spirt, which was lying dormant during the early part of the season, grew by leaps and bounds and reached its climax in a burst of enthusiasm just before the Lehigh game. Now we are again facing that old rival in another branch of sport—is the old Muhlenberg spirit going to awaken and are we going to get behind the team or is this indifferent attitude going to persist? We have defeated Lehigh before in track and we can do it again. They have already had their interclass meet; their student body is keyed up to the greatest interest possible in their team; a large number of rooters will probably be on hand to cheer their team on Saturday. Are our athletes going to go on that field with the full-hearted support of the students or must they feel as if no one else was interested at all?

So, fellows, let's not forget that the track team needs your support just as much as did the football or basketball team. Let's get a big crowd of rooters out there on this coming Saturday afternoon and show the team we are back of them and have confidence in their ability. We will need a large number of students on hand for we don't want Lehigh to say that she had more rooters at a track meet on a foreign field than her opponent. The team needs you; will you show them that you are with them?

Will We Do Our Bit?

The $500,000 campaign is on! In a majority of the cities to be canvassed, the drive was begun last week. Allentown's quota in this drive is $200,000. The committee of the town has organized and is working hard. Next week the campaign will be brought a trifle closer to home when a drive will be started among the students of the college. Of course, we realize that the average college student is by no means a man of wealth. It is pretty much of a job for most of us to make ends meet. But this drive has been instituted by our Alma Mater for her improvement and betterment. I am sure we would all like to see the Muhlenberg of 1930 a vastly improved Muhlenberg in comparison with present conditions. And so let it be weighed that this money which you will be called on to subscribe will be for the betterment of your Alma Mater. It is not money foolishly spent but in a good cause and if the students of Muhlenberg won't support the drive, how can the alumni and outsiders be expected to make it success?

Alumni Notes

'83 Rev. John J. Foust, formerly of Allentown, has been appointed by the New York East Conference of the Methodist Church to the pastorate of Trinity Church at Richmond Hill in the borough of Queens.

'93 Rev. Joshua H. Miller, Ph.D. has written a very interesting and readable book, entitled "The Bible of Nature and the Bible of Grace," which is published by the Roxburgh Publishing Co., of Boston. In a clear and attractive way the author shows the harmony that exists between God's revelation in Nature and the revelation of Himself given in the Bible. He shows that science and the Bible are not really at variance, and that many scientists, contrary to popular opinion, were in reality religious men. He encourages and exhorts his readers to study nature, that is, to cultivate the scientific studies, in order to appreciate more fully the wonderful manifestation of God's goodness and power. Among the chapters are: Creation and Its History in Nature, The Flood and Its History in Nature, and Prophecy in Nature. The Conclusion deals with the alleged controversy between science and religion, and brings proof to show that the greater scientists were religious men. The book is stimulating and highly interesting. The author is to be congratulated upon his work.

'01 Rev. J. Howard Worth, recently of the Church of the Messiah, Brooklyn, N. Y., was installed Sunday afternoon, February 1, as pastor of St. Andrew's Church, Charleston, S. C., in the presence of a large congregation. The charge to the congregation was delivered by Rev. Henry J. Black, President of the Synod of South Carolina. The charge to the pastor was delivered by George J. Gongaware, D.D., pastor of St. John's congregation. The act of installation was performed by the President of Synod. Rev. Worth succeeds M. G. G. Scherer, D.D., the present Secretary of The United Lutheran Church in America.

'02 Lawrence H. Rupp, of Allentown, chairman of the Democratic state Committee, has announced himself as a candidate for United States Senator. He will be a contestant for the seat now held by Boise Penrose. Mr. Rupp is a prominent lawyer and former district attorney of Lehigh County, where he has a strong following. He is an ardent advocate of the nomination of Attorney-General Palmer in the latter's contest for the presidental nomination. As president of the Pennsylvania State Association of the Elks, Mr. Rupp is also widely known.

'15 Henry L .Snyder was recently admitted to the bar at Greenboro, North Carolina, as a practicing attorney. After his graduation from Muhlenberg, he took a post-graduate course at the University of Virginia. While in his Junior year at college, he won first place in the Junior and Intercollegiate Oratorical contests.

ex-'20 Mrs. Pearl Witham, 422 South Commerce Street, Toledo, Ohio, announces the engagement of her daughter Esther to Milford L. Landis, of Robesonia. The couple will be married in Des Moines in May.

Mr. Landis is associated with Drake University, Des Moines, in promulgating a larger lyceum arts department and is again going to tour for one year under the management of the Affiliated Redpath Bureaus as a feature trumpet soloist with his sextet of singing artists to be known as the Landis Singing Orchestra. Miss Witham is the trombone soloist with the Grenadier Girls, a Ralph Dunbar production playing Orpheum circuit production. During the past few seasons Miss Witham and Mr. Landis have covered nearly every state and have played in almost every principal city in this country and Canada. Mr. Landis will most likely return to Muhlenberg next fall to complete his studies.

IF—

If you can keep your dough when all about you
Are spending theirs and borrowing, try you.
If you can flirt with all the girls and keep your shirt on, too,
If you can roll the bones, and lose, yet do not feel too blue,
If you can skip Bill's gym and get by with it, too,
If you can pinch the lights out of the dorm
And raise Cain generally without making Moses storm,
If you can dance till four A. M. most every night,
And get up for an eight o'clock and feel all right,
If you can bluff the profs and never cram a bit,
Then, my son, the school is yours—take all that's in it—
And what is more you'll have some education.

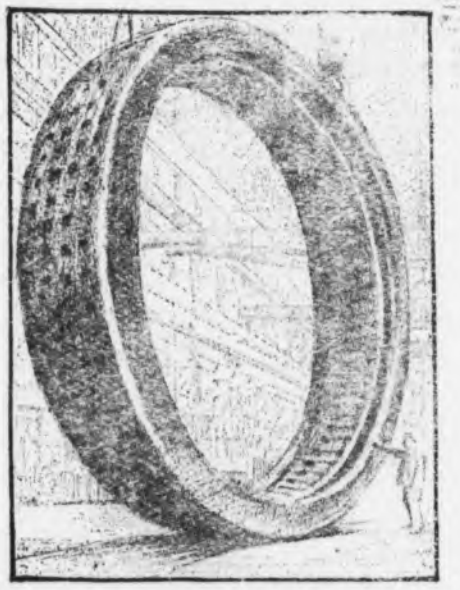
Mississippi River Power Company, Keokuk, Iowa



A casting for one of the huge water-wheel driven generators installed in the Mississippi River Power Company's plant at Keokuk. This installation will ultimately consist of thirty of these machines, giving a total capacity of 216,000 kilowatts (300,000 horsepower). It is the largest hydro-electric development in the world. The General Electric Company builds generators for water-wheel drive in sizes ranging from 37½ to 32,500 kilowatts and the aggregate capacity of G-E units now in successful operation is in excess of four million horse-power.

Utilizing Nature's Power

ELECTRICAL energy generated by water power has grown to be one of our greatest natural resources — and we have only begun to reach its possibilities. It mines and refines our ores, turns the wheels of industry, drives our street cars and lights our cities and towns. The power obtained from Nature saves many million tons of coal every year.

At first the field of its utilization was limited by the distance electricity could be transported. But soon research and engineering skill pointed the way to larger and better electrical apparatus necessary for high-voltage transmission. Then ingenious devices were invented to insure protection against lightning, short-circuits, etc., which cause damage and interrupt the service. And now all over the country a network of wires begins to appear, carrying the magic power.

The General Electric Company, with its many years' experience, has played a great part in hydro-electric development. By successfully co-ordinating the inventive genius of the company and its engineering and manufacturing abilities, it has accomplished some of the greatest achievements in the production and application of electrical energy.

The old mill wheel of yesterday has gone. Today the forces of immense volumes of water are harnessed and sent miles away to supply the needs of industry and business and the comforts of the home.

Dr. Wolfe Addresses Student Body

On Monday of Holy Week, the chapel assembly was addressed by Dr. Wolfe, Secretary of the Foreign Mission Board of the Lutheran Church. He spoke of the necessity for the church to make known her demands. "The cross calls," must be the challenge of the church. He said: "We cannot and do not live an isolated life here in America. The religion of Christ is not an isolated religion. Mohammedism is the only other religion that sends out men as missionaries. Our Lord is trying to build his church large enough to fill the earth. The future has in it great things for our church."

Meet Lost to Lehigh Through Accident

In the initial meet of the 1920 season Muhlenberg fell victim to Lehigh in track last Saturday afternoon on the home field by the close score of 59-50. Track conditions were far from perfect due to the incessant downpour of the morning but the time made in the track events was very good so that we may expect better things in the coming meets. The only disappointments were the weight events, in which Muhlenberg athletes failed to come up to previous form and these events counted heavily for Lehigh.

Kline, Reinartz and Erb were Muhlenberg's chief pointgetters and the outcome of the meet might have been changed had not Reinartz suffered a bad twist of the knee while competing in the pole vault. This not only ruined his chances for a place in that event, but also in the broad jump which followed.

Davenport's work in the weight events, the work of Cornell and Carr, and the pole vaulting of Captain Parrett, featured for Lehigh.

The officials were as follows: Referee, Shalter, Allentown Preparatory School; Starter, Capt. Clapham, Muhlenberg; Time-keepers, Kanahay, Lehigh, Heller and Fritsch.

100-Yard Dash—Reinartz, Muhlenberg, first; Riebe, Lehigh, second. Time, 10 3-5 seconds.

220-Yard Dash—Reinartz, Muhlenberg, first; Diefenbach, Lehigh, second. Time, 24 3-5 seconds.

440-Yard Dash—Cornell, Lehigh, first; Burgess, Lehigh, second. Time, 54 4-5 seconds.

Two-mile Run—Carr, Lehigh, first; Gerlach, Le, high, second. Time, 11.02.

Bachman Wins I. O. U. Contest

Russell S. Bachman, '20, took first place in the annual contest of the Pennsylvania Inter-Collegiate Oratorical Union held Saturday evening at Franklin and arshall College. Bachman's subject was "In Defense of the Law." The competition of the representatives of Swarthmore, F. and M., Ursinus and Gettysburg was keen and it was largely through force of delivery and excellent subject matter that Bachman was successful.

Swarthmore took second place in the person of Leon M. Pearson, a brother of Andrew Pearson who won last year's contest. Mr. Pearson spoke on "Liberating the News."

Franklin and Marshall's representitive, Norman C. Dittes, placed third with his subject, "Out of Evil."

The other two speakers were L. Paul Moore, Jr., Ursinus, "The Compelling Hour," and Clarence A. Neal, Gettysburg, "Democracy's Fate."

The prizes awarded were $30, $20, and $10 respectively. The Judges for the contest were Dr. John H. Holman of U. of P., George Eves of Reading, and Dr. Silas Neff, of Neff School of Oratory, Philadelphia.

Bachman's victory fittingly puts a climax to Mhulenberg's oratorical honors. During the last ten years Muhlenberg has failed to place but once. In 1911 Paul Krause began the roll by winning second place. The next year Herbert D. Frederick brought back the first victory. Henry J. Fry took second place in 1913 and third in 1914. Henry L. Snyder in 1915 was the second man to win first honors. The next year Benjamin J. Hubbard succeeded in duplicating the feat. In 1917 Raymond P. G. Leemhuis won second place. In 1919 Russell J. Bachman took second place and this year succeeded in winning the fourth first place for Muhlenberg.

Prof. John D. M. Brown of the English Department of Muhlenberg has had charge of the department of oratory since 1911 and too much credit for the results cannot be given him.

Glee Club at North Wales

And it came to pass that on the fourteenth of the month, the Glee Club trolleyed to North Wales, where, after it had dined, it began to indulge in a game of roll 'ems and shove 'ems—something new in the line of a college education. The executive committee of the Club earnestly recommends these games to the Y. M. C. A. in order to create more interest in the meetings. As usual, Trexler traveled "under cover"—a black limp leather one, at that.

The boys concerted for a few hours and Oh! how they did warble. Best of all, it was an appreciative audience, and when the boys meet a house full of such a good natured set of people they can do nothing less than put over a good show. Erb, the violin soloist of the Club, pulled through with flags at top mast. He produced mellow tones and rendered his selections in the best manner possible.

The Allentown concert—the largest event of the year of the life on the campus, will be held in the auditorium of the Allentown High School on the night of May 6th. The Club has had a successful season, and a good concert is assured those who attend. The Mandolin Club left on Tuesday afternoon for Wilkes Barre, where they played on Wednesday morning in the high school, and on Wednesday noon at the Kiwanis dinner, in the interests of the $500,000 campaign which is being held at the present time. The Club gives concerts in Scranton, Wilkes Barre and Lansdale this week, and preparations are under way to make the Allentown concert the best ever.

Endowment Drive Opened in Allentown

The great drive is on! The starting gong sounded last Saturday. Between that time and Friday night Allentown is to contribute her share of the Half-Million that is destined to bring the dreams of a greater Muhlenberg to a realization. The city's quota is $200,000 and according to indications she is going "over the top." The districts outside the city are to contribute the remaining $300,000.

The first reports of the local drive were received on Monday noon at a meeting of the captains and their workers in the Y. M. C. A. luncheon room. The reports were very gratifying. The subscriptions then totaled $25,636 with none of the teams fully cooperated.

The Mandolin Club of the college furnished music during the luncheon which was served by the Ladies' Auxiliary. Rev. Dr. J. C. Rausch delivered a short but inspiring address on the growth of the college. He was followed by Lawrence H. Rupp, Democratic candidate for United States Senator, who said that the letters that spell Muhlenberg stand for manliness, unity, humanity, loyalty, energy, nobility, brotherhood, efficiency, reverence and goodness. Dr. Hass followed with a stirring appeal to the workers to put forth every ounce of energy.

Reading Conference to Endow Chair in Religion

At a meeting of ministers and laymen of the Reading Conference in Reading, it was decided to open the $500,000 Muhlenberg College campaign, authorized by the Ministerium of Pennsylvania at its last session.

In order to get a goal and make all Berks County Lutherans eager to reach it, it was resolved to endow the chair of religion at Muhlenberg College, in honor of Rev. Dr. Jacob Fry, D.D., LL.D., who died at Mount Airy, Philadelphia. This resolution added to the interest in the campaign, an incentive that it is believed will influence both workers and givers to carry the campaign to a successful issue.

Dr. Fry enjoyed the distinction of having served in the ministry for sixty-seven years, thirty of which he spent in Reading as the pastor of Trinity Church. It was during this period, 1865-95, that six of the Lutheran congregations of Reading, some of which are now among the strongest in the synod were established mainly through his efforts.

Phi Kappa Tau Celebrates "Father's Night"

On last Monday evening Eta Chapter of Phi Kappa Tau Fraternity celebrated the second annual "Father's Night" at their new home, 1119 Linden Street. The idea of the "Father's Night" was to have the fathers meet their sons' most intimate college associates, and also to enable them to become acquainted with their sons' home while at college. Altho' weather conditions were very unfavorable, a large number of fathers found it convenient to be present and a pleasant evening was spent in card-playing, pool, and speech-making.

Dr. I. M. Wright, acting as master of ceremonies, called upon a number of guests, all of whom responded with interesting talks. The fathers present included Mr. Snyder, of Catasauqua, Mr. Gates, of Lebanon, Mr. Edwards, of Orwigsburg, Mr. Trexler, of Topton, Mr. Kehrli, of Scranton, Rev. Reese, of Lehighton, Mr. Fry, of Ephrata, Mr. Lutz, of Phliadelphia, and Rev. Bollman, Mr. Haas, Dr. Ettinger, Mr. Stine, Mr. Knauss, Mr. Koch, Mr. Trexler, Mr. Weiler, Mr. Heller, and Mr. Moyer, all of Allentown.

Delta Theta Holds Annual Spring Dance

On Friday night, April 16th, the Delta Theta Fraternity of Muhlenberg College held its annual spring dance at the Lehigh Country Club in Bethlehem. The affair proved the season's most successful social event of the fraternity.

The Jazzland Novelty Orchestra furnished the music and from nine to three rendered a program of the latest popular selections.

The Club's rooms, beautifully decorated with purple and white streamers and set off by college and fraternity banners, furnished a delightful scene for an evening's entertainment. Much credit it due the committee in charge of this affair.

Prof. and Mrs. Frederick Worsinger and Mr. and Mrs. Philip Sotter were the guests of honor and chaperons of the party.

He was only a private, unselfish, kind,
A pal was a pal and 'twas "Never mind,
  Here's me pull through or here's me pan
  Sure, I'll help you all I can,"
He'd say, and never was one left behind,
By Dan of the Fifty-first.

He was only a private, brave and true
To the oath he had sworn, to his country and you;
  Till the last he'd stick by the roarin' guns,
  'A sweatin' and cussing the—— —— huns;
And first on hand with work to do,
Was Dan of the Fifty--first.

He was only a private, but all true man,
I pause with a tear for smilin' Dan,
  And the little green mound across the sea,
  That oft in the night seems callin' to me;
To fight my battles with all that I can,
For Dan of the Fifty-first.

He was only a private, but have ever you thought,
Of the price he paid for all that he bought;
  I cover my naked head with shame
  When the old rag passes and they shout of fame;
And a prayer I breathe that my life may be wrought;
Like Dan's of the Fifty-first.

Efficiency in Observation

Accurate observation is an accomplishment that few students have acquired. To examine an object and note every minute detail with precision is an art. That seeing is believing is true enough but seeing is by no means an indicator of knowledge for belief does not necessarily imply true knowledge. It is only by a careful observing of details that the biologist is able to glean all his lore about the animal kingdom. What is true of the scientist holds true for everybody else. We learn by experiences and experiences are the results of what we encounter in our daily observations. The more intense our observations the more intense will be our experiences.

How often have Muhlenberg students paraded up and down Hamilton street and yet how many would be able to describe the soldiers' monument with exactness without making a close study beforehand. We pass many spots daily without ever noticing the fine details. The biological trip to New York would be of no interest at all to the students were they dependent upon their own sense of observation. They would miss the very purpose of the journey were it not for some person pointing out the objects of interest and study.

It is essential for every student to train his sense of sight so that he can note objects with exactness. Such an ability is considered a part of his mental training. The efficiency of a person to a large extent depends upon his ability along these lines. The student who possesses a deficient sense of observation is also generally endowed with poor judgment. In fact, his deficiency in this induces slouchy habits of general character.

Students As Strike Breakers

The action of the college students throughout the country in offering services to the railroads to fill the places of the striking railroaders is a commendable one. The "swell dudes" of the colleges as they are commonly called by the laboring classes did not hesitate to roll up their sleeves and run an engine. The attitude of the students toward an unjust strike was by no means an extraordinary one. It was merely an attitude of service to their country. They did not offer their services as a defiance to the laboring classes but as a service to the public. Furthermore, it was an act of reprehension against the unpatriotic and unjust move of the striking railroaders. Ordinarily, the students take a sympathetic view toward the demands of the workingmen but they will not be tolerant toward extreme demands on the part of the labor elements.

The most gratifying effect of the students' volunteering, however, is a change of opinion in the mind of the public. The aristocrat of the college halls condescended to don working togs to help to keep the nation's machinery in motion and proved to be no aristocrat at all but only an ordinary individual willing to devote himself to the cause of serving the public. He proved to be no snob but a person of common clay and thus did a turn to help to remove the prejudices of the laboring men against the college students.

Penn Relays on May 1st

The Penn relay races this year seem destined to be the greatest set of games that have ever been held in this country. They should vie in interest with even the Olympic sports, as they are attracting to Philadelphia the cream of the college athletics, not only in the United States but also of Canada and England. It is confidently expected that Oxford and Cambridge will be represented in the games, while recent letters from Leland Stanford University and vicinity and Southern California indicate that the far Pacific slope will also send athletes to the relays on April 30 and May 1, when the games take place. Invitations have been out only a week, but already the entries are flowing in. Yale, Princeton, Pittsburgh, State, Colgate, Holy Cross, University of Minnesota, University of Southern California, Michigan Agricultural College and over thirty eastern colleges have sent word that they will send their men and relay teams to compete for honors at Franklin Field.

Muhlenberg will be entered with the colleges of the Middle Atlantic States: Bucknell, Delaware, Gettysburg, Lehigh Lebanon Valley, New York University, Stevens Institute, Franklin and Marshall, Haverford, Lafayette, Dickinson, Rutgers, Swarthmore and Washington and Jefferson.

Delts Win From Taus

A merger of the University of Pennsylvania, University of Pittsburgh and Pennsylvania State College was suggested at the closing session of Schoolmen's Week by Dr. Thomas E. Finnegin, State Superintendant of Public Instruction. He suggested that the three institutions be combined into a State University of Pennsylvania, retaining their physical identity, their plants and property, but to be administered by a central board of control.

Allentown Raises Quota of $200,000

That the people of Allentown are fully appreciative of the splendid educational institution they have in their midst, our college, and are looking forward to greater and better things from Muhlenberg was demonstrated Friday evening of last week when Allentown's quota of $200,000 was passed. When the final results of the campaign were finally announced at 8.55 P. M. the sheets showed a total subscription of $200,020, which includes a sum of $20,000 by a friend of the college. This total is not yet complete, as a number of out of town workers had not yet reported. Since many of the first reported subscriptions were increased it will be necessary to hold the list of donors until next week.

The drive ended in a wave of enthusiasm seldom equalled, when the $200,000 goal was passed. The members of the various teams worked hard and faithfully during the week and everyone connected with the drive gathered in the Y. M. C. A. rooms filled with eager hope that the final results would show the goal attained.

Perhaps one of the most active personages at the gathering was our distinguished president, Dr. John A. W. Haas, whose spirit and enthusiasm permeated the workers throughout the drive and was characteristic of the Muhlenberg spirit. A great deal of humor was interjected throughout the evening by James Henninger, captain of team No. 6, who would produce subscriptions from odd places at the psychological moment. This aroused keen rivalry among the teams as the final spurt was made.

Col. E. M. Young, one of the sons of Muhlenberg and a trustee, contrasted the college of years ago and the college today.

The final evening's report showed a subscription list of upwards of three hundred ranging from $5 to $5,000. The last subscription made to go "over the top" was that of Frank D. Bittner for $250, after there had been a rapid succession of subscriptions from all sides up to the last minute. After the campaign had been declared closed with Mr. Bittner's subscription, Mr. Henninger reported another subscription of $20, thus making the additional amount over the quota.

Dr. Haas was the final speaker of the evening. In opening his remarks he paid tribute to the helpful work of the Ladies Auxiliary of the college and to the faithful labors of the various teams, the executive committee and the chairman of the drive, Mr. Harry I. Koch. Their spirit and devotion as displayed by their untiring efforts should be recorded in the annals of the college. He also acknowledged the "liberality, generosity, and kindliness of so many citizens of Allentown who are not members of the Lutheran church." Friends of every sort of church assisted in the campaign because of their interest in Muhlenberg, and they, by their gifts, have put the stamp of approval for what the college means to Allentown.

After a few words by the chairman, Mr. Koch, to whom much credit is due for the efficient handling of the successful drive, the college men and the Alumni present made the rooms resound with long Muhlenbergs and the singing of the Alma Mater.

Penn Relays—Lafayette

Muhlenberg will enter a relay team, as usual, at the Penn Relays next Saturday, May first. It is difficult to try to pick a relay team from the mass of fine material on hand as no official tryouts have as yet been held. A large number of men who possess ability along this line have been irregular in practice, but a good showing may be expected when time trials are held. The relay team will most likely be chosen from among the following men: Erb, Knauss, Reinartz, J. Kline, Jones and Cherry, unless more new men report favorably.

The Wednesday following the Relays, Muhlenberg will compete in her second dual meet of the season, with Lafayette, our old time rival. Prospects of beating Lafayette, the specialist in track work, have never before been so brilliant. It is very likely that Muhlenberg will enter practically the same team as against Lehigh, although with more satisfactorily weather conditions a much better showing may be expected from our entries. To a great extent, the work of our men will depend upon the support of the student body on the field. A live group of supporters has often won a meet when the best trained athletes are helpless. Shall we beat Lafayette? The decision rests with each individual of the student body. The meet will most likely be held at Easton.

With the Glee Club

Everyone ready? All set? And it's "off again" for the Mandolin Club. No sooner had the Musical Clubs returned from a trip than they were called out on Monday and Tuesday noons of Campaign Week to sing for the army of workers for Muhlenberg at the Allentown Y. M. C. A. And the following Tuesday afternoon, the Mandolin Club left in comfort for Wilkes Barre, where, after several plays and "what nots" that could be found for amusement, entertainment was provided by Rev. P. N. Wohlsen, 09, of that city. Through his efforts, the Club appeared at the Kiwanis luncheon on Wednesday noon at the Hotel Sterling, where several selections were played which were followed by a solo by Longkamer.

On Wednesday night the Club played before a packed house in Scranton. The following evening in Wilkes Barre the Clubs played before another large house and were well received. From the Times-Leader the following has been clipped: "Mr. Bryan, cornet soloist, proved an artist. Ralph Gresh, pianist, delighted with his rendition of "la Polka de la Rein." The Club gave a good account of themselves in singing, instrumental playing and in sketch. Their program was rich in variety and reflected a skillful choice of material. The Mandolin Club responded to encores repeatedly."

The Club appeared in the Musical Hall in Lansdale on Friday night. A full house rooted the boys and was prompt in showing its appreciation of their work.

L. C. C. Dines at Allen

A stranger dropping into the dining hall of the Hotel Allen last Wednesday would have witnessed a group of animated college men seated around the banquet board. Good food and good fellowship was in order until the clock in the hall struck ten. The table was cleared and Paul T. Wohlsen, President of the Lancaster County Club and Toastmaster of the evening rose to introduce the first speaker and guest of honor, Prof. J. D. M. Brown.

In Prof. Brown's address and in those that followed there were two outstanding, upstanding terms, viz., Muhlenberg College and Lancaster County. How the two could be harnessed together, and thus become famous together and mutually helpful; how Muhlenberg could gain a larger place in the heart of the people of Lancaster County and how Lancaster County can come to mean more to Muhlenberg; these were the ideas that dominated all that was said and done. The speakers in order were: Paul T. Wohlsen, Toastmaster; Prof. J. D. M. Brown, "Greater Muhlenberg;" Harold C. Fry, "Locality Clubs;" Henry S. Dolan, "Accomplishments of the Lancaster County Club;" Raymond B. Dillman, "Argonne Argument." Prof. Brown gave some interesting reminiscences of his student days at Muhlenberg while his high hope for the future of Greater Muhlenberg was unmistakable. Before the meeting closed Prof. Brown was elected an honorary member of the organization. Specific plans were laid at the meeting concerning the recruiting of students for Muhlenberg College this summer in Lancaster city and county.

N. E. Penna. Alumni Hold Meeting

The Muhlenberg College Alumni Association of Northeastern Pennsylvania held a meeting in the Hotel Redington, Wilkes Barre, on last Thursday night, April 22, after the Glee Club concert. The Association honored the Glee Club members with a banquet, after which the President, Professor J. R. Merkle, '92, acted as toastmaster. C. E. Keck, '83, E. R. Deibert, '13, W. C. Hill, '20, and A. C. Freitag, '21, were the speakers of the occasion.

At the business session Prof. J. R. Merkle of Kingston was re-elected president of the association, C. E. Keck, of Wilkes Barre, vice-president, and Leland Brunner, '16, of Carbondale, secretary-treasurer. Other members who were present are Revs. Robert M. Kline, P. N. Wohlsen, Messre. Roderick, Killian, Lindenstruh, Utz, Floyd and Thomas. This is a live wire Alumni Association and is doing a great deal to boost Muhlenberg in Northeastern Pennasylvania.

IN DEFENSE OF THE LAW
(Russell S. Bachman's Prize-Winning Oration)

Every great war has been followed by a period of unrest. It is in accordance with the law of action and reaction upon a larger scale. The great war just ended was the most gigantic catastrophe that has ever befallen the world. Then civilization received a shock from which it has not yet recovered. The fundamentals of society were shaken. All the old forms of thought and life were broken up. Institutions which had been built up with pain-staking care throughout the centuries were threatened with destruction. Today chaos reigns in Europe and unknown perils confront America. A sense of unreality haunts the minds of men which paralyzes action. We seem to be moving through a maze of pallid shadows, between darkness and dawn—a veritable no-man's land of the soul.

During the time of our active participation in the war, all the people of our country seemed united in thought and purpose as perhaps never before in our history. Everywhere one found only Americans. Partisanship seemed to have disappeared. Race antagonism had died down. Religious differences were forgotten. Service and sacrifice were the watchwords of the hour, ONE THOUGHT, ONE IMPULSE dominated the minds of all classes—rich and poor, learned and ignorant, old and young—and that was the impulse to labor and to sacrifice together in dedication to a common end. It shocks us rudely to discover that human nature is just as frail as ever. Selfish interests which had all but disappeared during the war, have again emerged from their obscure hiding-places and are now seeking to take advantage of the confusion and uncertainty of the time to put forward their claims with greater insistence than ever before. In this respect, two groups of our population are mainly in evidence. The first is organized labor; the second is the alien element in our midst.

And by a strange inconsistency, these are the two groups which in recent decades have received most substantial aid and consideration from the people generally. The "down-trodden" working-man has formed the theme of an almost unbroken flow of eloquence directed in his behalf towards an unfeeling and ungrateful country and government.

On the other hand, the alien has been viewed from another angle. He was represented as the noble-hearted, liberty-loving, but oppressed slave of European despotism, who being denied a place in the OLD world sought an asylum in the NEW.

And now, alas! Base ingratitude "sharper than a serpent's tooth" seems to be the reward for our sympathy and solicitude. The "down-trodden working-man" emerges erect, in robust health, thoroughly organized, with millions in his war chest for both OFFENSE and DEFENSE. He is led by seasoned, acute and determined minds knowing exactly what they want and how they propose to get it. And our erst-while alien brother, whom we saw through our tears of sympathy hastening through the portals of Ellis Island with arms out-stretched to embrace American Liberty, has suddenly developed a most UNSENTIMENTAL fondness (not for LIBERTY) but for dictatorships, proletarian and otherwise.

All we need today, so they tell us, is to destroy the system of capitalism and capitalists; the wage system and profits, and substitute in their place a grandiose scheme by which the most ignorant and irresponsible would be exalted to places of supreme power; which would then, by means of some unknown process and mysterious power, make every one belonging to the working-classes prosperous and happy. There would no longer be any necessity for hard work, thrift, self-restraint, sacrifice or service to others. Only one sport would remain, viz., the destruction of the capitalists and the perfection of machinery whereby every one might become an orator who would be furnished with an audience of patient and acquiescent listeners.

My friends, there is no more sinister influence in American life today than this class-minded man, whether he is a laborer, a capitalist or the man who would wreck our free institutions under the guise of liberty. Led by the wild promises of Utopia, millions of honest Americans are in danger of being drawn into the seething vortex of industrial and social revolution. Reason languishes in a resort to violence, license supplants liberty, and Justice is blinded in the mad chase for the end of the rainbow. The time has come when every citizen of this nation should halt in his daily routine and search his heart and ask himself the question: "AM I AN AMERICAN?"

Did the men in Omaha create a riot a few months ago and threaten to lynch the mayor of the town, in the interest of the common good? Did the steel strikers in Gary a few months ago strike for Democracy when, according to the pay-rolls, they received higher wages than ever before? Did the coal miners this winter have the WELFARE of the nation or THEMSELVES at heart, when they threw down their picks and shovels, making it necessary for the militia to be called out for safety and protection. Were the I. W. W. in Centralia, Washington, inspired by lofty American ideals when they shot down in cold blood four members of the American Legion on Armistice Day in a plot designed to overthrow the American government?

Is the profiteer thinking of SELF or of SOCIETY when he robs his fellows to the extent of 100 to 500 per cent profit? Do these elements or groups propose TO BUILD UP ANYTHING? Do they propose to be A BLESSING TO SOCIETY? I say NO—these are the very elements which disrupt society and threaten the destruction of our beloved institutions.

In the Wake of the Drive

Muhlenberg has again gone over the top! After a week of earnest and incessant labor, the twelve teams of canvassers gathered at the Y. M. C. A. last Friday evening to make their final report. And when it was announced that Allentown had exceeded her quota, it was amply proven that the city is standing squarely in back of the college. The spirit of the men who comprised the executive committee and the twelve teams was truly remarkable. Business men practically deserted their own interests for a week to devote themselves exclusively to the cause of a greater and better Muhlenberg. And the faculty—how they did work to insure the success of the campaign! Our esteemed president was one of the most ardent enthusiasts and one of the most earnest workers. Not only for one week, but for the last six weeks he has been making addresses in various cities in Pennsylvania in the interest of the campaign. The three college teams which aided in the work also acquitted themselves creditably. Everywhere one could see a great spirit—an interest in Muhlenberg which all true Muhlenberg men should have—a spirit ever striving toward the betterment of the institution.

We may justly feel proud of the wonderful manner in which the city of Allentown has responded to the call. This shows that the people of the community are fully appreciative of the splendid educational institution which they have in their midst and are looking forward to even a bigger and better institution. For the last five years campaign has followed campaign in this city and all of them were for worthy causes. Each time the city went over the top and now, when the college, which is so inter-dependent upon the city, inaugurated its campaign, the city has again proven itself. The pride—the civic pride of Lehigh County could not allow any such campaign to be anything but successful.

The campaign was a complete success because all of the teams labored and labored well. The liberality, generosity, and kindliness of so many citizens of Allentown who are not members of the Lutheran church was a wonderful evidence of their interest. Friends of every sort assisted in the campaign because of their interest in the college, and they, by their gifts, have put the stamp of approval on what the college means to Allentown. All honor to the many loyal alumni who have backed the campaign and who worked valiantly to secure the coveted goal. All honor to the members of the teams who by their persistent endeavors made possible this splendid showing. All honor to the citizens of Allentown who responded so nobly to the call of the college.

The success of this campaign will mean much to Muhlenberg. The addition of new and up-to-date buildings will place her on a par with the neighboring institutions of learning. It will mean the expansion of the college and an increase of the student body. It will mean that the members of the faculty will obtain the salaries which are justly due them. It will mean, finally, that all the hopes and dreams of the founders of the college will be realized and Muhlenbery will rise from the ranks of the so-called smaller colleges to take her proper place in the collegiate world.

When Governor Coolidge of Massachusetts was about to issue his famous ULTIMATUM in the recent police strike, certain political advisers and friends labored earnestly with him to dissuade him from a course which in all probability would ruin his political future. "If you do this," they said, "it will destroy every prospect for your political advance." "I presume it may," was the reply, as he dipped his pen in the ink and signed his name to that famous proclamation guaranteeing law and order to the people of his commonwealth.

When in 1775, the liberty of the new world was threatened and when a yoke of tyranny was about to be placed on the necks of the colonists, it was the sons of Massachusetts who rose up in rebellion against it at Lexington, at Concord and at Bunker Hill. It was then she spoke IN DEFENSE OF THE LAW, that law which safeguards the rights of a liberty-loving people. Furthermore, when Massachusetts re-elected Governor Coolidge, the man who had stood as a bulwark against rebellion and disorder, she spoke, yes, again, SHE THUNDERED, IN DEFENSE OF THE LAW, for Americanism first. It was a voice which spoke for righteousness and liberty as the fruits of adherence to the basic principles embodied in our constitution framed by our forefathers. It emphasized the important lesson that CLASS and CASTE and MOB RULE can not primarily find a place in our American life. What he said about the men of his own estate is true of the men of every state in the Union—"THE MEN OF MASSACHUSETTS ARE NOT LABOR MEN, OR UNION MEN, OR RICH MEN or any other CLASS OF MEN—THEY ARE FIRST OF ALL AMERICANS.

The duty, then, of the hour is plain. It behooves us to rise up IN DEFENSE OF THE LAW as never before; to teach its lesson to our children in the schools and in our homes; to teach it to the children of the immigrant and TO DEMAND COMPLIANCE therewith; to LIVE IT OURSELVES and to cherish it as our very life itself.

For it was THE DEFENSE OF THE ESSENCE OF THE LAW which gave birth to the DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE, which made possible and necessary THE EMANCIPATION PROCLAMATION, which secured liberty not only to an enslaved race, but which preserved the UNION of these United States of America. If we will cherish and perpetuate the requirements of the law—no foe can harm us—no Bolsheviki uprising ned alarm us; and the social and industrial problems, now so pressing, will become easy of solution. Only as we maintain the "homes of the brave" shall we remain "the land of the free."

Then we can sing with the poet:

"America! America! May God thy gold refine,
Till all success be nobleness, and every gain divine;
America! America! God mend thine every flaw,
Confirm thy soul in self- control, thy liberty in law!"

Now, there is going to be another such dance, with the added feature that it will be in town where it can be easily reached. There isn't going to be anything formal about it, either—just a chance to spend a pleasant evening. If you aren't a dance enthusiast, and enjoy music with your cards, come around anyway, for there will be cards and prizes, too. Mickley will be there with his Jazzland Novelty Six, and is going to keep things in motion until one o'clock. The tickets, which cost $1.50 including tax and admit a couple, can be purchased from anyone of the following members of the committee: Sotter, Sanders, Koch, Weaver, Strunk and Wetzler, or from almost any other Freshman.

Delts Again Split Even with Phi Taus

Delta Theta and Phi Kappa Tau split even last Friday evening in their second meeting on the pool table when the Delts won the singles and the Phi Taus the doubles.

Both games which were played at the Delta Theta house were interesting, the singles being very close. Robbins defeated Rhode by a score of 100-97. This was Rhode's first defeat of the tournament.

The Phi Taus came back in the doubles and handed the Delts their first defeat in that line when Gates and Frank Butz defeated Gloss and Simmons by a score of 100-77. Although the score does not indicate it, the game was close, the victors forging ahead only in the last few frames.

Frosh Annex Track Meet

Taking a five-point lead in the very first event and increasing that lead constantly, the Freshmen ran away with the Inter-Class Track Meet held last Wednesday afternoon, with a final total of 53 points as compared with 23 for the Seniors, 22 for the Sophomores and 19 for the Juniors. The class of 1920 which had captured every meet for the last three years kept up her good record by winning second place.

George Smythe was mainly responsible for the Freshman victory, turning in a total of 19 points, while Freddy Jones with 18 points was the Sophs high scorer. Bittner, by winning the 880 and the 2-mile, shone for the juniors. Green's 17 points helped the Seniors materially in getting second place.

Although no records were broken, due to the rain that fell all morning and the night before, some creditable performances were made. That no records were broken was due also to the ruling that all track "M" men were excluded from the meet.

The results:—

100-yard dash, Smythe, '23, first; Jones, '22, and Mosser, '23, tied for second. Time, 11 1-5 seconds.

220-yard dash, Smythe, '23 first; Jones, '22 second; Sherman, '22, third. Time, 25 1-5 seconds.

440-yard dash, Knauss, '23, first; Green, '20, second; Kline, '22, third. Time, 59 2-5 seconds.

880-yard run, Bittner, '21, first; Knauss, '23, second; Green, '20, third. Time, 2 minutes, 21 2-5 seconds.

1-mile run, Zartman, '23, first; Lynch, '21, second; Shupp, '20, third. Time, 5 minutes, 23 3-5 seconds.

2-mile run, Bittner, '21, first; Zartman, '23, second; Shupp, '20, third. Time, 11 minutes, 19 4-5 seconds.

Broad Jump, Smythe, '23, first; Jones, '22, second; Green, '20, third. Distance, 19 feet, 1 3-4 inches.

High Jump, Smythe, '23 and Green, '20, tied for first; Nolde, '20, third. Distance, 5 feet, 4 inches.

120-yard High Hurdles, Shankweiler, R., '21, first; Lewis, '23, second; Van Zandt, '20, third. Time, 20-1-5 seconds.

220-yard Low Hurdles, Jones, '23, first; Lewis, '23, second; Shankeweiler, R., '21, third. Time, 30 2-5 seconds.

Pole Vault, Jones, '22, first; Van Zandt, '20 and Taggart, '23, tied for second. Height, 9 feet, 6 inches.

Discus, Green, '20, first; Lewis, '23, second; Stroup, '22, third. Distance, 108 feet.

Muhlenberg at Penn Relays

Muhlenberg, entered in the Middle Atlantic championship class at the Penn Relays, came out fifth in the annual race, in which there were twelve entries. Rutgers came out in first place with the record time of three minutes and twenty-six and four--fifths seconds, breaking their own record of last year which was three and one-half minutes.

Cap't. Erb, Muhlenberg's star runner ran anchor man for the team. Reinartz started the race in the eleventh position from the pole. Smythe who ran second, ran a very good race and has promise for the future. Knaus, the freshman, proved his worth as a track man in running the third lap in fine style. Too much cannot be said for the beauty and form of the race which Cap't. Erb ran. He picked up three men in his lap and there was no better running in the entire race. Muhlenberg will miss Erb next year on the track as well as in student activities and great credit is due him for his faithful work. Jones was the fifth man for the team.

The track team meets Lafayette in Easton on this Wednesday afternon and Gettysburg on Muhlenberg field on Saturday afternoon.

Presidents, Friday at 1 P. M. The first general session will be called at the College at 3 P. M. On Friday evening a banquet will be held in the dining room of the local Y. M. C. A. building. Saturday noon a luncheon will be served at the College.

ege, Executive Secretary of the Mens Religious Movement and The Laymen's Movement; Dr. Samuel Higgenbottom, India's Apostle of Agriculture, one of the leading speakers at the Des Moines Student Conference; and Dr. J. Lovel Murrey, Author and Missionary, now secretary of the Student Volunteer Movement.

On Sunday morning Dr. White will address the public at Christ's Lutheran Church. Rev. Horn will address the public at St. John's Lutheran Church at the morning service.

Lovel Murrey at Salem Reformed and at a final Mass Convention meeting at St. John's. Dr. J. Campbell White and Gov. Sproul will strike the final keynote.

A wonderful and valuable week-end is expected and we wish to remind every Muhlenberg man that it is his duty to help make this gathering a success.

Non-Fraternity Men Hold Social

Twenty-five non-fraternity men from all classes met last Tuesday evening in Sophronia for a night of fun.

A jolly bunch had gathered together and with the assistance of cards, plenty of smokes and ice cream, a pleasant evening was passed.

Professor Cressman presented the need of a definite non-fraternity organization at Muhlenberg. He said that with such an organization non-fraternity alumni had something to look forward to, as a home, when returning to their Alma Mater.

The organization is the result of months of work and it is hoped it will supply a long felt need both among students and alumni. It was decided to elect officers at the next regular meeting.

Frosh Dance a Huge Success

The time, Thursday Evening, April 29th. The place, Odd Fellows Hall. The event, first Annual dance under the auspices of the class of 1923.

You said it, fellows, the Freshmen showed the college that it is possible for a class to conduct a successful dance downtown. Even though the crowd present consisted of about ninety per cent of the upperclassmen the Frosh deserve credit.

Beginning promptly at 8.30, the Jazzland Novelty Orchestra furnished a fine brand of music for the merry-makers.

The decorations in the hall consisted of a display of national and college colors together with the banners of the various fraternities.

With the strains of the last waltz the dancers turned for their homes voting the affair one of the best held by the student body this year.

The party was chaperoned by Capt. and Mrs. L. B. Clapham, Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Bernheim, Prof. and Mrs. Frederick Worsinger and Mr. and Mrs. Nimson Eckert.

The Freshman Committee in charge of the affair consisted of: H. J. Sotter, Chairman; I. E. Sanders, F. L. Weaver, W. J. Koch, L. R. Strunk, Adolph Wetzler.

New Professor Elected

The Board of Trustees of Muhlenberg College announces the election of Professor Hugo Eugene Anderson as Professor of Physics, Astronomy and Higher Mathematics.

Prof. Anderson, who is at present Assistant Professor of Physics at Augustana College, Rock Island, Illinois, will begin his work at Muhlenberg next fall.

A graduate of Augustana in the class of 1908, Prof. Anderson took graduate work for two years at the University of Iowa and for a half year at the University of Chicago. In 1914 he received his A. M. degree. Since 1914 he has taught Physics at Minnesota College and at Augustana.

Meet with Gettysburg on Saturday

Gettysburg promises to do her best to try to beat Muhlenberg next Saturday, May 8, on our own track. Muhlenberg, on the other hand, is inclined to doubt the probability of such an occurrence. This will be the first opportunity to meet our old time rivals on the track for a number of years. Gettysburg, from all reports, has an excellent team to represent her and should afford keen competition.

In all probability Muhlenberg will enter practically the same team as she entered against Lehigh, although we will unfortunately be handicapped by the temporary absence of Jones, '22, a consistent point winner in the dashes and pole vault.

Since the same date marks the Y. M. C. A. conference at Muhlenberg, a large attendance at the meet may be expected and better results should be forthcoming.

Silver Bay Conference

The Student Volunteer Conference formerly known as the "Northfield Student Conference," will, this year, be held at Silver Bay, Lake George, N. Y., June 25 to July 4, 1920. The Conference will now be known as the Silver Bay Conference. This is the thirty-fifth of its kind and consists of delegates from all of the eastern colleges and universities of the eastern part of the United States.

Silver Bay is an ideal place for the conference, and will undoubtedly attract a large number of students. The fact that Silver Bay is situated on Lake George, and has certain traditions, makes it attractive. The Indians called Lake George the "Lake of the Sagamore." Before the advent of the white men Lake George was the "great bone of contention" among the Indians. It is regarded by travelers as the "Switzerland of America." Lake George is entirely walled in by great mountains, and is broken up by beautiful islands. At Ticonderoga (not far from Silver Bay) Ethan Allen and the Green Mountain boys struck the first blow for Independence. Silver Bay is also the meeting place for the summer school of the Y. M. C. A., Interchurch Movement, and Conference promoted by the Y. W. C. A. for women students of eastern colleges.

Other interesting things to be known are that the First Student Conference was held at Mt. Herman, Mass, 1886; that the last year's conference was attended by nearly 800 delegates representing 70 colleges; that about 100 colleges from New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Deleware, West Virginia and New England will be represented this year; and that several of the greatest speakers to students in the country will be present.

The Conference has an objective and should make a strong appeal to the students of our college. It is here, more than at any other conference, that intercollegiate fellowship problems are solved at this Conference; many opportunities are offered to help one's personal moral and religious needs, and the special training given for Christian Association leaders is very significant.

Last year Muhlenberg was represented at this Conference with two delegates, and it is hoped that this year there may be a larger number of men from Muhlenberg to share this wonderful Christian training.

Muhlenberg and the Convention

Muhlenberg is to entertain the twenty-ninth Y. M. C. A. Student Officers Training Convention this coming week-end. It is the first time in the history of the college that Muhlenberg has been honored by such a convention. What will the convention mean for Muhlenberg? It will mean that student representatives from all the institutions in our own state and New Jersey having Y. M. C. A.'s will assemble on our campus, associate with our men, and walk through our buildings. Many of them will form their first impressions of the kind of student body and the environment that Muhlenberg is so proud of. Will we disappoint them.

While the convention is primarily in the interests of formulating plans and solving the perplexing problems, which the newly elected student officers will face in their program for larger and more efficient work in their respective schools this coming year, we, the student body of Muhlenberg, will be their hosts and the responsibility for their entertainment will rest with us.

Not only will the convention bring hundreds of college men to Muhlenberg, but it will be the instrument by which many of the most honored and influential Christian speakers of the country will pay us their first visit. Morover the people of the city will be given an opportunity to hear some of these men in various churches on Sunday.

The "Y" did a noble work during the war and dare not fall back into the rut of pre-war days. The all-absorbing world problems must be solved and the work of reconstruction, both domestic and foreign, challenges the greatest minds of the country. The "Y" can reach the men in our institutions of learning who will be the leaders of thought and action a few years hence. To interest and influence college men the leaders chosen must be the highest type of Christian manhood and upon them and their training rests the efficiency of the Christian work of the Y. M. C. A. in their respective institutions.

The long years of war have taught us the lesson of sacrifice, but we are not exempt from further service. We are not all called to be foreign missionaries or ministers but the same spirit which compels devotion to such service is necessary in every social, industrial and political pursuit if this world is to be saved from misery and suffering. We must remember that if Christianity is to be the corner stone of the rebuilding of the world, its scope of practical application cannot be restricted to any one walk in life.

In this first "Y" convention the entire work of the convention cannot be shouldered by only the officers of the local organization but it is a matter in which every member of the student body must do his share. It means very much for our "Y" but it means more for Muhlenberg. Let us demonstrate to our coming visitors and the distinguished speakers what it means to be a Muhlenberg man, for in the little acts of hospitality and the geniality that is demanded of us as hosts to this convention, Muhlenberg expects every son to do his duty.

Dr. Haas Offers English Prize

After a lapse of several years, owing to war conditions and the like, Doctor Haas will again this year offer the "President's Junior Prize" of $10.00 to that member of the Junior Class submitting the best essay on a given subject in the Department of English. The subject for this year is "The Common Man in Shakespeare's Plays."

All essays must be typewritten and must be handed to either Prof. Simpson or Prof. Brown, not later than June 1st. Each essay must contain at least 3,000 words. The winner is to be announced at the Commencement Exercises.

Phi Kappa Taus Victors in Final Match

The last match of the inter-fraternity pool tournament, held at the Alpha Tau Omega House on Monday evening resulted in a victory for the Phi Taus in both the singles and doubles. By virtue of this double victory the Delts and the Phi Taus are tied for first place.

In the singles Rhode, for Phi Kappa Tau, defeated Cherry, for Alpha Tau Omega, 100 to 60. The doubles were more hotly contested, resulting in a victory for Gates and F. Butz, for Phi Kappa Tau, against Anderson and Kistler, for Alpha Tau Omega, by the score of 100-91.

Prep at Relays

Allentown Prep ran a fast race in their class at the Penn Relays on Saturday, finishing third in their event. Their runners were Hawk, Hodgin, Bortz and O'Connor. They proved to be a well balanced team.

Members of the squad must not dance.

Get eight or nine hours' sleep every night.

Keep well up in your studies.

Report for practice every day.

Do not eat fried food, nor indulge in excessive use of pastries or drinking coffee.

Lafayette Too Strong for Track Team

Last Wednesday was one of the few fine spring days we have had this season and in its course Muhlenberg was defeated by Lafayette in track. A large number of students accompanied the team to Easton in order to see the meet. The final score was 82-30.

Captain Erb ran a wonderful race against "Bob" Crawford in the 880-yard run. The two men were nearly equal in ability and Crawford beat Erb by a few yards thru a fine sprint at the finish.

Kline with two firsts and a second was high scorer for Muhlenberg, while Reinartz equalled the College pole vault record where he took second place in this event, LeConey of Lafayette breaking their record with an 11-foot vault. Score:

100-yard Dash: LeConey, Lafayette; Williams, Lafayette. Time, 10-3/5 seconds.

220-yard Dash: Williams, Lafayette; Kunkle, Lafayette. Time, 24-1/5 seconds.

440-yard Dash: Morgan, Lafayette; McIlvain, Lafayette. Time, 53 seconds.

880-yard Run: Crawford, Lafayette; Erb, Muhlenberg. 2 min., 3/5 sec.

1-mile Run: Crawford, Lafayette; Bartlett, Lafayette. 4 min., 54 sec.

2-mile Run: Kemper, Lafayette; Tomlinson, Lafayette. 10 min., 35 sec.

120-yard High Hurdle: Reynolds, Lafayette; Kline, Muhlenberg. 17 seconds.

220-yard Low Hurdle: Kline, Muhlenberg; Middleton, Lafayette. 28-1/5 sec.

Broad Jump: Kunkle, Lafayette; Kline, Muhlenberg. Distance, 20 feet, 19½ inches.

High Jump: Kline, Muhlenberg; Lehecka, Lafayette. 5 ft., 4 in.

Discus Throw: Green, Muhlenberg; Wilson, Lafayette. 116 feet, 6½ inches.

Shot Put: Wilson, Lafayette; Wills, Muhlenberg. 39 feet, 7 inches.

Pole Vault: LeConey, Lafayette; Reinartz, Muhlenberg. Height, 11 feet.

Javelin Throw: McWilliams, Lafayette. Distance 148 feet, 11½ inches.

New Record Features Gettysburg Meet

A new record in the 220-yard low hurdles was the feature of last Saturday's track meet with Gettysburg. The meet, which was part of the entertainment provided for the delegates to the Student Y. M. C.A. Convention, was held on a rather wet field due to early morning rain. Although Gettysburg put up a game fight, Muhlenberg went into the lead at the very beginning and was never headed, the final score being 69 to 35.

As usual, Kline shone for Muhlenberg. He was high man for the day with 20 points to his credit, taking four first places. Beside this, he broke a record which has stood for five years. In winning the low hurdles in 24-4/5 seconds, he broke a record held by "Rube" Miller since 1915. This time is within one second of the world's record. Capt. Erb easily won his two events and Reinartz captured the century and tied with Jones in the pole vault.

The only double winner for Gettysburg was Wertman who took the 220 and 440 yard dashes. He was by far their best performer. The only other notable performance was the shot put in which La Rew of Gettysburg threw the sphere 41 feet, 2 inches.

The score:

100-yard Dash: 1st, Reinartz, M.; 2nd, Jones, M. Time: 10-2/5 sec.

220-yard Dash: 1st, Wertman, G.; 2nd, Reinartz, M. Time: 24-1/5 sec.

440-yard Dash: 1st, Wertman, G.; 2nd, Rudisill, G. Time: 53-4/5 sec.

880-yard Run: 1st, Erb, M.; 2nd, Coble, G. Time: 2 minutes, 4-2/5 sec.

1-mile Run: 1st, Erb, M.; 2nd, Coble, G. Time: 4 minutes, 47-4/5 sec.

2-mile Run: 1st, Buck, G.; 2nd, Bittner, M. Time: 10 minutes, 55-3/5 sec.

120-yard High Hurdles: 1st, Kline, M.; 2nd, Shankweiler, M. Time: 17-1/5 sec.

220-yard Low Hurdles: 1st, Kline, M.; 2nd, Mahaffy, G. Time: 24-4/5 sec.

Broad Jump: 1st, Kline, M.; 2nd, Jones, M. Distance: 20 feet, 3 inches.

High Jump: 1st, Kline, M.; 2nd, Haehnlen, G. Height: 5 feet, 5 inches.

Pole Vault: 1st, Reinartz, M., and Jones, M., tie for first place. Height: 9 feet, 10 inches.

Discus: 1st, Green, M.; 2nd, Wills, M. Distance: 111 feet, 2 inches.

All About the Allentown Concert

The student body of the college almost to entirety gathered in the Allentown High School auditorium to witness the annual Allentown concert of the Muhlenberg Glee Club. This concert closed one of the most successful seasons this ever-popular club has yet enjoyed, if the final concert was a criterion of the brand of entertainment furnished audiences out-of-town. The concert was a huge success in every way, from start to finish, featuring the Mandolin Club especially which was encored again and again.

It was a very nice and orderly audience which gathered to be sung and played at on this Thursday past, and they went away pleased and declaring it was the "best ever." Since our little friend was ill and could not come to the concert we ushered the fair ones accompanied by their envious swains to their respective seats, and as the evening progressed we realized there are many nice homes in Allentown where we have not yet called, but we now have a few good addresses. We ushers were ably generaled by Sergt. Werkheiser in a new Piccadily collar which was recipient of many shy and langorous looks of admiration. After we had the bunch seated and pacified and the temperature up to 85 degrees the show started by the club leading of with "Long May She Live," as the first number, while the curtain laboriously groaned its way to the ceiling, accompanied by much craning of necks in the audiences to see whose dress suit did not fit, but the boys looked great, and the great event was on.

The vocal solo by Mr. Longkamer, '23, and the cornet solo by Mr. Bryan, '23, was well rendered and received appreciative applause. The Quartette held forth with several good selections minus the usual near notes which we have heard somewhere before. The Mandolin Club entertained for about 15 minutes with popular numbers of the day played in a pleasing style. The singing of the entire club in its numbers was unusually fine and well-directed.

The comedy skit, "Oh! Gosh," written by Paul T. Wohlson, '21, was well played by the cast selected for this number. The work of Mosser, '23, deserves special mention, for the part was a hard one to portray. The acting in the entire skit was good.

The third part of the program was conducted in much the same manner as the first part, with a little variety furnished by the dialogue written by Oberly, '20, and played by Mr. Shelly and Mr. Shankweiler, whose clever acting was one of the outstanding features of the evening's entertainment. Unusual ability was displayed in this number and some who know claim it could be put across on any vaudeville circuit.

At the end of the concert the Alma Mater was sung with every Muhlenberg student on his feet, after which a long Muhlenberg cheer for Allentown was given by the members of the Club. Too much cannot be said about the clever way in which Mr. Gresh, '23, played the accompaniments for the Club and individual numbers. A bright future is predicted for this young master of technique.

The members of the Club lost by graduation this coming Commencement are W. Chester Hill, Mark B. Bollman, H. Sherman Oberly, H. Stanley Kleckner, Raymond A. Green, and Otto F. Nolde. We shall truly miss the ability of these men individually and collectively in next year's club. In closing, the Club is to be congratulated for the very successful season it has enjoyed, for the number of concerts given, the great popularity it has enjoyed and for the splendid advertisement it has given the College.

An Usher, '22.

Twenty-Nine Colleges Represented at Convention

Eighty-nine delegates representing twenty-nine colleges and universities of Pennsylvania and New Jersey registered for the sessions of the twenty-ninth annual Student Young Men's Christian Association Convention at Muhlenberg College at Friday, Saturday, and Sunday. An intensive program was carried thru, presenting such famous speakers as Sam Higgenbottom, F. N. D. Buchman, and Robert P. Wilder, in addition to many others whose work has centered in the Y. M. C. A.

The convention proper was preceded by a banquet at the Hotel Traylor on Friday at noon, Dr. Haas being the host to the presidents of the Y. organizations of the colleges represented. Here the keynote of the convention was struck as "Personal Self Sacrifice." Among the speakers at this session were William Bryan of the Princeton Y., Rev. F. N. D. Buchman, D. D., of the Hartford Theological Foundation, and S. M. Shoemaker, of Princeton.

The afternoon of Friday was occupied with the registration of the delegates, who were directed by members of the Freshman class to the homes in the city where their entertainment was provided by friends of the college, and by other necessary preliminary business. The delegates were taken for a tour of the college grounds and buildings, and at four o'clock were given a short address by S. M. Shoehaker, on "Personal Self Sacrifice."

In the evening, the convention was really opened with a banquet served in the city Y. M. C. A. building at Center Square. Mrs. Church, the cateress, had an inviting menu prepared. The affair served to bring the delegates into a spirit of unity and furnished the inspiration which was so prominent a part of the convention. Among the after-dinner speakers who made the occasion one long to be remembered were Dr. J. A. W. Haas, Prof. W. H. Tinker, of Allentown High, who is the College Y. M. C. A. Secretary for the Middle Atlantic States and J. B. Carruthers, who is the secretary for the state of Pennsylvania. J. P. Beasom, the retiring president of the Muhlenberg Y, served as toastmaster. Music for the evening was furnished by the college glee and mandolin clubs.

On Saturday the sessions began at nine o'clock, and continued throughout the day almost until midnight, with interruptions only for meals, and for a recess in the afternoon to see Muhlenberg beat Gettysburg in the dual track and field meet. The morning session was held in the college chapel, and was followed by a meal served in Sophronia Hall. The afternoon session opened with a lecture on "Agriculture in India," by Dr. Samuel Higgenbottom. After the recess, Dr. Robert P. Wilder, of New York City, representing the Student Volunteer Movement, spoke on "The Student Federation of the World."

The evening session was held in the local Y. M. C. A. building, and was featured by an address by Dr. Harrison Elliot. He had for his theme the study of the Bible. Professor W. H. Tinker gave an illustrated lecture on the Silver Bay summer student conference. Dr. Charles Hurrey, secretary to all the foreign students in the United States gave an excellent address with the subject, "The Call of the World."

On Sunday morning, the delegation split up and three or four meetings were held simultaneously in some of the local churches. At St. John's Lutheran, Rev. Edward T. Horn, a Lutheran missionary, and Dr. Harrison Elliot, a missionary to Japan were the speakers. At Christ Lutheran Church, Rev. Frank Buchman was the speaker. Mr. VanDusen, secretary of the Y. at Princeton University also spoke.

An afternoon session was held at the Y. M. C. A. building, where delegates to the internation committee of the Y. M. C. A. on the student council were chosen. Penn State, Rutgers and Princeton will be represented in this group. Resolutions of appreciation and thanks were extended to Dr. Haas, the student body of Muhlenberg College, the convention committees and the people of this city, for their efforts in making the convention a success. Dr. Buchman had charge of this, the last official session of the convention. For those that remained for the evening, two interesting programs were offered. At Salem Reformed Church Mr. Schetwell of Princeton was the speaker, and at St. John's Lutheran, Rev. Ralph Nesbitt, of the Student Volunteer movement, who will sail for India in August.

In the Season's Grip

Once a year to every student comes that incurable, harassing disease that grips its firm hold upon the studious mind. When once the buds begin to swell and the breath of spring is wafted across the campus, the unmistakible evidences appear. Some call it spring fever, other irresponsible indifference. The lure of the open is too great and outbalances the obligation to the class room. The blood runs actively its course thru the veins but not to the tune of the recitation room. We all vote spring the greatest time of the year and give ourselves up to its enjoyment, letting the regular things fall by the wayside. We are caught in the season's grip.

The coming of spring moreover ushers in another sphere of activity. The vernal reaction is accompanied with a parallel disturbance, that of preparing for the vacation. Summer jobs will have to be procured. Classes, then, are great hindrances and must be gotten away with. The financial surplus is overwhelmingly low, the need for replenishment equally important. What student has not experienced this hubbub of excitement? Studies then are only distractions for the mind! We should, however, not allow ourselves to think of our summer positions too much. Out of justice to ourselves, we should hold our anticipation in check. As long as we are in college, college must go on and it is up to us to keep it going. We dare not let ourselves be too much fascinated by the glare of approaching summer.

Hats Off to the Glee Club

We cannot let the Glee Club close its season without giving it its just due. We cannot be too proud of the organization reputed to be the best the college ever had. From all sources we hear words of appreciation for the splendid showing and merit of the club. It has, in fact, become a first class musical organization, one that has won the public's approval wherever it has appeared. As such it is furnishing a wonderful advertisement for Muhlenberg. A glee club is always a drawing card for a college in gaining publicity and this is especially true of ours. Its popularity with the public thruout eastern Pennsylvania is naturally reflecting upon the college and putting Muhlenberg in its proper place as an institution of learning. The Glee Club this year also proved a great aid in the college drive for funds. Out of gratitude for the great work it has accomplished, the Weekly in behalf of the student body takes this means to congratulate each and every member of the Club. May the Club continue its great success in the future!

Off With the Old

With this isue the present staff will make its grand finale. Before we make the change we wish to express our gratitude to the student body for the interest shown and the encouragement given thru the various literary articles contributed by members not on the staff. We feel confident that the piloting of the Weekly is being entrusted into capable hands and extend to the newly-elected staff our best wishes for a successful year. We trust our successors will receive the same support and encouragement for the ensuing year so that the plans for a larger and better paper will be able to be realized.

I. N. A. Semi-Annual Convention

The convention was welcomed by the Dean of Rutgers College who extended to the men the privilege of the college and gave in a few words some splendid advice. He said that there was nothing which molded the tone of the college like the undergraduate press. Moreover the undergraduate press gives the morals to the student body and is in a large measure responsible for the success of undergraduate activity. Many interesting facts were also given from him regarding the men who were successful in after-college life and among the Alumni who were eminently successful thirty-three per cent had been engaged in some editorial work in college and only eighteen per cent were eminently successful who were in no measure connected with the college paper. Dividing the successful Alumni into groups, despite the old saying that first honor men never amounted to very much in actual life work, this group among the Alumni showed fifty-two per cent eminently successful and the football men showed twenty-two and eight-tenth per cent eminently successful. His remarks were inspiring and very well received.

Two petitions for admission to the Association were received and favorably voted on. The new members of the I. N. A. are George Washington University and Franklin and Marshall. Delagates from the latter institution were present. This brings the roll of the I. N. A. to eighteen colleges in the Middle Atlantic States.

The discussions which followed were based upon helpful hints for the betterment of the papers in general and an informal discussion of editorial policy. Small details which in themselves are insignificant answered many queries from various delegates and many improvements were suggested by them which will aid greatly in making the College papers better in the future. Some papers have found short, snappy articles on national problems very helpful and have been able to interest the student in them for, though a college student is supposed to be well read on problems of national importance, it is surprising how few read current literature. The exchange column was found to be an interesting feature of the majority of the paper. It was learned from the Stevens representation that Stevens has instituted a Dean of Student Activities. This was found expedient because of the large number of athletes who were deficient in their work. The Dean of Student Activities keeps such men on their toes all the time in regards to their scholastic work, gives them help when necessary and the creation of such an office has already proven its success and possibilities by the results obtained. The convention also went on record as favoring all elections to the staff at the beginning of the Easter recess. This was deemed advisable because wherever the elections are later the new staff faces the burden of a great amount of material due to the commencement activities immediately following the Easter vacation and by eliminating this the new staff would be able to better adjust itself for its work. Besides it enables the members of the Senior class, who leave the staff, to better prepare themselves for their examinations, by being able to devote more time to their work.

The business managers discussed such questions as advertisements, cost of printing, amount of advertisements, price of subscriptions and exchanged views and compared notes on the business end of the college paper.

The following officers were elected for the coming year:

President, C. L. Glenn, Stevens.
Vice President, James F. Bogardus, Swarthmore.
Secretary, Frederick Leuschner, Pen State.
Treasurer, John R. Hoopes, Haverford.

The association received invitations from five of the colleges and finally selected Penn State as the place of meeting in the Fall. The staff of the Targum, Rutgers' paper, entertained the convention royally.

Saturday morning the delegates left Rutgers for New York City where they convened jointly with the Eastern College Newspapers Association, under the hospitality of the Columbia Spectator, at Columbia University. A very interesting meeting was held and many new ideas gained which we trust may find their realization in better college papers. The afternoon of the same day was spent in visiting the World publishing company's plant and witnessing the make-up and printing of the New York World's Sunday edition. This trip was most entertaining and educative.

While at Columbia University the combined delegations were the guests of the School of Journalism and at the luncheon tendered by them, Talcott Williams and Acting Director Cunliffe gave interesting and profitable adresses.

The representatives of the Weekly were James G. Morgan and Rowland B. Wehr.

Mascaa Meet

Next Saturday at Rutgers College, New Brunswick, N. J., Muhlenberg will be represented by an excellent team at the Middle Atlantic States Track Meet. Altho the representatives have not as yet been chosen, the general impression remains that the team will consist of at least seven or eight men who have trained faithfully and have shown themselves to be worthy of upholding the athletic name of Muhlenberg.

Keen rivalry and grueling competition is anticipated for, as our competitors, the best athletes of the several colleges entered will be present.

In all probabilities, the selected men will leave Friday afternoon for Rutgers in order to be on hand for the preliminaries the next morning.

Among the colleges entered are, Rutgers, Swarthmore, Layayette, Delaware, Haverford, Gettysburg, Dickinson, Washington and Jefferson, Lehigh, and last but not least—Muhlenberg.

The meet will be run under the auspices of the Middle Atlantic States Collegiate Athletic Association.

New Organization Started at Muhlenberg

Realizing the need of more social life among the non-fraternity men of Muhlenberg College, there has at last been officially created a new organization. The enrollment of the non-fraternity men is now about thirty, and it is hoped that all the non-fraternity men at Muhlenberg will soon become actively associated with the organization.

The name chosen to represent this new body has been derived from a particularly interesting source. It shall be known as the AZTECS.

At the last social meeting, Tuesday evening, May 4th, the following officers were elected: President, Paul R. Ronge; Vice-President, Amon J. Lichty; Recording Secretary, Ralph Gresh; Corresponding Secretary, Hugh J. Murtagh; Treasurer, George Sowers; Chaplain, Lando Emerich.

There were plenty of "smokes" and "eats" and a general good time was enjoyed by those present.

Commission of Labor Addresses Students

Chancellor McCormick of Pittsburgh could not be at Muhlenberg College to address the student body Monday morning, May 10, on the subject, "The University Man and His Relation to Safety," as was expected. Mr. Clifford E. Connelly, commissioner of Labor and Industry for Pennsylvania, took his place.

Mr. Connelly spoke of the responsibility that the college trained man has and brought out the fact that the world expects men of college training to do the thinking for the community. He also emphasized the need of college men knowing something about the questions of the day that are confronting the world.

The speaker told something of the work that is being done by the department of which he is the head and especially of the compensation bureau and the department of rehabilitation. There is no state in the union that is taking care of men injured in the industries in just the same way that Pennsylvania is taking care of her men, he said.

Hold Farewell Banquet for Classmates

The A. T. O. Sophomores gave a farewell banquet Monday night, May 10th, at Guthsville, in honor of "Corp" Reinartz and "General" Sherman, both of '22, who do not expect to return to Muhlenberg next fall. Reinartz expects to enter Jefferson Medical School and Sherman will become a student at the University of Pennsylvania. The big chicken, waffle, ham and all the fixings dinner was followed by a short program of talks and then an informal jazz fest around the piano after which all the gang but two hiked back to college.

Signs of Summer

Yes, sir, summer is here or almost here even though you may not know it. The writer of this article is in a very good position to prophesy on this matter for has he not watched those seniors, who hang out in the arcade, and his conclusions are stated above. Now, gentle reader, you will doubtless wonder how one poor human may make a prediction of the season by observing the actions of some other humans.

Here is the gist of the possibility along that line. In the first place those seniors afore mentioned have practically completed their work at college and in fact one is already missing from the fold. What meaneth this desertion and this industry? The answer is simple. Chatauqua has one more taken the field and with the opening of the season comes this activity. "Shorty" Hemmig left yesterday to take charge of the wrecking crew on the colonial fives circuit of the Swarthmore Chautauqua Association. This will probably be known as the Muhl-

Rutgers Wins Middle States

Rutgers College nosed out Lafayette by a half a point in the Middle Atlantic States Meet last Saturday. Swarthmore placed third with New York University fourth. Delaware, Lehigh and Muhlenberg followed in the order named. Muhlenberg with five entries took nine points and brought back four medals, one second and three thirds. The preliminaries in the morning were closely contested and the slow time recorded was due to an oversight whereby an extra five yards was run in each of the dashes. The finals and semi-finals in the afternoon displayed the best speed and skill produced in the dozen colleges entered. Two records were shattered in the field events—the javelin throw and the broad jump.

Crawford of Lafayette was the phenominal performer of the meet by winning the mile, two-mile and half-mile in close succession.

Due to mal-instruction Erb exhausted himself in two hard fought heats in the quarter mile placing third, and consequently was unable to sprint at the finish in the half-mile, winning another third. Kline placed second in the low hurdle and third in the high hurdles. Reinartz succeeded in entering the finals in the pole-vault and broad-jump but was unable to place. In the pole vault he exceeded the college record by four and a half inches but will not receive the credit because the event was won by another entry. Jones and Green were unfortunate in the trials and failed to place in the finals. Green was unable to contain himself within the circle in the discus throw. Although the relative standing of our team this year is not so good as last year, the efforts of our men are commendable because the competition this year was much keener and better all-round athletics were demonstrated.

Glee Club Banquet

The Glee Club closed its "season" at the Guthsville Hotel on last Thursday evening, with a banquet at that well-known hostlery up the line. The trip by all the members of the Club was made by machine. Music and remarks by the Club members were the order of the evening after the dinner. Prof. H. K. Marks, the faculty director of the Club and Prof. J. D. M. Brown, the dramatic director were the guests of honor. After remarks from both of them, President Hill called on Manager Bollman, who made a detailed report of the statistics for the season. Oberly gave a resume of the interesting experiences which the club members had during the year, and these were added to by Green, Nolde, Kleckner and Kohler, the members who will leave the Club this year. It may be added that the guests of honor told some of the early experiences of the Club which proved to be very entertaining.

The Summer Session

The summer session of the college aims to meet the needs of all who wish to use part of the summer vacation for study. College students may work off conditions or secure advanced credit to shorten the time of their college courses.

Teachers may fit themselves more thoroughly for their profession, and may at the same time secure credit towards a college degree. The work of the session offers the opportunity to make complete preparation for the permanent certificate. In these courses the content of the subject is presented from the latest pedagogical point of view. In this way the teacher is not only well prepared for the examination but she is helped to a more professional preparation for her daily work.

Students preparing to enter this or any other college in the fall may either make up entrance conditions or secure advance credit on their courses.

Supt. Dodd, of the Allentown Public Schools, has been devoting considerable attention to Supervised Study and in cooperation with him Miss Carrie M. Graham, supervised study expert and vocational counsellor of the Washington Junior High School, Rochester, N. Y., has been added to the summer school faculty.

Miss Graham will conduct a demonstration class in history for the first three weeks and in English for the second half of the session. This hour will be followed by lectures and discussions on type lessons, problem method, and supervised study. If fifty teachers register for the course the fee will be ten dollars.

The session will open on June 28 and close August 6. The examination for the permanent certificate will be held on August 5 and 6. Teachers should file their applications for the examination before July 5th.

Pan-Hellenic Council Meets

The Pan-Hellenic Council held a special meeting in Dr. Wackernagle's room in the Administration Building for the purpose of organizing for next year.

After the installation of the new representatives to the Council, elections were held with the following results:

President, M. Trexler, Phi Kappa Tau; Vice President, R. Shankweiler, Alpha Tau Omega; Secretary-Treasurer, E. S. Phillips, Delta Theta.

Provisions were also made in this meeting for the purchase of a loving cup to be awarded to the winner of the Inter-Fraternity pool tournament.

Senior Farewell

Last Friday evening witnessed the farewell banquet of the Class of 1920. Twenty-three members of this year's graduating class boarded an early car for Northampton and there found waiting what has been truly proclaimed the finest "feed" ever enjoyed by '20. After the sumptuous banquet, president Snyder called upon the guests of honor, Prof. Simpson, Dr. Wright and Bollman, Tyson and Bachman, for short talks. On the whole the evening was a very enjoyable one to all, for everybody seemed to be in the best of "spirits." Too much credit cannot be given the committee, consisting of Schleicher, Hill and Kleckner, for their excellent arrangements. At a late hour the merry-makers returned to the fair city of Allentown and enjoyed a walk from 17th and Chew to the dormitories which will go down in history.

LEARNING TO LIVE

By E. N. Vallandigham

Contributed to the I. N. A.

Education is the sole object of college life, as in a sense it is the sole object of all human life. Both living and earning a living are educative processes. We make them more or less effective as such according to the fashion in which we face both. Education at college as in life, is not alone of the head, not merely directed toward the essential of enabling the youth to earn his living in the market of the world. It is much more than that. It is much more than that plus the cultivation of an appreciative taste for the fine arts—of literature, music and the rest. It is more than all these plus education in manners, carriage, and deportment, plus the development of a sound, well functioning physique. It implies also education of the emotions, education in moral and the development of the religious sense and feeling. Whatever we do at college promotes or retards our education in one or more of these things that go to mould the civilized man at his best.

Education of the intellect, whether in matters technical or in those of taste, guarantees nothing as to moral or religious education. The president of an American university, when asked whether a college education tended to raise a man above the immortalities of practical politics, answered that it as least tended to raise his price. That was a way of saying that the education of the head is not necessarily moral education. It is notorious also that many men of exquisite taste and skill in the fine arts have been essentially immoral, and some such men have been essentially non-moral, though great art is never immoral, and great artists are apt to be consciously or unconsciously great moralists, because it is impossible to present human life truly by means of the creative arts without teaching a moral lesson, just as it is impossible for a man to live without teaching a moral lesson to those who intelligently observe his life. Shakespeare is a great moralist, not because he sets out with direct intent to teach a lesson, but because he conceives of life as having a moral significance, and shows us men and women as they are.

If we come to college seeking merely such education as shall give us more butter on our bread than most men get, or hoping merely to acquire keener perceptions of taste, or in pursuit of fun, we shall lose much that college life should afford in the matter of education. Social contact, the athletic field, the class-room, the long walks and the long talks with congenial comrades, should be educative. The honor system should be an education in the higher morals. These delightful spring days should be an education in aesthetics, and more in essential religion, for serene joy in the aspects of nature tends to bring men nearer to that great mystery called by all but gross materialists "God." If we leave college without having come to know that body, mind and heart all share in education, without being better physically than when we came, keener in mind, clearer in moral perceptions, stronger in self control, broader and more generous in our social and individual sympathies, so that we shall escape the pride and prejudice, the intellectual and spiritual arrogance which are the besetting sins of the academic class, we have failed to make the college an avenue to what is best in after living.

A Greater "Weekly" in a Greater Muhlenberg. Does it not sound real? The recently elected staff assumes that responsibility and all our efforts will be directed toward the realization of that end. With this issue we begin the seventh year of the "Weekly." Glancing back over that period our college paper has made rapid growth and many new features have been added. If your college paper is not what you think it ought to be, don't blame the paper, it is not the paper, it is you! This is your paper as much as it is that of the men you have elected to see that it appears each week. If you do not interest yourself in it, how do you expect to get a paper that will interest you? Upon those who conduct the college paper rests the responsibility of molding the tone of the under-graduate and reviving the interest of graduates in their Alma Mater. Do you want a paper representative of the student body? Then help us to make it a representative paper. Surely you want a larger and better paper if you are dissatisfied with the present one! Little can be done for the remainder of this year as any change requires considerable time and thought. We want your cooperation and feel confident that with the first issue next fall, the paper will show a marked improvement. For we must have a Greater "Weekly" if a Greater Muhlenberg.

Fair Play to Track Men

With this year rapidly drawing to a close, our attention is again directed toward fair treatment for the men on the track team. Is track to be a major sport at Muhlenberg? Or is it a major sport? We have not been able to decide that as yet. But one thing is certain, any varsity track man who is able to place at the Middle Atlantics' should receive for his efforts a plain "M." What else has a track man to work for? Are we proud of our track men and the showing they have made against schools with much larger student bodies? Were we delighted when Erb won first place in the Middle Atlantics' last year? Three of this year's team placed in the Massca Meet at Rutgers, Saturday. Yale and Harvard have recently decided to grant plain letters to members of the varsity tennis team. We are sure that the majority of the student body desire that fair play be given the track men and we look for some action on the part of those who determine such matters, at an early date.

Why Not?

The coming of vacation will see the reconstruction of the rooms recently gutted by fire, in West Berks hall. If we might offer a suggestion, would it not be an advantage to the college and a convenience generally to the student body, if a Y. M. C. A. room would be placed on the first floor of West Berks hall, entrance being made from the Arcade. Almost every school having a Y. M. C. A. has some similar place, used for cabinet meetings, committee meetings and a rest and reading room for the students. The converting of the rooms damaged by fire could be accomplished at a small expense and the outfitting of the room would be a task for the Y. M. C. A. Moreover, while there is supposed to be a telephone room in the Arcade, it is anything but that at the present time. Perhaps the telephone would be in a condition to be used more often than what it is. To accomplish better and more effective work, it is essential that the students have a more tangible environment than merely a name which is the present status of the "Y" among the entire student body. We trust that by the opening of college for the fall term, the "Y" will have some such headquarters.

Home Tennis Season is Opened

Muhlenberg played the opening tennis match of the home schedule with Moravian College Tuesday afternoon of last week. Due to wet courts, the match was carried over from the previous Saturday, May Eighth. Gates and Lynch played a stellar brand of tennis, Lynch winning in an easy manner with his fast driving. The matches could not be finished on account of a heavy rain which flooded the courts. The remaining matches will be played when the team meets Moravian at Bethlehem, May twenty-second. At the call of play the matches stood as follows:

Hoffman, Moravian defeated Miller, Muhlenberg, 6-1, 6-2; Kempton, Moravian defeated Beddow, Muhlenberg, 6-1, 6-2; Gates, Muhlenberg tied with Reeves, Moravian, 6-4, 5-7; (rain prevented the completion of the match); Lynch defeated Stocher, Moravian, 6-1, 6-2.

X-Ray Finds Flaws

The difficulty of detecting flaws and the presence of foreign bodies, of a metallic or other nature, in built up mica which is used for insulating purposes, has caused one large manufacturing company to install an X-ray testing outfit for this purpose. With this apparatus foreign objects, such as pins, bits of wire, etc., as well as the weak or thin spots in the mica itself can be readily detected. The detection of these flaws before the mica is actually used for insulation purposes is highly important, as much damage, and loss of time and money due to faulty mica are averted. Other materials can be examined in the same way.

C. J. C. Club Reorganizes

Last Friday noon the members of the C. J. C. Club assembled in the Administration building and elected their officers for the 1920-21 school year. It was decided to follow the system of similar clubs in other colleges and plans were formulated for the continuance of their activities on a greater scale in the future. The success of the past year has assured the permanency of the organization.

Result of elections: M. S. E. P., James Morgan; M. W. V. P., E. Stanley Phillips; M. C. L. C., Paul Edelman; M. H. K. E., Herbert Koch.

Lines Composed on a Notice to Keep Off the Grass

I am a wicked, wicked boy,
Alas!
I'm always walking on the new Spring grass.
Despite the signs that all around
Adorn the newly verdant ground,
I simply cannot keep the bounds
Of paths!
Alas!

But, patience! When I'm dead and shall Have rose
Above this earthly sphere of heat
And snows;
Or, when at last I must repair
To that dim, grassless, Otherwhere,
Perhaps I'll be a good boy there
Who knows?

Aztec's Seniors Entertained

A large attendance, both of members and friends of the AZTECS, assembled in Sophronia Hal, Tuesday evening, May 11. The hall was artistically decorated with flags, banners, and crape trimmings. The object of the Social was to give the Senior members of the AZTECS, a farewell.

Before the social, the installation of officers took place, after which the following program was rendered: Piano Solo, Mr. Gresh. Reading of Resolutions, by the president, Mr. Ronge. Select Readings, Mr. Emerick. Dialogue, Mr. Rex and Mr. Sowers. One minute speeches by the Senior members. Extemporaneous speeches, by Mr. Ronge, Mr. Lichty and Mr. Strunk. Refreshments.

After the program, the members united in a social hour of games, and entertainment, while smokes and refreshments were served. It was the unanimous opinion, that the Senior Farewell Social, of the AZTECS, was one of the most successful socials given by the organization this year.

Senior Honors

At a meeting of the Faculty held last Thursday afternoon to pass on the Senior Class, first honor, with the Valedictory, was awarded to the youngest member of the class, Richard R. Gates, of Lebanon. This honor carries with it the Clayton F. Bernheim Honor Medal. Mr. Gates, who is a member of the Phi Kappa Tau Fraternity, earned this honor by hard, consistent work through all his four years at Muhlenberg.

Second honor and the Latin Salutatory went to Raymond A. Green also of Lebanon, and likewise a member of Phi Kappa Tau. Mr. Green, besides his achievements in scholastic lines, is an "M" man in football, basketball, track and Glee Club.

The other members of the Honor Group are Earl S. Erb of East Greenville, and Luther J. Deck of Hamburg, both members of Delta Theta. The former is this year's track captain and last year's holder of the Middle Atlantic States half-mile championship, as well as an 'M'-man in football and basketball. Mr. Deck was Editor-in-chief of the 1920 Ciarla and this year's football manager. All the honor men took the classical course.

The two members of the class who received honorable mention are Anthony S. Corbiere, an ex-Usaac, who came to Camp Crane from the University of Washington and then finished at Muhlenberg this year upon his return from overseas, and Otto F. Nolde, the star end of the football team, from Riverside, N. J. Mr. Corbiere is a member of an honorary Journalistic Fraternity of the University of Washington, while Mr. Nolde is a member of the Phi Kappa Tau. While at Muhlenberg, Mr. Nolde was an 'M'-man in football and basketball, as well as on the Glee Club.

This year's graduating class, the largest in the history of the college, numbers 35, which includes a large number of men who returned from the service and who were originally members of preceding classes. The only man to receive a post-graduate degree is Edgar J. Brong of the class of 1917, who for his work in Biology with Prof. Bailey will receive the degree of Master of Science. Mr. Brong who was in the service, is a former track star Allentown High and of Muhlenberg.

The members of former classes who served in the war and are now graduating are Paul S. Acker, Harvey E. Snyder and Harvey M. Allabaugh, all of the class of 1918, and Floyd E. Shupp and Raymond A. Kline, of the class of 1919.

Fou rmen of the class of 1921 have completed their work in three years and will be graduated this year. They are Edwin L. Kohler, Jennings B. Derr, Floyd Moyer and Paul R. Ronge.

Three members of the extension department will receive their degrees this year. They are Miss Mabel Knecht, S. H. Brown and Bert David.

The original members of the college class of 1920 to graduate are Russell S. Bachman, Walter M. Benner, Mark B. Bollman, Francis C. Carraciolo, Charles F. Gloss, Freeland L. Hemmig, W. Chester Hill, Deyman W. Kerschner, H. Stanley Kleckner, Paul A. Knedler, H. Sherman Oberly, J. Homer Roblyer, Herbert S. Schell, David J. Schleicher, Warren P. Snyder and William A. Van Zandt.

The Passing of the R. O. T. C.

During the past several days various and sundry freshmen and sophomores have been seen wandering across the campus from the dormitories to the Ad building with bundles of khaki in their hands. This turning in of army uniforms indicates the passing of the R. O. T. C. which will be but a memory in a few months.

The board of Trustees of the college has officially done away with the R. O. T. C. at Muhlenberg, being of the conviction that the best interests of the college and of the students would be served through physical education. A strong sentiment among the students against military training in the college probably had something to do with the decision of the board also, according to a statement given out by President John A. W. Haas to a 'Weekly' reporter recently.

The military training will give way to a course in physical education of which two hours a week will be required for the two lower classes and one hour a week for the upper classes.

Phi Taus Win First Leg of Cup

By winning the deciding match from Delta Theta last Wednesday evening on the Alpha Tau Omega table, Phi Kappa Tau won the loving cup offered to the winner of the Inter-Fraternity Pool Tournament, by the Pan-Hellenic Council.

This is the first year the cup has been offered and it must be won three times for permanent possession. At the end of the regular tournament, Delta Theta and Phi Kappa Tau were tied for the lead. The deciding match, played last Wednesday evening, consisted of a double game and a single. In the singles, Paul Rhode, '23, the Phi Kappa Tau representative, obtained an early lead on Harvey Robbins of Delta Theta and lead all the way. However, near the end, Robbins crept up and contested every point with Rhode. Rhode was not to be denied, however, and finally won, 100 to 93.

Richard R. Gates, '20, and Frank J. Butz, '21, Phi Kappa Tau had a slightly easier time, defeating Horace Shuler, '23, and Jack Simmons, '22, Delta Theta in the doubles, by a score of 100 to 83. The game was close until the last two frames when the victors cut loose and ran the remaining balls necessary for victory.

No account of this match would be complete if mention were not made of the hospitable treatment afforded the visitors by the members of Alpha Tau Omego. Their cordiality, refreshments and kindness in offering the use of their table added much to the evening's enjoyment.

New Student Council Organizes

In the early part of last week the new members of the student council met in the Administration Building and organized for the next collegiate year. After several items of business were disposed of, an election of officers was held with the following results: R. Hoffman, '21, President; H. Koch, '21, Vice President; T. Lantz, '22, Secretary; A. Lichty, '21, and R. Hoffman, '21, Dormitory Proctors; R. Bornman, '21, Administration Building Proctor.

The purpose of the Student Council is to serve the Student Body as an executive body, and it is the aim of the newly elected Council to function in this capacity to the best of its abilty and to promote all things that may be for the general welfare of the Student Body. Plans are already under way for next year, and the endeavors of the Council can be a success only when given the cooperation of the entire Student Body.

The personnel of the Student Council for next year consists of: Seniors—Lichty, Wohlsen, Hoffman, Koch, Talmage, Feldman, Pornman. Juniors—Lantz, Snyder, Benze, Rex, Kehrli.

Attention

Men of Muhlenberg, express your thoughts in action. The Glee Club will offer next year twenty dollars in prizes for the best skit and dialog. Heretofore the students have produced original skits and dialogs that have delighted audiences throughout the state. Is there any reason why the present student body cannot uphold its reputation? This year the two plays which were given by the club were representative of the student body.

Utilize your spare moments this summer and learn what a play writer you really are. You can do it. Get busy. Let the competition be keen. Professor Brown nad Professor Simpson will be the judges.

Provision 1. The skit must be of a humorous vein. Costumes and property must be light. The skit shall be approximately of twenty minutes duration. Prize—Ten dollars in gold.

Provision 2. The dialog must include some popular songs of the day. It must be short and snappy. Prize—Ten dollars in gold.

All entries must be handed in not later than Oct. 15th, 1920.

Sophomore Class Elections

Intense excitement accompanied the election last Friday of the officers of the Sophomore class for the coming semester, with interest centered on the race for monitor in which Elmer Finck, Jacob Martz, and Edgar Bleiler were the contestants. Finck's campaign manager, Bob Oberly, fired the first guns in a speech describing in glowing terms the faithful but honest service given by his candidate, and made a touching appeal that such illustrious labor should not go unrewarded. The other candidates used less spectacular methods but were right on the job, collecting votes right and left. When the time for the election finally arrived, great enthusiasm was displayed by the opposing factions, and it was only by the iron and impartial justice of the chairman that actual assault and battery were avoided. The nominating speeches were masterpieces of the oratorical art, the ballots were cast, and the voters settled down to a tense silence to await the result of the count. As soon as the news was flashed, "Martz elected," enthusiastic partisans raised the victorious candidate to their shoulders, and a shout of victory made the welkin ring.

Other officers elected were; President, Harold P. Knauss; Vice-President, Paul W. Ramer; Secretary, Edwin L. Kirchner; and Treasurer, Russell W. Stine.

Editorial

Attention was called to the following clipping from an exchange: "All cases of dishonesty reported at Perdue University will be published in the "Daily Exponent" each month. The Dishonest committee and the Student Council are cooperating on this policy in an effort to eradicate all forms of cheating."

In a recent issue of Lehigh's "Brown and White" a similar action was cited.

At Northeastern University the misuse of the honor system led to its abolition.

Nothing of permanent value to mankink has ever been gained by dishonesty. Deceit, hypocracy, pretense and cribbing may give temporary reward or honor to individuals, but the general adherence to such policies by a student body is ultimately destructive and demoralizing. We tell many "white lies" to avoid giving offense. The value of such subterfuge is quite questionable. These "white lies" may lead up to a habit of dishonesty, and life becomes made up largely of falsehoods. Truthfulness is a characteristic frequently noticeable because of its absence. We become untrue even to ourselves. If you take an examination and have your vest pockets lined with well-prepared notes, or a quiz-book interlined, whom are you deceiving? The professor? The college faculty? Yourself? Honesty usually pays big dividends in business. The unscrupulous ultimately get "what is coming to them," and honesty in college life—honesty with oneself, and with those with whom one comes in contact in every walk of life—pays its own reward.

Living in a word as we do, with hypocracy and deceit on all sides, we may find it difficult—almost impossible—to be absolutely honest. An "absolutely honest" man might become a nuisance among friends and acquaintances, but you can at least make your college activities honest. ARE YOU SQUARE AND ON THE LEVEL with yourself, your classmates and your college? How can a college man, entering upon the highest profession, the ministry, or any other profession, find TRUTH if he does not look for it always? Only in this way are you able to sift out much of the falsehood and make life mean more to you. The difficulty with college men is that they are easily persuaded to go with the crowd. And if you are mingling with a large number who are dishonest in their work, only do the best you can. The best may be but a mediocre attempt to avoid the prevailing dishonesty, nevertheless, honest work can be brought about only through the individual's effort. Life is a stage and we are all actors playing our part each day of our lives.

Honesty is the part the MAN plays, dishonesty the part of the crook. In the coming examinations are you going to be the MAN or the crook?

The college campus is receiving its periodical manicure. The drowsy, monotonous whir of the lawn nower is heard hour after hour. The growing blades of grass are abbreviated. A fortnight's growth of green is cut off. What a wonderful opportunity it is for the optimist to draw a lesson. "Look at the grass," he says: "if the discouragements of life seem too many. Look at the grass, and take courage. Were a blade of grass to complain of its hard lot, and bemoan the fact that as fast as it raises its heaed the revolving blade lops it off, it would be no more foolish than some of your complaints at the fate which nips some of your plans in the bud. The grass best serves its purpose when its wild growth is corrected. It becomes a verdant carpet, a delight to the eye, and entirely a thing of beauty. Probably yould wouldn't be of much good in this world if every wild idea that springs up in your head were allowed to run to seed. Meanwhile, the pessimist is sitting in his room with a frown on his lofty brow, annoyed by the drone of the lawn mower, figuring laboriously that the horsepower required to mow the campus during one summer would move a battleship seven hundred ninety-six thousand, two hundred and thirty-eight yards in a north northeast direction.

Muhlenberg Dance

The Class of 1920 will hold a dance in the Commons Tuesday night, June 8th, of Commencement week. This will be strictly a "Muhlenberg" dance, for Muhlenberg men and alumni. Mickley's Jazzland Novelty Orchestra will put "pep" in the dance and there will be dancing from 9 P. M. to 1 A. M. President Dr. J. A. W. Haas and Mrs. Haas, Captain Clapham and Mrs. Clapham and Lawrence Rupp, Esq. and Mrs. Rupp have been invited as chaperons. Price per couple is $1.50 including war tax.

C. J. C. Meets

Last Friday the C. J. C. Club held a social at the Phi Kappa Tau Fraternity House.

The retiring president, Mr. Kohler, after a short farewell address, in which he summed up the accomplishments of the organization, resigned his chair in favor of the new president, Mr. Morgan. Following the regular routine of business, suggestions for new men were received, and a list of prominent speakers for chapel talks compiled.

After the business meeting Dr. Haas and Prof. Cressman led a discussion on the present political and economic conditions of the country, and international relationships, during which time refreshments and smokes were served.

Three Cheers for "Shorty"

The fact that a man does not necessarily have to be an alumnus to be a good friend of the college is proven by the work that has been done at different times by our old friend Roy C., "Shorty," Edwards.

The following letter was received by one of the students recently:

Allentown, Pa.,
May 18th, 1920.

Dear Friend,

I am writing you a few lines to have you congratulate the boys of the Glee Club and Track Team on their great work in upholding the honor of dear old Muhlenberg College. I would have liked to have heard the Glee Club and been at the Track meets, but I have been in bed with rheumatism for the past seven weeks and am still confined to my home. Remember me to the boys as I do not know when I shall be able to see them due to my illness. Excuse poor writing due to a stiff hand. Wishing the boys success in all future events, I am

A friend and worker for a Greater Muhlenberg,
Roy C. Edwards, (Shorty)

Allentown, Pa.

Notice

There will be no issue of the Weekly next week on account of examinations. There will be, however, a Commencement Issue published the latter part of Commencement Week. All students desiring to have a copy sent them by mail must hand their addresses to the business manager before June 7th.

The Olympic Games at Antwerp

For all Americans interesetd in amateur sport and recreation, 1920 is an important year, for the Seventh Olympiad will be held in Antwerp this summer. Throughout the United States, the elimination trials which will decide the personnel of the American Olympic team have revived the fervor of contest that flames up with the approach of every international competition. The departure of the hockey and golf teams and the tryouts for the other teams which will make up the American representation at Antwerp have been followed more enthusiastically than in any previous Olympic year. The Army and Navy, through a special committee, will take a more active part than heretofore in the trials.

Gustavus T. Kirby, president of the American Olympic Committee, points out that the spirit of the Olympic contest is peace and good will. More particularly is this true of the seventh of the modern series of games. The choice of Antwerp as the place for the contest was a happy one; Belgium is a dramatic if somewhat tragic figure among the nations that have sacrificed so much for peace and good will.

In former Olympic games, the United States has taken so prominent a part that the American team this year will be watched with unusual interests by the thousands of spectators who will crowd the stadium in Antwerp. All the more reason, then, why the best of our athletes, inside and outside the colleges, should be found on the American Olympic team. We are going to have a really representative team only in the event that every man boosts for fair play, for equality of opportunity, for sportsmanship and for the amateur spirit.

Winning the largest number of points in the Seventh Olympiad will not be a glorious end in itself. Stamina and the will to win fairly, by-products of the contest, are far more important than bringing home of bust of Charles the Twelfth, which has been put up as a prize by the King of Sweden for the classic pentathlon, or the challenge cup offered by the father of the modern Olympic games, Baron Pierre de Coubertin, for the modern pentathlon.

It is an encouraging commentary upon American life that workmen, scholars, millionaire sportsmen, or business men can make the American Olympic team. That shows there is ample opportunity for any American, through the scientific application of his leisure time, to win the highest honors in the athletic world. Granted that there is just a little too much emphasis upon the star system in American amateur athletics, the fact remains that more and more people are being drawn into recreation and sports. Every kid in a playground, every man on a university track, every worker who uses a community center can develop himself. It's a fair field for all that the American Olympic Committee offers to American athletes.

Consider for a minute the make-up of former American Olympic teams. Men from all corners of the United States, from all professions and callings, have been selected. The success of the American teams in earlier Olympiads speaks pretty well for the geographical distribution of stamina, fair play and sportsmanship throughout the United States. To carry this idea of geographical distribution a little further, it is inspiring to see that winners of the different events come from so many nations. Think of the spectacular games at Athens in 1906, which were a part of the Greek and not the international cycle. A private soldier from Patras named Tophilos won the weight lifting. Mr. Taffy (this was the way the Morning Acropolis spelled Duffy's name) was beaten by the "terrible Robertson" in the trials of the 100-metre race. Canada won the Marathon, with the Crown Prince of Greece, bitterly disappointed at the defeat of his own country in this classic event, showing himself a good sport by running alongside the winner and cheering.

These dramatic triumphs in the Olympic stadium serve only to emphasize the success that may come at home to any man who makes the right use of his opportunities. The men who win in the Seventh Olympiad, after all, are those who have seized the chance presented to them through school gymnasiums, through college diamonds, or through playgrounds, and who have steadily fought their way up from obscurity to the first rank. There can be only one winner of the 100-metre race in Antwerp, but there can be thousands of aspirants, all of whom will be the better for having set an unattainable goal before themselves. It is because of the inspiration that the Olympiad has furnished to youth from time immemorial—and these games go back almost into the prehistoric mists—that they were so important in classic days and are coming to mean so much in modern times.

The man who "goes out for" the American Olympic team is an inspiration to the other young men of his community, particularly if he makes his way up to the final elimination tests in Boston in July. It is interesting to see that even when a man has gone across to compete with the great ahtletes of other nations, it is the thought of applause from his own folks that steels will and nerve to the ordeal. As when the victor in the ancient games returned to his community crowned with wreaths of olive leaves, to become the village hero, so the American athlete returns to his own people to be idolized for the time being. After all, a nation is no stronger and no weaker than are the representative young men of individual communities. If the spirit of the town is opposed to the development of sports and recreation, there is no likelihood that a great athlete will ever be produced there, or that the people of that community will be noted for their progressiveness or their fair play. If Waterloo was won on the playing fields of Eton and Harrow, much more so will the Antwerp Olympiad have been won on the gridiron or the playground.

Entering the World Electrical

THE graduate of today enters a world electrical.

Gathered from the distant waterfalls or generated by the steam turbine, electric power is transmitted to the busiest city or the smallest country place.

Through the co-ordination of inventive genius with engineering and manufacturing resources, the General Electric Company has fostered and developed to a high state of perfection these and numerous other applications.

And so electricity, scarcely older than the graduate of today, appears in a practical, well developed service on every hand.

Recognize its power, study its applications to your life's work, and utilize it to the utmost for the benefit of all mankind.

The Croakers

There are men in this world who will always complain,
They're the bulls in the frog-pond of life;
And they croak and complain in a nauseous strain
'Til the world with complaining seems rife.

In the forum and factory, in Churches and schools,
You will hear them lament and complain
That good men are rascals and wise men are fools,
And that everything's wrong in the main.

And they never can see that the good in a thing
In itself is sure proof that it's not,
The worst thing in the world and that may be 'twill bring
In its train something nobler yet.

So, dear reader, beware, lest you're caught in the snare
That the croaker conceals in his soul;
He will call you a weakling, a bungler, unfair,
And condemn humankind as a whole.

Now the men who complain and lament and bemoan
Are a menace to a progress and peace,
And the world would be better and more would be known
Of real joy if complaining would cease.

Did It Ever Happen to You?

A pretty girl sat in a railroad train,
As lonesome as she could be,
And she said to herself, with a little sigh—
"If he would only talk to me."

A young man sat just across the aisle,
From the girl with the pretty stare,
And he said to himself, "If I sit with her,
I wonder if she would care."

And so they rode the whole long way,
And neither one of them knew,
Just what the other was thinking about,
Did it ever happen to you?"

Scraps

"I passed her yesterday morning,
Somehow it made my heart beat faster;
I was filled with a new sensation
Of Joy, of Ambition, of Power,
Dame Fortune smiled upon me
For I passed her again
This morning:
Again that same thrill—
I was happy all day
I know not why,
Tonight I ponder:
Was it Fate?
Was it Luck?
Will I pass her again?
I doubt it:
I never passed three quizzes in succession."

A student there was
Who was told a lot:
The more he listened
The less he got.

Muhlenberg's Fifty-Third Commencement

Thirty-eight young men and one young woman were graduated from Muhlenberg College on Thursday morning in the Allentown High School Auditorium, at Muhlenberg's fifty-third annual commencement exercises. An exceedingly well-filled house greeted the faculty and the graduating class as they marched on the stage.

The opening prayer was made by Rev. Emil E. Fischer, pastor of Christ Lutheran Church, and professor-elect of the Lutheran Theological Seminary at Mount Airy, Philadelphia.

After music by Klingler's orchestra, the salutatory was delivered by Mr. Raymond A. Green of Lebanon, the second honor man. The speaker welcomed the audience to the exercises and told of the appreciation of the favors extended to the class of 1920 during their four years at Muhlenberg.

Richard R. Gates, the youngest member in the class and the first honor man, delivered the valedictory. After speaking of the rapid advance in science and of the need thereof in the rebuilding of the world after the war, Mr. Gates showed how today the Common People and the Middle Class are the strong elements of society. He then delivered the valedictory portion of his address, saying a last farewell to the citizens of Allentown, Board of Trustees, Faculty, the President, Dr. Haas and finally his classmates.

Dr. Griggs, the principal commencement speaker, then delivered his address, one of the most masterful and forceful that has ever been made from a local platform. Like Dr. Hamilton Holt, who spoke last year, Dr. Griggs is a student of wide experience and his speech was very opportune.

He spoke of the perilous times we are living in and then in a clear concise, yet all-embracing manner, outlined the achievements of the countries of the world during the recent war, paying a high tribute to art, science, the classics and all phases of education as one of the fundamental causes of the victory gained.

He branded Bolshevism as an epidemic which may be likened to the Spanish influenza, sweeping with deadly effect across nations. He bitterly denounced those who speak of revolution as the only remedy, "for there is no need of it today when as never before, men have learned to stand together and fight for a great and noble ideal, as in the world war just passed."

He warned the nation to beware of Germany's great mistake. In speaking of the classics in education, he said that the behavior of the British officers under fire in the early days of the war was the best argument for the classics that the world has seen in a hundred years. "In French and British education," he added, "we find our answer to the origin of the morale that won the war for the Allies." He closed with a masterful plea to the graduating class to dedicate their lives to the world's work for God and man.

After Dr. Griggs' able speech, came the conferring of degrees. Thirty-eight men of the class of 1920 received their respective bachelors' degrees in either arts, science or philosophy. The first member of the fair sex to obtain a degree in course from Muhlenberg was Miss Mabel Knecht, who received the degree of Bachelor of Science.

The honorary and graduate degrees were as follows:

B. S. to John E. Bauman, A. B., 1911.

M. S. to Edgar J. Brong, B. S., 1917, for exceptional work in science.

Doctor of Divinity, to Rev. John H. Raker, 1889, Superintendent of The Good Shepherd Home, Allentown.

Doctor of Divinity to Rev. Prof. John A. Bauman, 1872, Professor of Mathematics at Muhlenberg.

Doctor of Divinity to Rev. H. C. Lilly, Secretary of the Allentown Federation of Churches.

Doctor of Divinity to Rev. Emil E. Fischer, pastor of Christ Lutheran Church, and professor-elect at the Mt. Airy Lutheran Seminary.

Doctor of Divinity to Rev. George Drach, Secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions of the United Lutheran Church of America.

Doctor of Pedagogy to Prof. H. W. Dodd, Superintendent of the Public Schools of the City of Allentown.

Doctor of Pedagogy to Henry G. Deininger of the Public Schools of Philadelphia.

Doctor of Music to H. Alexander Matthews, of Philadelphia, famous organist and composer of sacred music.

Doctor of Literature to Professor George T. Ettinger, Dean of Muhlenberg College.

The following awards of honors and prizes were also made by Dr. Haas:

Honorable mention to Mr. Amos A. Ettinger, Allentown, Pa.

The President's Junior Prize of $10 in gold to that member of the Junior Class submitting the best essay in the department of English on a subject to be assigned. Subject for 1920: "The Common Man in Shakespeare's Plays." Presented by President Haas and awarded to Mr. Amos A. Ettinger, Allentown, Pa.

The Reuben Wenrich Prize of $10 in gold to that member of the Sophomore Class having the highest general average in all his studies, presented by Dr. Reuben Wenrich to Mr. Harold P. Knauss of Allentown, Pa.

The Reuben J. Butz Botanical Prize for the best collection of flora, etc., awarded to Mr. Irving Thomas of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Class of 1923.

At this point, Rev. Luther D. Lazarus of the Class of 1895, President of the Allentown Conference stepped on the stage and, in the name of the class presented a $1500 scholarship to the college, to be known as the "William Wackernagle Scholarship" in honor of their beloved teacher, Dr. Wackernagle.

The exercises closed with the Benediction by Dr. Haas and the singing of "My Country, 'Tis of Thee" by the audience.

Baccalaureate Sermon

The Baccalaureate sermon to the members of the graduating class was delivered in St. John's Lutheran Church Sunday morning by Dr. John A. W. Haas, the president, his theme being "What Is Man?" based on the text from Psalms 8:4, "What is man that thou art mindful of him?"

Dr. Haas described the great uncertainty in the world in the following terms: "The old diplomacy of territorialism has not ceased. Just self-determination has become nationalistic selfishness. The gap between different classes of society is becoming wider. Men have lost hope because they are uncertain of what is their real origin and what is their real destiny. Man must discover himself again in the light of God. He must find himself not thru his own thoughts and by his own wisdom but in the light of divine truth. The reason we have gone astray in so many directions is because we have lowered our destiny to the viewpoint of mere science. Men have become practically atheistic in their every day life. Selfish motives crept in because men sought either power or pleasure and forgot that they were children of God."

"What the life of the community and what society stands in need of is a new measure of mankind. We need above all kingdoms the King of Kings whose dominion is mercy and whose sceptre is love."

Turning then to the graduating class, he appealed to them to carry this ideal with them, "man is but little less than God."

President's Reception to Class 1920

The single event of the Commencement Week program to fall on Monday was the annual Reception to the Seniors, given by President and Mrs. Haas at their residence on the campus at one o'clock, Monday afternoon.

Upon the arrival of the graduating class, the party made its way to the dining room where a dinner was served that more than lived up to the reputation handed down by previous Senior Receptions.

Among the after-dinner speeches made by numerous members of the class was a thrilling and most interesting account of his experiences by Anthony S. Corbiere, the last addition to the class, who held his audience enthralled by his tale of life on the sea and on the Pacific Coast.

Altogether unnoticed, the hours slipped by and it was with great regret and sorrow that the Seniors finally bade farewell to their hosts who had entertained them so royally.

Oratoricals

The Junior Oratorical Contest held in the college chapel on Tuesday morning of Commencement week was marked by the uniform excellence of the five speakers. The decision of the judges was given at the commencement exercises, when James G. Morgan was awarded first prize for his oration on the subject, "The Right To Think Wrong." Second prize was awarded to Mark K. Trexler, who spoke on "Jerusalem." Amos A. Ettinger presented "The Need of the Hour." David M. Bean's title was "Shackles of Freedom," and Paul D. Edelman discussed "Progress." The judges were the Reverend J. A. Weigand, S. T. D., pastor of Ebenezer Evangelical Church, the Reverend H. J. Croushore, of Rosemont, and John Savage, Esq., of this city. Doctor Haas presided.

The mandolin club provided music at intervals thruout the program. Rev. E. H. Kistler, of Indianapolis, gave the opening prayer, and W. H. C. Lauer, of Summit Hill pronounced the benediction.

The first speaker was Mr. Ettinger, who spoke of two evils in our country today, the anarchists, and the profiteers. He appealed for a rational choice between the alternatives: service, or self; and for an Americanism pure and undefiled, of heart and of spirit, to remove these evils. Mr. Bean made a strong plea for justice to the women of this country who have been denied the vote. He reviewed the success of woman suffrage wherever it has been tried, and pointed out that the State of Vermont now held the key to national constitutional suffrage for women, while thirty five of her sister states were hoping that she would not make the mistake that Delaware made six days before. Mr. Trexler started with the story of General Allenby's triumphal entry into Jerusalem, and pointed out the intense ideal significance of the entry; for Jerusalem is the holy city of the Jew, the Moslem, and the Christ-

Editorial

The Seniors have gone. They are Seniors no more. They are no longer students at Muhlenberg College. In order to ease the pain of their going, a whole week of festivity was arranged. A farewell sermon gave them such bits of advice as might accidentally have been overlooked during their years at college. They feasted at the table of the head of the college. They presented each other with parting gifts. They listened with eager ears to the retelling of their experiences at Muhlenberg. There was a night of dancing. For an evening the whole college was illuminated, and a brass band provided melody and harmony. Finally, they were each given a beautiful expanse of sheepskin, suitably engraved to indicate their academic achievement. But it is not enough. For the pain of their parting, the class of 1920 can never be compensated. We, who remain at college, can extend our sympathies to those who have left, but we cannot annul their sorrow. We can wish them success, but success is coming to them. We can only look on their departure, and assure them that it is their future privilege to return to Muhlenberg at least once each year, and that the pleasure of again being within her gates will far outweigh the pain of reawakened regret that college days are no more for them.

This issue will close the business year of the Weekly. We desire to thank the members of the Staff for their close cooperation the past few weeks and those who have contributed to its columns. We admit that there are many ways open for the improvement of the paper and that we have made many mistakes in the past but we look for and invite any constructive criticism that the readers of this paper may have.

Editors being human like other folks in college, the Faculty included, sometimes make mistakes. An editor usually finds it difficult to make amends or admit his error in a way satisfactory to himself, however satisfactory it may be to his readers.

When a plumber makes a mistake, he charges double for it.

When a carpenter makes a mistake, it is just what he expected.

When an electrician makes a mistake, he blames it on induction and nobody knows what he means.

When a lawyer makes a mistake, it is just what he wanted because he then has a chance to try the case over again.

When a doctor makes a mistake, he buries it.

When a preacher makes a mistake, nobody knows the difference.

But when an editor makes a mistake, it is irreparable.

We trust that you will give us your suggestions and ideas as well as your financial support.

At a meeting of the Staff and Press Club it was unanimously decided to make a change in the form of the Weekly next year. This has become a necessity because of the increased cost of paper and labor. The form most acceptable is the four page newspaper style. The present Weekly, a magazine form, is more expensive than the regular newspaper of the same number of words. The front page is wasted and very unnecessary; the type is too large; and there is too much border space. The cost of publishing a newspaper form will be considerably less. This country owes much of its rapid advance to the press. A real city cannot afford any other than a real newspaper. An institution of learning depends largely upon its undergraduate paper as a means of advertisement. We believe that a four sheet newspaper will attract more readers than the present form. Muhlenberg needs a newspaper which represents the progress, the ambition, and the industries of the student and faculty of Muhlenberg. If we are to have a greater Muhlenberg we must have a better Muhlenberg Weekly.

Beginning with the first issue next fall we will let the readers of the Weekly decide for themselves whether or not a change in the form would be an advantage or not. The price of the subscription will remain the same. And to the alumni we intend to devote more space in the new form. The intended change will bring many new problems and tasks but we are sure that with the cooperation of the staff, the undergraduaets and the alumni we can publish a newspaper that will meet the expectations of its readers and place our college paper in the leading rank of others of its size.

Delaware Wins Track Meet

Rain ushered in the day of the Delaware track meet, June 5th. As the day advanced and the time of the meet approached the weather outdid all former efforts and became very disagreeable. The contestants of both teams appeared on the field only to perform and then immediately sought the shelter of a protecting building. Reinartz only was on the field all afternoon, because he was entered in eight events. He placed in seven, rolling up a total of seventeen points. Erb finished a dead heat in the half-mile run, won the mile, and placed third in the 220-yard dash, scoring his usual ten points. Early in the meet Jones suffered a sprained leg but persisted in running, and consequently placing, in the low hurdle race before he had his injury dressed. The remainder of the fifty points were scored by the other six of the nine entries.

No records were lowered during the meet, due to the fact that mud and water covered the track. The wet field caused the jumpers and weight men to come through their events with poor results. Delaware succeeded in amassing sufficient points to outstrip Muhlenberg by the score of 50-72.

Directly following the meet, the track team elected the captain for next year's team, and the honor fell to Arlan Kline, who is a member of the 1921 class. Kline is both a hurdler and a jumper and throughout his three years at college has always been a consistent scorer in all four of the events.

This closes the season for the track squad. The team defeated Gettysburg and Haverford and was defeated by Lehigh, Lafayette and Delaware and placed seventh in the MAASCA meet with nine points.

ian. Its story never ends; what shall be the future of the city, this generation must decide. May it be that the city, like any precious jewel, be given a setting suitable to its inherited splendor.

Mr. Edelman traced the history of social rebellions and revolutions beginning with the Peasant's Revolt in England, and showed that by revolution nothing is gained, but that the betterment of society must be accomplished by the betterment of the character of the individual man, to be arrived at by years of patient thinking. The world is ready for another change, and man is consciously trying to bring it about, but he is employing revolution instead of evolution. It is for us to add our force to the side of evolution, with progress as our watchword. Mr. Morgan's theme was tolerance. Democracy and freedom depend on tolerance, on allowing a man to think for himself, even if he thinks wrong. Truth, if repressed, will eventually survive; but repression may cause much evil. The ideas on which our nation is founded demand the liberty which is not license, in fullest measure.

Class Day Exercises

The Class Day exercises of the class of 1920 were held in the college grove, Tuesday afternoon, June 8. As each class considers its particular class day the best, it is sufficient to say that the class of 1920 was no exception. The class was greeted by a large and interested audience. The following was the program: President's Proclamation, Harvey C. Snyder; Presentation, the Triplets—Freeland Hemmig, Mark Bollman, Chester Hill; Class History, Richard R. Gates; "Pungent Prophesies," Raymond A. Kline and David J. Schleicher; "The Mantle Piece," Earl S. Erb, assisted by Linn Schantz, president of the Junior Class. The music was furnished by the Krazy String Quartette.

Annual Alumni Meeting and Dinner

The annual Alumni meeting of Muhlenberg's Commencement Week program was called to order at 10:40 o'clock last Wednesday morning by the president, Dr. George T. Ettinger, '80.

Routine business was transacted, the items of chief interest being the report of the Treasurer that there is a balance on hand of over $500, and the decision of the Alumni Association to leave the question of a War Memorial to a special committee, and the Assistant Secretaryship to the Executive Committee for decision.

The speaker of the day was Superintendent H. W. Dodd of the Allentown Public School System. In his interesting and humorous vein, Prof. Dodd told of the "Problems in Modern Education." He showed clearly how the change had to come about and how it happened. The new idea is to teach the pupils what will be useful to them in later life and thus the speaker stressed vocational education.

Superintendent Dodd also paid a high tribute to the value of the classics and the classical course in high school and college, and emphasized the fact that there still existed a need for the classics, today.

In concluding his finely prepared and equally well delivered speech, Professor Dodd made a plea for the proper use and due recognition of religion in the public schools as a potent factor in the education and training of the youth of the nation.

Directly after the sessions of the Association had adjourned, the alumni proceeded to the refectory, where the Ladies' Auxiliary of the college had prepared a fine dinner. The Alumni Dinner was generally conceded to be a great success and most, if not all, the credit for it was due the Ladies' Auxiliary, the recipients of much praise and favorable comment on the part of the Alumni.

After the cigars had been passed around, the toastmaster, President Ettinger opened the flow of oratory by welcoming the old men back to see the improvements and also the needs of the college.

He then called on two of Muhlenberg's famous sons, of whom she is justly proud. The first speaker was Reverend Edward Haines Kistler, '95, of Indianapolis, known to all Muhlenberg men as the composer of the Alma Mater. Rev. Kistler remarks were an appreciation of the ideals that he had received while at Muhlenberg from the members of the faculty of that time, three of whom, Drs. Wackernagel, Bauman and Ettinger, are still on the faculty. He showed how, in this time of materialism and utilitarianism, it was of the highest importance to have the men in college under the guidance of professors who had the vision and the ideals of the higher life.

The second of Muhlenberg's famous sons to be called on was Rev. Samuel G. Trexler, of the class of 1896, of Buffalo, N. Y., who just last week was elected president of the New York Lutheran Synod at Binghamton. Rev. Trexler pointed out in the course of his talk, the great need for more cooperation between the various synods for the advancement of the interests of Muhlenberg College.

The last speaker of the afternoon was President Haas who, in his characteristic manner, immediately delved into the problems now confronting Muhlenberg College and her officials, and laid bare to the alumni the urgent needs of the college. He showed how the campaign was progressing, thereby enabling the college not only to add new buildings and equipment but also to increase the salaries of the faculty.

As an aftermath to the dinner, the Alumni baseball team lost a close game to the undergraduates by the score of 9 to 7. This was followed by various informal reunions of various classes.

The evening was given over to the Junior Promenade and Band Concert by the Allentown Band, for the undergraduates, with numerous reunion banquets for the old-timers. Chief among the classes holding reunions were 1895, who celebrated their twenty-fifth anniversary of graduation; 1896, 1914 and 1915, who are out of college five years.

Reunions Feature of Commencement Week

Nineteen of the twenty-nine men who graduated from Muhlenberg College with the class of 1914, met on Tuesday night at the Hotel Allen for their first reunion. A new stunt was inaugurated by the banqueters for the Commencement season, in that each wore a blue card-board tag, bearing the class numerals.

There were no set speeches, those who responded to the call of Toastmaster Walter Mock, formerly of this city, now at Rutherford, N. J., being limited to three minutes and each devoting himself to a short resume of his work since leaving collegee. A roast turkey dinner was served.

It had been the intention of the classmates to get together last year, but this was found impossible, because of so many being in governmen service. The committee in charge of the affair consisted of: George A. Eichler, William J. Heilman and Herman W. Nenow.

Drs. Wm. Wackernagle and George Ettinger were the guests of honor at the silver jubilee of the class of 1895, held at the Hotel Allen, Wednesday night. The two faculty members delivered formal remarks of the evening, altho each one of the men present gave a few remarks appropriate to the occasion.

The following were present: Rev. V. J. Miller and L. D. Lazarus of Bethlehem; Rev. E. H. Kistler of Indianapolis; Rev. C. E. Kistler of Reading; and J. H. Stopp of Philadelphia. Rev. Lazarus was the Toastmaster.

To the Graduating Class

We hope, with buoyant hope, that it shall be
Your lot to carry on the torch
Of truth and light that you have grasped from hands
That love and serve
Our Muhlenberg!

You leave behind your little world and leap
Into your places on the mark
Where, crouching, you await the starter's "Go"!
The race is on.
Watch! Muhlenberg.

We have no doubts, no fears, that you will faint
Or weary be; for you are strong
In spirit, you were trained, with high resolve
To do the right,
At Muhlenberg.

There is a cloud of witnesses, with eyes intent
Upon the course; and shall you fail them?
Shall you, the race less nobly run than did
Your sires before,
From Muhlenberg?

Could we, with steady hands, push back the veil
That blinds us to futurity,
This sight:—the straightaway—the sprint—the tape—
This mighty shout:
"Strong Muhlenberg."

Muhlenberg Graduates Hold Good Positions

The Department of Education is trying to answer the question concerning the teaching profession by offering a good preparation to the men electing the work and then by taking an active interest in placing the men in desirable positions. The men who are to teach next year are as follows: Mark B. Bollman, Allentown, $1,200; Anthony Corbiere, Belleville, N. J., $1,400; Jennings B. Derr, Moore's, N. Y., $1,500; Luther J. Deck, Elizabeth College, Salem, Va., $1,500; J. Russel Edwards, Friends Academy, Locust Valley, N. Y., $1,050 and home; Charles Gloss, Friends Academy, Locust Valley, N. Y., $1,200 and home for two; Raymond Green, Belleville, N. J., $1,400; Stanley Kleckner, Allentown, $1,200; Paul Knedler, Somerville, N. J., $1,500; Herbert S. Schell, Kane, Pa., $1,350; David Schleicher, Belleville, N. J., $1,400; Warren Snyder, Woodmere, Long Island, $1,500; Frederick Stauffer, small school near his farm; Victor Saxe, Somerville, N. J., $1,800.

Deyman Kershner, Bethlehem Preparatory School, reports an increase of $450 for next year; Charles Steele, Belleville, N. J., reports $400; and Leonard Utz, Honesdale, Pa., reports $370.

During the year Dr. Wright spoke on "The Teaching of Reading" five times, "The Teaching of English" once, Commencement Addresses, four. On August 25th and 26th, he delivers four lectures on the "Teaching of Reading" at the Mount Carmel Teachers' Institute; September 7th and 8th, he gives the same lectures at the Mahanoy City Teachers' institute; and in October he delivers six lectures at the Schuylkill County Institute. Early in the fall he gives one of the lectures on Reading at Alfred University.

Track Team Defeats Haverford

Muhlenberg decisively overshadowed Haverford in a duel track meet at Haverford. Although keen competition was shown the combination of a fast track and excellent weather favored Muhlenberg to such an extent that at no time during the meet was the outcome in doubt. Jones won the century dash with a whirlwind come back. Reinartz was the stellar performer, scoring an individual record total of twenty-two points and setting a new college record in the javelin throw of 152 ft. 6½ inches. Erb broke the college record in the mile run in addition to his usual good work. He lowered the former record of 4 minutes 42 seconds to 4 minutes 34 and a fraction seconds. The final score stood 76 to 36.

Phi Taus Dine and Dance

Thursday night of Commencement Week the members of Phi Kappa Tau held one of the most delightful social affairs of the college year. The Hotel Traylor was the scene of their festivity. Thirty five couples enjoyed the excellent dinner provided by the management and whiled away the hours by dancing, music being furnished by the Hotel orchestra. A novel feature was the entertainment provided by Baby Leonard in the form ot dances and the distribution of favors to the fair sex, many of whom were out-of-town guests. Dr. and Mrs. I. M. Wright and Prof. Harry Cressman and Miss Edna Belzner acted as chaperones for this most successful social affair.

automobiles and journeyed to Neff's Park for their annual Spring Dance.

This event has definitely replaced the Tally-Ho of the Fraternity's former Commencement Week social activities. The place was specially prepared for the occasion, and an appropriate program had been arranged for. Music was furnished by the Jazzland Novelty Six and showed them at their best. The committee in charge of the affair was. Roy H. Hoffman, chairman, Jesse G. Kline and Harold Sotter.

Dr. and Mrs. Frederick Henry and Prof. and Mrs. Fred Worsinger were the chaperones.

Alpha Tau Omega Picnic

For a number of years Alpha Iota Chapter of Alpha Tau Omega has always held a social event which lives in the hearts of its members. That one grand affair is the annual Sand Spring picnic. This year a merry crowd left the fraternity house "a la automobile," for a jolly time, and a jolly time it was all o' that. Talk about your "eats," and needless to say Douglas "Bruning" Steimle climaxed the dinner by capturing first place as the biggest eater.

Mickley's Jazzland Novelty Orchestra furnished the music. Naturally, the fair sex were predominant. Quite a number of town girls and also a few from out of town were present. The party was chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. Harold K. Marks.

The 1921 Ciarlas for which we have all been anxiously waiting, have at last arrived and a large number have been disposed of. They sell for $2.50 a book. Those who did not order their book may be fortunate enough to obtain one by applying to William H. Wilson. The Foreword of this years annual reads: "We present to you in this volume the embodiment of the recollections of another college year. To have compiled an annual worthy of our Alma Mater may have been a task too great for us, but if we have helped perpetuate the memory of the associations of these college days—if the result of our labor shall in some degree have projected the brightness of these hours down the dim path of the future—we are content."
